

Corrigendum to: Hemolytic Dynamics of Weekly Primaquine Antirelapse Therapy Among Cambodians With Acute Plasmodium vivax Malaria With or Without Glucose-6-Phosphate Dehydrogenase Deficiency

Walter R. J. Taylor,^{1,7,8,9} Sim Kheng,¹ Sinoun Muth,¹ Pety Tor,² Saorin Kim,² Steven Borge,³ Narann Topps,³ Khem Kosal,⁴ Khon Sothea,⁴ Phum Souy,⁵ Chuor Meng Char,¹ Chan Vanna,⁶ Po Ly,¹ Virak Khieu,¹ Eva Christophel,⁹ Alexandra Kerleguer,² Antonella Pantaleo,¹⁰ Mavuto Mukaka,^{8,11} Didier Menard,^{2,12,a} and J. Kevin Baird^{11,13,a}

¹National Center for Parasitology, Entomology, and Malaria Control, ²Institut Pasteur du Cambodge, and ³World Health Organization (WHO) Cambodia Country Office, Phnom Penh, ⁴Pailin Referral Hospital, Pailin, ⁵Anlong Veng Referral Hospital, Anlong Veng, and ⁶Pramoy Health Center, Veal Veng, Cambodia; ⁷Service de Médecine Tropicale et Humanitaire, Hôpitaux Universitaires de Genève, Switzerland; ⁸Mahidol Oxford Tropical Medicine Research Unit, Bangkok, Thailand; ⁹WHO Western Pacific Regional Office, Manila, the Philippines; ¹⁰Department of Biomedical Science, University of Sassari, Italy; ¹¹Centre for Tropical Medicine, Nuffield Department of Medicine, University of Oxford, United Kingdom; ¹²Malaria Genetics and Resistance Group, Biology of Host-Parasite Interactions Unit, Institut Pasteur, Paris, France; and ¹³Eijkman Oxford Clinical Research Unit, Eijkman Institute of Molecular Biology, Jakarta, Indonesia

In “Hemolytic Dynamics of Weekly Primaquine Antirelapse Therapy Among Cambodians With Acute Plasmodium vivax Malaria With or Without Glucose-6-Phosphate Dehydrogenase Deficiency” by Taylor et al [J Infect Dis doi: 10.1093/infdis/

jiz313], P values should be $P < 0.001$ where 0.000 is written. This has been updated in the article. The authors regret these errors.