PREFACE

AFTER an interval of fifteen years the text of the Summary Catalogue of all MSS. acquired by the Library before 1915 is completed with the issue of the present volume. This part (volume II, part ii) contains nos. 3491–8716, thus finishing the revision of the Old Catalogue of 1697. The methods adopted are as in preceding volumes, except that it has no longer been thought necessary to invent accession numbers, which in the last volume directly followed the catalogue number. It will also be noted that the oriental cross-references are taken, as in previous volumes, from the printed catalogues or from the hand-lists, and that they are therefore neither in modern nor necessarily consistent form.

The bulk of e Mus., a draft for the Marshall collection, and a few other scattered pieces, were catalogued—in part many years ago—by the late mr. Madan. The Hatton collection, MSS. Dodsworth 1–60, and Casaubon's Adversaria were done by dr. Craster when he was Keeper of Western Manuscripts; and MSS. Savile 1–14, with some other Greek pieces, were catalogued by mr. Lobel, the present Keeper. For the rest I am responsible, though my labours have been much lightened by the trouble which the Librarian and the Keeper have taken in reading not only their own proofs but mine as well. Others from whom I have sought assistance at one time or another are too numerous to mention and will I hope regard this expression of my gratitude as none the less sincere because it is general.

This volume contains the accessions of the later seventeenth century to 1697. Among the great variety of manuscripts dealt with are some notable early codices, specified below, and a high proportion of seventeenth-century antiquarian collections, including the extensive and valuable papers of Dodsworth, Dugdale, Junius, and Marshall. According to former practice the more important items in several categories are listed hereunder.

I. BIBLES AND LITURGIES

Bibles and commentaries, in Latin and Middle English, are too numerous to specify. The most noteworthy MS. in this class is no. 3946 (Gospels of Macregol). Breviaries are nos. 3491, 4034 (Sarum), 5299, 5315 (Utrecht), 6481 (Evesham). Books of Hours are well represented: see nos. 3589, 3601 (Norwich), 4074 (Rome), 6484, 6486, 6488–535 (Sarum), and 6543. There are also Norwich (4131), Worcester (6417), and Sarum (8607) missals; Sarum (4102) and Canterbury (6479) manuals; and Gallican (4052, 4120), Llandaff (4055), Norwich (4123), Peterborough (6461), and Winchester (5139: Codex Vossianus) psalters. See also nos. 3636, 3653, 4133. 4124 is a festial, 5325 a Cistercian collector, 4134 a gradual, and 6419 the Evesham pontifical.

2. Theology and Church History

Important conciliar MSS. are nos. 3686–8 (the Justell MSS.), 3689, 4117 (Hibernensis), 3495 (Council of Constance): see also 6464. Canon Law is represented by 3585, 3642, 4128, 4129, 8565. Medieval Latin sermons are in 3501, 3592, 3635, 3643, 4031, 4048, 4092, 6427*, 6470, 8601 (Neckham). 4078 contains those of Richard Rolle and 3656 has other English sermons. The oldest MS. of the rule of St. Benedict is No. 4118. Cathedral statutes are in 3602 (Rochester) and 8597 (Exeter); 8602 contains Carthusian statutes and 8609 Augustinian chapters-general. Among the chartularies the most important is 8589 (Glastonbury). Church history is also illustrated by nos. 3537, 6462 (Bede), 3542 (Ailred of Rievaulx), 8592 (constitutions of Lanfranc), 3595, 4087 (both the taxation of pope Nicholas iv), 4140 (Franciscans), 3604 (Urban viii), 6469 (Alexander vii). For the history of controversy see 3629 (Lollards), 6430 (Vaugeois), 3671–2 (Doulai disputationes), 8575 (English Catholics), and 3593, 3621 (French Protestants). 3502 contains a list of the jewels of surrendered monasteries. 6421*, 6436* are archbishop Ussher's collections. See also under Chronicles in § 6, and the James MSS.

3. Greek Language and Literature

Apart from Greek MSS. already cataloged in the Quarto Series, and so here treated by a cross-reference, there are a few in the Savile collection (nos. 6548–61). See also the collections of Casaubon and Langbaine, and Greek pieces in 3867, 8677, 8713.

4. Latin Language and Literature

There are no classical MSS. of great importance in this volume, but the following authors occur: 8574 (Juvenal), 4139 (Juvenal and Persius), 6465 (Statius), 6480 (Cicero), 8684* (Manilius), 4064, 4069 (Seneca), and 4056 (Sidonius Apollinaris). 4065 is Donatus, 4130 Boccaccio, and 3994 Poggio. There are two important MSS. of John of Salisbury's Polycraticus (6418, 6428). Other MSS. of interest are 3581 (grammatical), 3618, 4054, 6478, 6487 (all humanistic). 3903 is a Latin version of Mandeville's Travels.

5. English Language and Literature

Old English MSS. of the first importance are 4113 (Liber Pastoralis), 5113 (Ormulum), 5123 (Caedmon), and 5134, 5210 (St. Wulfstan's homiliary): see also 3878–9, 4125, 5135–6, 5196–7, 5232. Middle English MSS. are numerous, including the massive Vernon MS. (3938–42). Others are 3509, 3679, 4127, 5167* (Richard Rolle); 3554, 3617, 3896, 4138, 6420 (Chaucer); 3562, 3617 (Mandeville); 3588 (J. Walton); 3615, 4101 (Nicholas Love); 3619 (medical); 3681, 4119 (Lydgate); 3815, 4109, 4110 (William of Nassington); 3829 (J. Mirk); 3832 (the Gestes of Alisaunder); 3882, 4099 (Gower); 3894 (Cursor Mundi); 6533 (Hoccleve). No. 3579 is Thomas Ellis's note-book (A.D. 1653). Seventeenth-century transcripts of Old English material are in the Junius collection. Nos. 3511, 3909 are Irish; nos. 3652, 4054 are Welsh. See also § 6.

6. History of Great Britain

Chronicles are not uncommon in this volume, and there are many extracts from historical sources in the James collection. The chronicles are in nos. 3632, 3634, 4112 (Brute); 3659, 3900, 4122 (Flores); 3697 (French Brut), 3886 (Durham), 3888 (Liber Pluscardensis), 3890 (Trivet), 3892, 4106 (Bede), 3904 (Langtoft), 3908 (Geoffrey of Monmouth), 4027 (Anon.), 4072 (William of Malmesbury), 4105 (Higden), 8684 (Anon.). 3512 is a life of Becket and 3515 a life of Mary Queen of Scots. Collections of statutes and legal pieces are too numerous to be specified. There are sixteenth–seventeenth century papers in nos. 3498–9. See also §§ 2, 7.

7. British Topography

This bulks large in the antiquarian collections of the seventeenth century, particularly those of Roger Dodsworth (much of it for Yorkshire) and William Dugdale (chiefly for Warwickshire). For Oxford and its shire see the Wood (Ashmole) collection. No. 3582 contains the earliest collection of Oxford statutes, 3631 is Oxford questiones, and 3633 is an early Bodleian catalogue. No. 4167 relates to Kent, and no. 3737 to the Southwark stews. No. 3709 is in John Stow's autograph.

8. Foreign Languages and Literature

Nos. 5161, 5189 are in Dutch and Frisian, as are many of the Marshall MSS. Gothic is represented by nos. 5167, 5231, German by the Murbach hymnal (5137) and no. 5194. Of Italian (3675, 5267, 8070) or Russian (3547, 3880, 4033, 6489) there is little. French is more often found: see nos. 3680, 3685, 3691, 3823, 4046, 4067, 4075, 4092, 8714, and, for the French church, nos. 3593, 3621. No. 4117 contains Breton glosses.

9. Foreign History and Topography

Four items of some interest occur under this head: Spanish state papers (3503), an account of Egypt and Syria (4084), a poem on the first Crusade (4093), and an account of Charles the Bold's household (4097).

10. SCIENCE AND ARTS

Most of the medical MSS. will be found between nos. 3510 and 3828, but see also nos. 4044, 4068, 5266, 6468, 8603, 8606. On alchemy and magic see nos. 3543, 3546, 3548, 3550, 3652, 3902, 8613. Astronomy and mathematics are found in nos. 3556 (Roger of Hereford), 3907, 3924, 4137, 6561*, and 6562–612. 3623 is a scientific miscellany.

11. MISCELLANEOUS

No. 3524 is in seventeenth-century cypher. No. 4082 belonged to Humphrey, duke of Gloucester.

The oldest manuscripts dealt with are: 3686–8 (late 6th cent.); 4118 (early 8th cent.); 5137 (8th and 9th centtt.); 3946 (c. 800); 3689, 4113, 4117, 5265 (9th cent.); 3584 (B), 5139 (10th cent.); 5123, 5232, 6416 (11th cent.). Amongst the illuminated manuscripts 4090 (12th-cent. gospels) is noteworthy.

For dated manuscripts, those of monastic provenance, and monastic chartularies, see the Bodleian Quarterly Record, vol. i, nos. 3, p. 172; 7, p. 193; II, p. 323; 12, p. 344; vol. iii, no. 25, p. 19; vol. vii, no. 77, p. 169; and vol. viii, no. 92, p. 263.

The patient users of the Summary Catalogue will note, I hope with relief, that volume I, containing the conspectus of shelf-marks and an historical introduction, is in course of preparation.

Description.
1. Number.
2. Language.
4. Date and nationality or scribe.
5. Size, the extreme external measurements of the volume.
6. Number of leaves or pages, and of columns in a page.
7. Whether illuminated, palimpsest, injured, &c.
8. Binding, if remarkable.

Contents.
Every item of any size or importance is noted, with a reference to the leaf of the MS. But the description is summary, especially in the case of correspondence. 'rev.' in a reference to a leaf implies that the volume has to be reversed or turned round, in order to read the article referred to.

History.
1. Place of origin and former owners, if obvious and of interest.
2. Date and mode of acquisition.

CLASSIS VIII

MISCELLANEOUS MSS. AND MINOR DONATIONS

(Nos. 3491–5112*)

The first part of this Class (the e Musaeo MSS.) comprises the miscellaneous donations and purchases of 1647–83, with exceptions; continuing in effect Class VI. The rest are minor collections given during the same period.

A Breviary, with musical notes, of the use of Sarum, belonging to the church of Great Bedwyn, co. Wilts.; containing a (p. 1) the Temporale, wanting eight or sixteen leaves after p. 16: b (p. 517) a Sarum Calendar (see below) and part of the litany of Saints, pp. 530–2: c (p. 535) a Psalter, with canticles (p. 623), Athanasian creed (p. 630), and litany (p. 631): d (p. 635) the Sanctorale, but six leaves are lost after p. 986, containing pp. 987–98, i.e. all after the office of st. Cecilia, and also the beginning of a Venitare, of which the latter part occupies pp. 999–1005. Some 15th cent. 'benedicciones de sancta Maria per totum annum' are on p. 1006.

In the calendar there are obits of Thomas Stocke sen. (Dec. 27, 13..3, ‘... gesimo tercio’), Hugh Baylement jun. (Feb. 18, 1418); two prebendaries of Bedwyn, Nicholas Wikeham (Mar. 17, 1426), and Walter Medford (June 4, 1423); John Landley (Apr. 2, 1429), Alice Skinner (Aug. 19, 1435), and three members of the Collingbourne family (1418–65). There is also a note that on May 16, 1496, Thomas Doge[son], vicar of West Bedwyn, resigned his vicarage, and on p. 1008 is a 15th-cent. list of payments from places in Bedwyn parish.

‘W. Slatyer’ (16th cent.) is on p. 986. Godfrey Goodman, bishop of Gloucester (d. 1656), gave the volume between 1650 and 1655, and has inserted, among other notes, the main facts of his life, as in Cambridge Antiq. Soc. Communications, ii, pp. 117–18 (end cover); a Latin precept on parchment issued by the Court of Common Pleas about the rectory of King’s Stanley in Gloucestershire, Oct. 9, 1637; letters missive of the Court of High Commission citing him to appear, Feb. 1, 1637, with Laud’s signature; a receipt for £100 composition for the bishop’s furniture, Feb. 10, 1644, with notes about the fees he paid in prison in the Tower of London: there are also two printed sheets composed by him. On p. ii he states that 'hic est originalis liber... qui reservatur in Archivis eiusdem [sc. Sarisburiensis] Ecclesiae...', where there was a prebendal stall of Bedwyn. It was given to the Bodleian 'ea lege, vt si Episcopus, decanus & prebendarii ecclesiae Sarisburiensis repetierint, tunc illis restituatur'.

* The 2nd number in this series is that of the original order from 1655 (or later) to 1728.

Now MS. e Mus. 2.

3492. (2). = Qu. Catal. i (Greek), Misc. 50 (Nicetas: written by the same scribe as no. 20600, art. 6: presented by sir Ralph Winwood in 1604).

3493. (3). In English, on parchment: written in the 3rd quarter of the 15th cent. by — Carpenter: 13 1/2 x 9 1/2 in., 162 pages: with a miniature (on p. 4), illuminated borders, capitals, &c.: binding, stamped brown leather, clasps lost, contemporary English work.

'Auenture and Grace', a translation into English prose of the Somme des Vices et des Vertues of Frere Lorens, made by 'a knyght of king Henrye' vi in 1451. The contents are commentaries on the Decalogue (p. 1), and the Seven Deadly Sins (p. 4), 'Howe thou scholdist lerne to dye' (p. 24) and live, commentary on the Lord's Prayer (p. 43), 'The vij yeftes of the Holy Goste' (p. 56), and the like, 'Of the vij astates of folke that bithe in the wordell' (p. 135), &c. The text beg. 'The fyrst commandement the wich God commaundith in the Lawe is this'. A long colophon on p. 161 explains the title as indicating that the translator 'aventured to drawe' the treatise 'in to Englisch', and where he could not translate the original, 'grace of the Holy Goste yafe me englisch acordyng to the sentens'. A rubric follows 'Aventure and Grace. Quod Carpenter'. The miniature on p. 4 is of a beast with seven heads (the seven deadly sins). The arms of Shottesbrooke of Kent (ermine a chief indented per pale or and gules, in the dexter chief a rose of the last), with the title of the treatise, are on p. 1, showing the family for whom the book was written.

Now MS. e Mus. 23.

3494. (4). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 2nd half of the 14th cent.: 14 3/16 x 10 3/8 in., 1+129 leaves, in double columns: with illuminated borders, capitals, &c.

'Flores Bernardi abbatis', a collection of excerpts from the works of st. Bernard of Clairvaux in eleven books: prol. beg. 'Cvm non essem alciui exercicio', text beg. 'Quid est Deus? Deus est merito'. At the end are appended by the scribe 'auctoritates... de dictis Bernardi' from his Letters, &c. The table which occupied the leaf after fol. 128 is lost. This is the Bernardinum of Guilelms de S. Martino.

The book first appears in Bodleian lists about 1655. Now MS. e Mus. 20.
MINOR DONATIONS

3495. (5). In Latin, on paper: written in the 2nd half of the 15th cent. in Italy: 13 x 9½ in., xxix+357 leaves: binding, brown leather with gold ornament and 'H. W[otton]' on each side, English work of about 1630.

‘Acta generalis concilij Constantiensis . . . Hic liber continet ordinationes, statuta, constitutiones, decreta, & alia acta & gesta . . .’, from the 1st session (Oct. 28, 1414) to the 37th (July 22, 1417) inclusive: foll. vii–xxviii contain preliminary matter and a list of the sessions: apparently a leaf is wanting at the beginning: text beg. ‘In hoc igitur generali concilio’: the Acta begg. ‘Origo generalis Concilij Constantiensis’. The book is in several hands.

The volume is stated in the Benefactors’ Register to have been in the library of cardinal Pietro Bembo (d. 1547). On fol. vii is ‘Jo: Delphini’, 16th cent. Given by sir Henry Wotton in 1633, see no. 2783. Now MS. e Mus. 25.

3496. (6). In Latin, on parchment: written about A.D. 1200 in England, in more than one hand: 16⅛ x 12¾ in., iv+232 pages in double columns: with coloured capitals, &c.

At p. 187 follow a the latter part of the Vita s. Bernardi Claraevallensis abbatis by Gaufridus (Galfredus Autissiodorensis or Claraevallensis), beginning with ‘tocius orbis nota’ in bk. i, ch. 21, some leaves being lost before this leaf: the life ends after bk. iii, ch. 25 (Migne’s ‘Patr. Lat.’, tom. clxxv, coll. 315–66): b (p. 213) a ‘quite peculiar recension’ of the Navigatio Brendani, only known from this MS. and printed in full in C. Plummer’s ‘Vitae Sanctorum Hiberniae’ (1910), vol. ii, p. 270, cf. i. xlii. There is here no contemporary title: text beg. [P]redecessorum sacra facta nostrorum’.

‘Liber sancte Marie de Valle Crucis’ (a Cistercian abbey in Denbighshire) in a 13th-cent. hand (fol. 1). The book first appears in Bodleian lists about 1655.

Now MS. e Mus. 3.
3497. (7). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 2nd half of the 13th cent. in France: \(14\frac{1}{2} \times 9\frac{1}{2}\) in., \(v + 410\) leaves, in double columns: with many small miniatures and grotesques, and borders, capitals, &c.

A Latin Bible in the version of St. Jerome with his preface and prologues: the Psalms begin at fol. 159, the New Testament at fol. 309. At fol. 386 follow the 'Interpretationes nominum Hebreorum secundum Remigium'. Foll. iv, 407 are mutilated. The Psalms were marked in the 16th cent. in England for daily use.

Foll. i–iii, 408–10 are fly-leaves containing nearly all of six leaves of an early 15th-cent. French MS. of poetry. The poem appears to deal with history and geography moralized: the following is a passage from fol. 408 'Ethna celle montaingne ardant | Nardui pas pardurablement | Aucuns croient certainement | Que sous la montaingne dethna | siet en enfer pour cui gehethna'.

3498. (8). In English (and French), on paper: written late in the 16th cent.: \(14\frac{1}{2} \times 9\frac{1}{2}\) in., iii + 202 leaves.

Copies of personal and official papers relating to Sir Henry Unton's embassage to the king of France, 1591–2, including his instructions, July 13, 1591 (fol. 2), secret cipher (fol. 7), some accounts (foll. 1, 167), many letters between Unton and the queen or her chief ministers of state (with ten from the queen to the king of France, Unton and others, at foll. 17, 17\(v\), 40\(v\), 41, 42, 62\(v\), 72, 119, 140, 160), and the like. The extreme dates seem to be July 13, 1591, and June 17, 1592. The whole is a faulty transcript of Brit. Mus. Add. MS. 38137, and has been printed, chiefly from the originals but partly from this MS., in the Correspondence of Sir Henry Unton (Roxburghe Club, 1847).

At foll. 170\(v\)–99\(v\) are copies of thirty-two letters, from Queen Elizabeth to or concerning Sir Henry Norris (lord Norris of Rycote), 1566–1600, preceded at fol. 168 by a copy of one from the queen to lady Norris, Sept. 22, 1597.

This volume first appears in Bodleian lists about 1655.

Now MS. e Mus. 18.

3499. (9). In English and Latin, on paper: made up of various pieces, written late in the 16th or early in the 17th cent.: \(12\frac{1}{2} \times 9\frac{1}{2}\) in., 155 leaves.

Copies of letters and papers on state affairs, 1580–1604, with two lists of them (foll. 1, 2):

1 (fol. 3). Litterae episcoporum provinciae Cantuariensis ad regimen pro restitutione Edm. Grindali archiep. Cantuar., 1580: beg. 'Nulla propemodum res': printed from this MS. in Wilkins's Concilia, iv. 293.

2 (foll. 5–9\(v\), 11–25). Papers relating to Essex's insurrection, 1599–1600, including a letter from the queen, Sept. 14, 1599, and an account of the affair (beg. ‘Vpon Sunday morning’) and of ‘The Arraignment of the Earles of Essex & Southampton . . .’ (beg. ‘The place was in Westminster Hall’). A list of the papers is printed in the Old Catalogue.

3 (fol. 26). ‘An Advertisement touching the controuersies of the Church of England’, beg. ‘It is but ignorance’.

4 (foll. 36, 38). Two letters of dr. James Pilkington, bishop of Durham, 1564, in Latin.

5 (fol. 40). ‘Articuli Pacis inter regem Angliae & Hispaniae’, Aug. 18, 1604.

6 (fol. 48). Queen Elizabeth’s blank verse translation of parts of the Hercules Octaeus of L. Annaeus Seneca: beg. ‘What harming hurte of Fortune’s arme thou dreads’, 123 lines: part of the Latin is in the margin: printed in Walpole’s Royal and Noble Authors, ed. Park, vol. i, pp. 102-9.

7 (fol. 50). Savile papers: a ‘A collection when religious houses were founded, & by whom. Gathered by Sr Harrie Savile Knight Warden of Merton College . . .’, and covering the British Isles: b (fol. 67) ‘Res beliacas ciuilibus anteferendas esse. In conciliis [Comitiis?] 1575 11 Julij’, a Latin oration at Oxford (?): c (fol. 71) ‘Aliquid fieri casu & fortuna’, another oration, ‘1575. Martij 19. in variationibus Mrt Thomæ Tatam’: d (fol. 73) the well-known ‘Apollogie of the Earle of Essex’ to sir Anthony Bacon, in which Savile is mentioned: e (fol. 93) ‘A treatis of the Union [of England and Scotland] by comandment written by Sr H. Savile Kt . . . His Ma[tie being at Windsor’, a later title: followed by a draft, with corrections, of part of a similar treatise, beginning abruptly on fol. 115, three leaves being lost, ‘Galfridus Monumetensis we haue Kings of Britanny’.

Her Ma[tie] most honorable Priuie Counsell’, with Richard Hooker’s
Answer (abt. 1586?).

9 (fol. 125). A history of Scottish affairs, 1582-93: pref. beg. ‘Considering the temporall estait of this warld’, text beg. ‘Efter that the Nobilitie of Scotland’: in nineteen chapters.

Fol. 154 is a leaf from some law pleas in Latin written early in the 17th cent.

Given in separate pieces unbound by dr. Robert Clay (d. 1628), perhaps about 1620 (‘Donum D. Clay. for the Vniuersity Library’ and similar inscriptions); but the volume does not appear in Bodleian lists till about

14th cent. in Italy: \(142 \times 10 \text{ in.}, v+169 \text{ leaves, in double columns: with} miniatures, illuminated borders, capitals, &c.
Latin chirurgical treatises:

1 (fol. 1). 'Cyrurgia Rogeri [Parmensis] cum additionibus Rolandi Parmensis' as in no. 978, fol. 98, in four particulae, each preceded by a list of chapters: beg. 'Medicina equiuocatur ad duo': a paragraph at the end explains that 'Ego Rolandus Pamensis (sic) ... iuxta meum posse in omnibus sensum & literam Rogeri sum secutus' and that the original work was 'in lucem & ordinem redactum' in A.D. 1100 (sic), by Guido Aretinus. The illuminated border round fol. 1 bears two miniatures, birds, &c.

2 (fol. 14v). 'Glosule super cyrurgiam' sive 'Aparatus quatuor magistorum super Rolandum, &c.', in three parts: beg. 'Sicut dicit Constantinus humores': a list of chapters of artt. 1–2 follows at fol. 31v. This MS. is described by Ch. Daremberg in his edition of the Glossulae Quatuor Magistorum, 1854, pp. ix–x. To the copies of the gloss there mentioned should be added MS. All Souls Coll. 76 and Bodleian MS. Lat. misc. d. 48.

3 (fol. 32v). 'Cyrurgia magistri Willelmi de Salisseya' (i.e. Saliceto), in five tractates: beg. 'Propositum est, bone, tibi librum de operacione manuali': each part is preceded by a list of chapters, and a general list is at the end.

4 (fol. 64). 'Cyrurgia Almassoris de agregacionibus & summis cyrurgie & uulnerum & apostematum', beg. 'Plerumque eorum qui hanc exercent artem': with list of chapters at end.

5 (fol. 68v). 'Cyrurgia Gal[lenij]', extracts from his work De Ingenio Sanitatis, in one rubric on fol. 82v, called Theorica Megatengni': beg. 'Sicut operandi significacionem Nero karissime': a list of chapters is at the end.

6 (fol. 87). 'Cyrurgia Auicenne': beg. 'Iam locuti sumus in libro primo de apostematibus': a list of chapters is at the end.

7 (fol. 111). 'Cyrurgia Rasis' de juncturis et de curis puerorum: begg. 'Dixit Rasis, uolo in hoc capitulo', 'Saphatim accidit pueris': lists of chapters are at the end. At fol. 116v follows a short piece, 'Cura magistri Cardinalis de leprosis', beg. 'Cura talis est & dieta debet esse'.

8 (fol. 117). 'Cyrurgia Bruni Longoburgensis ex dictis sapientum veterum brevis ac lucida compilata': beg. 'Rogasti me iam est diu, Andreas': the 'Cyrurgia Bruni major', as the colophon calls it. At fol. 134 follows the epitome of it called the 'cyrurgia Bruni parui' or parua or minor, or 'Brunus paruuus'. Lists of chapters are at the end.

9 (fol. 137). 'Cyrurgia Albucasim': beg. 'Verba Albuchasim. Post quam compleui uobis, o filij', in three parts: with many coloured drawings of surgical instruments: at end 'Hunc librum transtulit magister Girardus Cremonensis in Toleto de Arabico in Latinum. & est tricesima particula libri Aceragni quem composuit Albucasim'

10 (fol. 163). Cyrurgia Johannis Jamatici: beg. De embroca. Embroca que concussiones sine uulnere sanat': with list of chapters at end. Johannes Jamaticus (i.e. of Jametz in Lorraine? or *Ιαματικός?) does not seem to be in the ordinary books of reference.

A single leaf follows (fol. 165) bearing twenty-four miniatures chiefly of celebrated physicians (Aristotle, Galen, &c.) depicted as applying cautery to patients in various ways, according to written directions for various complaints: on the verso are four drawings of the human body showing the heart, stomach, &c. This leaf appears to be of the same date as the rest, but fol. v, which bears four miniatures of the Annunciation, Nativity, Circumcision, and Baptism of Christ, with medallions of men and animals, is wholly distinct, though of the same date. It contains part of the 'Apparatus domini Innocentii pape bone memorie', apparently the commentary of Innocent iv on the Decretals.

Short lists of the contents are on foll. iii, iv.

'Liber W. Red': 'Liber magistri Willelmi Reed ex Empto de bonis sibi datum per magistrum Nicholaum de Sandwyco': 'Liber dominus scolarium de Merton in Oxonia in communi Libraria eiusdem & ad vaum communem sociorum ibidem studium cathanandus. Ex dono venerandi patris domini Willelmi [Reed: d. 1385] tertij episcopi Cicestrensis. Oretisigiturpro eodem & benefactoribus eiusdem ac dilectius animabus a purgatorio liberandis.' (fol. v.)

From MS. Langbaine 6, p. 89, we learn that dr. Clayton bequeathed this MS. to the Bodleian at his death in 1647.

3501. (11). In Latin, on parchment: made up of two MSS. written in the 15th cent.: 15½ × 11⅝ in., iv+162 leaves, in double columns: imperfect.

A (1st half of the 15th cent.) 1 (fol. 1). Sermons on the Sunday Epistles and Gospels, from Advent: beg. 'Hora est iam nos . . . Hiiis verbis fratres karissimi hortatur nos': the preface (beg. 'Cum in ecclesia mea quietus residerem') gives the author's name as Radulphus, i.e. Radulphus Ardens Pictaviensis. This MS. ends abruptly in the sermon on the Gospel for Sexagesima at the words 'persecucionibus pressi', many leaves being lost.

Iste liber perteneteath Willemnum Bradbryge Cicestriec mercatorem, 16th cent.: his merchant's mark is on foll. 1, 35, 159. *Liber Bibliothecæ 3502. (12). In English and Latin, on paper: made up of three MSS. written in the 16th cent.: 11⅔ × 8⅔ in., ii + 119 leaves.

A. 1 (fol. 1). Part of an original return made by sir John Williams, treasurer of the king's jewels, of the gold and (fol. 10) silver plate of surrendered monasteries, delivered to Henry viii in 1538-40: signed in six places by the king. The first four leaves or so of the first part are wanting. A considerable amount of detail is given, and the whole has been printed in Memoirs of the antiquities of Great Britain relating to the Reformation (Lond. 1723). The total value of the gold plate is £29,906 2s. 11½d., and the weight of the silver 3,048⅔ oz. See note on no. 28527. On foll. 17v, 18v are family records of the birth of three sons and four daughters of mr. and mrs. Southerton of London, 1572-85, with a note of a wedding at Walsall in 1581: at fol. 18v is a copy of the attainder of Henry marquis of Exeter and others, 1538: and on fol. 59 is a later copy of the oath administered to Royal Commissioners of James i on fees in the Court of Chancery. Foll. 3-4, 9, 20-58, 60-8 are blank.

B. 2 (fol. 69). 'The Arte of Poetrye', a verse translation of Horace's Ars Poetica: beg. 'A Paynter if hee should adioyne vnto a womans head'.

C. 3 (fol. 84). A list of the hundreds, towns, and villages of Buckinghamshire, but two leaves of some record have been lost before fol. 84.

4 (fol. 87v). 'Regule atque Ordines nonnulle obseruande tam in Sessionibus Pacis quam in Sessionibus Gaole deliberacionis', with various forms incident to them, and an added memorandum (fol. 93v) about sessions at Aylesbury in 1549.

5 (fol. 95v). Memorandum and records of sessions held in various parts of Buckinghamshire in 1548-9, before sir Anthony Lee and sir Robert Dormer, with the recognizances, constables, &c., in Latin.

This volume first appears in Bodleian lists about 1655, but may have been acquired about 1620.

Now MS. e Mus. 57.

3503. (13). In Spanish, on paper: written about A.D. 1625 in several hands: 12⅔ × 9 in., ii + 134 pages + printed matter (66 leaves).

Copies of Spanish state papers, 1603-23, with one of 1575 (p. 9). The first is endorsed 'Aduertencias sobre la fundacion del Colegio' del Nombre de Jesus, with comments: some papers are by the king (Philip iv), one to the prince of Wales (Charles i) Sept. 12, 1623 (p. 125). Two are funeral verses (pp. 105, 131). After p. 134 follows printed matter.

Now MS. e Mus. 56.
3504. (14). In Latin, on paper: written in or soon after 1630: 11 1/2 x 7 3/4 in., ii+165 leaves: binding, dark blue calf with gold ornament and a Herbert motto ΑΠΛΑΝΩΣ binding a sheaf of arrows, English work of about 1640.

‘De expeditione in Ream insulam. Authore Edovardo Domino Herbert Barone de Cherbury in Anglia et Castri insule de Kerry in Hibernia et Pare utriusque Regni. Anno MDCXXX.’ There is a dedication to king Charles dated Aug. 10, 1630, and a preface ‘Ad Lectorem’. The work itself (which was published in London in 1656) is in thirty-two chapters, and begins ‘Æra inter nostros receptae’. The expedition against the island of Rhé or Ré was in 1627. The volume is not in Herbert’s own writing.

This volume first appears in Bodleian lists about 1655, but it may be conjectured to have arrived with or soon after nos. 3074, 3513, that is to say about 1643 or 1644.

Now MS. eMus. 95.

3505. (15). In Latin, on parchment: written about A.D. 1300 in England: 12 3/4 x 9 1/2 in., 368 leaves: with illuminated border, capitals, &c.: imperfect: binding, white parchment on boards, 14th cent. (?) English work, clasps gone.

Erased notes of ownership are on the two inner sides of the covers. ‘John Stonye’ (15th cent.) is on fol. 246v. The volume does not occur in Bodleian lists till about 1655. The word ‘Muryden . . .’ on the outer end cover (15th cent.) may indicate connexion with Carmarthen.

Now MS. eMus. 29.

‘Prima pars controuersiarum qua inter Catholicos et Hereticos Gomaristas siue Caluinistas et Arminianos . . . controuerti sole[n]t’, a title from the colophon of the first of the two parts (fol. 129), where the author is named Petrus Waddingus, who finished this first part in the Jesuits’ college at Antwerp on July 9, 1621: the disputations were transcribed ‘per me Symonem Nettiriuile’ apparently at the same place about the same time. A note by dr. Thomas Barlow states that Simon was the son of (Nicholas) viscount Netterville.

The first part consists of disputations de Justitia, de Peccatis, de Libero Arbitrio and de Gratia: what seems to be a second part is Quaestiones in Decalogum (fol. 131) in fourteen chapters. A full list of the chapters and subdivisions is at foll. iii\textsuperscript{v}, 130\textsuperscript{v}, and in print in the Old Catalogue of 1697.

In the binding (foll. 316–17) is part of a Dutch bond given by Beanys (?) van Ydenberge, 17th cent.

Now MS. e Mus. 114.

3507. (17). In Latin, on paper: written about A.D. 1602 by R. Burhill: 9 in., ii+221 leaves: the ink has much run through the paper, and parts of foll. 89–107 are injured.

As an appendix to this work there is added at fol. 173 ‘Antiquitates Insulæ Britannice, ad varia huius Britannie Scholasticæ loca meliūs intelligendæ’, a prose piece with the divisions Nominum rationes, Britannica, Saxonica. At fol. 205 are indexes of personal matters connected with the author and his book, of speeches, of subjects (two), of historical events and persons since the Conquest, and of ‘Sententiosa’ (philosophical adages, &c.).

This poem may perhaps be regarded as connected with the opening of the Bodleian, as it is dedicated to Bodley and often refers to him and his new library, though only in rhetorical terms (see fol. 214).
The author probably gave this copy to sir Thomas Bodley in 1602, who no doubt placed it in the Library at once, since it occurs in the manuscript catalogue of that date.

Now MS. e Mus. 132.

3508. (18). In Latin, on paper, written in the 16th cent. in England: 11\(\frac{1}{2}\) × 8\(\frac{1}{2}\) in., viii+54 leaves: binding, Dutch paper (black and gold on slate ground) on pasteboards, English work of about the middle of the 17th cent.

A copy of some Latin statutes of King's college, Cambridge, apparently a draft prior to the longer form actually given in 1443. In this draft, for instance, the first statute after the exordium begins ‘De totali numero Sociorum ac Scholarium. . . Exordio omnium vt sacra Theologia quæ scientiarum omnium merito censanda est domina’. There is a gap represented by seven blank leaves (foll. 16–22), after which the first words are ‘Sed quod omnes Socii’ about recreations. Foll. i–ii, 53–4 contain rather more than two leaves of a 13th-cent. Latin medical treatise, of which one chapter begins ‘Caro uero est sibi simile in omnibus animalibus sanguinem habentibus’.

This and the following MS., having the same peculiar binding, probably came to the Library at the same time. They first appear in Library lists about 1655.

Now MS. e Mus. 87.

3509. (19). In English, on paper: written in the 1st half of the 15th cent.: 11\(\frac{1}{2}\) × 8 in., ii+96 leaves: imperfect: binding, similar to that of no. 3508.

‘The tretys that ys called the Prykke of Concience’ often wrongly attributed to Richard Rolle of Hampole: wanting the first 232 lines (some leaves being lost): beg. ‘Et crediderunt in verbis eius. . . . He seyth in his wordes leued they’ (l. 317). The text is probably further imperfect and certainly bound in wrong order, for there is an obvious break after foll. 5 (or l. 727), and foll. 6–9 contain ll. 233–316, 984–1070, 897–983, 1746–1823 of the printed text: after which (l. 1824 on) there is no obvious break, except that foll. 20–2 should precede foll. 9, and foll. 71 should precede foll. 91. Several leaves are torn (as foll. 72) or cut.

Fol. 93 bears a memorandum of an account between Aaron and John Vyne merchants of London with Robert Wade skipper between London and Rochelle for merchandise, in French, of the first half of the 16th cent. Also on foll. 94v are six verses, a lampoon on John Day as printer of Foxe’s Martyrs (1562 or later), beg. ‘The grave consell of Gravesend barge’.

Among scribblings are the following names: John and William Alycoke (foll. 82v 94v), John Hydley (fol. 87), Thomas Cowley (fol. 93v), perhaps all late 15th cent.: Adam Benet, early 16th cent. (fol. 94v), Robert Lowe, 16th cent. (fol. 94v). The book does not appear in Bodleian lists till about 1655.

Now MS. e Mus. 88.
3510. (20). In English, on paper: written early in the 16th cent.: 12½ × 8½ in., i+80 leaves: some leaves are injured.

Medical pieces:

1 (foll. 2, 46). ‘The coment of the tabilles of Selerne’, i.e. on the recipes of the Schola Salernitana: the first leaf (beg. ‘Cassia fistula in .4. maneris it may be yeynyn to the seke’ in the ‘prima tabula de sinagogis’) is now fol. 46, and fol. 49 should follow fol. 8.

2 (foll. 33v, 81). A ‘booke of 518 essencijs’, i.e. quintessences, a translation or paraphrase from the Latin: beg. ‘In nomine Patris . . . Wyght [i.e. with] the myght weysdom & grace of the Holy Trinitee write to you’: at fol. 38 are the sixteen ‘soueranest medycynes’. Some recipes occur on foll. 43, 44v, 48, 50v, and 61, and some Latin astrological notes on fol. 44r. At fol. 50 is a copy of ‘An Act for the approbacion of phesicion & surgyonis’, 3 Hen. 8, 1511–12. The old foliation shows that three leaves have been lost after fol. 44 and one after fol. 48. On foll. 55v–61 are miscellaneous notes, partly about weights and measures, and (in Latin and English) calendrical data, such as the Cisio Janus (fol. 58); also a treatise for anglers according to each month, beg. ‘In the monethe of Marche begynn to angle on Seynt Vale[n]tyynnes daye’ (fol. 59).

3 (fol. 62). ‘The boke of the Lapedarye stonys’, beg. ‘The berell stone ys founden in Ynde’. At foll. 65v, 79v follow recipes for an illuminator, such as colours, ‘texte’ and ‘Lombarde’ ink: and at fol. 68 cooking recipes, followed by a prophecy of sir John Ball (beg. ‘The tyme shall com the mone shall ourelede the sonne’, fol. 76), and more cooking recipes.

‘Henry Roffe’ wrote on fol. 79 in the 16th cent. The volume first appears in Bodleian lists about 1655. Now MS. e Mus. 52.

3511. (21). In Latin, on parchment: made up of three MSS. written in the 12th (?) cent., perhaps by ‘Salmon’, in Ireland in Irish hands: 10½ × 7½ in., i+70 leaves.

A (in double columns, with illuminated capitals) 1 (fol. 1). The Latin translation of Plato’s Timaeus by Chalcidius, preceded by the preface of the latter, beginning ‘Ossio Calcidius. Socrates in exhortationibus’: text beg. ‘Vnus. duo. tres. quartum’, ends ‘ex leui admonitione perspicuo. Salmon.’, all with nearly contemporary notes and glosses, some in Irish: at fol. 11 is ‘Haecuntus de mundi sensibilis constitutidine tractavit. TYMHUS [?] NILATONYC prima pars feliciter explicit. incipit de secunda’. On fol. 20 is a diagram of musical intervals, with descriptions.

B (in double columns, with ornamental capitals, partly coloured) 2 (fol. 21). A treatise on the ecclesiastical Computus or calendar, beg. ‘De die. Dies est aer sole illustratus’: ends ‘eo enim anno. xxx. luna Aprilis describitur & xxix Maio’, followed by a diagram: with some notes and glosses, partly Irish.

C (with ornamental capitals) 3 (fol. 31v). A theological and philosophical treatise, perhaps on the categories of Aristotle, beg. ‘Natura generale nomen omnium que sunt & que non sunt. Que natura habet diuidi in .iii. species’: ends imperfect, a leaf or leaves being lost, ‘quoniam hec sunt que principalem natura’: with some notes and glosses, partly Irish. Foll. 32–3 are a leaf of theological notes in a wholly different hand.

Foll. 54–65 are palimpsest, the lower writing being a Latin MS. written in Ireland, in half uncials, perhaps in the 8th cent.

The Irish glosses have been edited by dr. Whitley Stokes in the Zeitschrift für vergleichende Sprachforschung (Kuhn’s Zeitschrift), xxix (Neue Folge, ix, 1888), p. 372: see also Bibl. MS. Stowensis by C. O’Conor, 1818, vol. i, p. 399.

This is no doubt the MS. wrongly described in the Benefactors’ Register as ‘Proclus in Timereum Platonis Lat. folf[io]”, given by Thomas Allen in 1601. On foll. 1 is ‘Tho: Allen D[ono] D[edit]’.

Now MS. Auct. F. 3. 15.

3512. (22). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 2nd quarter of the 13th cent. in English court hand: 8½ x 6½ in., 151 leaves, in double columns: with illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, rough brown leather, 17th cent. Oxford work with ‘F.W.’ on the sides.

The Life of st. Thomas Becket, an enlargement of the Life by E[lias?] monk of Evesham (A.D. 1199), only altered by the insertion of some letters of Becket and a few sentences. This enlarged issue was arranged by Roger monk of Croyland for Henry his abbot (to whom the original life had been addressed) in A.D. 1213. But the present MS. only contains books i–iii (to A.D. 1166), out of seven: the text of bk. i (fol. 15) beg. ‘Beatus igitur Thomas’: each book is preceded by a list of chapters, see foll. 12v, 50v, 98v. The preliminary matter is: a (fol. 7) the prologue by Edward Grim (beg. ‘Professores arcion seculi’) as far as ‘precedens visio figuravit’: b (fol. 10v) the letter of Henry abbot of Croyland to archbp. Stephen Langton (beg. ‘Reuerendissimo patri .... Si mihi prout adiacet’): c (fol. 11) the letter of Roger monk of Croyland to his abbot (beg. ‘Amantissimo domino. . . . Gloriosum gloriosi martiris’, ends ‘millesimus ducentesimus tertius decimus’).

Fol. 1 is a leaf from a 13th-cent. Ordinale of which one section beg. ‘Modus servicii huius dominice locum habet’: foll. 2–5, 146–51 are leaves from a Latin commentary on the Sophistici Elenchi of Aristotle: on fol. 145v is part of a computus of ‘scatpenys’ from places near Durham, 13th cent.

The book first appears in Bodleian lists about 1655: presumably it was presented by F. W., see above.

Now MS. e Mus. 133.
3513. (23). In English, on paper: written about A.D. 1619: 9½ x 6½ in., xxxvi+264 pages, with the ‘Herbert motto AIIAAN©2E on the binding, as nos. 3°74, 35°4.

‘Biathanatos. A Declaration of that Paradoxe or Thesis, that Selfe-homicide is not so naturally Sinne that it may neuer be otherwise . . .’, by John Donne: a scribe’s copy with autograph dedication by Donne to ‘Sr Edward Herbert’ (1619). The original work was composed about 1613.

Given by lord Herbert of Cherbury the dedicatee to the Bodleian in 1642, as an inscription on p. viii testifies, but it was not actually received till at least 1644, see no. 3°74.

Now MS. e Mus. 131.

3514. (24). In Latin, on paper: written in the 2nd half of the 15th cent. in England: 9½ x 7 in., iii+173 leaves: with coloured capitals, &c.

Apparently owned by ‘Guiliel. Gardiner in Artibus magister et vicarius de Lynton. 1586’. The volume first occurs in Bodleian lists about 1655.

Now MS. e Mus. 130.

‘The order of the procedinge against the Scottish Queene & the maner of her execucion. The sermons, prayars & exortacions apperteyninge to that Accion. Anno 1586’, an interesting and detailed account of Mary queen of Scots from her arrival at Fotheringay on Sept. 25, 1586, to her burial at Peterborough on Aug. 1, 1587: beg. ‘Anno 1586. Vpon sonday the xxvth day of September was the Scottish Queene brought from Chartley in Staffordshire to the castle of Foringhay’. This appears to be sir Robert Wingfield’s Narrative, of which copies are in MSS. Ashmole 781, 830, and elsewhere. The account of the funeral (foll. 31v–2v) is identical with that printed in Gunton’s History of Peterborough (1686) as certified by the dean, dr. Richard Fletcher. At the end are the names ‘Lord Mordent of Laightry. Mr William Downeall’.

Foll. iii–iv, 33–4, which formed the original cover of the MS. are fragments from a Latin 14th-cent. Sarum missal or manual written in England.

Now MS. e Mus. 178.

3516. (26). In Latin, on paper: written A.D. 1592 by or for sir Henry Savile: 8½ x 6¾ in., 15 leaves: with fancy Dutch paper covers, of about 1640.

Oratio 'Habita Oxonij, anno 1592. Septemb. 23. coram Regina Elizabetha' in st. Mary's church on two theses, followed by laudation of the queen. A later title gives the author's name, sir Henry Savile, warden of Merton college, Oxford, and states that this is the 'ipsum ἀρχιερεῖον D. Elizabethæ a D. Sauillio exhibitum'. The speech was printed from copies of this MS. in Plummer's Elizabethan Oxford (Oxf. Hist. Soc. viii, 1886), p. 263.

'Ex dono Domini Patricij Junij Bibliothecæ regiae in ædibus Jacobæis Westmonasterij Bibliothecarij doctissimi': but the difference of phrase and absence of date shows that the gift was not in 1639, see nos. 3030, 3071: the Dutch covers can hardly be earlier than 1640, and Young died in 1652: so it was probably given about 1650. Young was spoken of as a possible Bodley's Librarian about that time.

3522. (32). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 13th cent. in the Netherlands (?): 9 x 6½ in., ii+49 leaves, in double columns: with many slightly coloured drawings of men and animals: binding, stamped brown leather, clasps lost: 15th cent. work, perhaps Netherlands style.

A compendium of Hugo de Folieto De bestiis, &c. (Migne, Patr. Lat. vol. clxxvii): text beg. 'Cum voluntas conditoris cuiuscumque rei condite natura sit'. The text is nearly identical with that in no. 21662, foll. 68–115v: at the end, a leaf is lost after fol. 28; foll. 30 and 31 should precede fol. 29. There are numerous illustrations, slightly coloured in green, red, brown, &c., some with pricked outlines, one full page. A 16th-cent. title 'Tractatus Alberti de proprietatibus rerum' has misled the old cataloguers.

'Iste liber constat Thome de Stanley', 15th cent.: perhaps he drew the figure of Cassius on fol. 48. 'Petro Bernys [see fol. iv'] scolastico 3523. (33). In Latin, on paper: written about A.D. 1570 by Nicholas Hickett(?): 8¼ x 6 in., xxiii+263 leaves.

1 (fol. xvii). A list of Popes in Latin to Pius v who succeeded in 1566.

2 (fol. 1, 22v). Two letters of Clemens Romanus to the church at Jerusalem: begg. ‘Clemens . . . Notum tibi facio, Domine’, ‘Clemens . . . Quoniam sicut a beato Petro’ : at end ‘Legitur juxta exemplar’. These are the first two of the spurious Epistolae Decretales of Clement, only known in Latin.

3 (fol. 30). ‘A defence & declaration of the Catholike Churches doctrine touching purgatory & prayer for the deade . . . by William Alyn [the name is half obliterated] master of arte ande studente in diuinntyre’: the introduction is dated May 2, 1565. The work is in two books, each with a preface.

Foll. ii-xvi, 231-49 are fragments which have been taken out of the original red leather binding of the volume, and consist of: a (foll. ii-xiii) parts of leaves from a 13th-cent. Latin missal, in which st. Alphege occurs (apparently of English provenance, but not of any known English use): b (foll. xiv-xv, 231-2) parts of leaves from a Statuta Angliae of about A.D. 1300, containing pieces of the Statuta de Merleberge, 1267: c (foll. 233-48) parts of leaves from a fine 14th-cent. Latin missal.

‘A Collection of Letters and other Papers, which were at several times intercepted, written in cipher. Deciphered by John Wallis, Professor of Geometry in the University of Oxford’: then added ‘Given to the Publike Library there, Anno Domini 1653’. These are fifty-two Royalist letters, 1640-53, deciphered and usually with the cipher attached as well as a copy of the original letter. One of the letters is from the king (p. 34, from Newcastle, 1646), and one from prince Charles (p. 70, from St. Germain’s, July 1, 1648). It is only a partial collection, and Wallis, who was no politician, was subsequently able to prove to Royalist friends that he had not by his deciphering discovered much of importance to the Parliamentarians. The preface which he here prefixes to the letters (which has been printed in John Davys An essay on the art of Decyphering, London, 1737, 4º), avoids all political references. See W. D. Macray’s Annals of the Bodleian, 2nd ed. (1890), p. 109. A somewhat similar volume for 1651–1701 is now Brit. Mus. MS. Add. 32499. The more important letters in the Bodleian volume have been printed.

3525. (35). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 14th cent. in England: 8½ x 5¼ in., i+88 leaves: with illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, brown leather on boards, with roll-produced border, 17th-cent. English work.

1 (fol. 1). A pseudo-Matthaean Gospel of the Nativity of the Virgin and Infancy of the Saviour compiled by Thomas Ismaelita (fol. 52v), who according to Fabricius was a Brigettine at Sion monastery, c. 1430, preceded by a genealogy of the Virgin, beg. ‘Anna et Emeria fuerunt sorores’ (fol. 1), and the forged letter of Chromatius and Heliodorus with the reply of st. Jerome, beg. ‘Dilectissimo fratri . . . Or tum Marie virginis’ (fol. 1v). The treatise itself beg. ‘In diebus illis erat vir in Israel nomine Joachim’ (fol. 3v), and is found in shorter versions in no. 2611 and in Royal MSS. 13 A. xiv. art. 18, 6 E. iii art. 3 in the British Museum. Colophon, ‘Ego autem Thomas Ismaelita frater . . . hec collegi de dispersis per loca scriptis miraculis . . .' (fol. 52v). At foll. 38v, 80v, and 83v some contemporary Latin prayers have been added.

2 (fol. 53). ‘Meditationes beati Bernardi de compassione gloriosae virginis Marie in morte filii sui’, beg. ‘Quis dabit capiti meo aquam et oculis meis ymbrem’ for which see Royal MS. 7 A. vi.

3526. (36). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 13th cent. (1208; see fol. 1 ‘caput draconis’) in England: 7¾ x 5½ in., ii+184 leaves: with illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, faded red doe-skin, clasp lost, English 15th cent. work, rebacked.

A Latin Psalter, wanting the first leaf before fol. 18, preceded by a (fol. 1) a Calendar, in blue, green, red, and black: b (fol. 7) Horae beatae Mariae Virginis, according to the use of Beverley Minster: c (fol. 15) a cycle or table for finding the dominical letter from A.D. 1045 to A.D. 1576, in a different hand: d (fol. 16) two prayers and a rhymed one in two hands: and followed by the Canticles (fol. 157: among which are the Te Deum, fol. 165v, and Athanasian Creed, fol. 169), a Litany with prayers (fol. 171), and the Office for the Dead (fol. 175v), but foll. 173 to end are copies in a 15th-cent. hand. Foll. 53v, 105 are badly mutilated and a leaf is wanting after foll. 17, 88. Foll. 175–9 are stained.
The occurrence of 'Sancti Bricthuni abbatis' on May 14 in the calendar points unmistakably to the collegiate church of Beverley where St. Berethun was the first abbot of the original monastery. The calendar also contains many added notes, late 13th-cent. obits 'Helyanore de Grey', 'Atheline de Shepeie', and 'Galfridi de Shepeie' (Aug. 17, Apr. 29, June 29), and dates of battles 1455-85. At fol. iv is an English 15th-cent. recipe 'for the pestilence'.

A. 1 (fol. 1). The Rogerina major or Practica Medicinae attributed to Roger de Baron, here without contemporary title or author's name: beg. 'Sicut ab antiquis habemus auctoribus': a list of chapters is at fol. iv. Eight leaves are lost after fol. 68. A 14th-cent. list of contents on fol. iv calls the piece 'Practica Johannis de Sancto Amando'. Fol. 130v contains apparently some Latin recipes, but is largely illegible from the application of galls. Recipes are also on foll. iii, 185v.

injured: the cover is fancy red paper with gold ornament on cardboard. Now MS. e Mus. 248.
MISCELLANEOUS MSS. AND

2 (fol. 131). 'Tractatus de simplicibus medicinis', a title from the old list of contents: sometimes called Compendium Salernitanum: beg. 'Medicina est sciencia ponendi modum': a list of chapters is at fol. viiv. This piece is foliated.

B. 3 (fol. 153). 'Excerpta Beda a Plinio Secundo', thirty-seven short chapters (out of 50 in a precedent list): beg. 'Operacio divina que secula creauit'. This corresponds nearly to Bede's De Natura Rerum. At fol. 161 some chapters are added 'de presagiis...'. secundum menses, from the sun, moon, stars, rainbows, &c.: beg. 'Si in... Umbundauerint'. Part is called in a 14th-cent. hand 'Presagia Gerwici' (fol. 163), and 'secundum Gerwicum monacum' (fol. ivv).

4 (fol. 167). 'Ymago mundi', the treatise ascribed to Henry of Huntingdon, here without author's name: beg. 'Ad instructionem multorum quibus deest copia librorum': ends incomplete in the 16th chapter 'veno tempore oriuntur'. A Mappa Mundi occupies fol. 185v.

5, 6. Old lists on foll. ii, iv show that 'Philosophia Willelmi de Conchis' and 'Liber Adelardi Bathoniensis... de solucione questionum naturalium' once followed at foll. 195, 228: they were missing before the present binding was made. There are old notes on foll. 19v, 70, 84, 110.

'Johannis de London:-De librario Sancti Augustini Cantuariensis', cf. no. 2596, 14th-cent.: 'cum M' 15th-cent.: the old mark (?) and some writing are defaced with galls. This is no. 1222 in dr. James's printed Catalogue of the Library of the abbey. MS. Langbaine 6 (p. 89) seems to show that this MS. was bequeathed to the Library by dr. Thomas Clayton who died in 1647. Now MS. eMus. 223.

3539. (49). In Latin, on parchment: written early in the 15th cent. in England: 6 X 4½ in., iv+144 leaves: with illuminated borders, capitals, &c.: binding, rough red leather on boards, with clasps, English 15th-cent. work.

'Consolacio peccatorum', by Jacobus de Theramo, as his preface shows: a religious dialogue between the Church and Satan, in sixty-three chapters: beg. 'Uniuersis Christi fidelibus atque orthodoxe': composed, see fol. 144v, in 1380.

Bought from the rev. Lionel Day's library together with no. 2268 in 1640: See no. 3468, fol. 195v.

Now MS. eMus. 234.

3540. (50). = Or. Catal. i, cod. Arab. Christ. 19 (Psalter, &c.: this appears to be a volume given in 1611 by Paul Pindar, described as 'Psalmi Davidis cum aliis precationibus. MS. 80', but if so, it escaped all Bodleian lists till about 1655).

3541. (51). In Latin, on parchment: written late in the 13th cent. in England: 7½ X 4½ in., 160('191') leaves: with illuminated capitals, &c.: imperfect.

Medical treatises:

1 (fol. '38'). A Practica Medicinae, of which the first 37 leaves, as an old foliation shows, are lost, and perhaps 87 chapters, out of 119.
Chapter 88 begins 'Sequitur ut de uomicis medicinis dicamus. Causa autem inuencionis earum. There is nothing in the volume, except a paper leaf, before fol. '38'.

2 (fol. 87av). A short treatise de morbis mulierum, entitled by the rubricator 'Trotula': it may be what is called Trotula minor: pref. beg. 'Desideranti tibi, filia karissima, & habere volenti commentarium curacionis mulierum', text beg. 'Humerose matricis signa sunt': with list of chapters.

3 (fol. 87d). 'Magister Walterus Agulun de intencione menstruorum' (sive practica de qualibet aegritudine quae per urinam manifestari potest): beg. 'Regula. Vrina alba in colore'.

4 (fol. 88). 'Liber Trotule de egritudinibus mulierum', with preface and (fol. 87av) list of chapters: the Trotula major: pref. beg. 'Cum autem [i.e. auctor] vniuersitatis'.

6 (fol. 110). 'Liber fleubothomie', on phlebotomy: beg. 'Sanguis alias est naturalis'.

8 (fol. 116v). 'Liber magistri Ricardi Salernie medici de hiis que sunt consideranda in omnibus urinis', beg. 'Qui cupit urinas mea per com­pendia scire. . . . Quinque attenduntur generalia', with a list of chapters.

9 (fol. 122v). 'Liber de vrinis secundum magistrum Alexandrum': beg. 'Igitur a multis philosophorum descriptur'.

10 (fol. 124). 'Liber Ypocratis de complexionibus, vrinis, morbis & medicis. Et de sanitate conservanda': pref. (separate on fol. 123b) beg. 'Libellum quem rogasti'.

11 (fol. 129v). Ten short medical treatises: a (fol. 129v) 'Liber de pulsibus', beg. 'Qua te deuocione': b (fol. 132) 'Experimenta Cophus de febribus': c (fol. 133) 'Experimenta Parisii abbatis de febribus': d (fol. 135) 'Galienus . . . de febribus': e (fol. 138v) 'Liber de uirtute aquile', in re medica, or 'Secretissimi regis Cateni Persarum de virtute aquile', beg. 'Est enim aquila rex omnium auium', at end 'Explicit iste tractatus a magistro Willelmo Anglico de lingua Arabic . . . translatus': f (fol. 139) 'Liber de virtutibus bestiarum' et avium in re medica, abridged from the Medicina animalium of Sextus Placitus, beg. 'Regi Egipciorum Octauiano Augusto salutem. Pluribus exemplis tuam prudenciam': g (fol. 141) 'Questiones naturales arti physice competentes. De complexionibus. Omnia corpora ex quatuor elementis': h (fol. 145v) 'Liber anathomie', beg. 'Constituentia corporis humani': i (fol. 147) 'Pars quedam libri magistri Ricardi Salernie de anathomia'. So too j (fol. 149v)
184) 'Liber de practica equorum & aliorum animalium & auium', beg. 'Quoniam humana iocunditas'.

12 (fol. 149v). 'Summa magistri Geraldii de modo medendi', in 125 chapters, of which a list precedes: beg. 'De modo tractandi. . . . Cum omnis scienzia ex fine & utilitate sua'.

14 (fol. 186). 'Experimenta pro furtis' to find out thieves, with other tricks and magic: beg. 'Si uis scire quis ille sit'.

MS. Langbaine 6 (p. 89) seems to suggest that this MS. was bequeathed to the Library, with nos. 2363, 3474, 3500, and 3637, by dr. Thomas Clayton, who died in 1647. Now MS. eMus. 219.

3542. (52). In Latin, on parchment: written about A.D. 1200 in England: \( \frac{64}{6} \times 45 \) in., i+62 leaves: with illuminated capitals, &c.

'Dialogus venerabilis Ailredi abbatis Rjewallis de Anima', beg. 'Ailredus. Qu~ huius est, mi Iohannes': in three parts (see foll. 20v, 41v), with marginal notes. At end, in the rubricator's hand, 'Hoc opus hic metam ura rapiente poetam. | Sortitur morti. superum sociando cohorti.'

Fol. i is a fragment of a commentary on Ps. civ (the commentary on Et percussit vineas eorum et ficulneas beg. 'Quod dicit percussit ad superioura respicti'), 12th cent. Fol. 62 is part of a Latin 15th-cent. computus of 'Iohannes staurarius bidencium dicti Hospitalis apud Benyngburgh', the hospital being presumably st. Leonard's at York.

3543. (53). In English and Latin, on paper: written early in the 17th cent.: \( 8 \times 6\frac{1}{4} \) in., iii+78 leaves.

Copies of incantations, charms, prayers, magical formulae, astrological devices, and the like, chiefly in English, partly in Latin; with diagrams and tables. The first is 'Consecratio libris. O most amyable God', an English formula for blessing books: other haphazard headings are 'A cytation of what sprit thou wilt', fol. 13; 'An experiment to see by thy selfe . . . in a cristall stone', fol. 26v; 'For sprits of the water to get treasure out of the sea', fol. 29; 'The experiment of W. Bacon ["William Bacon the frier"] to destroye witches', fol. 37v; a Latin treatise of necromancy, beg. 'Materia istorum capitulorum', fol. 53; 'Here beginneth the booke which is called the Donet or Consecrations . . .', beg.
This is the doctrine of experiments', fol. 69v. The last is 'That souldiers may be coragious to fight. In the third house make a hollowe ringe of golde into which put this wryttinge'.

The book first appears in Bodleian lists about 1655. Dr. Thomas Barlow states that it was 'è Musæo Thom: Allen Aulae Glocestrensis', who died in 1633.

Now MS. e Mus. 173.

3544. (54). In Latin, on parchment: written about the middle of the 15th cent. in England: 7¼ × 5¼ in., iii + 68 leaves.

'Versus medicinales editi a magistro & doctoribus Salernitanis . . .', or, as the colophon, 'Florarium versuum medicinalium . . .', in five parts in verse: prol. beg. 'Francorum regi scrisit tota scola Salerni', text beg. 'Res naturales sunt quinque': a few notes and recipes are added: a leaf is lost after fol. 65.

'Liber Bibliothecæ Bodleianæ ex dono Jo. Harmari Linguæ Graecæ Professoris Regij 1651.'

Now MS. e Mus. 228.

3545. (55). In Latin, on paper: written about A.D. 1582-87: 6⅛ × 4¾ in., ii + 38 leaves.

'Statuta Academie Cantabrigiensis' (a later title), 1570, in fifty chapters: followed at p. 20v by 'Interpretationes' statutorum, and new statutes 1574-82, continued (fol. 29) to 1587. A copy of the charter of incorporation (1570) precedes at fol. 1, and at fol. 35 are a few extracts from the statutes of 1556–7.

'Sent me by J. Prick.' 'Liber Bibliothecæ Bodlianae ex dono Johannis Birkenhead . . . Collegij Omnium Animarum nuper Socij. Anno M. D. C. LIII. v. Cal. August.'

Now MS. e Mus. 239.

3546. (56). In English and Latin, on paper: written in the 2nd half of the 16th cent. in two hands: 6 × 4¾ in., i + 71 leaves.

Magical treatises:

1 (fol. 1). 'The experiens of frier Jamei of Scotland', beg. 'Note that you must worke in a faire daye': a mixture of magic and astrology.

2 (fol. 6). 'Incipit Practica Nigromantia. . . et Thezaurus Spirituum nuncupatur', a treatise in Latin by 'frater Robertus Lumbertus': beg. 'Diuiditur hoc opus in 4 or partes'. The handwriting suddenly changes at fol. 15v: space is left for diagrams, not filled in. Foll. 36-end are blank.

The book first appears in Bodleian lists about 1655. Dr. Thomas Barlow states that it was 'è Musæo Thom: Allen, Glocestrensis Aulae Alumni', who died in 1633.

Now MS. e Mus. 238.

3547. (57). In Russian, on paper: written in the first half of the 17th cent.: 6½ × 4½ in., ii + 99 leaves.

Slavonic Chasovnik or Book of Hours. Several Russian words and phrases with English equivalents are noted on margins. Some leaves are missing after fol. 44.

This volume must have reached the Library before 1656. Its occurrence at p. 102 of MS. Langbaine 6 raises a presumption that it was among the medical MSS. which were bequeathed by Dr. Thomas Clayton, who died in 1647.

Now MS. e Mus. 233.

A book of magical charms entitled 'A booke of Experiments taken out of dyvers augthors. 1622', in three parts: a (fol. 1) an alphabetical list of charms (Anger—Women): b (fol. 41) Forty-three 'Experiments of Love', i.e. to cause love, the first being 'Experimentum de forma spatula': c (fol. 61v) some calendarial tables, including a list of movable feasts from 1567 to 1661. Foll. 54–60, 67–end are blank.

'Aug. vi. M.DC.LV. Liber Bibl: Bodlianae ex dono Domini Josephi Godwin Bibliopolae, et Civis Oxoniensis.' Godwin may have presented nos. 3543, 3546, 3550 at the same time.

3550. (60). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 16th cent. in England: a roll of 24 pieces of parchment measuring about 48 ft. 8 in. × 5 in., with a wrapper piece 25 × 5 in., all in a cloth box 6 × 3¼ sq. in.

A roll of incantations and prayers consisting chiefly of three long lines, the first and third being incantations and prayers, and the middle one mostly excerpts from the four Sequentiae or Capitula from the Gospels, all in Latin. Above and below these are fanciful names of God and of spirits, the Tetragrammaton, &c., and figures and diagrams occur at intervals in all the lines, some containing weird forms of letters.

The wrapper is part of a parchment deed settling certain estates of Sir William Cecil, Earl of Salisbury (d. 1668), and mentioning Ashperton, Stretton Grandison, and Yarkhill, all in Herefordshire.

The roll first appears in Bodleian lists about 1655.

Now MS. e Mus. 245.

3551. (61). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 13th cent. in England: 12½ × 9¼ in., 1 + '290' (really 294) leaves, with illuminated capitals: binding, brown leather, blind-tooled and elaborately stamped, as in 3654.

The Gospels of stt. Mark and Luke, and the book of Job, followed by another section containing the Proverbs of Solomon, Ecclesiastes, the Song of Solomon, and Ecclesiasticus, with prologues, the interlinear gloss of Anselm of Laon, and the glossa ordinaria of Walafrid Strabo, with numbered chapters.

A Latin Vulgate Bible, divided into chapters, with the prefaces of st. Jerome, preceded by a table of chapters in verse, beg. 'Sex, prohibit, peccant, Abel, Ennok, archa fit, intrant', added in the early 15th cent. (fol. 1); and followed by (fol. 502v) concordances arranged under vices, virtues, and the ecclesiastical hierarchy; the 'interpretationes hebreorum nominum' of Remigius of Auxerre, beg. 'Aaz. Apprehendens vel apprehensio', here without title (fol. 543); a narrative and tabular genealogy of Christ from Adam, headed 'incipit compendium testamenti veteris et partim noui a magistro Petro comestore digestum. Considerans historie sacre prolixitatem . . .' (fol. 586v); 'Rubrize quatuor evangeliorum vel concordancie secundum ordinem gestorum salvatoris' (fol. 595). A 16th-cent. table of the number of chapters in each book of the Bible has been added at fol. 599. Five leaves have been cut out at the end.

'Hoc bibliorum Latinorum MS. exemplar bibliothecae publicae dono dedit vir admodum reverendus dominus Gilbertus Ironside S.T.D. collegii Wadhamensis custos dignissimus, anno domini 1678' (fol. ii).

On fol. 594 are the names 'Ricardus Okeham, Nicholas Okeham, Harbert Okeham, Ralph Ironside' (17th cent.). In the 2nd quarter of the 14th cent. the book belonged to Reading abbey: '... est liber sancte Marie Radinge' de quo qui fraudem fecerit anathema' (fol. 600v).

3564. (74). In Latin, on parchment: written in the mid-13th cent. in England: \(7\frac{1}{2} \times 4\frac{1}{2}\) in., \(iii + 391\) leaves in double columns, with illuminated capitals and grotesques.

A Latin Vulgate Bible, divided into chapters, preceded by the letter of st. Jerome to Paulinus (fol. 4) and with the usual prefaces of st. Jerome. The 'interpretationes hebreorum nominum' of Remigius of Auxerre follow without title at fol. 368.

'Liber Thomae Barlowe Collegio Reg. Oxon. M DC LXVI', with his motto \(\text{alEv aptaT£VELV}\) (fol. 1). On fol. 391v are letters patent in Welsh of sir Jerman ap Morys ap Llawthen stating that he acquired this book in Paris (early 16th cent.). Acquired by the Library as no. 3553.

3565. (75). In Latin, on parchment: written early in the 13th cent.: \(9\frac{1}{2} \times 7\frac{1}{2}\) in., \(iii + 119\) leaves: with illuminated capitals, diagrams, &c.

3567. (77). In Latin, on parchment: written about 1100 in England: \(15\frac{1}{2} \times 12\) in., \(viii + 466\) pages, in double columns: with plain coloured capitals; several leaves at beginning and end are stained, and one or two at end lost.

MISCELLANEOUS MSS. AND

has lost a leaf or two at the end, after the words 'clericorum est commune periculum'.

'Liber monachorum Sancti Edmundi. A. 8', 14th cent. This and the eleven following MSS. (nos. 3568-78) were bought (with three printed books) for £10 given by Robert Nicholas of Queen's college, Oxford, in 1654, and received Aug. 16 in that year. Barlow's accounts show them to have been the 'twelue manuscripts' bought of John Parry for £6 in 1653-4. The three printed books and some binding charges may account for £4.

Now MS. e Mus. 6.

3568. (78). In Latin, on parchment: written about A.D. 1100 in England by the scribe of no. 3567: 15½ x 11½ in., xii + 542 pages, in double columns: with plain coloured capitals: most of the leaves are more or less stained.

'Aurelii Augustini egregii oratoris tractatus ... de ...' Psalmis ci–cl.

'Liber de armario claustri Sancti Edmundi. A. 3', 14th cent. Bought as no. 3567.

Now MS. e Mus. 7.

3569. (79). In Latin, on parchment: written about A.D. 1100 in England: 15½ x 10½ in., ii + 584 pages, in double columns: with some illuminated capitals, &c.: with many leaves stained.

'Aurelii Augustini doctoris ...' sermones de Psalmis I–c. Part of a short index of subjects is at p. 578. Pp. 579–82 are two leaves from a MS. (of which part is in 3568) containing the Digest 1. 1. 22 to 1. 3. 25 (1).

'Liber de claustro Sancti Edmundi. A. 2', 14th cent. Bought as no. 3567.

Now MS. e Mus. 8.

3570. (80). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 2nd half of the 12th cent.: 15½ x 11½ in., viii + 444 pages, in double columns: with illuminated capitals (two on p. 1 large), &c.: some leaves partly stained, especially pp. 174–5.

'Incipit liber uenerabilis Bede monachi & presbiteri super Epistolae Pauli. siue liber Florum eiusdem': beg. 'Paulus apostolus qui cum Saulus prius uocaretur non ob aliud'. This MS. only contains the commentary on the Epistle to the Romans and (p. 233) on the 1st Epistle to the Corinthians, and is entirely a series of excerpts from st. Augustine's works bearing on the two Epistles. On p. vii a 14th-cent. monk of Bury st. Edmund's abbey has copied out (1) a passage from Cassiodorus about a similar work by 'Petrus abbas Tripolitane prouincie', (2) Bede's short autobiography and list of his own works from his Ecclesiastica historia. The same autobiography occurs again on p. viii as a ‘prologus venerabilis Bede super Epistolas Pauli’.

It is known that Bede did write a commentary on st. Paul’s Epistles in the form of excerpts from st. Augustine, but it has never been printed and is always entitled ‘Collectaneum’ or ‘Collectio’ Bedae: while the present commentary is by Florus Diaconus, whose name has been confused with ‘Flores’ (as above), a common term for a collection of excerpts. Bede’s genuine work begins ‘Paulus servus Iesu Christi. . . . Ex libro contra quinque haereses. Ordo iste sequendus [sic] est’, whereas the corresponding passage of Florus is not at the beginning, and reads ‘servandus’, not ‘sequendus’. The collection of Petrus Tripolitanus is not known to be extant.

Bought as no. 3567.

3571. (81). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 12th cent. in France (?): 13\(\frac{3}{4}\) \(\times\) 10\(\frac{1}{4}\) in., vi+390 pages, in double columns: with coloured capitals, &c.: some leaves at beginning and end are stained, page 1 badly.

The Commentary of st. Jerome on Hosea, Joel (p. 124), Amos (p. 163), Obadiah (p. 261), Jonah (p. 279), and Micah (p. 307), two with prologues: the first rubric is ‘Incipit Explanationum in Osee prophetam beati Ieronimi presbiteri liber primus ad Pammachium’: the rest are similar in form. At p. 380 follows in a nearly contemporary hand a treatise with a 14th-cent. title ‘Itinerarium usque ad paradisum terrestrem’, purporting to be by three monks, Theophilus, Sergius, and ‘Chiinus’ (Hyginus). This is the Vita sancti Macarii Romani, whom the three monks state that they found in the earthly Paradise: beg. ‘Gloria & magnificientia Deo soli’; Migne, Patr. Lat., tom. lxxiii, col. 415.

much stained and with damaged margins: pp. 201–66, 301–8, 359–60, &c., are injured in the text also.

'Aurelii Agustini doctoris liber primus contra Faustum Manicheum', with bks. ii–xxxiii following. Other copies in the Library are nos. 1899, 1934, 2715.

3574. (84). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 2nd half of the 12th cent.: 12½ × 8¾ in., ix+256 pages, in double columns: with illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, white leather on boards, with tags at top and bottom; bosses and most of the clasp gone, 13th-cent. (?) English work.

Theological treatises:

1 (p. 1). 'Retractatio beatissimi Augustini episcopi', the Retractationes, as one book, preceded by a list of the ninety-three books treated.

2 (p. 79). '... Cassiodori Senatoris de Institutione divinarum litterarum' liber, with list of contents and preface.

3 (p. 127). '... Liber Prohemiorum sancti Isidori episcopi', the Prooemia in libros Veteris et Novi Testamenti, with prologue and (as in no. 2222) an extract from Isidore de ecclesiasticis officiis, lib. i, cc. 11, 12: imperfect at end, a leaf being lost after p. 138, following the words 'his qui ex circumcisione'.

4 (p. 141). 'Ortus uita uel obitus sanctorum Patrum qui in Scripturum laudibus eiferuntur', with preface: the name of Isidorus as author is only in the running headline.

5 (p. 162). Isidori Allegoriae quaedam Sacrae Scripturae, here with no title, except in the headlines, or author's name.

6 (p. 181). 'Katalogus beati Ieronimi de catholicis scriptoribus', with prologue and list of names, i–135.

7 (p. 215). 'Decretalis epistola de recipiendis & non recipiendis libris a Gelasio papa cum lxx. episcopis eruditis conscripta.' Pp. 139–40 is a leaf from some similar treatise.

9 (p. 243). 'Katalogus Isidori de illustribus uiris.'

On p. 255 is an early 13th-cent. extract from a Latin poem on the medical qualities of herbs: beq. 'Huic erit aduersus cedri de cortice succus'.

‘Expositio Bede presbiteri in Genesi’, Exodo (p. 116), Leviticus (p. 170), Numeris (p. 199), Deuteronomio (p. 227). At p. 258 follow the ‘De nominibus hebraicis [in Biblia] interpretationes’, often attributed to Remigius Autissiodorensis, when not to Bede. Here no author’s name is attached: beg. ‘Adonay in Latinum dicitur Dominus’. On p. 1 is an elaborate pen-and-ink capital, depicting Christ, Adam and Eve, animals, &c. On pp. 268–9 are some nearly contemporary notes, one of which is ‘Pentric, id est nomen uille’.

3576. (86). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 2nd half of the 12th cent.: 13½ x 9 in., ii + 294 pages, in double columns: with some illuminated and coloured capitals, &c.: many leaves slightly stained.

1 (p. 1). ‘Liber sancti Agustini de concordia Evangelistarum’, in four books, each, except the first, preceded by a list of chapters: both finit and explicit are used. On pp. 151–2 the words are much spaced out, owing to miscalculation of the space required.

3 (p. 285). ‘Sanctus Agustinus. In lectione apostolica que nobis paulo ante recitata est’, a sermon by Caesarius of Arles, also found in 2026, fol. 36v; here styled in a 14th-cent. hand ‘Augustinus de igne purgatorio’ (Migne, Patr. Lat., tom. xxxix, col. 1946, appendix 104).

3577. (87). In French, on parchment: written about the middle of the 14th cent.: 12½ x 9½ in., xxxiv + 332 pages: with illuminated capitals, &c.: with some margins stained and damaged: imperfect.

At end: ‘Le liure de Sydrac’, see no. 2451. Here the long list of questions wants all before no. 151 out of 1188, and the text lacks all before ‘et se il semblent felonnesment’ in no. 92.

This MS. may be from the abbey library of Bury St. Edmund’s, since the whole of the rest of the purchase (nos. 3567–76, 3578) came thence, and the kind of stain and damage is not unlike that of several of the other volumes: but there is no direct proof at all. Bought as no. 3567. Now MS. e Mus. 34.

3578. (88). In Latin, on parchment: written late in the 12th cent. at Bury St. Edmund’s: 10 x 7½ in., vi + 338 pages: with one fine illuminated capital and other coloured capitals, &c.: at beginning and end stained and rubbed, in parts badly: binding, white leather on boards, with tags at top and bottom, chain-fittings and clasp gone: 13th cent. (?) English work.
1 (p. 1). ‘...Commentarius beati Ieronimi ...super Matheum’, with preface. The first letter P is a fine and artistic illumination of Bury work, somewhat damaged.

2 (p. 243). ‘Liber de libero arbitrio’ ‘editus ab Anselmo Cantuariensi archiepiscopo’, with a list of chapters: beg. ‘Quoniam liberum arbitrium’.

3 (p. 262). ‘Liber Anselmi ... de concordia prescientie....’

5 (p. 304). ‘Liber eiusdem de conceptu uirginali et originali peccato’: the hand changes at p. 313: pp. 315-16 are torn.

On p. iii is ‘Baldewinus prior Sancti Edmundi fecit scribi hunc librum ...’. In the abbey library ‘J. r3.’. Some pious 13th-cent. ejaculations in French, English, and Latin are on p. ii, a fly-leaf.

See above. Bought as no. 3567. Now MS. e Mus. 112.

3579. (89). In English, Welsh, and Latin, on paper: written in two hands, partly in A.D. 1653: 7½ x 4½ in., 87 leaves.

A notebook of facetious anecdotes, proverbs, and the like, apparently (from fol. 16 on) by Thomas Ellis, fellow of Jesus college, Oxford. The divisions are: a (fol. 2v) Anecdotes and short poems in English and Latin: b (fol. 16) ‘Outlandich Proverbs selected’, i.e. select foreign proverbs in English: c (fol. 23) ‘Adagiorum Britannicorum Specimen, Authore J[ohanne] Davies, SS. Th. D. Oxon’, Welsh proverbs with Latin translation, collected by dr. John Davies of Lincoln college, Oxford (d. 1644), copied (see fol. 32r) on Dec. 12, 1653. At fol. 45 is a copy of a petition for help addressed to archbp. Laud by the vice-principal and five other fellows of Jesus college, Oxford, apparently in 1633. Some Welsh verses by William Powell of Brechin are at fol. 22, and a list of expenses for the voyage from Dover (?) to Calais on the end cover. Foll. 33-44, 46–86 are blank.

3580. (90). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 13th cent.: 13½ x 10½ in., iv + 170 pages, in double columns: with illuminated capitals, &c.

Part of the commentary of Petrus Cantor on the Psalms, containing the prologue and commentary on Pss. i–lxviii, with notes: prol. beg. ‘Flebat Iohannes quia non erat’: text beg. ‘Beatus. Hesdras propheta reparator bibliotece’. The changes of hand and other indications show that part at any rate was written sheet by sheet by simultaneous writing: the ten sheets begg. on pp. 1, 17, 33, 49, 65, 79, 95, 107, 131, 147: a leaf is wanting after p. 64, and perhaps elsewhere. This MS. is closely allied in text and marginalia to MS. C.C.C. Oxon. 49.

At p. 157 are appended three leaves bearing in a hand of about A.D. 1300 the Latin poem ‘:De:—:Penitencia:’, beginning ‘Peniteas cito’, with a commentary.

On p. 164 is a contemporary copy of the report of an inquisition to A(lexander de Stavensby) bishop of Coventry about the vacancy in the living of Bubbenhall in Warwickshire, the prior of Coventry being the patron (between 1225 and 1238), with the names of the jury and witnesses.

Now MS. e Mus. 30.

3581. (91). In Latin, on paper and parchment: written in the 1st half of the 15th cent. in England by John Brian: Ixx 8f, viii+454 pages, in double columns: with coloured capitals, &c.: binding, white parchment on boards, clasps lost, English 15th-cent. work.

Grammaticalia:

4 (p. 375). ‘Donatus’, his Ars minor: beg. ‘Partes orationis quot sunt?’

5 (p. 414). ‘Salutaciones secundum vsnum Oxonie’, an Ars dictaminis or Formae litterarum: beg. ‘Communem modum dictandi scire cupientes’. Some of the examples are from Oxford documents of the 4th quarter of the 14th cent. A kind of second part begins at p. 421, to which the general title (derived from the colophon) perhaps more particularly refers.

metrum constat ex pedibus’, followed by a few notes: d (p. 446) A short grammatical treatise: beg. ‘Quia tractatus antiquorum multiphariam processerunt’.

The outer sheet of each gathering is parchment, the rest paper.

3582. (92). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 13th cent. in England: 10½ x 7½ in., xxii+500 pages, in double columns: with illuminated capitals, &c.: in parts worn and stained: binding, white parchment on boards with clasp, mended, English 15th-cent. work.

‘Magne Deriuationes secundum Hug[iuionem]’, the Latin lexicon of Huguïtio Pisanus, with preface which beg. ‘Cum nostri prothoplausti suggestiu praearicatione’: preceded at p. vii by an alphabetical list of words with the heading under which they occur in the lexicon, in a rather later hand, prol. beg. ‘Quoniam plures dicciones deriuatiue’.

At p. 456 are short treatises: a A latin treatise on kinds of verse, consisting chiefly of examples: beg. ‘Hec est forma componendi uersus retrogrados [altered to retrogradenses]: b (p. 458) A Latin grammatical poem, beg. ‘Aspirans precibus uestris persepe rogatus | Do uobis solium quod nuper deuigilatum’: part of it gives deponent verbs &c. in alphabetical sequence: c (p. 465) ‘In prima edicione incipit Exposicio Remigii. Incipit edicio prima Donati gramatici urbis Rome. Iste titulus uarie inuenitur in multis codicibus’: a grammatical treatise, followed by short grammatical pieces, the first (in verse) beginning ‘Nomina Musarum que sunt mea carmina dicent’: d (p. 483) The Moralis Philosophy of Hildebertus Cenomanensis, here without title or author’s name: pref. beg. ‘Moralium dogma philosophorum’, text beg. ‘Triplex est capiendi consilii deliberatio’, ends imperfect, some leaves being lost, ‘omne animi uicium tanto con[spectius]’, near the beginning of quaestio iii.

Among the added notes are the Lord’s Prayer and Nicene creed in Greek and Latin, all in Roman characters (p. xxii); the earliest collection of statutes of the University of Oxford, printed from this unique MS. in the Bodleian Quarterly Record, iii, p. 117 (p. 480a: 13th cent.: beg. ‘Auctoritate Cancellarii excommunicati sunt’, slightly imperfect); an acknowledgement of a debt by Johannes de Wurthe of Witney, A.D. 1275, on parchment, in Latin (p. 480b). Pp. i–ii are part of a roll of the records of the ‘Turnus vicecomitis’ or Court Leet held in parts of the county of Leicester in 1376, originally in the binding: pp. iii–vi are parts of the accounts of estates in Warwickshire (?) of about the same date, in Latin, also once part of the binding.

Given by Peter Whalley, as no. 3580. Now MS. e Mus. 96.

3583. (93). In Latin, on parchment: written late in the 12th cent.: 10 1/4 x 7 1/4 in., xii + 334 pages: with illuminated capitals, &c.: worn and imperfect.

An Augustinian Psalter of the diocese or province of York, not primarily for choir use, but with cues of antiphons similar to those of York added in two much later hands, with musical notation in the margin. At p. 288 follow Canticles, the Athanasiian Creed, imperfect at end (p. 316), and a Litany with prayers, imperfect at beginning (p. 321): 'Archipresul' occurs on pp. 323, 326. Pp. v–xii are parts of a 'Commentarius . . . curialium personarum & rerum', an exposure of high ecclesiastics, 'edita . . . Parisius . . . anno Domini mo.ccc. Quadragesimo-Sexto', 'Gautero de castello Theodoricci . . . demonstrante' (Gautier de Chateau-Thierry, d. 1249). On p. xii, among other pieces, are copied two 13th-cent. York ecclesiastical records, one about Bunny ('Boneye') in Nottinghamshire.

Several leaves are damaged (especially at pp. 42b, 73, 121, 213, 287) and some lost (after pp. 92, 176, 320, 328).

'Rycardus Farltune' is on p. vii, 15th cent. Given by Peter Whalley, as no. 3580. Now MS. e Mus. 127.

3584. (94). In Latin, on parchment: made up of three MSS. written in the 10th–12th cent. on the continent: 10 1/4 x 7 1/4 in., ii + 156 pages.

A (early 12th cent.: with coloured capitals) 1 (p. 2). 'Vita sancte Mariæ Magdalenæ', beg. 'Quamquam per quatuor mundi clymata', a sermon by Odo, abbot of Cluny: at the end follows 'Transitus sancte Mariæ', an account of her death: beg. 'Liquet plerisque relationis series'. Latin theological notes are on pp. 11–12, and on the latter a rubric 'Responsorium Mariæ Magdalenæ'.

B (10th cent., by two hands, ep. p. 45: with illuminated capitals) 2 (p. 13). 'Liber sancti Ambrosii de Penitentia', in two books: imperfect at end, some leaves being lost: the last words are 'Aduerimus quod hunc' in bk. ii, cap. vi, § 45 (Migne). A 13th-cent. list of contents at p. 1 shows that 'Jeronimus de filio prodigo' then followed here.

C (11th cent.) 3 (p. 77). The latter part of the treatise of Isidore of Seville, De fide catholica contra Judæos: beginning at 'qui adsumpsit duos de cognitione' in bk. ii, cap. 3: twenty-three leaves are missing before p. 77.

4 (p. 106). 'Liber Cronicorum Isidori Yspalensis episcopi', with the preface (beg. 'Temporum expositionem per generationes'), but part is abbreviated, and at p. 115 words are added, rather later, theological notes, e.g. extracts from Augustine on types of Christ, at p. 122 a list of 'Pontifices Romani' to A.D. 687, at p. 125 'Qudam de Christo uaticinia Sibille', from Lactantius through Augustine, &c., at p. 128 'Fides Gregorii

Pp. 147-8 are a much worm-eaten paper leaf containing an appeal about a pension (?), dated 1421, in French. Pp. 151-4 are two worm-eaten parchment leaves (11th cent.) containing part of the Lives of Monks in the Thebaid: one paragraph begins 'Primum igitur tanquam uere fundamentum nostri operis ad exemplum bonorum omnium sumam Johannem ... Hunc enim uidimus in Thebaidis partibus in heremo qui adiacet ciuitati Ligo', which does not exactly correspond to anything in Johannes Cassianus or Palladius.

'Iste liber constat domino Iohanni Cleue' (about A.D. 1400: on p. 1). 'Iste liber datur Hospitali beate Marie de Elsyng Londonii ad eandem pro animabus Thome Dye & Alieic vxoris eius parentum Johannis reclusi canonici & pro animabus omnium fidелиum defunctorum Si quis eum alienauerit uel titulum deleuerit anathema sit Amen (15th cent.: on p. 13). Given to the Library by Peter Whalley in 1655.

Now MS. e Mus. 113.

3585. (95). In Latin, on parchment: written late in the 14th cent.: 8½ x 6½ in., viii + 134 pages: with coloured capitals, &c.

1 (p. 1). 'Summa in foro penitencial breuis', or as the colophon 'Instituta Decretalium super sentenciam confessioinis dominii Berengarii cardinalis ... ad informacionem presbiterorum ...', usually called Summa poenitentialis, in 71 chapters, of which a list precedes: beg. 'In primis debet sacerdos interrogare', which are the first words of the Directorium Sacerdotum.

2 (p. 89). Miscellanea theologica, among which are a (p. 89) Directions (cautels, &c.) for a priest, beg. 'Ut autem euidens racio habeatur': b (p. 102) 'De regulis iuris' canonici, beg. 'Quod semel placuit': c (p. 117) De simonia, beg. 'Symonia est studiosa voluptas'.

3 (p. 122). 'Virtutes rose marini [sic]' or 'Laudes de rosa marina': beg. 'Recipe flores rose marini'.

On pp. 126-8 are added two prayers ante et post Missam: but p. 127 is injured.

'Est liber Thomas Wyckerelle domini', 16th cent. Probably acquired in 1655.

Now MS. e Mus. 161.

3586. (96). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 15th cent. in England: 8 x 5½ in., ii + 278 pages: with illuminated capitals, &c.: imperfect.

The Diaeta Salutis, often attributed to st. Bonaventura, and printed among his Works, but really by Gulielmus de Lancia: a Latin theological treatise on the virtues and vices, the Last Judgement, Paradise, &c., in ten divisions: here without author's name and wanting some leaves at the beginning and end, but having the appendix adapting the manual for preachers' use at p. 245. An index of subjects at end is imperfect, containing A-C only. The present volume begins with 'suum qui de bono dolet' in cap. 4 of bk. i.

Probably acquired in 1655.
Now MS. e Mus. 191.

3587. (121). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 13th cent. in England or northern France: \( \frac{3}{4} \times 3\frac{1}{2} \) in., xiv + 660 leaves in double columns: binding, white leather on bevelled boards, two clasps, broken, brass and leather, 15th-cent. English work.

A Latin Vulgate Bible, preceded by the interpretations of Hebrew words beg. 'Aaz. apprehensus vel fortitudo' (fol. 1), to which the scribe has added a system of marginal references to tables of co-ordinated vowels and numbers, the letter of st. Jerome to Paulinus (fol. 26), and with the usual prefaces of st. Jerome.

Inner back cover: 'Vernani liber' (16th cent.). Fol. v has 'Richard Ayliff Esqr' and fol. i 'Donum Richardi Ayliff de Whitchurch in comitatu Hant. Armigeri 1683'.

3588. (122). In English, on parchment: written about the 2nd quarter of the 15th cent.: \( \frac{3}{4} \times 8\frac{1}{4} \) in., i + 114 leaves: with illuminated border, capitals, &c.: binding, red leather on chamfered boards, clasps lost, worn, English work of the 15th cent.

John Walton's verse translation of Boethius' treatise de Consolatione Philosophiae, with both prologues (beg. 'If sufficiens of konnynge and of witte', 'The while that Rome was regned in his flours'): the text beg. 'Allas .I. wrecche that whilom was in welth': ends imperfectly in the 'Conclusio per exemplum' (5th bk., 4th prose) with 'but alle thise passeth yit intelligence | as be a sight of theire excellence', a few leaves being lost. The translator's name does not occur in the MS.

3589. (123). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 15th cent. in England (?): \( \frac{3}{4} \times 5\frac{1}{2} \) in., iii + 89 leaves: with illuminated borders, capitals, &c.: binding, stamped leather on boards, with figures of st. John Baptist and st. Barbara with mottoes, clasps lost, early 16th cent.

'Hore beate Marie Virginis secundum usum Anglie', i.e. Sarum (fol. 13), preceded by a calendar (fol. 1), 'Quindecim orationes', the 15 Oes (fol. 7), and an added prayer for 'michi famule tue Elizabeth' and followed by the 'Septem psalmi penitenciales', Gradual psalms and litany (fol. 43), 'Vigilie Mortuorum' (fol. 55), and 'Commendaciones animarum' (fol. 74).
The names of 'John Hankinson' mercer of London and 'S: John Thoms:on' are scribbled on fol. 86 (16th cent.). 'Ann Collins' (fol. iii) and a note dated 1623 (fol. 87v) also occur. Given by sir Thomas Herbert in 1666.

Now MS. e Mus. 226.

3590. (124). In English, on paper: written by Hewlet about A.D. 1600: 7½ × 5½ in., vii+113 leaves.

'A Relation of the state of Religion, and with what Hopes and Policies it hath beene Framed, and is maintained, in the severall states of these westerner Partes of the world': at end 'Edwine Sandes. From Paris Aprill. 9. 1599.' On fol. 68 (foll. 69-end are blank) is 'This Booke was given mee by my noble ... Master S: Edwin Sandys among other goodes and legacies when God Allmightie took him, being the handwriting of Mr Hewlet my predecessor who transcribed it for his said Master and myne ... Ranulph Oxenden', who was presumably Sandes's private secretary. An erased inscription on the same page seems to indicate that sir 'Edwin Sandes' owned it at Oxford in 1626. The work was printed surreptitiously in 1605, but not again till 1629, when it bore the title 'Europa: Speculum'.

3591. (125). In Latin, on paper: written in A.D. 1567 by Patricius de Petra at Cuenca in Spain: 8½+6½ in., vi+460 leaves.

'Notabilia in 1m [librum] Sententiarum [Petri Lombardi] notata secundum literam [Gulielmi] Durandi [de Sancto Porciano] a ... doctore Philippo Bernedo [Complutensi] et collecta ab eius discipulo fratre Patritio de Petra [Hiberno] in almo Conquensi collegio sachristico nomini Ihesu dedicato.' Similar notes on Durandus' commentary on the 2nd book begin at fol. 135 (dated Nov. 1, 1567), and on the 3rd book at fol. 384. Similar notes, partly indicating the theses or 'Asertiones sacre Theologie habite in collegio ... Ihesu nomini dedicato apud diuum Franciscum Conche ... sub ... Philippo Bernedo ...' in 156½ are at foll. 126, 375: at fol. 450v are 'los precetos de nostra Regula' (Dominican) and other rather later historical notes about England and Ireland, including a copy of a bull from Adrian IV to king Henry ii, A.D. 1156 (text beg. 'Laudabiliter & gloriose': fol. 451v), and of two documents relating to a vacancy in the bishopric of Mayo (undated: fol. 453) for which Diarmid O'Hely alias Patricius de Petra (cf. fol. 381) is recommended: and also a copy (at fol. v) of a letter from D[iarmid?] bishop of Mayo to Gabriel Ferreyra, Oct. 15, 1577.

Given as no. 3590 by sir John Birkenhead in 1656.

MINOR DONATIONS

3592. (126). In Latin, on parchment: made up of two MSS. written in the 1st half of the 13th cent. in England (?): 7½ × 5½ in., i+205 leaves: with coloured capitals, &c.

A (in double columns) 1 (fol. 1). ‘Sermones [lxxviii] M. episcopi Parisiensis’, chiefly for use on Sundays throughout the year: the first beg. ‘Evangelistis evangelizare’. The only M. which corresponds to the description seems to be Mauritius de Sully (d. 1196). A short ‘exemp­lum’ or moral story about a man with three friends follows at fol. 67.

B (written in several hands) 2 (fol. 68). Capita theologica cvii, a miscellaneous collection of short pieces on the virtues and vices, the Lord’s Prayer, Lives of Saints (st. Edmund king and confessor, fol. 152: st. Nicholas bp. of Myra, by Johannes Diaconus, fol. 189v), sermons, and the like. A list of the chapters is at fol. 67v: the first piece is about the heavenly Jerusalem, beg. ‘Celestis Ierusalem habet murum magnum’. Among the additions (hardly later) are some Latin verses with internal rhyme ‘Sortes xii tribuum’ Israelarum (beg. ‘Si uis prodesse sortes anathema necesse’, fol. 151).

A copy of the Taxatio Ecclesiastica of pope Nicholas iv, a return of the value of every benefice in England and Wales, made in 1291–2: the dioceses are in a different order from the Taxatio as printed in 1802 and fol. 5 should precede fol. 2: a 16th-cent. list of contents is at fol. iii, and on fol. iv some notes. Two leaves appear to be lost at the end, in the diocese of Hereford, the last entry being 'Ecclesia de Hope Boulers vii marcas' in the deanery of Wenlock. The return for the diocese of Llandaff, wanting from the printed edition, occurs at fol. 177. On fol. 198v are a list of customary rents in Bretby, in Latin (early 17th cent.).

Statuta ecclesiae cathedralis ... Roffensis, edita per ... Henricum octavum ... regem ... eiusdem ecclesiae Roffensis fundatorem’, dated June 30, 1544: an original copy signed by Nicholas [Heath, bishop of] Worcester (who was bishop of Rochester until Dec. 22, 1543), George [Day, bishop of] Chichester, and Richard Cox: a list of the first prebendaries, one of whom died in 1544, is on the inner front cover. The form of the Bishop’s Oath is on p. iv, and an ‘Ordo Scholasticorum instituendorum’, about the management and work of the cathedral school, on p. 32. From notes of elections and acts of 1555–89 on pp. v, 29, 34, 39 this copy seems to have belonged to successive deans of Rochester, certainly to Thomas Willoughby, dean from 1574 to 1585. Two recipes are on p. i.

Apparently acquired in 1655–60.

‘The Court of Kinge James by Sir A[ntony] W[e]ldon Reviewed’ or, as dr. Barlow entitles it, ‘An Answer to Sir Anthony Weldon by G[odfrey] Goodman, late Bishop of Glocester.’ Weldon’s book was published in 1650, but even the 2nd edition (1651) does not mention Goodman’s vindication of the king, which was therefore probably written in 1651 or soon after. The present volume is apparently a contemporary copy, corrected by the author (see pp. 7, 163, 275, &c.), who has also written ‘S- Lionel Cranfield’ on p. 295. A different draft of the opening chapter is on pp. 293–4, 289–91. The whole treatise was printed by J. S. Brewer from this MS. in 1839.

'Liber uricrisiarum a fratre Henrico Daniel ordinis fratrum Predicatorem ex Latino in wlgare translatus', composed, as the metrical Latin epilogue states, in A.D. 1379: the prologue seems to imply that the author was his own translator, and is addressed to 'Walter Tornoure of Keton'. A list of chapters is on fol. 1. Later recipes in Latin and English are on foll. 79, 81v–83: at fol. 79v a treatise 'de Accentu', with musical notation: beg. 'Notandum quod metrum epistolarum': and at fol. 80v 'Generales regule quomodo se habent vocales ante vocales': beg. 'Auctores tradunt quod vocalis', followed by some similar notes on fol. 81v, are followed by the name 'Hikedone'.

Foll. ii–iv are the greater part of an entry in a Plea Roll (?) at Wells about a disputed will of William Penyfader, ostler of Wells, whose widow and executrix had married Walter, also an ostler of Wells (late 15th cent.?).

Apparently acquired between 1655 and 1660.

'Prima Secundae diui Thomae [Aquinalis], quam quarto Nonas Iunij interprc:tandam suscepit eruditissimus magister frater Petrus a Sotomaior anno 1563', a Latin commentary on quaestiones i–21, 49–94 of the Prima Secundae of the Summa Theologica. Some leaves are lost after fol. 251 (quaest. 84–9), and at the end (in quaest. 94). The author was a professor at Salamanca.

'Fr. Ambrosio de Lucena natural de Aguilar' owned the book about A.D. 1600. Given by Sir John Birkenhead, who gave nos. 3590–1 in 1656: it was apparently acquired between 1655 and 1660.

Now MS. eMus. 183.

3607. (141). In English, on paper: written about A.D. 1580–90 (?): \(12\frac{1}{8} \times 8\frac{3}{4}\) in., i+247 leaves: in more than one hand.

'The Countes of Pembrookes Arcadia', an early form of Sir Philip Sidney's work, divided into five books or acts (foll. 1, 49, 96, 146v, 193) beginning respectively with the words 'Arcadia amonge all the provinces', 'In these pastorall pastimes', 'The next day which followed a night full of passions', 'The euerlasting iustice', 'The daungerous division of mens mindes'. This version has been edited from another MS. by Albert Feuillerat as vol. iv of the Complete Works of Sir Philip Sidney (Cambridge, 1926). At fol. 237 follow 'Certein lowse Sonnettes and songes', twenty-seven in number, all printed: but a leaf is missing after fol. 241.

'O God save me. C R' (16th cent.?) is on fol. 246v. Apparently acquired between 1655 and 1660.

Now MS. eMus. 37.
MINOR DONATIONS

3608. (142). In Latin, on parchment: written late in the 12th cent. at Kirkstall: 8½ x 6 in., v + 121 leaves: with illuminated capitals, &c.

Liber qui vocatur Diadema monachorum: the pref. beg. 'Hunc modicum libellum Smaragdus de diversis uirtutibus collegit & ei nomen Diadema monachorum imposuit': after the prologue and list of chapters the text beg. 'Hoc est remedium eius': at fol. 115 is a short piece 'De tribus timoribus anime & uerecundia', beg. 'Auctore Spiritu Sancto'.

Among the additions, besides scribblings, are: a (fol. 117v) a form of circular in acknowledgement of a Cistercian mortuary roll sent round to abbeys: b (foll. iv, 117v, 119v, 119v) obits of ten monks of Kirkstall, 1430-1500: c (fol. 118) a list of abbatial privileges: d (fol. 120) a bull of pope Alexander iv against despoilers of the Cistercian order, Sens, Sept. 30, about 1255-60, complaints having come from Rufford and Roche abbeys, both in Nottinghamshire and Yorkshire (torn).

Liber Sancte Marie de Kirkestal' (early 13th cent., and at later dates, with 'Kyrchestal' or 'Kyrkestall'). Presented with the six following MSS. (nos. 3609-14) by John Newton, B.D., late fellow of Brasenose college, Oxford, on June 14, 1658.

Now MS. e Mus. 195.

Flores magistri Hugonis de Sancto Victore & fratris Nicholai Tryuet super Regulam beati Augustini doctoris, cum dictis consonantibus sanctorum Patrum et Doctorum.' These are excerpts from the above two commentaries of the Regula, with additional citations: much of the Regula is quoted as lemmata: beg. 'Ante omnia fratres karissimi ... Egregius iste doctor beatus Augustinus'. On fol. 84v is a 15th-cent. astrological note de plantatione arborum, beg. 'In plantatione arborum requiritur locus lune & etas': among other 15th-cent. writing and scribbling is a Latin rhythmical poem, beg. 'Thomas de Lancastria comes commendatus | Miles ex malicia morti iudicatus' (fol. 85): referring to the death of Thomas Plantagenet earl of Lancaster in 1322. See no. 3612 (binding).

Given by John Newton as no. 3608.
Now MS. e Mus. 139.

3610. (144). In Latin, on parchment: written late in the 14th cent. in England: 8½ x 5½ in., i + 50 leaves: with illuminated capitals, &c.

Officium de beato Richardo (Rolle) de Hampole, et Miracula ejus. This copy wants the first leaf which contained Vespers and the beginning of Compline: fol. 1 beg. 'Cum inuocarem exaudiuit me', in the latter office: matins beg. at fol. 2v and has ix lections of st. Richard: Lauds, &c., follow. At fol. 25v is 'Ad Missam officium': at fol. 27 'Incipiunt Miracula beati Ricardi heremite', in lections found only in this MS. The foregoing is printed in vol. 2 of the York Breviary (Surtees Soc. lxxv, 1882, coll. 787-820).

At fol. 34 follow 'Commemoraciones passionis beate . . . Virginis Marie . . . facte a papa Iohanne. v[i]sesimo secundo', an hour office, to the recital of which an indulgence was granted in 1331: and at fol. 40 similar commemoration of the Trinity. The last piece is an added 'Officium breue pro cotidianis diebus compilatum in veneracionem dulcis Domini Ihesu & nominis eius' (fol. 47v), wanting all after ' & omni uicioso' in an antiphon at None.

Given by John Newton as no. 3608.
Now MS. e Mus. 193.

3611. (145). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 2nd half of the 13th cent. in England: 7½ x 5½ in., i + 595 leaves: with illuminated capitals, &c.

The Bible in Latin, with the prologues of st. Jerome: the New Testament begins at fol. 429: the Epistola ad Laodicenses is at fol. 498. The Interpretationes nominum Hebraicorum in a larger hand of the same date are at fol. 535. On foll. 593-4 are theological notes and scribbling.

Given by John Newton as no. 3608.
Now MS. Auct. D. 5. 20.

3612. (146). In Latin, on parchment: written late in the 14th cent. in England: 9¼ x 6½ in., ii + 82 leaves: with illuminated capitals, &c.

A Processional with musical notes, probably written for a church dedicated to st. Oswald in the diocese of York. The Temporale begins on fol. 1, and is stated to be fuller than that in the printed edition of the York Processional: the Sanctorale begins on fol. 69v, and the Commune Sanctorum on fol. 74v: there are litanies at foll. 40v, 45, 57, 58v, and some Gospels at fol. 77: st. Oswald is specially mentioned at foll. 3v, 30v, 68. The church (not cathedral) had a crypt (fol. 19) and four altars (foll. 30v–31v: to stt. Oswald, Mary, Nicholas, Katherine) and was served by a chaplain (fol. 75v), 'Orate pro anima Roberti Bawdwyn capellani qui istud Processionale fieri fecit' (about A.D. 1400?). It is noticeable that the rare name of st. Everildis occurs twice in litanies on foll. 58, 59v, which points to Everingham or Nether Poppleton, where the dedication is to st. Emelde or Everildis, or their neighbourhood: both are not far from York. A few liturgical additions are on foll. 79v–80: and the fly-leaves are fragments from a 15th-cent. York Gradual (foll. i–ii) and a 14th-cent. Missal (foll. 81–2). The plain old binding is similar to that of no. 3609.

Some 15th and 16th cent. names are on foll. 3, 34, 47v. Given by John Newton as no. 3608.
Now MS. e Mus. 126.

The name of 'M' John Sotwell' (late 16th cent.) is on p. 730. Given by John Newton, as no. 3608.

Now MSS. e Mus. 134.

3615. (149). In English, on parchment: written about the 2nd quarter of the 15th cent.: 13 × 9½ in., xvi + 478 pages: with illuminated borders, capitals, &c.: stained and in parts injured.

English devotional treatises:

1 (p. xiii). 'Speculum vite Christi', 'the boke that is clepide the Mirrour of the blessede life of Ihesu Criste', the English translation by Nicholas Love of Bonaventura's treatise, preceded by a list of chapters of the seven books. A Latin note on p. xv points out where 'N' occurs in the margin, there are words by the translator in the text. On p. 201 follows 'a shorte tretes of the ... sacrament of Crystys blyssede body' as in nos. 2021 and 27689, and at p. 219 is added an English prayer, beg. 'Ihesu my God and my maker I becom thi creature'. The shields of Neville (erased) and Beauchamp are on p. xvi in a border.

2 (p. 221). Speculum vitae: A prose work of religious instruction, derived from the same original as William of Nassington's poem. The first leaf is lost; the next begins 'littel or no deuocion'; but the opening can be supplied from Harl. MS. 45 and MS. Rawl. A. 356. On pp. 468–70 are added some Latin prayers. Leaves in which the text is damaged are pp. xv–xvj, 8b–c, 77–8, 83–4, 95–6, 125–6, 180b–c, 259–60.

Apparently acquired between 1655 and 1660.

Bought, along with the nine following MSS. (nos. 3617–25), with part of £5 given by Joseph Maynard, fellow of Exeter college, Oxford, in 1658. Now MS. Auct. D. 2. 5.

3617. (151). In English and Latin, on parchment: made up of two MSS. written in the 15th cent.: 10 1/2 × 7 1/2 in., iii+153 leaves: imperfect at beginning.

A (1st half of the 15th cent.: in double columns) 1 (fol. 1). The latter part of Chaucer’s Treatise on the Astrolabe: beginning (many leaves being lost) in part 2, § 31 (Skeat’s edition), ‘not alwey verray est but sumtyme be northest’, and ending at the end of § 37, ‘3 housis that folwyn. Explicit &c.’.

2 (fol. 6). ‘Tractatus Johannis Maundevyle militis de mirabilibus mundi per ipsum visis & auditis ... in peregrinacione sua’: beg. ‘[F]orthy that manye men desyryn to heryn’: at end ‘Explicit Johannes Maundeuyle cuius anime propicietur Deus’. This and no. 12917 are the only two MSS. of this English translation of Mandeville’s Travels.

3 (fol. 49v). ‘Godfridus super Palladium’, a treatise on fruit trees, especially vines, and their culture, preceded by a list of chapters: beg. ‘The maner of setytynge of treis is manyfold & so comune’. The piece is in a rather later hand, added to art. 2, and has itself after it a set of recipes in Latin for the preparation of wines: beg. ‘Ad faciendum vinum de aceto. Recipe semen porrorum & fac puluerem’ (fol. 62).

Three blank leaves next following have been filled, in two different hands, with some law notes in French (late 15th cent.: fol. 149r) and copies of a receipt by ‘Rycharde Synell clarke of Pecham in the countye of Kentt vycar sometyme Channon in the late dyssoled monesterye of Sent Towses [Osith’s] in the county of Essex’ for his pension of £3 6s. 8d., Oct. 6, 1549 (fol. 149v), and of the Will of ‘N. of Pecham [?] in the countie of Kent hosbonman’, Feb. 1, 1548 (fol. 150r): also a few recipes are on fol. 151. Fol. 152 is a leaf from an early 15th-cent. noted Breviary containing part of the office of St. Erkenwald.

‘Walter’, Dec. 31, 1470, is on fol. ii. ‘Vindica te tibi’, ‘5’ are on fol. ii: so the volume may have belonged to Sir Kenelm Digby. It was bought as no. 3616 in 1658.

Now MS. e Mus. 116.

3618. (152). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 15th cent. in England: 9½ x 6½ in., x + 240 pages: with illuminated capitals, &c.

Treatises and translations by Italian scholars:

1 (p. 1). ‘Petrus de Monte ad illustriissimum principem ducem Gloucestrie de virtutum & viciorum inter se differencia.’ The dedication, to Humphrey duke of Gloucester, has been printed from this MS. in Engl. Hist. Review, x (1895), pp. 101–3.

2 (p. 85). ‘Inuectionu Leonardi Aretini contra ypocritas.’

3 (p. 98). ‘Zenophontis [sic] philosophi liber qui dicitur Tyrannus’, preceded by the preface of Leonardus Aretinus the translator: this is the treatise Ἱπποτὸς ὦ Τυραννόκος in Latin.

5 (p. 144). ‘Magni Basilii ad juvenes religiosos quibus studiis opera danda sit’, preceded by the preface of Leonardus Aretinus the translator to Colucius Salutatus.

6 (pp. 158, 166, 177). Three orations of Isocrates translated into Latin by Lapo da Castiglionchio, see p. 117, Isocrates ad Demonicum, ‘Nicocles’ ad subditos, Isocrates ad Nicoclem de regno: at p. 186 follows ‘Guarini Veronensis . . . ad princem Leonellum Estensem epistola’ on the second of the three orations, with a different translation of the piece.

7 (p. 200). ‘Guarini Veronensis ad . . . Leonellum Estensem de assentioris & amici differencia ex Plutarcho liber.’

8 (p. 220). A glossary of difficult words in this volume.

A list of contents, in an Italian hand, is on p. x, which has a square hole cut out of the page. On p. v are some notes from the first four articles above in a late 16th-cent. hand, perhaps by ‘J. Foxus’ (John Foxe the Martyrologist?) whose name is on that page. This MS. is copied from a MS. presented by Humphrey duke of Gloucester to the University of Oxford, Feb. 25, 1443. Lambeth MS. 341 is another copy.

Purchased as no. 3616 in 1658.

3619. (153). In Latin and English, on parchment: made up of two MSS. written in the 15th cent. in England: 8½ x 6½ in., xxvi + 354 leaves.

A. 1 (fol. ii) at end: ‘This was ysent from alle the leches of Salerne and of Mountepeleres, and transposid in to Englische tonge to dame Ysabel the qwene of Englonde and at the prayer of the kyng of Fraunce hyr brother . . . ', a series of recipes: beg. 'For hedache. Make lure of veruain'. Queens Isabel, wives of Edward ii and Richard ii, died in 1357 and 1409. Fol. v is an inserted piece. At fol. xvii follows a list of plants with Latin, French, and English names, a medical poem 'de Aristologia a wode morel' (beg. 'Aristologie species tres dicimus esse', on the qualities of that plant), &c. This whole part was separate when it came into the Library, and bears the names of Edward and William Martyn (foll. xii, xvii, both 16th cent.).

B (early 15th cent.: with illuminated borders, capitals, &c.) 2 (fol. 1) at end 'Explicit quintus & vltimus liber Roze [elsewhere Rose] Medicine magistri Johannis de Gadesden': the several books begin on foll. 1, 66, 263, 335, 343, and are preceded (on foll. xx–xxiii, 64) by alphabetical indexes. On foll. xix, xxv, 64 are Latin miscellanea, and on fol. xxiv 'Breuissimus tractatus de medicinis digestis & euacuatis simplicibus & compositis'. At fol. 349 is added the first part of 'Doctrina magistri Johannis de Burgundia alio nomine dicti Johannis cum Barba ad preseruandum & curandum corpus humanum ab epidemia ['epidu'] siue pestilencia': ends, unfinished, 'talam seu fiat'.

Bought as no. 3616 in 1658.

An old 13th-cent. list of part A is on fol. 227, and a 15th-cent. list of the contents of both parts on fol. 225v. Fol. 173 has lost the lower margin with a line or two of the text, and fol. 186 is torn across.

'Libel scolarium domus beate Marie Oxonie . . . [comparat?]us . . . i per magistrum Johannem Cobuldik anno Domini MCCCXX tricesimo septimo precio . . . solidorum & non accommodetur extra domum nisi consanguineis predicti magistri Johannis sub racionali caucione.' Oriel college retained the whole volume until at least 1375, since it occurs in the old catalogue of that date (Oxf. Hist. Soc., Collectanea, vol. i (1885), p. 67—De Geometria). But 'Caucio magistri Willelmi Bridby exposita ciste Gildford in festo sancti Bamabe anno Domini MCCCC xxr pro viginti solidis' and 'Caucio magistri Willelmi . . . yn 20° die Octobris anno Domini 1463 habens supplementum 2° folio & . . . us & jacet pro xxvjs viijd'. These three notes are on fol. 226v which is one piece with fol. 227.

'Quod Kayll' occurs as writing 15th-cent. notes on fol. 105, 218v and elsewhere: 'per magistrum Helyam de T(ri)kyngham' (15th cent.) is on fol. 145. In the 16th cent. 'Thomas Clerk' wrote his name on fol. 95v, 113, and 'Thomas Henshaw' on the inner end cover, and about 1600 'Ricaraus Bruanus' (fol. ii), apparently copied from a rubbed inscription which may have read Ricardus Bruanus, on the same leaf. Bought, with part of £5 given by Joseph Maynard, as no. 3616, in 1658, probably from 'Obadiah Walker' (fol. 227v), afterwards master of University college, Oxford.

Now MS. Auct. F. 5. 28.

1 (fol. 4). 'Opusculum perutile de quinque statibus iuxta differentiam hominum' in five books, a manual of religious and moral duties for princes and bishops, clergy, monks, women, and mankind in general: each book preceded by a list of chapters: pref. beg. 'Ut facilius occurrant', text beg. 'Primo igitur quia iugum prelationis'. At end 'Finita sunt hec in conventu nostro iuxta Traiectum per me fratre Johannem de Delf quinto die ante [festum] Thome anno Domini 1487'.

Owned by 'Wylliam Skrymshere' (foll. 132v, 148v) in the 16th cent.: the name of 'Thomas Topclyffe' (16th cent.) is on fol. 133v. Bought as no 3616 in 1658.

Now MS. eMus. 244.

3625. (159). In Latin, on paper: written in the 2nd half of the 16th cent. in England by N. Allen (?): 12⅓ x 8⅓ in., 106 leaves.

'Nicolaei Aleni Essentiani Angli Britannieidos ... liber vii', followed by books viii-xvi: a hexameter poem on the kings of England from Ethelred ii to the Norman Conquest. Book vii begins 'At dux fraternis facilem diiserat aurem | Neustricolum dictis mentemque per omnia versat | Intentam'. Books vii-x seem to give an account of Britain from the earliest times to Ethelred, so perhaps books i-vi were never written. Of the last two leaves (foll. 105-6) only about the lower quarter are left, preserving, however, the last lines of the poem. The work appears to have no value. No. 2284 is a careful copy of the whole of this volume in its present condition.

Bought as no. 3616 in 1658.

Now MS. eMus. 59.

3627. (161). In Old English, on paper: written about A.D. 1650: 9½ x 8 in., viii + 392 pages.

'Ælfrici Grammatica Saxonico-Latina', cum praefatione. This appears to be a transcript by Gerard Langbaine of the MS. (Hh. 1. 10) in the University Library at Cambridge, with some readings from the two MSS. (R. 9. 8 and R. 9. 17) at Trinity college, Cambridge (cf. pp. 55, 67, &c.), and mentions of the 'codex domini Simonidis D'EWes' (p. 1) and of the one at All Souls college, Oxford (p. 105). The style of writing from p. 29 to p. 99 is smaller than the rest.

Bequeathed by dr. Gerard Langbaine, who died on Feb. 10, 165½, with nos. 3629, 3631.

Now MS. eMus. 106.

3628. (162). = Qu. Catal. xii (Hebr.), no. 307 (Kimchi on Jer., Ezek., Isaiah: given by H. Featherston in 1630): 'H. F.' is on the binding: at one end is a violent paper against Episcopacy headed 'The opinions of the Baron': beg. 'They that reverence the lord Bishops call Christe exe­citable', early 17th cent.

3629. (163). In Latin, on parchment: written in A.D. 1439 (?) in England: 11⅔ x 8½ in., viii + 224 leaves, in double columns: binding, black leather with blind tooling, English work of about 1540, worn.

Copies of documents relating to John Wycliffe and the Lollards, with a connecting narrative for the earlier part (to fol. 80r, col. 1) probably written in 1392–4 by Stephen Patryngton (see fol. 67r), a Carmelite, who is supposed to have collected the succeeding documents as far as fol. 90r, col. 2. Up to this point they are nearly in chronological order to A.D. 1400. Later Thomas Netter (Waldensian) added documents of 1414–28, and the copyist of the present volume 'abridged and arranged' these materials after Netter's death in 1430. This is the opinion of dr. W. W. Shirley, who edited foll. 1–98 (only) of the MS. in the Rolls series in 1858 under the title Fasciculi Zizaniorum magistri Johannis Wyclif cum tritico, with a facsimile of fol. 91r, and full Introduction. He states that this MS. is 'the only contemporary account of the rise of the Lollards'. At the foot of fol. 1 in red is 'Anno 1439', and above in black ink 'Johannis & Pauli'.

The volume cannot be described here in detail: the chief pieces (besides Wycliff's, who occurs passim, and whose own writings are all in the part of the volume which has been printed) are: I. a (fol. 1) 'Fasciculi Zizaniorum magistri Johannis Wycclyff cum tritico', probably intended as a general title and derived from the Vulgate of Matth. xiii. 30: the bundles of tares are the Wycliffite heresies and the wheat is the works of Wycliff's opponents: the title heads the first part of the narrative which weaves together the documents quoted: b (fol. 4) John Cunningham's ('Kenyngham') attacks on Wycliff, about 1365: followed by those of William de Berton, chancellor of the University of Oxford, 1381 (fol. 28v), John Tyssyngton (fol. 32r), Thomas Wyntirtone (fol. 42r), &c. II. c (fol. 57) The bull of pope Gregory xi against Wycliff, May 31, 1376: d (fol. 63r) The London council of 1382: e (fol. 74r) Steps taken at Oxford, and the affairs of Peter Stokes, Nicholas Herford, Philip Repingdon, and John Aston, 1382, &c. f (fol. 76v) The affair of Henry Crumpe, 1392, drawn up by John Langton, a Carmelite, see fol. 77v; and of others, 1395–1428, including the trial of John Purvey, 1400, drawn up by Richard Lavynham, a Carmelite, see fol. 88, and of John Oldcastle, lord Cobham, 1413 (fol. 90v, 94v, partly in English). Up to this point the contents of the volume have been printed.

III. g (fol. 104) Statutes, papal bull of John xxiii (1410–15, fol. 106v), and (foll. 107v, 110) Acta of the Council of Constance, 1415, &c. : h (fol. 109) 'Epistola duodecim iudicum Oxoniensis vniuersitatis ad Synodum cleri Cantuariensis . . . super libris Wycliff’, 1411 (?), with the names of the twelve and the 266 heresies condemned by the Council of Constance:
there is a break at (IV) fol. 120: i (fol. 147v) Statutes of Prague against the Lollards, 1421: j (fol. 149v) Various lists of condemned errors, 1240– 1412. V. k (fol. 160) ‘Protectorium pauperis reuerendi magistri fratris Ricardi de Maydeston . . .’, beg. ‘Constituit eum super excelsam terram
. . . Quia secundum Gregorium’, about 1380: l (fol. 176) ‘Conclusiones ac determinationes magistri Johannis de Hornby . . . in vniuersitate Cantabrigiensi contra magistrum de ordine Predicatorum impugnantem ordinem Carmelitarum . . .’, 1374: followed at fol. 211v by part of a sermon by him (beg. ‘Datus est ei decor . . . O virgo virginum’). VI. m
(fol. 216) ‘Opus magistri fratris Willelmi Wodeforde . . . contra Trialogum Wycliff’. Fol. i contains some incomplete Old Testament genealogies (14th cent.);
fol. 103b is a stray leaf of about the same date as the rest of the volume containing part of a Carmelite sermon, 1386: printed in the Fasciculi, p. 506.

The volume was owned by John Bale, who has written many notes, filled up blank leaves, and contributed indexes throughout the MS., see foll. ii v, 54v (accounts of Lollards), 84v, 98v (‘Examinacio magistri Guilhelmi Thorpe . . . m.cccc. vii, per Joannem Baleum . . . in Latinum versa, 1543’), 119v, 149 (‘Testimonia pro Joanne Wicleuo . . .’), 159, 214, 223, &c. Art. h is annotated according to Tanner (s.v. Waldenus) by archbp. Ussher, not Wood.

Bequeathed by Gerard Langbaine as no. 3627.

3631. (165). In Latin, on parchment: written about A.D. 1400 in England:
11 ½ × 8 in., ii + 12 leaves, in double columns.

Foll. 121–32 (‘131’) of a larger volume:

1 (fol. i). ‘Lecciones & questiones cum determinacionibus reuerendi doctoris fratris Riccardi Maydiston ordinis Carmelitarum’, the latter
minacio eiusdem doctoris contra magistrum Johannem [Ashwardby] vicarium ecclesie sancte Marie Oxonie’, and the colophon as above.

2 (fol. 8v). ‘Concordia facta inter regem Riccardum 2 . . . & ciues Londonie, per fratrem Riccardum Maydiston Carmelitam sacre theo– logie doctorem anno Domini mœ.cccc. nonagesimo iiij’, an elegiac poem of about 550 lines beginning ‘Tullius in laudem tantam sustollit amicos’, printed from this MS. in Wright’s Political Songs and Poems, Rolls 3 (fol. 11v). ‘Excerptiones a libro Tullij de natura Deorum. & divi-ditur in tres parciales libros per doctorem [Ricardum] Lauenham.’ Fol.

Bequeathed by dr. Gerard Langbaine as no. 3627.

3632. (166). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 12th cent.:

‘Incipit quedam breuis relatio de Willelmo nobilissimo comite Normannorum. quis fuit & unde originem duxit. & quam multitudinem ducens Anglie regnum sibi armis adquisuit’ (but quam—regnum is nearly erased): beg. ‘Pater huius Willelmi fuit Rodbertus dux Norma-norum’: ends ‘super pectus suum apposuit’. This is an early copy of a short but valuable account of the Conqueror, compiled in the reign of Henry i: see T. D. Hardy’s Descriptive Catalogue of Materials (Rolls Ser. 26), vol. ii, p. 6.

On pp. 14–15 is added in a hand not later than 1200 a copy of the treaty between Louis vii of France and Henry ii of England in 1177 binding each to a Crusade: beg. ‘Ego .L. Dei. gratia rex Francorum & ego .H. eadem gratia rex Anglorum’: printed in Rymer’s Foedera. On p. 16 a hand of about the middle of the 12th cent. has added a list of the barons and others who supplied the Conqueror with ships in 1066: beg.
‘Willelmus dux Normannorum ueniens in Angliam’: see Hardy as above,
p. 1.

Given to the Library on Oct. 18, 1658, by Silas Taylor, who printed the first and third pieces in his History of Gavelkind (Lond. 1663).

3633. (167). In Latin, on paper: written about A.D. 1607: 12 3/4 × 9 in., iv+784 pages, in double columns.

A subject-index to theological works in the Bodleian Library, in Latin: under each subject is given a list of authorities, with the page and (usually) the Bodleian shelf-mark. Additional entries, giving library accessions of about 1635–41, occur in a later hand. There can be little doubt that this is the work of Bodley’s first librarian, dr. Thomas James (although not in his autograph), and that it is to be identified with the ‘Lexicon theologicum, in quo quid ab aliquo auctore scriptum sit in genere theologico digestum continebitur ordine alphabeticum, adscriptis paginarum numeris et adnotatis editionibus’, announced by him in 1604 for publication (see his Catalogus librorum Bibliothecae publicae, 1605, p. 180) as a supplement to his Catalogus Expositorum S. Scripturae.

See above. This MS. may rank as an accession of about 1607, although not handlisted until 1658–60.

MINOR DONATIONS

3634. (168). In English, on parchment: written in the 2nd half of the 15th cent.: 12½ x 8½ in., viii + 195 leaves: with illuminated border, capitals, &c.

An English Brute Chronicle, from Brute to A.D. 1418: beg. 'In thee noble land of Surrye there was a worthy kyn... Diaclisian': ends on fol. 182 'tile thee town [Rouen] was sett in Rule and in governavnce'.

Among the scribbling on foll. i–viii, 182–95 are some English recipes, on fol. ii, 'Robert Cornwalyes', 'John Jeffere of Est Pretwell' and '... of Est Handfeld', 'Rycharde Calyes pourcevant', 'Ricardus Mounteney', &c., all 16th cent. The volume was apparently acquired between 1655 and 1660.

Now MS. e Mus. 39.

3635. (169). In English, on paper: written in the 1st half of the 17th cent.: 8½ x 6 in., vii + 316 leaves: plain brown leather binding, see below.

English sermons on the Sunday Epistles or Gospels from Easter Day to the end of Lent, with one at fol. 305 on the dedication of a church. The first is 'Dominica prima post Pascha. Fides nostra vincit mundum... These wordys ben thus moche to sey. Owre beleve overcommethe.' Fol. 309 is torn, and a leaf is wanting before it.

'Clement Chetsham. Clement Kent' (16th cent.) is on fol. 311v. On fol. i is 'Sept' 8, 1655. To R. Beckford for binding this 15', so no doubt it was acquired by the Bodleian in or shortly before 1655.

Now MS. e Mus. 180.

3636. (170). In Latin, on parchment: made up of three MSS. written in the 12th cent. in England: 10½ x 6½ in., iii + 203 leaves: with fine miniatures, see below: imperfect at end.

A (written in A.D. 1140–58, perhaps in 1149, at St. Alban's: with fine miniatures) i a (fol. 2v). A Calendar, written for the monastery of St. Alban's—Invention of St. Alban (Aug. 2) and its octave in blue, O Sapientia (Dec. 16) with neums, but st. Thomas the Martyr and the Invention of st. Amphibalus are not entered. The Calendar generally resembles those of no. 1022 (A.D. 1308–26) and New college MS. 358 (A.D. 1246–60). It has good miniatures of the occupations of the months and signs of the Zodiac. b (fol. 7v) A Paschal Table for A.D. 1064–1595 and key: key-letters have been filled in to A.D. 1158, so the piece was probably written in the lunar cycle 1140–58, perhaps, as Mr. E. W. B. Nicholson suggests, in 1149: see his Introduction to the Study of some of the oldest Latin musical Manuscripts in the Bodleian Library (1913), p. lxx, where fol. 7 recto is given in facsimile (pl. xliviii). A leaf of the Calendar (Feb.–March) is wanting, also a leaf before fol. 8.

B (written late in the 12th cent., at Winchester: with three large illuminated capitals) 2 (fol. 9). A Latin Gallican Psalter with the usual Canticles (fol. 137v), Pater Noster, Credo and Gloria (fol. 147v), Qui-cunque vult (fol. 148v), Litany and prayers (fol. 150v), written for use in the Old Minster at Winchester. Stt. Justus and Ælphège occur among the martyrs in the Litany; stt. Birinus, Hedda, Swithun, Byrstan, Ælpege and Athelwold (all Winchester bishops), and Dunstan and Gaugericus (but not Gumbald or Judoc) among the confessors; and stt. Athelrida and Edburga among the virgins. The first two leaves have been cut away and the Psalter begins 'in via peccatorum non stetit'. There are elaborate polychrome initials on foll. 51v, 94v, 107v (Pss. li, ci, cix).

A and B came to be bound together, perhaps at Winchester, before 1200, for a scribe of about that date has entered the name of st. Frideswide in the Calendar and in the Litany. (For the gift of relics of that saint to Winchester cathedral see vol. ii, pt. I, of this catalogue, p. 214.) They passed subsequently to the Benedictine nunnery of Littlemore. A 13th-cent. name, 'Adam Basset de Litlemore', occurs at fol. 155; and on fol. iv is a 15th-cent. entry, 'Caucio priorisse de Lytelmore ia pro xl s. & habet supplementum por[t]orum cum uno signaculo argentoe 2° folio incipiatur'.

C (written in the second half of the 12th cent., with fine illuminated capitals containing miniatures, perhaps by a lady, whose kneeling figure occurs at foll. 156, 158v, 161, 193v) 3 (fol. 156). Meditations and prayers, without author's name, from the collection edited by st. Anselm and published in Migne's Patr. Lat. clviii under the following numbers: prologus meditationum (beg. 'Orationes siue meditationes que subscripte sunt'); oratio 20; a meditation on the Cross (ends 'proferat & inducat per te Christe Jesu . . . cum Deo Patre'); orationes 51, 50, 49, 52, 63-5, 67-9, 71 (to st. Nicholas), 75 (to st. Peter), 72 (to st. Augustine, Benedict interlined), 74, 23; meditationes 2 and 3; orationes 9, 27, 28, 4, 10 (beg. 'Quam magna, Domine Deus meus, multitudo dulcedinis tue'), 2 (ends imperfect, 'in hac tua admirabili depositione est cui mea fra[gilitas]'): written for use in an abbey of regular canons dedicated to st. Peter (? Dorchester), see fol. 184. Single leaves are wanting after foll. 157, 174, 177: foll. 199 and 200 have been shorn of their margins.

3637. (171). In Latin and French, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 13th cent. in England (?): 94 x 7 in., ii+82 leaves: with coloured drawings of plants, capitals, &c.: imperfect at beginning.

1 (fol. 1). 'Liber Medicine Dioscoridis' (a title from the colophon), in Latin, a herbal, with coloured drawings of plants: the first fifty-nine leaves of the original volume are lost, as an old foliation shows, and notes on foll. 57, 79v: about twenty of them were the first part of the Dioscorides. A 15th-cent. hand has added many English names of the flowers.
The text beg. ‘ticen ligetur lino rubro’, the next articles are ‘Arthemisie motlosios’, i.e. monoglossos, and ‘Artemisie tagantes’: the last is ‘Aperina’.

2 (fol. 44). ‘Galieni Epistola in Antiballomenon’ or, as a 14th-cent. title gives it, ‘Tractatus qui vocatur Quid pro quo: beg.’Quoniam Anti-ballomenon librum & Dioscorides noscitur fecisse’: followed by the text of the Antemballomenon of Galen, an alphabetical list of herbal substitutes: beg. ‘Pro Achatii semen. mittis lichnis’, followed by a list of Greek herbal names with their Latin synonyms: beg. ‘Aggrio cannauin est cantabrnum’.

5 (fol. 62v). Medical advice and recipes in French verse and prose: beg. ‘Pur dolur de la teste oignement. Tvt Ie cors est en langur | Quant Ie chef susprent dolur’: in double columns. This piece is called ‘La novele cirurgerie’ in no. 2535. Similar Latin notes are added on fol. 79.

MS. Langbaine 6 (p. 94) shows that this MS. was bequeathed to the Library by dr. Thomas Clayton, who died in 1647.

Now MS. Auct. F. 5. 31.

3638–42. (172–5). In Latin, on paper: written about 1620 by Wm. Walker: 15½ x 10½ in., xviii + ‘962’ and viii + ‘963’–‘1778’+ viii and vi + ’1779’– ’2712’+ ii and x + ’2713’–’3692’+vi pages.

3642. (176). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 14th cent. in England: 13½ x 9½ in., ii + 149 leaves, in double columns: with illuminated border, capitals, &c.: binding, stamped brown leather with the G.K. roll, Oxford work of about 1615.

3643. (177). In Latin, on parchment: made up of four MSS. written in the 12th and the 1st half of the 13th cent. in England: $12 \times 8\frac{3}{4}$ in., iv+121 leaves, in double columns: with coloured or illuminated capitals, &c.

A (late 12th cent.) 1 (fol. 2). Distinctiones theologicae: beg. 'Capud Domini ipsa diuinitas': not quite complete, ending 'Thogorma ... hostis exilium', a leaf being probably lost: this is the Clavis Sanctae Scripturae of st. Melito, bishop of Sardis: but the present volume is not the Codex Oxoniensis of cardinal Pitra (Analecta Sacra, ii. 6–127), which is MS. Grabe 4.

B (early 13th cent.) 2 (fol. 18). 'Distinctiones Meldensis super Psalterium': pref. beg. 'Primo ponitur commendatio auctoris', text beg. 'Beatus uir. ... Homo quando cogitationem suam ad terræa flecterit': the last leaf is almost completely torn out, so the text ends 'in sinistram partem inclinauerunt'. These are by Michael de Corbolio, dean of Meaux, archbp. of Sens (d. 1199). On foll. 56–70 are added in more than one 13th-cent. hand fourteen Latin sermons (the first imperfect), one of which at least (fol. 64v) is by Guerricus, abbot of Igny: there are also some theological notes at foll. 63v, 69v, 71.

C (first half of the 13th cent.) 3 (fol. 71v). 'Ars predicandi': beg. 'Vidit scalam Iacob ... Scala ista est prefectus uiri catholicì'. This is the Summa de arte praedicatoria of Alanus de Insulis, sometimes attributed to Alanus Porretanus.

4 (fol. 81v). Fifteen Latin sermons, chiefly for holy days.

5 (fol. 95). 'Sermones magistri Odonis [Cantiani] de dominicis Euuangeliis habitu ad populum.'

D (late 13th cent.) 6 (fol. 114). The seventy canons of the fourth Lateran Council of 1215 (beg. 'Firmiter credimus & simpliciter confitemur'), followed, at fol. 119v, as in Mansi, xxii, by the decree 'Ad liberandam Terram Sanctam' and a note on the Council.

Foll. ii–iv contain theological notes, imperfect: on fol. iv a is an Old English sentence, and part of that leaf has been cut off.

'Liber abreuiacionum tocius continens', then (added) 'Pauli medici': with list of chapters and prologue: this is a Latin abbreviation of the Arabic Elhavi or 'Continens', a large medical work of Rhazes or Rasis, i.e. Muhammad ibn Zakariyya al-Razi (Abu Bekr). The prologue beg. 'In prologo libri Elhauy', and calls the work a 'Summula': text beg. 'Paralisis autem accidit'. On fol. 239v is a medical recipe (?). At end: 'Explicit Abbreuiatum tocius continentis Anno nonagesimo septimo 2a die februarij in Montepessulano. Deo gracias'. The Paulus Medicus of the title appears to be Paulus Aegineta, from whose De Re Medica Rhazes no doubt largely compiled his own work.

3649. (183) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek), Casaub. 19 (printed ed. of Polybius with MS. notes: at the end is an undated letter from Richard Thomson to Isaac Casaubon: bequeathed with nos. 3947-67 by Meric Casaubon in 1673).

3650. (184). In Latin, &c., on parchment: written in the 2nd half of the 13th cent. in England: 13⅓ x 9⅜ in., ii+139 leaves, in double columns: with coloured drawings, illuminated capitals, &c.: imperfect at end.

Theological treatises, of which a contemporary list precedes on fol. 1r:

1 (fol. 2). Four treatises by Ricardus de Sancto Victore, a (fol. 2) De Trinitate libri sex, with lists of chapters, b (fol. 46r) Tractatus super uersiculum Quid est tibi, mare, c (fol. 66) 'Opus de tribus principalibus processionibus, in laudem & honorem domini Alexandri pape tertii', d (fol. 75) 'Libellus de visione Ezechielis prima & ultima, scilicet [de] edificio in monte, ad litteram intellectis', with coloured drawings and a note 'Hic liber non est emendatus nisi secundum exemplaria duo mendosa, quia alius non habuimus': the variant readings are given in the margin. An extra chapter occurs at the end, beg. 'De hoc monticulo dixit Ysaiaes', fol. 106.

2 (fol. 110). 'De visione Ezechielis prima abbas Andreas ad litteram', beg. 'Et factum est. In propheticis satis usitatum': followed at fol. 115r by the commentary on the second vision. This Andreas is described in the old list of contents as 'Andreas de Wiggemor'.

3 (fol. 123). 'De mirabilibus Britannie', beg. 'Britannia sicut legitur'.

4 (fol. 125). 'De sacris locis', an explanation of terms relating to a church and its fittings: beg. 'Sacra sunt loca diuinis cultibus instituta'.

5 (fol. 127). 'De alis Seraphin', the author is given in the list of contents as Clemens prior, i.e. Clement of Lanthony: beg. 'Prima ala est Confessio'.

6 (fol. 130). 'Ci cumence Le Assumptiun de Nostre Dame translate de Hereman le prestre', a poem of 544 lines, for which see Cod. MS. Digby 86 by E. Stengel (Halis 1871), p. 69: beg. 'Seignurs or escutez que Deu uus beneie | Par sa mort preciuse ki nus dunat la vie'.

7 (fol. 134). Three short pieces from st. Augustine of Hippo, a (fol. 134) 'Ammonitio ut coniugalis castitas conseruetur', b (fol. 134r) 'De castitate cum uxoribus conseruanda', c (fol. 135) 'De commendatione Psalmorum', beg. 'Canticum psalmorum animas decorat': at fol. 135 is an account of a miraculous image of the Virgin, beg. 'Spiris locus est famosus'.

8 (fol. 135r). 'Liber Methodii episcopi ecclesie Paterenum ... quem de hebreo et greco sermone in latinum transferre curavit', a paraphrase of the Revelationes of the pseudo-Methodius: beg. 'Sciendum namque est nobis, fratres karissimi': ends imperfectly 'Et ueniet imperator 3651. (185). In Latin, on parchment: written early in the 15th cent. in England: 11 1/4 x 8 in., ii + 234 leaves, in double columns: with illuminated border, capitals, &c.

'Omelie beati Bernardi abbatis Clareuallis super Cantica Canticorum', preceded by list of capitula of the eighty-six sermons. The handwriting on foll. 155-98 is larger than the rest.

'Johannis Bullinghammi sum liber, teste Johanne Ewero', 16th cent.; 'William Childe gentilman of Somer' being one of my lordes yemen &c., 16th cent. 'Chr. Herbert, 1600', 'T. Herbert. En bon tans. 1630'.

Now MS. e Mus. 91.

3652. (186). In English, Welsh, and Latin, on paper: made up of two MSS. written in the 16th cent. in England: 12 1/2 x 8 3/4 in., i + 175 leaves.

A (early 16th cent.) (fol. 1). 'Liber Thome Norton qui intitulatur Ordinale secretorum, with a Latin and English preface (begg. 'Liber iste Clericis', 'To the honour of God one, in Persons three': the text beg. 'Maystyre full mervellous and achimaystyre') an alchemical work, with notes, partly by dr. John Dee.

2 (fol. 41). 'Here begynithe the Compende of Alkamie made by [George Ripley] a channon of Bridlington', with prologue, preface, twelve chapters, recapitulation, and 'permonicio autoris', in English verse, with notes as above: prol. beg. 'Childe of this discipline', text beg. 'Calcinatione is the purgacione of our stone'. Two short pieces follow: a (fol. 66) 'Verba Secretorum Hermetis', in Latin and English, b (fol. 67) an alchemical poem, beg. 'Of Spayne take the clere light | The redd gume that is so bright'. Three leaves are torn out after fol. 69.

B (mid-16th cent., in several hands) 3. Short alchemical pieces: a (fol. 70) 'Mr Ryppleys work, The Bost of Mercurye', a poem beginning 'I am Mercury, the mightie flos florun': b (fol. 71v) 'Speculum Alchimiæ', in prose, beg. 'Scriptura tale nomen': c (fol. 72) a poem on the Philosopher's Stone, in Latin verse: beg. 'Ergo nota vere lapidem quem cupis habere': d (fol. 74v) 'Conclusiones quorundam philosophorum de lapide Voarhadumico seu Indico': e (fol. 76) 'Opinio cuiusdam academici Oxoniensis de lapide philosophico', in English verse: beg. 'The deepe conceyte well hatch'd in Muses brayne': f (fol. 76v) 'Catalogus librorum Jo Gwynn Arnst', Feb. 28, 1573, thirty-four volumes, chiefly alchemical.
7 (fol. 80). 'De Lapide philosophico', a Latin rhythmical poem (beg. 'In philosophantium hac in cantilena'), preceded by heraldic crest and arms, coloured, of alchemical significance.

8 (fol. 127). 'Gramatica Brytannico idiomate conscripta', a Welsh grammar (?), part of which (fol. 138) is about the composition of verses: finished Oct. 10, 1571; at fol. 143 is a copy of a Welsh poem by 'Meredith ap Rees ap Kant, A.D. 1440'. Foll. 144–6 bear Welsh writing, and at fol. 147 is a copy of a letter from John Gwynn 'Arnstlensis' to dr. John Dee, in Latin: foll. 149–75 are blank: some leaves have been torn out at the end.

The entry of this MS. in the Benefactors' Register seems to imply that a 'Liber de Arte Necromantica Anglice, cui Tit: Cephar Rariel: MS.' was the first item in this volume. A few pages seem to have been torn out before art. 1, and there are now no traces of the treatise.

Owned by 'W. Typsell' about 1550, and John Strangman in 1559 (?); by John Gwynn, who writes on fol. i a vision of Julius Caesar's image at Rome, June 29, 1569, in Latin, cf. foll. 67 (1582), 76v (1573): and by dr. John Dee in 1595 (fol. 41). The name 'Tho: Shilton' is on the inner front cover (16th cent.). Presented to the Library by Evan Jones, M.A., in 1605.

Now MS. e Mus. 63.

Edmund [Rich], by Nicholas Bellew, beg. 'The name of our swete lord Jhesu Christ' (fol. 24), apparently written by 'Jon Flemmyn' (fol. 62), see H. E. Allen, Writings ascribed to Richard Rolle (1927), p. 279. At fol. 62 is a devout orison of the Passion also found in nos. 2604, 29110: beg. 'Jhesu that hast me dere ibo3t', printed by the Early English Text Society in 1921. The fly-leaves (foll. 67–70v) are from a late 13th-cent. collection of episcopal or papal letters.

Given to the Library by Alexander Fetherston in 1680, as nos. 3653–6, 3658.
Now MS. e Mus. 232.

3658. (192). In Latin, on parchment: written about 1400 in England: \(7\frac{3}{4} \times 5\frac{3}{4}\) in., ii + 42 leaves: binding, stamped brown leather, 17th-cent. English work.

'Extracte (?) cronicarum Cestrens'. Cronic[on] veteris testamenti', beg. 'Teronimum ad Eugenium in epistola' (fol. 1) and ending abruptly 'et pristinam vitam reassumpsit' (fol. 42v), being excerpts from the Polychronicon of Ralph Higden, monk of Chester, down to 1290.

'Ex dono Alexandri Fetherston vicarii de Wolverton in comitatu Bucks et prebendarii de collegio in cathedrali ecclesia Lichfieldensi, A.D. 1680' (fol. 38v). On fol. ii is an erased inscription 'Liber beati [?] . . .'.

3659. (193). In Latin, on parchment: written early in the 14th cent. in England: \(8\frac{1}{8} \times 5\frac{1}{2}\) in., iii + 384 leaves: binding, blind-tooled brown leather, 17th-cent. English work.

'Flores Historiarum' to 1303, with additions to 1306, beg. 'Temporum summam lineamque descendentem' (fol. 1). This MS. was collated as MS. M. for the edition in the Rolls Series (vol. i, p. xviii). On fol. 382 is a prophecy relating to Catulus Lucius, in a late 15th-cent. hand, beg.
'A quodam spiritu plutonico', and on fol. ii a few 15th-cent. calendarial notes.

A partly erased inscription of about 1500 on fol. 383v reads 'Iste liber constat Johanni ... filio Thome ... de London'. Owned by Edmund Knyght, Rouge Dragon, afterwards Norroy King of Arms (fol. 111v), then by John Aubrey in 1650, whose book-plate and inscription 'Sum Johannis Aubrey de Easton Piers [in Wiltshire] R.S.S.' are on fol. iii, and was brought to Bodley by Wood according to his own statement, 'Jun. i. An. 1675. I received this book from John Aubrey, Fellow of the Royall Society, to be given to the publick library in Oxon. A. Wood' (fol. iii, cp. foll. iii, iiiiv).

Two volumes of Douai disputations, written by Francis Savage of the English Jesuit college at Douai:
1. 'Tom. 1.' Disputationes Logicales, with list of contents at end signed by Savage. The binding bears the name of the praeses 'Gulielmus Herbert': at fol. i is a Latin distich to Savage by 'F. C.'.

2. 'Tom. 2.' Disputationes on the De Interpretatione, Analytica Priora (fol. 42v), and Analytica Posteriora (fol. 53) of Aristotle, with an imperfect list of contents at end. At fol. 124 is an interesting printed programme of 'Conclusiones Logicae' which Savage had to defend at Douai in July 1624. The praeses was Franciscus Plantinus whose name is on the binding.

'Bibliothecæ Oxoniensi donavit S[amuel] Clarke.' The date of the gift is not known, but may be between 1663, when he presented some printed Arabic books, and 1669, the year of his death. His other MSS. were purchased in 1670.

Acquired by the Library in 1673, as nos. 3693–6, for in the Schools Account for that year is the entry ‘Item to Mr. Spelman for several MSS. £9 0 0 0’. Now MS. e Mus. 89.

A transcript of archbp. Ussher’s collectanea ‘de veterum scriptis genuinis et supposititiis . . . volumen I’, the original of which is Harl. MS. 822 in the British Museum: beg. ‘Dionysius Areopagita. Dionysii nomine circumferuntur . . .’ (p. 1). This is wrongly referred to by dr. Elrington in Ussher’s Works, vol. i, p. 320, as transcribed by dr. Langbaine. See also nos. 30295–6.

Nos. 3683–4 were bought in 1675 for £30 (libr. accts.). Now MS. e Mus. 46.

3684. (218). In Latin and Greek, on paper: written in the 1st half of the 17th cent. by archb. Ussher and others: 13 ¾ × 8 ¾ in., iv+1246 pages in double columns: binding, contemporary brown leather with roll-produced border.

The second volume (see no. 3683) of Ussher’s collections on the patristic writings. At the end has been added a ‘Catalogus MSS. in musseo D. Thome Gravii S.T.D. nuper defuncti Sept. 1676’ (p. 1241).

Acquired as no. 3683.
Now MS. e Mus. 47.

3685. (219). In French, on parchment: written about 1400 in France: 12 ½ × 9 ½ in., iii+250 leaves in double columns, with one half-page miniature.

The French version of ‘Le songe du Vergier’, a treatise on the limits of spiritual and temporal jurisdiction, probably by Philippe de Maizières, in two books with table of chapters at end (fol. 235v). For the original French translation written in 1378 see Cat. of Royal MSS. in the British
On fol. iii the work is ascribed by Justell to Charles V of France: Beg. 'Audite sompnium meum quod vidi. Ces paroles sont escriptes' (fol. 1).

Bibliothecae Christophori Justelli’ (fol. 1). Acquired by the Bodleian in 1675, by the gift of his son Henry Justell, as nos. 3686–91. Now MS. e Mus. 43.

3686-8. (220–2)
In Latin, on parchment: written in the late 6th cent. probably in Italy: 10½ x 7 in., xiv+33 leaves, of which i–xii and 29–33 are paper (3686), v+66 leaves, of which i–iii, 64–6 are paper (3687), iv+54, of which i–iv and 54 are paper (3688): binding, 17th-cent. white parchment.

Three MSS. of ecclesiastical canons, comprising the councils of Ancyra, Neocaesarea, Nicaca, Carthage, Ephesus, Sardica, Gangra, Antioch, Chalcedon, Constantinople, and Rimini in the ‘Prisca’ version. These MSS., written in a fine uncial hand probably in Italy, formed, together with a fourth section now at Paris (infra), a volume owned by Fleury and split up into the present sections by Christopher Justell preparatory to his editio princeps of 1661 (Bibliotheca juris canonici veteris, ed. Henry Justell, i. 275–304), as shown by C. H. Turner in the Journal of Theological Studies, xxx, no. 120 (July, 1929), pp. 337–46, which see for a detailed account.

3686. Beg. ‘Incipiunt capitula [cartaginensis concilia added later]. De statuta Nicaeni concilii observanda’ (fol. 1).

On the last page of this section is the take-off ‘incipit capitula libri epigrammatvm sci Prosperi’, from the first page of a manuscript, now lat. 11326 in the Bibl. nat., which has the inscription ‘Bibliothecae Sedanensis ex dono Christophori Justelli’. A photograph of this has been inserted as fol. 51e. Each of the present sections bears on fol. i the inscription ‘Bibliothecae Christophori Justelli’. See Traube, Vorlesungen, i. 211; Macray, Annals of the Bodleian, p. 143; and Maassen in Sitzungsberichte d. Wiener Akad., lvi. 187–90.

Owned by Fleury in the 9th century according to an erased note on the margin of the last page of each gathering: ‘Hic est liber sancti Benedicti abbatis de Floriaco monasterii.’ In the possession of Christopher Justell (d. 1649), and given by his son Henry to the Bodleian in 1675, as nos. 3685, 3689–91. Now MSS. e Mus. 100–2.

In Latin, on parchment: written in the 9th cent. in France: 9½ x 8½ in., xv+79 leaves, of which foll. i–xv, 65–79 are 17th cent. blank paper: binding, 17th-cent. brown leather, gold-tooled.
A copy of the Dionysio-Hadriana, namely the councils without the decreets, of which no. 893 is another 9th-cent. copy. This MS. was used by Justell, who at that time possessed it, for his Bibliotheca Iuris Canonici Veteris, i. 101–74 (P. 10. Th. is a copy of this with MS. collation). The heading, in Roman capitals, is: 'Incipit prefatio in canones sanctorum apostolorum. In nomine domini.' Text, in half-uncials, beg. 'Domino venerando mihi patri Stefano episcopo Dyonisius exiguus in domino salutem' (fol. 1). At fol. 64v is the beginning of the penitentiale Parisiense of which only one MS. was known to Wasser­schleben (p. 412), and that without a title.

'Bibliothecae Christophori Iustelli' is on fol. 1, which also contains 'oremus' (10th cent.) and an erased inscription. This was apparently part of Henry Justell's donation in 1675, as nos. 3685–8, 3690–1.

Now MS. e Mus. 103.

3690. (224). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 10th cent.: 8 × 6 5/16 in., ii+118 (really 119) leaves.

'De cavendis vitiis et virtutibus exercendis', here without title, of archbp. Hincmar of Rheims, with prefatory letter of dedication to Charles the Bald as in Migne, Patr. Lat., tom. cxxv, col. 857: beg. 'Domino Karolo regi glorioso Hincmarus, nomine non merito Remorum episcopus, ac plebis dei famulus' (fol. 1), repeated on an added paper leaf now fol. 4 in a 17th-cent. hand. At fol. 10 is inserted a letter of Gregory the Great to Reccared, king of the Visigoths: beg. 'Explere verbis' as in Migne, tom. lxvii, col. 1053, after which follows without rubric or break the text of the 'de cavendis vitiis': beg. 'Et de misericordia operibus' (fol. 14, at bottom). On fol. 117 are many 'probationes pennae'. A later hand falsely heads the work 'Epistole Ieronimi' (fol. 1).

Given to the Bodleian as nos. 3685–9, 3691.

Now MS. e Mus. 157.

3691. (225). In French, on parchment: written in the 16th cent. in France: 12 × 9 in., ii+81 leaves, illuminated throughout: binding, red leather blind-tooled and stamped with the fleur-de-lys and leopard.

Shields of arms, in colour, by the French royal herald Montjoie: 'Livre du Roy d'armes Monjoye, des armoiries par luy recuillies. En ce liu[e], qui contient soixante douze feillets de parchemin, sont plu­zieurs armoiries de certains royaumes de l'Europe, des cent cinquante chevaliers de la table ronde, et de plu­zieurs duc[s], comtes, marquis, chatelains, barons, et autres seigneurs et gentilshommes de divers provinces des royaumes de France Angleterre et Ecosse . . .,' with table of contents (fol. 1). The shields of arms, in colour, begin, 'Galaad, Per­se­ual, Lancelot du Lac . . . ' (fol. 4). Between foll. 2–4 has been inserted a treatise addressed to 'mon trescher . . . frere prince de Vienne' on Arthurian tournaments, written in a slightly earlier bastard hand, also with shields of the knights of the Round Table, the text beg. 'Donc ce que toutes bonnes meurs sont regies par vertus’ (fol. 3) and followed by the motto ‘Le moiën’.

Acquired as nos. 3685–90. Fol. 3 has ‘Ex libris Henrici Justelli’. On fol. i is an obliterated inscription.

Now MS. e Mus. 78.

3692. (226). In Middle English, on paper: written in the early 16th cent. in England: $8\frac{1}{2} \times 6\frac{1}{8}$ in., v + 176 leaves.

Devotional pieces in Middle English verse, comprising a (fol. 1) prayers to all the Patriarchs and Saints, viz. Adam (fol. 1v), Abell (fol. 2), Enok (fol. 2v), Noe (fol. 3), Melchisedech (fol. 3v), &c., with prologue: beg. ‘The gret gloriuse saynte and holy doctore Saint Jerome’ (fol. 1), and some rough pen-and-ink drawings: b (fol. 108v) a poem, beg. imperfect, on ‘King Herre the eight of fair Yngland’, printed in Thomas Wright’s Reliquiae Antiquiae, ii. 117, followed by a poem on the ‘Com-myng of ser John Mandevelle, beg. ‘Upon a tym when ser John Mandevelle’ (fol. 111v), printed in Wright, op. cit., ii. 113, and in Hazlitt’s Early Popular Poetry of England (1864), p. 153: d (fol. 116) a verse rendering with prose preface of the hundred meditations found in MS. Bodley 88, foll. 79v–86, as a supplement to the Horologium Sapientiae of Henricus Suso: prol. beg. ‘The wurshipfulle discipulle of Godde’ (fol. 116), text beg. ‘Haylle benigne lorde Crist Jesu’ (fol. 117v): e (fol. 140) two miracle plays for Easter, ‘Burial of Christ’ and ‘Resurrection’, beg. ‘A soule that list to singe of love’ (fol. 140), and ‘Mawdleyne begynnes sayinge: This grete hevynese and payne’ (fol. 156v), printed by Wright, op. cit., ii. 124, and for the New Shakspere Society (1882) with the Digby Mysteries.

Acquired by the Bodleian before 1680.

Now MS. e Mus. 160.

3694. (228). In English, on paper: written in 1639 by sir H. Spelman in England: $11\frac{1}{2} \times 8$ in., xvii + 138 pages: binding, contemporary white parchment.

The MS. of Spelman’s work on Knight Service, published at London, 1641. ‘Of feuds and tenures by knight service, their original growth, propagation, condition, generally beyond the seas, particularly here in England, written by Sir Henry Spelman, knight, in supportation of a passage touching them in his Glossarie. A.D. 1639’ (p. xiii), a table of chapters (p. xvii): beg. ‘In the great case of tenures upon the Comission of defective titles’ (p. 1).

Acquired as nos. 3693, 3695–6.

Now MS. e Mus. 79.
3695. (229). In Latin, on paper: written in 1614 by sir Henry Spelman in England: \(11 \times 6\frac{1}{2}\) in., ix+57 leaves.

'The Original of the [law] termes, by sir Henry Spelman, knight, A.D. 1614' (fol. iv), preceded by 'The occasion of this discourse. About 42 yeares sithenne' (fol. 1). Text beg. 'As our lawe bookees have nothing to my knowledg' (fol. 3). The Society of Antiquaries, for whom this MS. was prepared in 1614, was suppressed before it was read, so that it was not published till 1684. At fol. 31 has been inserted a transcript of a 13th-cent. writ, made by Dugdale in 1633.

Acquired as nos. 3693-4, 3696.
Now MS. e Mus. 107.

3696. (230). In English, on paper: written before 1643 by sir John Spelman, perhaps at Oxford: \(12\frac{3}{8} \times 8\) in., iii+68 leaves.

The original MS. of sir John Spelman's life of king Alfred the Great, of which no. 10841 is a mid-17th-cent. transcript, hence printed by Thomas Hearne (Oxford, 1709), beg. 'If I had taken in hand' (fol. 4).

Acquired as nos. 3693-5.
Now MS. e Mus. 75.

3697. (231). In French, on parchment, written in the 15th cent. in England: \(10\frac{1}{2} \times 7\frac{1}{2}\) in., 120 leaves: with one miniature of Brute the Trojan (?), an illuminated border, capitals, &c.: imperfect.

'Ci comence Brut', the so-called Brut Chronicle of England, in French, with some English glosses: beg. (fol. 5) 'En la citee de Troye il y aueit vn noble chiualer fort & vaillant de corps qui aueit a noun Eneas': ends abruptly in the year 1327 with the words 'fuist espose a Euerwyk le dimange', some leaves being lost, though part of what seems to be the last leaf of the treatise, badly torn, is fol. 119. This appears to be the first form of the chronicle in its second state, and has on fol. 1-5 the greater part of the prologue (in octosyllabic verse, written as usual as if prose but with marks at the end of each verse) on the giants who inhabited Britain in early times: but all before the words 'entre ses braz & beise & fist greignunt solaz', one leaf being lost. Almost all of fol. 10 is torn out. See Paul Meyer in the Bulletin de la Soc. des Anciens Textes Français, iv. 104-45 (1878), but he had not seen this MS.

There is 16th-cent. scribbling on foll. 4, 9, 14\(v\), 15\(v\), 41, 117\(v\), 119\(v\), with the name of 'John Symson' and others. On fol. 1 is 'Pawb yn Ærver. Tho: Herbert 1589', and on fol. 5 the same motto and the name of sir 'Tho: Herbert' who gave the book in 1666.

Now MS. e Mus. 108.

3698-9. (232-3). In Latin, on paper: written about 1630 by J. Verneuil: \(7\frac{1}{4} \times 5\) in.

An interleaved copy of a 1619 edition of the Authorized Version of the Bible, on the blank leaves of which John Verneuil, sub-librarian of the Bodleian Library c. 1614-47, has entered in double columns an index of texts of English sermons with their Bodleian shelf-marks: apparently a draft of his Nomenclator of such Tracts and Sermons as have been printed or translated into English (Oxford, 1637).

These two volumes may be regarded as having come into the Library upon Verneuil’s death in 1647.

Now Bib. Eng. 1619. e. 2-3.

3700. (234). In Latin, on parchment: written late in the 13th cent. in England (?): 5½ x 4 in., 719 leaves: with illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, brown stamped leather with royal arms and garter and ‘Deus det nobis suam pacem et post mortam [sic] vitam etemam’, with brass clasps, English work of the 1st half of the 16th cent. (not unlike Weale’s South Kensington Bookbindings, pt. 2 [1898], English Rubbings 171), repaired.

A Latin Vulgate Bible, with prologues of st. Jerome. The New Testament begins at fol. 569v. A leaf is wanting after fol. 290, bearing the beginning of the Psalms, which are here in an abbreviated form. Foll. 1, 2, 718, 719 are fragments from a 14th-cent. Gradual.

‘Florentiss. Oxoniensisibus Humillime donavit Foxius Glocestriens. An. MDCLXX.’

Now MS. Auct. D. 5. 7.

3702. (236). In French, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 15th cent. in England: 6¼ x 4½ in., vi + 107 leaves: with illuminated capitals, &c.

Now MS. e Mus. 235.

3703. (237). In Latin, on paper: made up of two MSS. written in the 15th cent. in France: 6½ x 5½ in., iii + 49 leaves.

A (1st half of the 15th cent.) 1 (fol. 1). ‘Opusculum de ruina & desolacione ecclesie tempore scismatis per Nicholaum de Clamengis ecclesie Baioecensis cantorem editum': preceded by a (later) list of chapters: the usual title is De corrupto ecclesiae statu.

Now MS. e Mus. 213.

3704. (238). In Latin, on paper: written in 1591–3 at Mainz by P. Kreutle: 7½ x 6½ in., ii+70 leaves.

Latin Biblical commentaries or notes taken by Pancratius Kreutle, student at Mainz University, of theological lectures delivered by Jean Busée (Busaeus) in 1591–3:

1 (fol. 1). In Epistolam d. Pauli apostoli ad Romanos, with preface and prolegomena.

2 (fol. 43). In Epistolam d. Pauli ad Galatas.

3 (fol. 50). In prophetam Iob.

A Latin sermon by Arnoldus Arnsbergensis (name added) in superbiam has been added by another hand at fol. 67: beg. ‘Aetatis suae considerans flagitia’.

Taken in 1631 from the Jesuits’ college at Würzburg, where the writer (d. 1638) was professor. Presented by archbp. Wm. Laud as part of his first donation of MSS. in 1635.

Now MS. Laud misc. 759.

3705. (239). In Latin, on parchment: written early in the 15th cent. at Oxford by John ‘Cokkes’ (for whom see Opera hactenus inedita R. Bacon, fasc. ix, p. xi): 9½ x 6 in., iv+704 pages: with illuminated border (p. 591), capitals, &c.: binding, white leather on boards, with sheepskin cover, contemporary English work.

Scientific treatises by or attributed to Roger Bacon:

1 (p. 1). The Opus Tertium, in seventy-five chapters: beg. ‘Sanc­tissimo patri domino domino Clementi’: a leaf is lost after p. 2: at end is ‘Explicit quod Cokkes’.

2 (p. 185). The fourth part of the Opus Majus, on the usefulness of mathematics, with diagrams: the only title is ‘Pars quarta, in qua ostenditur potestas mathematicae . . .’: beg. ‘Manifesto quod multe preclare radi­ces’: ends with the geographical part at ‘requirat principalem scripturam’.

there is a calendrical table at p. 276b. The signatures appear to be wrongly assigned so that some leaves have been wrongly bound: the continuous text reads as follows: pp. 185–94, 219–22, 199–218, 195–8, 223–414. This MS. appears not to have been used by editors.

3 (p. 414). The treatise of Petrus Peregrinus de Maricourt de Magnete, here without title or author's name; beg. 'Amicorum intime'; with a considerable addition at the end of the usual text.

4 (p. 431). Liber de consideracione quintae essentiae, by a Franciscan of Toulouse, often ascribed to Johannes de Rupescissa, here to Bacon; in three books, see pp. 471, 496, but a leaf is lost after p. 496: at end 'Explicit liber 3* de consideracio* quinta essencie secundum magistrum Rogerum Bacon correctus et scriptus per Johannem Cokkes manibus suis propriis Oxonie' (but books 1–2 are only corrected by him). At p. 507 follow some additions to the first book: beg. 'Ista subscripta sequerentur post capitulum de hijs que expellunt venenum': at end 'Explicitiunt canones isti &c.'.

5 (p. 513). 'Breue breuiarium fratris Rogeri Bacon de dono Dei &c.:' beg. 'Breue breuiarium breuiter abreuiatum', an alchemical treatise, in two parts. As in art. 2 there is perturbation of leaves: the text runs pp. 513–28, 553–60, 537–52, 529–36, 561. In the colophon Bacon is called 'Anglicanorum philosophorum doctor inenarrabilis'. At p. 535 is a short treatise 'Diversitates ignium secundum eundem Cokkes': beg. 'Quedam autem loca hostilia': a recipe for the 'magnus ignis Grecus' is at p. 536.

6 (p. 569). 'Hec est practica ad faciendum aquam vite', with a reference to a passage on p. 438: beg. 'Accipe tres lagenas vini': at end 'Ista sunt compilata . . . ad exemplar originale extracta ex diuersorum dictis philosophorum medicine artis que scrispit primo frater The[odor]icus ordinis Predicatorum episcopus Ceruensis Romanale [sic] iuxta Bononiam. Deo gracias &c. Explicit &c. Cokkys': the above Theoderic is believed to be really Theodericus Catalanus who was never a bishop. Some paragraphs on balsam and oleum benedictum follow on pp. 576, 579.

10 (p. 689). ‘Frater Rogerus Bacon in libro 6. scienciarum in 3º gradu sapiencie . . . sic ait In debito regimine . . . ’: ends ‘vtilissime in hoc mundo &c.’, this is believed to be from vol. iii of the Compendium Philosophiae: followed on p. 695 by another extract, from the sixth part of Bacon’s Opus Majus, beg. ‘Corpora vero Ade’, ends, a leaf or two being lost, on p. 700, ‘Regis baiulus rece-’. Both passages deal with the prolongation of life.

The signatures and quires divide the volume into six parts, beginning at pp. 1, 185, 431, 497 (?), 569, 591.

‘The names of the Knights and Burgesses of Parliament held at Westminster, 5to Octobris, 1º Mariae’, i.e. 1553, in Latin, title corrected in dr. Gerard Langbaine’s hand.

Probably bequeathed as no. 3676. Now MS. eMus. 17.

3707. (241). In English, on paper: written about 1640: 7½ × 6 in., iii+15 leaves.

‘Mr. George Sand[ys] [given as Band in the 1697 Catalogue] on the Canticles’, a metrical paraphrase of the Song of Solomon published in 1641: beg. ‘Joyne thy life-breathing lipps to mine’.

Perhaps acquired about 1641. Now MS. eMus. 201.

Two degree theses, by John Reynolds headed a (fol. 2) ‘Praelectio prima’, on Colossians ii. 8: beg. ‘Etsi neque vestra forsan expectatio’, and b (fol. 9) ‘Ultima pralectio, de fidei controversiis’: beg. ‘Egressos ex Ægypto filios Israelis’. A nearly contemporary note on fol. 1 states, ‘D. Rainolds his first solemne lecture for this degree. Seeke out the rest. Perhaps the Archbishop hath them among the rest.’

Acquired by the Library before 1683. Now MS. eMus. 142.

3709. (243). In Latin, on paper: written in the 2nd half of the 16th cent. by J. Stow: 8 × 6½ in., 28 leaves: a small printed title-label is on the original paper cover (fol. 3).
'Roberti Talboti Annotationes in eam partem itinerarii Antonij quae ad Britanniam pertinet', transcribed by John Stow the chronicler, as was rightly conjectured by Thomas Hearne (Itinerary of John Leland, 1711, vol. iii, p. iv), by whom this MS. was published: interleaved with blank paper. About A.D. 1630 William Burton of Kingston-on-Thames added collations from another MS. copy of the same work then in the possession of John Langley of Broseley, co. Salop: see note by Burton on fol. 5.

'88' in the library of Thomas Allen of Gloucester hall (d. 1632). '••• Degoreus Whear, Aulae Glocestrensis Principalis ... cui concessa erat Bibliothecæ Thomæ Alleni inspectio atque cura, libellum hunc rogatus dono mihi dedit. Ego autem ... Gerardo Langbaine et Thomæ Barlowe in Bibliotheca Bodleiana reponentem transmisi si illis videbitur. Gulielmus Burton (d. 1657): so the MS. came into the Library in 1632-7.

Now MS. e Mus. 188.

3710. (244). In Latin, on paper: written about A.D. 1555: 8 1/2 × 6 in., xii + 56 pages.

Richard Argentine 'Ad Oxonienses et Cantabrigienses pro Lingua Arabica ... restituetunda', a plea for the study of Arabic, in the form of a Latin dialogue between Oxford and Cambridge, with two prefaces, dated at Ipswich, April 21 and 23, 1555.

 Probably bequeathed by dr. Gerard Langbaine (d. Feb. 10, 1653), by whom there is a Latin note on p. vi.

Now MS. e Mus. 200.

3711. (245). In English, on paper: written in 1608-41 chiefly by D. Fitzherbert: 8 1/2 × 6 1/4 in., xv + 38 leaves: in contemporary binding of limp parchment stamped 'DF'.

Original papers by or addressed to Dionysia Fitzherbert: a (fol. vi) description and interpretation of a celestial phenomenon seen at Amesbury, co. Wilts., October 1615; b (fol. viii) epistle to the Church of England on the subject of virginity, A.D. 1635, fair copy and (fol. x) author's draft; c (fol. xiv) letter from dr. Edw. Chetwynd, dean of Bristol (d. 1639), to miss Fitzherbert, torn in places, a copy is in no. 1970 at fol. I; d (fol. 1) twelve original papers by miss Fitzherbert of which copies are in no. 1970. At fol. v is a letter from the same to John Rouse, Bodley's Librarian, presenting the MS. to the Library, May 6, 1641. Rouse has furnished a table of contents at fol. 1.

'Dionys Fitzherbert her booke': presented by her as above, together with a drawing of the phenomenon described at fol. vi; this last is recorded as kept, about 1680, 'in the closet in the gallery'.

Now MS. e Mus. 166. 164.

3712. (246). In Latin and French, on parchment: written in the 2nd quarter of the 14th cent. in England: 7 × 6 in., i + 175 leaves: with illuminated border, capitals, &c.: binding, red leather without boards (see below), contemporary English work.
Registrum Brevium, a collection of forms of writs on various subjects, each usually beginning with a 'regula', followed by examples, some added: but there is no natural sequence of subjects nor index. The first example is a deed of 1333, and another of the same date is added at fol. 47v. One deed (added) on fol. 36 notifies an excommunication by Robert de Stratford chancellor of the University of Oxford (1335–8).

A Latin extract from ‘Bernardus’ (fol. 171v) and (fol. 172) a Middle English poem of 126 lines on the worldliness of the secular clergy and on the popular taste for romances (beg. '3if pat lorel lordes pis understode, And pis bisshoppis pat cunne litel gode') have been entered in a late 14th-cent. hand on the fly-leaves, but the writing is half effaced. The English poem recurs in MS. Ashmole 60, foll. 97, 4v.

The binding contained various fragments of MS. and unwritten parchment which are now bound as MS. e. Mus. 198*, below.

3712*. In Latin, on parchment: made up of various pieces written in the 14th cent. in England: 7½ x 5½ in., ii + 20 leaves.

Four fragments of two copies of a Latin notarial instrument recording a dispute between the Carmelites and the Dominicans in the matter of John de Berhamst[ed?], a professed Carmelite, who with John de Otindone alias de Oxon became a Dominican: the instrument is of A.D. 1304 and was drawn up and witnessed, probably at Oxford, by Nicholäüs de la Gare, notary public, at the instance of Thomas Barna . . ., an Oxford Dominican. Foll. 5–8 are four fragments of a 14th-cent. Gradual, written on one side of the parchment only. Foll. 9–10 are two perhaps rejected pieces of half-prepared parchment, some of the calf's hair still remaining on them.

Taken from the binding of no. 3712 in A.D. 1912. Now MS. e Mus. 198*.

3714. (248). = Qu. Catal. xii (Hebrew), no. 1349 (Abuhamed Algazali De opinionibus Philosophorum: this seems to be the MS. referred to as 'Mahomet de rebus Physicis et Astrologiciis Heb.' in 1605, becoming 'Arabic' in 1620 with the author's name also as 'Abuhamet, filius Mahomet, Tunctensis': if so, it probably came to the Library in 1603–5). Now MS. Bodl. Or. 49.

3720. (254). = Qu. Catal. xii (Hebrew), no. 1348 (Logic). Now MS. Bodl. Or. 42. This seems to be the MS. referred to as 'Mahomet de Rebus Naturalibus Heb.' in 1605, becoming 'Arabic' in 1620: if so, it probably came to the Library in 1603-5.

3732. (266). In Old Slavonic, on parchment: written in the 15th cent.: 7½ x 5½ in., 1+217 leaves: contemporary binding, stamped brown leather on bevelled boards, with two straps.

The Psalter in Old Slavonic, with canticles at the end.

Given by Thomas Smith (whose signature is on fol. 1) S.T.D., of Magdalen college, in 1683.

Now MS. e Mus. 184.

The corrected page-proofs of the first volume of Spelman's Glossarium (published 1626), with the MS. of the rest (published 1664) from M-R. There are slight additions throughout by Dugdale, who prepared the work for the press.

This, as no. 3734, may be a gift of 1637 (Macray, Annals, p. 89), but more probably came after 1664.

Now MS. e Mus. 48.

The second volume of sir Henry Spelman's Concilia (1666–1530), as stated by Dugdale on fol. iii, 'The originall Copye of Sir Henry Spelman's Counsellcs vol: 2.' Many transcripts are begun (e.g. foll. 7, 9, 25, 31) by Spelman and continued by secretaries, but headings throughout and underlining in red ink as well as part of the text, are by Dugdale (e.g. fol. 1). For collections towards a third volume see no. 6522.

Probably acquired as no. 3733.
Now MS. e Mus. 49.

3735. (269). In Latin, on parchment: written in 1660 in England: 2 ft. 10½ in. × 1 ft. 8½ in., kept in box 13½ × 7½ in.

Letters patent under the Great Seal being a commission to the right honourable sir Edward Hyde, lord chancellor of England, to visit the university of Oxford. Dated July 23, 1660. With Great Seal in brown wax, attached by parchment strips. There is a portrait of Charles ii within the initial 'C'.

This document first appears in the handlist of 1687.
Now MS. e Mus. 246.

The original register of the Parliamentary Visitors of the University of Oxford, Sept. 30, 1647–April 8, 1658, hence edited for the Camden Soc. in 1881 by prof. Montagu Burrows: beg. 'A warrant for Bookes and Writings. Wee the Visitors of this Vniversity' (p. 1).

Perhaps given between 1683 and 1687 by the executors of Ralph Austen, registrar to the Commission, whose name is on the inner front cover.
Now MS. e Mus. 77.

3737. (271). In English and Latin, on parchment: written in the 2nd half of the 15th cent. in England: 6½ × 5 in., iv+38 leaves: binding, red leather on boards, with sunken panel on front cover from which the contents have been removed and a painting added of Christ crucified (see further no. 3865, p. 148), 16th cent. English work.

Customs of the stews in the bishop of Winchester's liberty in Southwark, written for William Corun, the bishop's steward from 1461 to 1485 (fol. 38), preceded by a Sarum calendar (fol. 1), and the gospel 'Missus est angelus' (fol. 13). The customs, in English with some Latin rubrics, are headed: 'This act ... was made ... in the parliament holden atte Westminster in the viij yere of the reigne of king Henry the secund by alle the assent of the commons. ... Theobaldus pan beyng archbishop of Caunterbury [d. 1160] and Thomas Beket pan beyng archdeacon of the same' (fol. 14). Text beg. 'We ordeyne and make to the seid lordys avayle' (fol. 14v). At fol. 26 follow 'Questions for to be made of þe stue-holders and euery of theym' and on fol. 28v 'the ordinances

Harl. 293, fol. 68, in the British Museum: text beg. 'Furst they ordeynge that the lordis baylly that now is' (fol. 29). A transcript of a royal writ dated February 10, 2 Ed. [iv] is on fol. 33'. Memoranda on fol. ii begin 'Deliveryd on Monday next aftyr Blak Monday a bote with a payr of orys'. Leaves have been cut out between foll. 17-18, 36-7.

Owned by William Corun, by whom the scribbings on fol. 38 were apparently written. Presented to the Library by Mr. John Ledgard of Queen's college, Oxford, August 1689 (fol. i).

Now MS. e Mus. 229.

HUNTINGTON MSS.

(Nos. 3738-3772)

Robert Huntington, born in 1638, was educated at Merton College, whence he took his B.A. degree in 1653, and of which he was elected a fellow about 1663. Becoming chaplain to the Levant company at Aleppo on August 1, 1670, he remained in the East for over ten years, in the course of which he visited Palestine, Cyprus, and Egypt. During this period he corresponded—his letters were published by his friend Thomas Smith in 1704—with Edward Pococke, Edward Bernard, Narcissus Marsh, and bishop Fell. For Marsh and Fell, as also for Thomas Marshall, he acquired many MSS., and at the same time built up a great oriental collection. The thirty-five MSS. described below were given by him to the Library in 1678, 1680, and 1683: the remaining 646 were bought in 1693 for £752 10s. and are listed below as nos. 5748-6374.

Returning to Merton in 1681, Huntington took his B.D. and D.D. degrees in 1683, and in the same year accepted the provostship of Trinity college, Dublin. In 1688 he fled from Ireland, but returned after the Battle of the Boyne. He afterwards became bishop of Raphoe, but died only twelve days after his consecration on September 2, 1701.

Huntington had also given fourteen MSS. to Merton, and many to Trinity college, Dublin. Those which reached the Bodleian were catalogued by a mr. Clarke in 1694, together with the Pococke collection. The present shelf-marks correspond with the numeration in the Oriental Catalogue. For some notes on valuable features of the collection see Macray, Annals of the Bodleian Library, pp. 161-3. According to Pointer, Oxon. Acad., 1749, p. 196, Huntington also gave coins to the Coin Room.

MISCELLANEOUS MSS. AND

GREAVES MSS.

(Nos. 3773–3837)

Thomas Greaves became 'deputy professor of the Arabic lecture in the absence of Mr Edward Pocock' in 1637 (Wood's Athenae, ed. Bliss, iii. 1061). He was at that time a fellow of Corpus Christi college, whence he had taken his B.A. degree in 1639. He took his B.D. in 1641 and his doctorate in 1661. After holding a succession of country rectories he died at Weldon in Northamptonshire on May 22, 1676. In the same year the Schools account contains the item 'To Mr Hyde for his journey to view Dr Greaves's bookes'. The collection, as purchased by the Library in 1678, should have comprised sixty-five MSS. and printed books, chiefly oriental, but the 1697 Catalogue states that some of these were not sent (see nos. 3816–22 below). No evidence has been found that the missing volumes ever came into the Library. According to a note made by Hyde in 1668 at the end of no. 3791, that volume and others were formerly owned by John Greaves, the professor of astronomy and brother of the orientalist (who was John's executor). Two of Greaves's MSS. were written by his friend Richard James, who had died in 1638, and the rest of James's notes, now forming a separate collection (nos. 3838–80), were acquired through Greaves. Some of Greaves's correspondence is in MS. Smith 93 (cf. 95).

JAMES MSS.

Richard James, born in 1592 in the Isle of Wight, was the nephew of Thomas James, Bodley's first librarian. He matriculated as a commoner at Exeter college, but migrated to Corpus as a scholar, and thence took his B.A. degree in 1611. In 1615 he was elected to a fellowship. For some years James travelled extensively in Wales and Scotland and on the continent, going to Russia as chaplain to sir Dudley Digges. At some time before 1623, when he was already engaged upon his life of Becket, he returned to Oxford. In 1624 he was working with Selden on the Arundel marbles, and about 1628 became librarian to sir Robert Cotton, whose collection, now in the British Museum, still bears marks of his industry. In this capacity he earned the scorn of sir Simonds D'Ewes, who described him as 'a short, red-bearded, high-coloured fellow' and states that 'James, being a needy sharking companion, and very expensive, . . . let out or lent most precious manuscripts for money to any that would be his customers'. One such bargain cost him dear, for he and Cotton and others were imprisoned for circulating a political tract. He must, however, have increased his patron's collection in equally dubious ways, for he more than once refers to MSS. as at 'Magd. Coll.' which are now in the Cottonian library. The forty-four volumes catalogued below are collectanea, with a strong Protestant bias, largely from manuscript historical sources. Other MSS. in his hand are nos. 3450, 3835–6, and notes by him are in the MSS. nos. iii, xxii, and xxiv of his friend Brian Twayne’s Collectanea. James died on December 28, 1638, but his MSS. did not come to the Library till forty years later, with the collection of his friend Thomas Greaves (see before no. 3773).

3838. In Latin, on paper: written about 1620–30 by Richard James: $12\frac{1}{2} \times 8\frac{1}{2}$ in., xviii+780 pages.

A life by Richard James of st. Thomas à Becket entitled ‘De canonizatione Thome Cantuariensis et suorum’, beg. ‘Ad lectorem: Amice letctor: rogatus sum saepius’ (p. xv), and ‘Viam regiam mihi patefacit’ (p. 1). There are appendixes and notes (p. 632) followed by an analytical index at p. 773 by Thomas Greaves, whose further MS. notes are on pp. iii–v. See Iter Lancastrense, edited for the Chetham Society by the rev. Thomas Corser (1845), pp. iii, cvi.

Now MS. James 1.

3839. In Latin, on paper: written by Richard James about 1620–34: iv+186, ii+‘232’ (really 192), and 194 pages: $6\frac{3}{4} \times 6\frac{1}{4}$ in., three MSS. in one volume.

Historical excerpts by Richard James, from MSS. and printed books, of which the following are the more important:

1. The letters of st. Thomas à Becket in Cott. MS. Claud. B. 2 (p. 1), Giraldus Cambrensis from Cott. MS. Tib. B. xiii now in part destroyed by fire (p. 11), the Historia Aurea of John of Tynemouth in no. 2469 (p. 56), extracts from Harl. MS. 978 at that time penes dr. [Edward] Lapworth (p. 84), excerpts from the printed works of Felix Hemmerli (p. 94), and shorter notes from MSS. 3705 (p. 120), 2322 (p. 131), 2613 (p. 133), 2677 (p. 135), and others, as specified in the Old Catalogue.

2. Short extracts from MSS. of Capgrave’s Legend (p. 1), Robert Grosseteste’s letters (p. 23), the letter-book of Peter de Vineis (p. 57), the works of William of St. Amour (p. 64), ‘Quaedam defloratio decretalium’ (p. 105), Herbert of Bosham’s life of st. Thomas à Becket (p. 113), a list of Durham cathedral relics by Robert Hegg (p. 129), Henry vii’s Will (p. 146), the ‘De Claustro Animae’ of Hugh de Folieto (p. 150), the letters of Senatus Wigorniensis in no. 1966 (p. 179), Lucianus ‘de Laude Cestriae’ in no. 3005 (p. 189), and from the ‘liber beate Mariae de Overey’, i.e. Southwark, at that time at Magdalen college, Oxford, but now Cott. MS. Faust. A. viii in the British Museum (p. 207).

3. Extracts from the letters in no. 3088 (p. 1); the letters of John of Salisbury, in the library of Jean Papire Masson (d. 1611) and so probably... from the MS. now Lat. 8625 at Paris (p. 69); the Policraticus (p. 81) and Metalogicus (p. 106); the letters of Arnulf of Lisieux (p. 113) and Peter of Blois (p. 122). At fol. 146 begin extracts from a MS. said to be at Magdalen college—but not now there—of the 'Dialogus inter Quaeren- tem et Solventem' printed in the works of Giraldus Cambrensis (Rolls Series) iii. 101 as 'De Jure et Statu Menevensis Ecclesiae Dialogus' from the two known MSS. in the Cottonian collection.

In § 2, pp. 69–89, 150–71 are each one page.

Now MS. James 2.

3840. In Latin and English, on paper: written about 1620–36 by Richard James: $8\frac{1}{3} \times 6\frac{1}{3}$ in., xxiii+'36o' (really 362) pages.

Extracts from MSS. by or concerning John Wycliffe, including ‘an old English treatise of Christ’s church, perhaps by Wycliffe’ beg. ‘Christ’s church hath thrice parted one in bliss with him’ (p. 1), followed by notes from the ‘De Mandatis’ in no. 2245 (p. 89), from ‘de veritate sacre scripture’ in no. 3021 (p. 107), treatises in no. 1972 (p. 228) and no. 1843 (p. 234), William Woodford’s writings against Wycliffe, in no. 2766 (p. 261), ‘articuli Wyclifi ex MS. Thome Allen’ (p. 304), articles ‘ex MS. dr. Hackwell’ in no. 2262 (p. 325), and Wycliffe’s dialogue, ‘ex MS. Regio’ but not apparently now among the Royal MSS. in the British Museum.

Other extracts, for which no indication of source is given, are mentioned in the table of contents (p. iii) and in the Old Catalogue.

Now MS. James 3.

MSS. FAIRFAX
(Nos. 3882–3909)

The twenty-eight MSS. bequeathed by sir Thomas Fairfax in 1671 form a valuable collection bearing on medieval British history and literature, in part acquired by his uncle Charles Fairfax, the antiquary. As friend and patron of Roger Dodsworth, General Fairfax acquired that vast storehouse of antiquarian learning which comprises the present Dods­ worth collection. This, too, he bequeathed to the Library, and fuller information on the Fairfax family and their collections will therefore be found before no. 4143.

3881. [Under this number the O.C. alludes to the Dodsworth collection, catalogued as nos. 4143-5101. There is thus no MS. Fairfax 1.]

3882. In English, on parchment: written in 1408 in England: 17½ x 11½ in., ii+389 leaves in double columns: binding, brown leather stamped and gold-tooled, with two decorated metal clasps, 17th-cent. English work.

The Bible in English, in the second version of Wyclif, but with prologues in the Old Testament of the earlier version, with a running commentary in the top margin, and numerous glosses. The prologues to Isaiah (here prefixed to Jeremiah) and Baruch are in the later version, and Wisdom has none. Colophon: ‘The err of the Lord m.ccc [c erased] and viii pis book was endid’ (fol. 385). After the Psalms (fol. 188) is a table of lessons, epistles, and gospels for the year, according to the use of Sarum.

Now MS. Fairfax 2.

3883. In English, Latin, and French, on parchment: written about 1400 in England: 13¼ x 9¼ in., ii+197 leaves in double columns, with two miniatures, &c.

The English works of John Gower, with Latin rubrics, in the third recension. Prol. beg. ‘Off hem pat writen ous tofore’ (fol. 2), text beg.
‘Naturatus amor nature legibus orbem’ (fol. 8), followed by verses beg.
‘Quam cinxere freta Gower tua carmina leta’ (fol. 186), the French ‘Tracté’ (fol. 186v), the ‘Carmen de multiplici viciorum pestilencia’
(fol. 190v), the list of Gower’s works, beg. ‘Quia unusquisque’ (fol. 194), and sixteen verses in praise of the author: beg. ‘Eneidos Bucolique Georgica’ (ib.). Fol. 195 is a leaf of a 14th cent. Latin moral treatise from the old binding. The MS. is in three hands, of which the second wrote fol. 1 (to l. 146 of the Prologue) and foll. 186–94. The third hand wrote fol. 41v over an erasure and the inserted leaf 185. For a detailed account see G. C. Macaulay, Gower’s English Works, in E.E.T.S. (1900), especially pp. clvii–clviii, where this MS. (‘F’) is the basis of the text.

‘Sr Thomas Fayrfax of Denton knighte true owner of this booke, 1588’
(fol. 1). This sir Thomas was the grandson of ‘The Ladie Isabell Fairfax daughter and hare of Thwate’ (fol. 2), who was the granddaughter and heirees of John Thwaites of Denton (d. 1511).

Chronicles and lives of saints relating to and for the most part compiled at Durham priory. I (fol. 1) Lives of St. Cuthbert, consisting of: a (fol. 1) ‘Incipit prefatio de ortu beati Cuthberti de historiis hibernensis excerpta et translata’: beg. ‘Cum per annos plurimos’, printed for the Surtees Society (1838) in Miscellanea Biographica, p. 63: b (fol. 8) the metrical Latin life by Bede, for other MSS. of which see Hardy, Materials, i. 299: beg. ‘Alma deo cara primo celestis ab evo’: c (fol. 13) the prose life by Bede in forty-seven chapters, of which chapters 32–47 are excerpted from Bede’s Ecclesiastical History (iv. 30) and of which chap. 47 is a later addition (cp. Hardy, op. cit. i. 317): prol. beg. ‘Domino sancto ac beatissimo’, text beg. ‘Principium nobis scribendi de vita beati Cuthberti’: d (fol. 43v) the life by Reginald, monk of Durham (fl. 1150), printed by the Surtees Society from another MS. (see Hardy, op. cit. i. 307–8): text beg. ‘Venerandus confessor Cuthbertus non mortis dolore’ (fol. 47v).

III (fol. 207). Historical collections relating to Durham, consisting of a (fol. 207) ‘Libellus de iniusta vexatione Willelmii episcopi primi Dunelmensis, per Willelmum [ii] regem’ containing a paragraph (beg. ‘Aderant ibi tunc’) at end (fol. 212) not in the other MS., at Durham University: text beg. ‘Anno ab incarnacione domini millesimo, interfecito a suis parochianis Walchero’: b (fol. 212v) the chronicle of the church of Durham in 184 chapters, probably compiled by Robert de Greystanes in 1336, with a brief continuation in another hand to 1571 in 27 chapters. The first 96 chapters are from Symeon of Durham, with differences as noted in the Rolls Series (i, pp. xvi–xvii) where this MS. is collated as Ff. Chapters 97–107 are the continuation of Symeon to 1144; chapters 108–31 by Geoffrey of Coldingham, and chapters 132–83 by Greystanes himself. Chapter 184, on Richard de Bury, has been attributed to William de Chambre (fl. c. 1375), for whom see the B. O. R. 1933, p. 325. Chapters 108 to the end are printed from the York MS. as Tres Scriptores (Surtees Society). The chronicle is in a hand of the 3rd quarter of the 14th cent. down to the passage concerning de Bury (fol. 281v), which is a 15th-cent. addition: beg. ‘Gloriosi quondam regis’ (fol. 214). It is preceded by the ‘Breve summarium’: beg. ‘Regnante apud Northanhymbros’ (fol. 212v), the ‘Exordium’, and table of contents (fol. 213).

At fol. iv of this MS., of which MS. Laud misc. 700 has been described as a transcript, is an early 16th-cent. list of bishops of Lindisfarne and Durham to 1437 with late 16th-cent. additions to the time of Cuthbert Tunstall, followed by 17th-cent. notes of names, without dates, to Thomas Morton. At fol. vi is a similar list of priors of Durham, with additions to 1519. There is a table of contents (fol. vii) contemporary with the first hand, that of 'Petrus plenus amoris' (cp. fol. 1), who wrote to fol. 159v.

3888. In Latin and Gaelic, on paper quires, of which the outer leaves are of parchment: written in 1489 in Scotland: 11 3/8 x 8 3/8 in., xviii+209 leaves in double columns.

The Liber Pluscardensis or Chronicle of Scotland to 1436, in twelve books, transcribed in 1489 (fol. 120v) from a lost original, which was probably compiled in 1461 at the Cistercian priory of Pluscarden, a cell of Dunfermline, for Richard Bothwell, abbot of Dunfermline, by Maurice Buchanan. The eleventh book was printed for the Maitland Club in 1877 from this MS. by Joseph Stevenson, in 'The Life and Death of King James I of Scotland', and from book 6, cap. xv, to the end was edited by Felix J. H. Skene in Historians of Scotland, vols. vii, viii, where this manuscript is collated as D: beg. 'Honorabilium antecessorum gesta' (fol. xvii). At fol. 188 is a 'Lamentacio domini Dalphini Francie pro morte uxoris dicte Margarete' in twenty-three ten-line stanzas beg. 'Thee mychti Makar of pe maior monde'. The chronicle is followed by later copies of a (fol. 192) an appeal of the University of Paris to the Pope in 1491: b (fol. 198) a list of Scottish monasteries, sent to Fairfax by John Adamson of Edinburgh: c (fol. 201) three bulls of pope Innocent [viii], dated 1487: d (fol. 203) a protest by Adam Forman prior of Dunfermline against a sentence of excommunication dated May 3, 1525: e (fol. 204) Latin verses dedicated to Fairfax in 1656 by Charles Gedde. No. 8915 is a transcript of this work.

The MS. seems to have remained at Dunfermline until at least 1525, passing thence to the Drummonds of Hawthornden, and so to colonel Charles Fairfax in 1650. 'Mr. James Drummond 1650. Gifted this book to Coronall Fairfax the 17 of December, anno 1650' (fol. vii). Further bibliographical notes by Fairfax on fol. vi–vii are printed by Skene, op. cit., pp. xii–xiii. Two leaves are reproduced in facsimile in National MSS. of Scotland, ii (1870), fol. 80.

The Ecclesiastical History of Bede, styled O₅ by Plummer in the Oxford edition, i (1896), p. cxxi. The prefatory letter, beg. ‘Gloriosissimo regi Coeluulfo Beda famulus’ (fol. 4), is followed by the table of chapters (fol. 5). The text beg. ‘Britannia insula cui quondam Albion’ (fol. 6), and is followed by the letter of Cuthbert to Cuthwin on Bede’s death: beg. (after the salutation) ‘Munusculum quod misisti’ (fol. 140v), and by the passion of st. Edmund by Abbo of Fleury: beg. ‘Domino sancto Dorobernensium ecclesie archiepiscopo Dunstano’ (fol. 142). Text beg. ‘Asciti aliquando in Britanniam’ (fol. 142v) and ends imperfectly. Charles Fairfax has added (as fol. 144) a leaf containing a 16th-cent. copy of Latin verses on king Oswald: beg. ‘Ad magni regis gloriæ’.

This MS. is stated in a 17th-cent. inscription on fol. 4 to have been owned by Selby priory. Its 14th-cent. press-mark was Cronica xii (fol. 2). ‘Anno 1591, 2 Januarii’ the book was in the possession of ‘W. Santclair of Roislin, knight’ (fol. 4, cf. no. 3891), and was given to colonel Charles Fairfax in September 1650 by Walter Cant, advocate of Edinburgh (fol. 2v). There are Latin lines dedicated to Fairfax, subscribed ‘Sam. Colvile Scotus’ (ib.). On fol. 2 are some illegible inscriptions.

Samuel Clarke, 'right famous for oriental learning', was born in 1625 and educated at Merton college, from which he took his M.A. degree in 1648. He was designated first architypographus of the University under the Laudian statute, July 24, 1649, and was admitted to that office and to that of bedell of civil law, May 29, 1658, filling them until his death on Dec. 27, 1669 (Wood's _Athenae_, ed. Bliss, iii. 882–5). The fourteen oriental MSS. (chiefly written by himself) noticed below were purchased from his heirs in 1670 for the Library, to which he had presented nos. 3671–2 and some printed books in his lifetime. Other of his papers, for the most part relating to the affairs of the University Press, came subsequently into the possession of Thomas Hearne and entered the Library in 1755 as part of the Rawlinson collection (nos. 15314, 15327, 15376).

3923. In Latin, on paper: written about 1660–70 by S. Clarke: 8 × 6½ in., 134 leaves, of which 2–8, 12–14, 16–19, 21–2, 25–134 are blank. Key-maps of Arabia according to the systems of various Arabic geographers.

The Vernon MS., comprising English poems and prose treatises, in south-country dialect, agreeing closely with the Simeon MS. (Add. MS. 22283) in the British Museum, and written in a similar type of modified court-hand. The vast collection in this volume, the largest MS. in the Library, was catalogued by J. O. Halliwell, F.R.S., in Some Account of the Vernon Manuscript (London, privately printed, 1848), to which the present description is supplementary. The poems are again listed in Carleton-Brown’s Register of Middle English Verse (1916), pp. 49–71, and important sections are printed or described in Carl Horstmann’s Altenglische Legenden (Paderborn, 1875; Neue Folge, Heilbronn, 1881), in H. E. Allen’s Writings ascribed to Richard Rolle, Hermit of Hampole (New York, &c., 1927), and in a number of German dissertations cited in J. M. Booker’s Middle English Bibliography (Heidelberg, 1912). The more important items in the existing catalogue, in which considerable omissions will be noted after artt. 99, 101, 136, are listed hereunder, and further bibliographical references will be found on the press-mark form in the MS. itself.

a (artt. 1–86: foll. a–k, fol. 1) The South English Legendary, beg. ‘... hit cometh in my thouht’ (fol. 1), preceded by the Informacio—written apparently by another scribe at a slightly later date than the rest of the volume—in English of Ailred of Rievaulx to his sister (foll. a–k), printed by C. Hortsmann in Englische Studien (Heilbronn), vii (1884), pp. 304–44. Artt. 35, 36 (fol. 28v), ‘Hou þe Holy Cross was y-founde’, and st. Quiriac, are printed in E.E.T.S., Ser. I, vol. 46, pp. 19–61; art. 59 (fol. 44), the legend of st. Alexius, ib. vol. 69, pp. 17–79; art. 60 (fol. 45), st. Gregory, is printed by Hortsmann in Gregorius auf dem Steine (Braunschweig, 1876).

d (art. 99: fol. 114) Hymns to the Virgin, and minor poems, printed in Minor Poems as nos. 2–29, followed (art. 100: fol. 124) by the Vernon Miracles (with miniatures at foll. 124v–6v), and (art. 101: fol. 167) the Northern Homilies. After art. 101 (fol. 181) occurs the life of st. Eustace, for which see Cod. MS. Digby 86, by E. Stengel (Halis, 1871), p. 59.

e (art. 103–5: fol. 195v) Poems and gospel stories, some of which, including three on the feast of Corpus Christi, the seven miracles of the body of Christ, ‘Hou a man schal lyve parflyty’, and others are printed in Minor Poems as nos. 30–4.

3944. 'In Pyxide ebumea, Totus Alcoranus, Arabice, in usum amuleti designatus, magnitudine Juglandis contentus.' Now MS. Marsh 715.

3946. In Latin and Old English, on vellum: written about A.D. 800 in Ireland and in the later 10th cent. in England: 14\(\frac{1}{2}\) x 11 in., ii+171 leaves, of which i–ii and 170–1 are modern paper: with illuminations, see below.

Codex Rushworthianus or the Gospels of Macregol, being the four gospels in the Latin version of st. Jerome, written about 800 in Irish half-uncial, with Old English interlinear gloss of the 2nd half of the 10th century. Mac Regol, who has been identified with 'Mac Riagoil nepos Magleni, scriba et episcopus, abbas Biror [i.e. Birr, in Queen's County, Ireland]', said to have died about 820, is commemorated on fol. 169\(^{v}\) in the inscription 'Macregol dipincxit hoc Evangelium. Quicumque legerit et intellegit istam narrationem, orat pro Macreguil scriptori.' The Latin text is similar to that of the Lindisfarne gospels, from which the variants are printed in Kemble and Skeat's edition (see below). The Old English gloss added by Owun, who wrote up to Mark ii. 15 ad v. Hleonadun, and Farman, priest of Harewood in Yorkshire, is closely connected with the Lindisfarne version, but at some points depends upon the Rushworth Latin text. Matthew is in the Mercian, and the other gospels in the Northumbrian dialect. The whole has been printed in vols. 28, 39, 43, 48 of the Surtees Society by Stevenson and Manning (1854–65) and by Kemble, Hardwick (vol. i), and Skeat (vols. ii–iv) at Cambridge (1858–78). See also Wanley, Catalogue, p. 81, and S. Berger, Histoire de la Vulgate, pp. 43, 398.

The first words of each Gospel are worked up into an ornamental page in the later Celtic style. The Gospels of ss. Mark, Luke, and John have in addition portraits of the evangelists, that of Matthew being missing, and there are many small ornamental initials. Facsimiles will be found in Elftrida Saunders, English Illumination, pls. 10, 11 (foll. 85, 126\(^{v}\)); Zimmermann, Vorkarolingische Miniaturen, pp.106–7, 247–8 and pls. 199–204 (foll. 1, 84\(^{v}\), 85, 126\(^{v}\), 127, 166\(^{v}\), 169\(^{v}\)); the Pal. Soc., pls. 90–1 (foll. 110, 126\(^{v}\)); Westwood's Pal. Sac., pl. 44 (fol. 85), and his

There is no foundation for the legend that this MS. was once in Bede’s possession, and it was probably not begun till after his death. It is mentioned by Francis Junius in the preface to his Gothic Glossary (1665) as being at that time in the possession of John Rushworth, Deputy-Clerk to the House of Commons, who presented it to Bodley, perhaps in 1681.

CASAUBON MSS.

(Nos. 3947–3967)

Isaac Casaubon, famous as a classical scholar, was born at Geneva in 1559 and was professor of Greek there from 1580 to 1596, when he was made professor of languages and letters at Montpellier University. He removed from Montpellier to Paris in 1599–1600, and in 1604 was appointed keeper of the Bibliotheque Royale. After the murder of Henri iv in 1610 and upon receipt of an official invitation from the archbishop of Canterbury, he settled in England, where he died in 1614. He visited Oxford the year before his death, and spent a fortnight reading in the Bodleian Library; the notes made by him on this visit are in no. 3966b.

His papers were collected and preserved after his death by his younger son, Meric Casaubon, D.D. and prebendary of Canterbury. Meric Casaubon died in 1671 and bequeathed his father’s journal or Ephemerides to the chapter library of Canterbury cathedral, and the bulk of the remainder of his father’s papers, including six volumes of Adversaria (nos. 3960, 3966h, 3966i—two volumes in one, 3967i, 3967h), to the Bodleian Library, but they were not received there until 1673. A list of them in the handwriting of Thomas Hyde, at that time Bodley’s Librarian, is in no. 3966b, fol. 52. Three printed books with MS. marginalia by Isaac Casaubon (MS. Casaubon 19 = no. 3649, MSS. Casaubon 49 and 50) formed part of the gift. The collection has the numbers 3947–67 assigned to it in the Old Catalogue of 1697 and a list of the MSS. as then kept in a box or ‘apotheca’ was compiled by Richard Parker and is printed at p. 264 of that work: modern references to the 116 items there enumerated have been added in the official copy. Casaubon’s loose papers appear to have been arranged for the binder about 1708 by Thomas Hearne, who has left in no. 15362 a MS. description of sixteen volumes. A second MS. catalogue of the entire collection made later in the 18th cent. is preserved among the Library papers: it includes a printed book (MS. Casaubon 18) and fourteen MSS. which did not certainly form part of Meric Casaubon’s donation, and of which some are certainly miscellaneous accessions of the 17th cent., viz., nos. 3948, 3964–5, 3966m, 3966 plants, 3967: cp. 3966, art. 11, 3966, art. 5. This MS. Catalogue served as the basis of the rev. H. O. Coxe’s printed catalogue of the collection in Catalogi codd. MSS. Bibl. Bodl. pars prima (Oxford, 1853), coll. 823–50. MSS. Casaubon 54–8 form no part of the original series, being printed books with MS. marginal notes by Casaubon: some at least of these came into the Library in the Rawlinson collection as did Auct. S. II. 9, Rawl. 4to 516, and MS. Rawl. Q. e. 17 (no. 15457 below). Nos. 3364, art. 1–2, 3366, and 3401, all Selden MSS., also once belonged to Isaac Casaubon; but the bulk of his books, apart from his private papers, was acquired for the Royal Library now in the British Museum.

No. 3966 contains at foll. 1, 14, 25, 27, 31, various lists of Isaac Casaubon’s papers made under the direction of Meric Casaubon: they were, for the most part, then arranged in four series, viz., A₁–Z₁, A₂–Z₂, A₃–N₃, 1–16: these press-marks are here given in round brackets after the second series of numbers. No. 3949 consists of extracts of the more important passages in Isaac Casaubon’s adversaria selected for transcription by Meric. A volume of extracts from the collection was published at Hamburg in 1710 by John Christopher Wolf under the title of Casauboniana. In the accompanying list an asterisk denotes that the MS. is wholly or mainly in Isaac Casaubon’s hand.

3947. (T 2) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek, &c.), Casaub. 1* (patristic and scriptural: extracts printed in Wolf’s Casauboniana, pp. 74 et seq., 96–108).

3950. (X in fol.) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek), Casaub. 4* (extracts from Greek authors).

3951. (F) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek), Casaub. 5* (Chronicon Alexandrinum: beg. ‘Descripsi ex codice qui nunc in Palatina bibliotheca seruatur’).

3952. (A) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek, &c.), Casaub. 6* (Hebrew notes: the first leaf is wanting).

3953. = Qu. Catal. i (Greek, &c.), Casaub. 7* (notes on Theophrastus).

Viz. MSS. Casaubon 9 (Hearne’s vol. 4), 11 (vol. 3), 14 (vol. 2), 15 (vol. 5), 17 (vol. 15), 23 (vol. 6), 24 (vol. 1), 25 (vol. 7), 26 (vol. 9), 27 (vol. 8), 31 (vol. 13), 43 (vol. 10), 49 (vol. 16), 51 (vol. 14), 52 (vol. 12), 59 (vol. 11).
MINOR DONATIONS

3954. (Y in fol.) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek, &c.), Casaub. 8* (de re vestiaria).

3955. (γ, φ) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek, &c.), Casaub. 9 (letters from Casaubon, mostly copies, but some are drafts by him and the following are originals—one to king James i (p. 15), three to archbp. John Spottonwood (pp. 17, 116, 145), one to bp. Lancelot Andrews (p. 126), one to bp. James Montagu (p. 132) and to dr. Hadrian à Saravia (p. 215), as is also the signed letter from king James i to Casaubon (p. 1). The letters from Casaubon to David Hoeschel (p. 219) and to L. de Ramirez (p. 271) appear not to be published. Between pp. 238 and 239 are nine leaves of notes on Hebrew words, and at p. 249 are ζητηματα Arabica addressed to Hadrian [à Saravia]. The volume also contains single letters from Constantine Lascaris to Philip Melanchthon in Greek (p. 355); from cardinal Bandinius to dr. Wm. Bishop, bp. of Chalcedon, April 4, 1623 (p. 363); from John Vossius to Meric Casaubon (original), July 7, 1630 (p. 367); and from Marcus Velser to David Hoeschel (p. 371). Artt. 1, 2, 4, 6–10, 12, and 15 in the Qu. are in Casaubon’s hand: art. 16 is in French.

3956. = Qu. Catal. i (Greek, &c.), Casaub. 10 (Hebrew grammar: not in Casaubon’s hand).

Sarrazin; art. 25 is by Th. Beza, art. 29 by J. Lect: art. 4 is stated by Meric Casaubon to be ‘per R. M. B.’: art. 30 is in Greek: art. 43—in aeneum tabulam Eugubinam Bernardini Baldi divinatio—was rediscovered and added to the volume in 1919).

3958. (Z in 4to) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek, &c.), Casaub. 12* (Curiae Polibianae: in the pr. catalogue insert ‘Graecorum’ after ‘verborum’ in art. 9 and ‘Graecarum’ after ‘vocum’ in art. 13: art. 9 is not in Casaubon’s hand, and contains at fol. 297 the Lord’s Prayer and Apostles’ Creed in Basque).

3959. (Θ) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek, &c.), Casaub. 13* (Latin glossary, &c.).

3960. (artt. 1–6 = G, art. 7 = N3, artt. 8, 12–17 = B, art. 9 = D, art. 10 = M3, art. 11 = Q2, art. 18 = G3, art. 19 = H2) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek, &c.), Casaub. 14* (Adversaria s’, &c.: artt. 1–6 are not written by Casaubon: art. 10 contains notes on the Historiae Augustae Scriptores and on Livy, in Latin: art. 18 is a draft of part of the writer’s Exercitationes ad Baronii Annales).

3961. (art. 10 = O2, art. 27 = V2) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek, &c.), Casaub. 15 (misc. theological papers, principally of bp. Lancelot Andrews—see list in no. 3966b, fol. 39: artt. 10 and 27 alone are in Casaubon’s hand: art. 10 is in French).

3962. (L3) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek), Casaub. 16* (on Aristotle).

3963. (art. 3 = K2) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek), Casaub. 17* (Eucharist, &c.).

3964. (Mappa Imperii Turcici: not Casaubon: now lost).

3965. = Qu. Catal. i (Greek, &c.), Casaub. 20 (East Indian currency: not a Casaubon MS).

3966a. (pt. of art. 7 = α′–ε′: also contains papers from A3, L2, I3, K3) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek, &c.), Casaub. 21* (Polybius, &c.: artt. 5, 8, 9, 11 are not written by I. Casaubon, art. 8 being by J. Rutgers, art. 9 by John Casaubon: in art. 5 for 'Meric Casaubon' read 'Mr. [Isaac] Casaubon': art. 6 is in Greek: art. 7 contains at fol. 146 'Isaaci Casauboni ad Polybii Historiam primam commentarii', a work posthumously published—Paris, 1617: extracts from art. 7 printed in Casauboniana, pp. 69–74: art. 11, having been identified as a James MS., was taken out in Jan. 1920 and referenced MS. James 45*).

3966b. (foll. 48–9 = [α] 10, foll. 119–29 = F3) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek, &c.), Casaub. 22 (Catalogues, in various hands: artt. 2 and 10 are by Isaac Casaubon, artt. 4 and 12 by bp. Lancelot Andrewes).

3966c. (art. 2 = [α] 1, art. 4 = R2, art. 5 = [α] 3, artt. 6–8 = β, artt. 9, 10 = Rβ) = Qu. Catal. i. (Greek, &c.), Casaub. 23* (miscellaneous: artt. 1, 3, 4 are not by Casaubon: art. 1 is written in Latin and Hebrew, by James Hepburn: artt. 6–8 are headed 'Σεσυμμεωμένα ἀρτα διὸν πάρ[φραδ] in itinere Germanico, MDXIII').

3966d. (artt. 2–5 = H, artt. 6–13 = H3) = Qu. Catal. i (Greek, &c.), Casaub. 24* (Polybius, &c.: art. 1 is not in Casaubon's hand: extracts printed in Casauboniana, p. 42).

The following Casaubon papers, among others described in the Old Catalogue of 1697, are not at present identified:

3967j. 47d. ‘Epistola Gallico Sermone ab Is. Casaubono conscripta, de Jesuitis in Gallia, dimid. Sched.’

— 56. ‘Duae Is. Casauboni Epistolae Eruditissimae, quarum prior ad Josephum Scaligerum, posterior ad I. Lipsium scribitur, i Sched.’

(Thos. Hearne has preserved a copy of this in no. 15342, p. 61.)
About William Thurston, merchant of London, little is known. He is apparently identical with the benefactor who left £800 to Christ Church in 1663 to found an additional studentship. The collection which bears his name now consists of forty MSS., acquired between 1661 and 1684, but of these only five, acquired in 1661, were given by Thurston. The rest include minor donations as noted below, but it is unknown how the following were acquired: nos. 3968, 3972-3, 3978-9, 3981, 3985-6, 3989, 3992-3.

3970. (3). Or. Catal. i, cod. Arab. Moh. no. 913 (Apollonius). This MS. was brought from the East in 1641 by Christian Ravis and later lost by him. It was bought by dr. Thomas Marshall in Amsterdam from the bookseller Ratelband and in or before 1672 presented by him to the Bodleian. See further B.Q.R., Oct. 1921, pp. 152-3. Now MS. Thurston 3.

3980. (13). = Qu. Catal. vi (Syr.), no. 19 (Daniel, &c. 'Liber bibliothecae Bodleianae ex dono magistri [Carol] Robson collegii Reginae socii'), as no. 1865, which was given in 1631. Now MS. Thurston 13.

HATTON MSS.
(Nos. 4026-4136)

The Hatton collection was bought by the Bodleian from Robert Scot, who purchased part of the library of Christopher, first lord Hatton (d. July 4, 1670). The price given is no doubt represented by an entry in the Library accounts for 1671: 'To Mr Scot for severall bookes and MSS. £156', cited by Macray in his Annals of the Bodleian (p. 137). Macray’s notice of the Hatton MSS. (pp. 141-2) should, however, be read in the light of what is here said. The collection came into the Library in September 1671 (see Wood’s Life and Times, ed. A. Clark, ii. 231). At one time the ‘Hatton homilies’ were counted as nos. 113-16 in this series, but they were in fact given by the second lord Hatton in 1675 and for some time formed part of the Junius collection (see nos. 5134-6, 5210).

The collector of these MSS. was the eldest surviving son of sir Christopher Hatton, the Elizabethan courtier. His strong royalist sympathies led him to retire to France in 1648, whence he returned after the Restoration. At various times he occupied minor political posts, but never rose to high office. He was a close friend of Clarendon and of a number of antiquaries, more especially Roger Dodsworth.

The Hatton collection consists almost entirely of medieval MSS., among which are some Old English (nos. 4113, 4117, 4125) and early Latin MSS. (nos. 4076, 4081, 4118) of great value.

Other Hatton MSS., consisting of medieval deeds and MSS., antiquarian collections, and the 17th–18th centt. Finch-Hatton correspondence, descended to lord Winchilsea (see Hist. MSS. Comm. Rep. I, App., pp. 14–34). The medieval deeds and the Finch-Hatton letters are now in the British Museum, where they are Add. Chs. 19788–22613 and Add. MSS. 29548–96 respectively, but sir Christopher Hatton’s antiquarian collections including the transcripts known as his ‘book of seals’ have been deposited by lord Winchilsea with the Northamptonshire Record Society.

4026. (1). In Latin, on parchment: written in the second half of the 13th cent. in England by various scribes: 10¼ x 7¼ in., ii–136 leaves, in double columns: binding, brown leather, stamped in gold with the arms of Windsor of Stanwell, viz.: quarterly, (1) a saltire between 12 crosses crosslet for Windsor, (2) barry nebuly for Blount, (3) a fret for Echingham, (4) vair for Gresley; supporters, a unicorn and bear; crest, a buck’s head affrontée coupee on a peer’s helm; early 17th-cent. English work.

The first part of a concordance to the Moralia of Gregory the Great, embracing the letters A–C, in which select passages from the Moralia are arranged under subject-headings such as: Abstractio, Abstinencia, Accipio personarum, Abnegacio, Abissus, Abjeccio. Prologue beg. ‘Quoniam’ (or ‘Cum’) ‘ille liber celeberrimus ac contemplatiuis necessarius’; text beg. ‘Quod nullus sit contemplacioni ydoneus’; ends in the article on compunctio, ‘Qui me liberabit de corpore mortis huius? Gracia dei per Jesum Christum.’ Fol. I is a rejected leaf which has been allowed to remain after fol. 2 was inserted. A column of the exemplar has been omitted in fol. 5v and supplied on an additional leaf (fol. 6).

4027. (2). In Latin, on parchment: written in the last quarter of the 14th cent. in England: 13¼ x 6¼ in., i+51 leaves, of which 7–51 are blank paper.

Minor historical lists and short religious pieces, viz.: a (fol. 1r) a short chronicle of English history from the creation to A.D. 1377 (beg. ‘Anni ab orbe condito’); followed by b (fol. 3), the apocryphal letter of Lentulus to the senate of Rome, containing a description of the personal appearance of Christ (beg. ‘Legitur in annalibus Romanorum’); c (fol.
3) notes on st. Anne and the Virgin Mary (beg. 'Notandum quod beata Anna'); d (fol. 3v) 'originalia doctorum' or notable sayings of the fathers, e.g. 'Superbia demones fecit ex angelis, humilitas homines angelis facit similes'; e (fol. 4) lists of 'Sanctorum loca', f (fol. 4v) 'mirabilia orientis', and g (fol. 5v) 'mirabilia Anglie'; with h (fol. 6) a list of the places of burial of the kings of England from Alfred to Edward iii (beg. 'Postquam Saxones et Anglici'), and i (fol. 6v) of the wonders of Ireland.

'Cronice ecclesie collegiate beate Marie Staffordie. quod Pen[criz ?]', in a 15th-cent. hand.
Now MS. Hatton 74.

4028. (3). In Latin, on parchment: written in the middle of the 15th cent. in England: \(9\frac{1}{2}\times 7\) in., 22 leaves, in double columns.
Part of the Rogerina Major attributed to Roger Bacon, here without author's name. The first two quires were lost before the MS. came into the Library, and the text now beg. 'Quum autem fit ab anteriori causa', which is in the chapter numbered iii in the 1513 edition: two leaves are also wanting between foll. 11 and 12: at end 'Explicit Rogerina maior Amen'. A 15th-cent. list of contents on the first flyleaf shows that the Rogerina was once followed by 'Garbadium medicinarum ultimum Johannis Nazareni fili Ebenmesue', i.e. book ii of the Grabadin or Compendium Secretorum Medicamentorum of John Mesue.

'Lacy', 15th cent. (name on parchment cover).
Now MS. Hatton 83.

4029. (4). In Latin, on parchment and paper: made up of two MSS. written in the 13th and 15th centt. in England: \(8\frac{1}{2}\times 5\frac{1}{2}\) in., 109 leaves: furnished with fly-leaves and leather thongs for binding in boards, but without a cover; kept in a cloth case.
A (on paper: written by Peter Hollis (?) in the 15th cent.) 1 (fol. 6).
'Summa compilata super septem Sacramenta': an anonymous treatise based on Thomas Aquinas, Peter Lombard, and Albertus Magnus: preceded by a table of chapters and a short prologue which beg. (fol. 11) 'Notandum quod in sacramentis': the text beg. 'Quot sunt species sacramenti?' (fol. 11v). At fol. 64v are some notes on changes introduced in the service of the Mass, and a subscription giving the name of the scribe or former owner, Peter Hollis: 'Quod fuit Hollis non pensad pars Peter Hollis.'
B (on parchment: written in the first half of the 13th cent., in double columns) 2 (fol. 66). 'Liber scintillarum Cassiodori senatoris de diversisoluminibus': the work frequently ascribed to Cassiodorus and to Bede, but in reality a compilation by the monk Defensor: preceded by a list of chapters, but without the preface. The hand changes at fol. 72.
The parchment fly-leaves (foll. 1-4, 106-9) are four leaves (written in the late 12th cent., perhaps in England, in double columns, \(11\frac{1}{4}\times 8\) inches) from a Latin commentary on the Bible, containing glosses without the text. The portion of Scripture commented upon is Proverbs i. 1–v and xvi. 17–xxv. 22, and Ezekiel i. 1–xvi. 3. The commentary upon Ezekiel beg. (fol. 106) ‘Et factum est. Ideo sic incipit ut nos inuitet ad facta, id est, bona opera.’

Now MS. Hatton 55.

4030. (5). In Latin, on parchment (foll. 1, 7–8, 14–15, 20–1) and paper mixed: written in the 15th cent.: 12 × 8½ in., i + 22 leaves.

Now MS. Auct. F. 2. 7.

A (second half of the 13th cent., in double columns) i (fol. 1). Latin sermons for various occasions, over one hundred in number, written by a Dominican, preceded by a subject-index (fol. 3), and followed, in a slightly later hand, by a table of sermons proper for Sundays and saints’ days (fol. 270). The ‘De sanctis tabula’ (fol. 272v) includes St. Peter Martyr. The first sermon beg. ‘Relictis omnibus surgentes secuti sunt eum. Quare nec surrexisse nec reliquisse’ (fol. 14). The only sermon bearing an author’s name is one (fol. 177) by R. de Baumburg ‘De timore Dei propter suam potenciam’, beg. ‘Quare Deus sit potens’. Foll. 50–3 are occupied by a ‘Sermo de die natalis Domini’, written in the early 14th cent. in single columns, beg. ‘Verbum caro factum est... Ista verba scripta sunt in Johanne.’ At fol. 91 is a homily on the seven virtues, the seven gifts, the seven beatitudes, and the seven deadly sins (beg. ‘Nunc de virtutibus est dicendum’), followed by a list of eight sets of sevens. There are some Latin, English, and French verses on fol. iv, and Latin theological notes and verses on fol. 274 in hands of about 1300; 14th-cent. Latin notes occur on foll. 53v–4, 211v, 263.

B (about 1300, in single columns) i (fol. 264). A Latin sermon for the tenth Sunday after Whitsunday, beg. ‘In hoc evangeli seriatim’. Some English notes are on foll. 267v–9.

Numerous leaves are wanting, viz. 13 between foll. 23–7, 12 after foll. 38, 2 after foll. 68, 12 after foll. 82, 2 between foll. 89–91, 3 after foll. 117, 2 after foll. 125, 4 after foll. 181, 12 after foll. 181, 12 after foll. 229, 24 between foll. 240–2, and 2 after foll. 251, and other leaves are greatly torn.

Now MS. Hatton 107.

4032. (7). In Latin, on parchment, written in the 12th cent.: 5½ × 4 in., iii + 20 leaves of which i–1, 10–20 are blank paper.
The first gathering of an anonymous treatise on the abacus, of which a complete copy exists in no. 3413, fol. 106v, perhaps by Radulfus Laudunensis: beg. 'Adjuvante Domino aliiquid in abacum scripturii'. Now MS. Hatton 108.

4033. (8). In Russian, on paper: written in the first half of the 15th cent.: 8½ x 6½ in., 291 leaves.

The four Gospels in Russian, with the prologues of Theophylact, viz. st. Matthew (fol. 1), st. Mark (fol. 77v), st. Luke (fol. 125v), and st. John (fol. 209), followed by the Menologion (fol. 270) and Synaxarion (fol. 276v). At fol. 286v is an entry in English, made in 1557, of a miraculous fire in the church of 'Peroslave' (Pereyaslavl) and a tempest at 'Colmogro' (Kholmogory) in that summer.

Pre-Bodleian press-mark 'D'. Now MS. Hatton 66.

4034. (9). In Latin, on parchment: written late in the 14th cent. in England: 8½ x 5½ in., iii + 442 leaves: with many illuminated capitals, borders, &c.; 16th-cent. pen-and-ink sketches at fol. 11v, 15, 183v, 215v, 296, 300, 301, 325v, 379, 405v: embedded in the modern binding are two stamped side-panels of reddish-brown leather, depicting stt. Michael and Sebastian, GUILLÉ BAUDART, French work of about 1520.

A Sarum Breviary without calendar, consisting of a (fol. 1) the Proprium de Tempore, wanting a leaf after fol. 153, followed by the Benedictions before the lessons (fol. 215): b (fol. 218) the Psalter and Canticles, wanting the first leaf, and (fol. 272) the Litanies &c.: c (fol. 276) the Commune Sanctorum: d (fol. 294) the Proprium Sanctorum, wanting two or more leaves at the end: the services for stt. David and Chad are added in a 15th-cent. hand at the end, the latter ending imperfect.

'EW' (fol. 437v), 'Christopher Routh' and 'John Vademon' (fol. 439v), all late 16th or early 17th centt. Owned by Henry Fowler, rector of Minchinhampton, Gloucestershire (who was likewise owner of Gough Missal 173 in this Library), early in the 17th cent., and afterwards by Thomas Windsor, 6th lord Windsor of Stanwell; cp no. 4086. Now MS. Hatton 63.

4036. (11). = Qu. Catal. xiii (Persian), no. 1915 (Persian vocabulary: the arms on fol. 1, argent, a chevron azure between three oak-leaves vert, are those of Smith).

4039. (14). = "", "", 40 (Simon bar Kalil bar Macara).

4041. (16). = Qu. Catal. vi (Syriac), no. 170 (Petrus patriarcha: on fol. 1 is an effaced inscription of ownership, 'Liber Guiliel. Laud Archiep: Cant: Cancellarii Universitatis Oxon: 1641', and over it written '... Christoheri Hatton ...').
MISCELLANEOUS MSS. AND

4043. (18). = MS. Hatton Or. 70 (Syriac liturgy).

4044. (19). In Latin, on parchment and paper: made up out of five MSS.
written in the 13th cent., probably in Spain or Italy: 5½ x 4 in., 91 leaves: outside edges of leaves worn and re-mounted.

Medical and astronomical treatises, chiefly imperfect.

A (on parchment, early 13th cent.) 1 (fol. 2). Verses on the ascension of the signs of the Zodiac in each month: prol. beg. 'Si eris memoriosus:
text beg. 'Incipit discretio. . . . Prima dies nona.'

2 (fol. 3). An anonymous Latin treatise on surgery, preceded by a list of chapters: beg. 'Licet infirmitates ratione et dieta curare possimus'.
A leaf is wanting after fol. 10.

3 (fol. 23). Short Latin medical pieces, viz. a (fol. 23) treatment for noli me tangere; b (fol. 23v) treatise on the pulse, beg. 'Pulsus ut multas ac diversas passiones habet corpus'; c (fol. 25v) some medical recipes ending imperfect.

B (on paper of thick soft quality, early 13th cent.) 4 (fol. 27). A Latin treatise on fevers, of which the first leaf is wanting: beg. 'Quare de recidia febre', ends imperfect.

C (on paper of stouter make, early 13th cent.) 5 (fol. 58). Calendarial pieces &c. in Latin, viz. a (fol. 58) rules for constructing an almanac, beg. 'Cum uolueris facere'; b (fol. 63v) rules for finding leap-year, beg.
'Si quis uult in annis Arabum bisextum cognoscere'; c (fol. 63v) 'De compositione almanagh'; d (fol. 64v) some arithmetical puzzles, beg.
'Hii sunt ludes philosophorum'; e (fol. 65v) an astrological piece, beg.
'Hec sunt planetarum dignitates'; f (fol. 66v) commentary upon an unidentified treatise on the signs of the Zodiac; g (fol. 73v) a short Latin treatise on friendship, in a different hand, beg. 'Mortis honestas maxima'.
B and C are early instances of the use of paper for western MSS.

D (on parchment, early 13th cent.) 6 (fol. 79). Concluding portion of a Latin manual of practical medicine, consisting principally of recipes.

7 (fol. 85). 'Incipiunt Pronostica Democriti feliciter', beg. 'Si fuerit capitis dolor'.

E (on parchment, written in the second half of the 12th cent.) 8 (fol.
88). Two leaves of an arithmetical treatise, involving the use of Roman fractions.

Now MS. Hatton 112.

4046. (21). In French, on parchment: written at the close of the 13th cent.
by an Anglo-Norman scribe: 64 x 4½ in., iii + 108 leaves: with illuminated capitals and border: binding, white leather on re-used and reversed boards, clasp lost, English 15th-cent. work.
MINOR DONATIONS

‘Ici commence la romanz de Otheuien empeor de Rome’: the unique MS. of a French romance conjectured to have been composed in France between 1229 and 1244. An abridgment of this MS. in English was published anonymously by the rev. J. J. Coneybeare at Oxford in 1809, and the text was first published in 1883 by Karl Vollmoller as pt. 3 of dr. Wendelin Foerster’s _Altfranzösische Bibliothek_. The English equivalents of a few French words are entered in a 15th-cent. hand on fol. 107v.

The flyleaves are (1) fragments of two French satirical poems, one in stanzas aaaa of octosyllabic verse, the other in _rime couée_ (8a 8a 4b 8c 8c 4b) (fol. 1); (2) a single leaf of a Latin monastic antiphoner with musical notation (foll. ii–iii); (3) portions of two Latin sermons (fol. 108), all 13th cent.

Now MS. Hatton 100.

4047. (22). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 2nd half of the 13th cent. in England: 5¾ x 4 in., 577 leaves, in double columns: with illuminated capitals &c.: binding brown calf with gilt ornament, probably London work of the late 16th cent.

A Latin Vulgate Bible, with the preface and prologues of st. Jerome: the New Testament begins on fol. 428v: at fol. 531 follow the Interpretaciones nominum Hebraicorum. At fol. 5 is a list of the kings of Judah and Israel and at fol. 5v two lists of the books of the Bible in slightly later hands; the second represents that in the MS., the first is a traditional order divided into Law, Prophets, &c., with Pastor in the Apocrypha between Tobias and Maccabees. A leaf is lost after fol. 5 and another (the first leaf of the text) after fol. 7.

4048. (23). In Latin, on parchment: made up of nine MSS. written in a minute hand at the close of the 13th cent. in England: 6¼ x 4½ in., xiv+813 pages, in double columns: with coloured capitals: binding, white leather on boards, contemporary English work, clasps lost; recently resewn and repaired.

Latin sermons and biblical commentaries.

A 1 (p. 1). Five sermons, the first of which begins ‘Innocentes et recti adheserunt mihi. In innocentia virtutis’.

2 (p. 10). ‘Incipit liber florum editus et concinnatus de diuersis libris gloriosi et incomparabilis doctoris Augustini.’ The title is further explained at the end, ‘Floriger iste liber non inmerito uocitatur, nempe gerit flores quibus incola mens recreatur.' Prologue beg. 'Quorundam librorum gloriosi'; text beg. 'Da mihi Domine scire'. The first leaf of the gathering (pp. 8–9) is wanting, but the text is complete. For other copies see nos. 1846, 1985, 21681.

3 (p. 24). Latin sermons and theological notes. The first sermon is on Joshua xv. 2, 'Inicium eius, id est sortis Iude': it is followed by ten headings for sermons, then by eight sermons of greater length, including homilies on Tobias (p. 29), the sermon on the mount (p. 32), the Lord's prayer (p. 34), and Luke i–ii (pp. 37–41). More sermons and theological notes follow: among the latter may be mentioned a list of the signs marking the fifteen last days before theJudgement (p. 50), treatises on 'caritas' and 'virtus' (p. 50), an 'expositio de sex alis cherubin' epitomized from Alanus de Insulis (p. 51), and excerpts from the fathers in favour of celibacy (p. 53).

4 (p. 55). Excerpts from the Confessions of st. Augustine, followed by a subject-index to a Latin theological work divided into four books.

5 (p. 60). Extracts from the Moralia of st. Gregory: commencing at p. 88, the extracts proceed through the first twenty-two books to p. 164, and are continued at p. 60.

6 (p. 165). A series of fifty-seven sermons on st. Matthew's Gospel, preceded by a list of the same: the first sermon beg. 'Liber generationis. . . . Liber quem apostolica gratiarum.'

The whole section is preceded (p. viii) by an index to the first 34 pages: the first two leaves of the gathering are wanting, and the index now commences with the letter L. The last three leaves of the concluding gathering (pp. 224–9) are also wanting.

B 7 (p. 230). A sermon upon Eccles. vii. 25; beg. 'Alta et profunditas. . . . Alta et profunditas non differunt.'

8 (p. 234). A commentary upon the Epistle of st. Paul to the Romans. The commentary starts at Rom. i. 18, 'Revelatur in evangelio ira'; p. 249 is left blank for the insertion of a commentary upon chapter x, and the work has not been carried on beyond the end of chapter xi, but is left incomplete. The last leaf of the gathering (pp. 252–3) is wanting.

This section of the MS. is omitted from the Old Catalogue.

C 9 (p. 254). A commentary upon the Song of Songs, in several hands: beg. 'Osculetur me. . . . Quot sunt inter sponsum et sponsam.'

10 (p. 333). The Distinctiones verborum of Alexander Neckham, here without title or author's name, and lacking the definitions for O–T through the loss of two leaves (pp. 340–3). This short work is a collection of definitions of common words, arranged alphabetically, and begins 'Amor est appetitus rei propter se'. No manuscript of the work was known to bishop Tanner, and its attribution to Neckham is due to Bale, who gives the incipit.

D 12 (p. 352). A commentary upon the book of Tobit: beg. ‘Tobias bonus Dei iustus’. The commentary is complete, although described in the Old Catalogue as including the first four chapters only.

15 (p. 412). ‘Meditationes Elredi abbatis ad sororem suam’, a re-handling by Ethelred of Rievaulx of the 15th, 16th, and 17th Meditations of st. Anselm, which was made by him the latter portion (capp. 47–78) of his subsequent work, ‘De institutione inclusarum’, otherwise called ‘De vita eremita’. The text beg. ‘Ut ille dulcis amor’, and retains passages from st. Anselm that were omitted in the final draft. The complete work is printed in Migne, Patr. Lat., tom. xxxii, col. 1451, among the spurious writings of st. Augustine.

G 17 (p. 452). About 280 miscellaneous Latin sermons, one (at p. 508) by ‘W. de M.’, the rest anonymous.

H 18 (p. 600). The commentary upon st. Luke’s Gospel of Johannes Buriensis, here without title or author’s name: beg. ‘Quia omni legitime certanti’. This copy is very imperfect: pp. 608–17 are now wanting, but appear to have been left in order to receive the comment upon i. 61–ii. 21, which was perhaps never added; p. 627 has been left blank for the insertion of a comment upon iii. 23–iv. 8; two whole gatherings are missing after p. 663 (originally numbered pp. 664–727), and this has caused the loss of the comment upon vi. 44–x. 41; one other leaf (pp. 730–1), containing xi. 8–21, is wanting, and the commentary has not been carried beyond the end of the 13th chapter, the last page (p. 747) having been left blank. Bishop Tanner, following Bale, attributed this work to the Augustinian John Bury, opponent of bishop Reg. Pecock, who fl. 1460; but this ascription, which has been doubted, is impossible in view of the date of the present MS. A Carmelite from Ipswich, of the same name, who was in 1313 presented to Semer rectory in Suffolk has also been claimed for the author, but in that case Leland's floruit for him—1350—is too late.

I 20 (p. 768). Latin sermons and theological notes.

21 (p. 784: in a slightly later hand). 'Incipit liber sanctorum Augustini episcopi de spiritu et anima': a tract perhaps by the Cistercian monk Alcherus, ending, as usual, at cap. 33. For other copies see nos. 3623, 4051.

A 14th-cent. register on p. ix correctly gives the original contents of the volume as 30 gatherings and 400 leaves, but 49 leaves have been lost since the volume was first paginated.

'Liber sancte Marie de Holmo', early 14th cent. This volume belonged to, and was presumably written in, the Cistercian monastery of Holm Cultram, cp. p. 447, and bears on p. 10 the monastic shelf-mark 'liber LXXXVIII'. It belonged in the 16th century to Henry Dackham (p. 345), and then to Nicholas Blunderton who has written his name on various pages. Now MS. Hatton 101.

4049. (24). In Latin, on parchment: written in the second half of the 14th cent. in England: 5⅓ x 3⅓ in., 111 leaves, in double columns: with some illuminated capitals: binding, red leather on boards, with portion of strap, contemporary English work.

English statutes and ecclesiastical constitutions:

1 (fol. 7). Statutes of Henry iii and Edward i: a (fol. 7) 'Communes dies in banco'; b (fol. 7) 'Communes dies de dote'; c (foll. 8, 13th) Statute of Circumspecte agatis, 1285: d (fol. 8) 'Responsiones domini regis Anglie super articulis propositis ex parte prelatorium', 1280: e (fol. 14th) sentence of excommunication passed upon transgressors of the Forest Charter, 1283, with the rubric 'Sentencia lata de foresta'.

A table of the incipits and rubrics of the chapters of the Constitutions of Ottobon has been added in a 15th-cent. hand at fol. 106, and there are a few 15th-cent. canon-law notes on foll. 1 and 2.

'Iste liber constat magistro Ricardo Salter, decretorum doctori' (early 16th cent.). He was principal of New Inn Hall, Oxford, 1504–10 and precentor of Lichfield 1505–19.

Now MS. Hatton 109.

4050. (25). In English, on parchment: written in the last quarter of the 14th cent.: 5½ × 3½ in., iii + 297 leaves: with illuminated capitals: binding, brown leather stamped in gilt with the royal arms of Great Britain, English work of the 1st quarter of the 17th cent., resewn.

The four Gospels, Catholic Epistles, and Apocalypse in Wycliffe’s earlier version, without prologues; preceded by a (fol. 2) the Psalter of st. Jerome in English as in no. 2315—prologue beg. ‘Lord God vouche saf to take up pese psalmes’, text beg. ‘Lord perceyue my wordis wip eren’: b (fol. 11) sentences from the Old Testament, in English, beg. ‘Pé wrappe of God forsope is turned in to mercy’—the translations in b and c differ from both Wycliffe’s versions: c (fol. 13v) a table of lessons. The first leaf of the text is wanting, and that begins (fol. 35) ‘Forsope al pis pyng was don’. A leaf is wanting after fol. 224. At the end (fol. 290) is a table of contents, ending in Luke xx owing to the loss of the final leaf.

Now MS. Hatton 111.

4051. (26). In Latin, on parchment: made up of nine MSS. written in the late 13th and early 14th cents. in England: 6½ × 4½ in., 264 leaves: parts A–G have illuminated capitals &c.

A. Tracts relating to the Virgin Mary. 1 (fol. 5v). Vita beatae Marieae Virginis, without title, preceded by a table of chapters: beg. ‘Sancta et superlaudabilis & semper virgo’: ends ‘Amen. Ave Maria.’ This is a 13th-cent. compilation from the Historia Scholastica and other sources, of which the Life in no. 2397 is an abridgement. It contains, at fol. 23v, the Epistle of st. Ignatius to the Virgin with her reply and the two Epistles of st. Ignatius to st. John. The titles of two additional chapters which were never written appear in the table of contents.

2 (fol. 27v). Eadmer de excellentia Virginis Mariae, here without title or author’s name.

B 3 (fol. 44). ‘Regula beati Augustini’ ad servos Dei.

4 (fol. 46). ‘Meditationes beati Augustini’—14th-cent. title; the first ten chapters of the work attributed to him: ends ‘per omnia secula seculorum’, at which point some MSS. of the Meditaciones commence.

5 (fol. 49v). ‘Tractatus (?) beati Bernardi qui dicitur Collatio Simonis et Jhesu’—14th-cent. title; the work attributed to st. Bernardus Claraevallensis, but which is more probably by his disciple, Gaifridus Autissiodorensis: beg. 'Dicit Symon Petrus ad Jhesum... Fidelis sermo et dignum.'

7 (fol. 69). 'Incipit epistola Willelmi abbatis sancti Theodorici ad fratres de Monte Dei', a work sometimes assigned to st. Bernard (see nos. 19102, 27875). The tract ends abruptly in lib. ii, cap. 24, 'omnia intellectum & intelligentem sapientiam', owing to the loss of several leaves after fol. 85. The missing leaves contained the conclusion of the second and possibly the third book of the Epistola, and a 'parabola de ethiopissa quam regis filius duxit', mentioned in a 14th-cent. table of contents at fol. 5.

8 (fol. 86). 'Epistola Petri G. incluso.' This is an epistle addressed to one Gislebert by Petrus Venerabilis, abbot of Cluny, numbered lib. i, ep. 20, in the collected edition of his letters, but also treated as a separate work, 'De conversationis eremiticae laudibus'. The epistle beg. imperfect owing to the loss of the first leaf (see above) '[mor]tuum non sepelire dicitur inhumanum', and the title is supplied by the 14th-cent. table of contents.

D 9 (fol. 91). Opuscula of st. John Chrysostom translated into Latin: a (fol. 91) 'Liber beati Johannis Crisostomi de reparatione lapsi', otherwise called Paraenesis ad Theodorum: beg. 'Quis dabit capiti meo... Opportunius multo a me nunc': b (fol. 105v) 'Incipit liber beati Johannis Crisostomi de compunctione', in two books: beg. 'Dum te intueor beate Demetri': c (fol. 118v) 'Incipit liber beati Johannis Crisostomi de psalmo quinquagesimo primo', a spurious commentary on Psalm 1 in two books: beg. 'Pictores imitantur arte naturam': d (fol. 129) 'Incipit liber primus beati Johannis Crisostomi de eo quod nemo leditur nisi a se ipso', beg. 'Scio quod cressoribus quibuscumque'. The same four tracts recur in a Latin translation in no. 2375.

E (double columns). Four treatises attributed to st. Augustine. 10 (fol. 138). a Prosperi Aquitani sententiae 390 ex Augustino delibatae, here described as 'Aurelii Augustini de vera innocentia liber': b (fol. 148) 'Beatus Augustinus de visitatione infirmorum', a work doubtfully attributed to him, see no. 4070: c (fol. 151v) 'Sermo beati Augustini de assumptione beate Marie', with the preface. The last work, which has been conjectured to be by Fulbertus Carnotensis, ends imperfect, owing to the loss of three or four leaves after fol. 152, which also once contained the apocryphal 'Epistola Pilati Claudio Neroni regi suo', see fol. 5.
11 (fol. 153). 'Incipit liber Augustini de spiritu et anima', as in no. 4048. This section is in a different hand from the preceding.

F 12 (fol. 162). 'De decem preceptis per fratrem Johannem de Rupella': a treatise on the decalogue, followed by part ii 'de consiliiis evangeliis', and part iii 'de gratia'. It is without the usual preface commencing 'Si vis ad vitam', and beg. 'Dicturi de preceptis adiuuante Deo', ends 'datur remedium scilicet matrimonium', perhaps unfinished. The treatise is usually anonymous or wrongly ascribed.

G 13 (fol. 185). Two Latin sermons: a (fol. 185) Sermon on preparation for death beg. 'Dispone domui tuae quia morieris. . . . Presentis die solemnitatis': b (fol. 192v) 'Sermo de sancto Barnaba apostolo', beg. 'Erat vir bonus et plenus spiritu sancto. . . . Verba ista dilectissimi.'

I 16 (fol. 245). Sermon on the observance of Sunday: beg. 'Obserua diem sabbati. Hic tercio agit.' Some notes written with a metal stylus occur at foll. 257v–9v, and a quotation from st. Francis of Assisi at fol. 260v.

'Iste liber est de communitate fratrum minorum Hereford' (early 14th cent.), and bears the monastic press-mark E. 27. 'Iste liber pertinet ad me Ihoannes. G.' (15th cent.).

Now MS. Hatton 102.

4052. (27). In Latin, on parchment: written early in the 14th cent. in the Netherlands (A) and about 1400 in England (B): 5½ × 4 in., iii+217 leaves: with twelve small miniatures, illuminated borders, and capitals, &c.: binding, red leather on boards, two clasps, one lost, English 15th-cent. work.

A Gallican Psalter for private use. The separate pieces are: a (fol. 1) a calendar, obviously written in the Low Countries (stt. Aldegundis, Servatius, Paulinus, Bertinus, Amatus, Winnoc, Livinus, depositio s. Heriberti episcopi on April 30, st. Nicasius in red on Dec. 14): for each month in the calendar there is a distich (beg. 'Prima dies mensis') and a rude miniature of the occupation suitable to it, as enumerated in the Ecclesiologist, no. 3 (Sept. 1, 1888), p. 35: b (fol. 7) a Psalter followed by the canticles and Quicunque Vult, in the same hand as the calendar (A): c (fol. 210) Litany &c. according to the use of Sarum in a hand (B) of about a.d. 1400. On fol. 207v a Protestant owner has erased the invocation ‘sancte Thoma’ and inserted ‘sancta Iohanna papa’!

Owned in the late 15th cent. by Rose Tressham, who has inserted at fol. 6v the following advice to readers: ‘Lerne to kepe your books fayre & ockapy them well & use to clasp them when you have done.’ In the 16th cent. ‘Oliverus Yate me possidet’. Then ‘liber Eduardi Yate Somatochristiani ex dono. . . . Eduardi Yate de Buckland armigeri consanguinei sui, 7 Julii 1601.’ Afterwards owned by John Collins, clerk.

Now MS. Auct. D. 4. 3.

4053. (28). In Latin, on parchment: written late in the 13th cent. in England: 6½ x 4¼ in., 440 leaves, in double columns: with illuminated capitals, &c.

A Latin Vulgate Bible with the prologues of St. Jerome, but wanting the Psalms with Proverbs i–iv and all the Epistles excepting Heb. xiii. The New Testament begins at fol. 341, and is followed at fol. 404 by the ‘interpretaciones Hebraicorum nominum’. A calendar at fol. 196, which preceded the missing Psalter (St. Hugh, April 9; Invention of St. Ive’s, April 24) perhaps points to the east Midlands: and some 14th-cent. additions to it, St. Peter Martir at April 29, St. Dominic at Aug. 5, and the obits of Sir Oliver Daencurt (Sept. 3) and of Nicholas Daencurt (Sept. 12), show that the MS. belonged to a Dominican house, perhaps in Lincolnshire. On the other hand, St. Milburga occurs twice in the original hand, suggesting connexion with the west of England. There are theological notes on fol. 439v, and the note ‘precium xlv viij’.

Now MS. Auct. D. 5. 16.

4054. (29). In Latin, &c., on parchment: written about 1458 at Ferrara: 6½ x 4¼ in., vi+156 leaves: with illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, brown leather with gold ornament, English work of about 1625.

A (in Latin, written at Ferrara about 1458) i (fol. vi). ‘Incipit prologus Jacobi de Cessolisi ordinis fratrum predicatorem super libro quem com-sopusit super ludo Scachorum’, followed by a list of chapters and the text of the work.

2 (fol. 78). Two Latin translations by Cincius Romanus: a (fol. 78) ‘Socrates de morte contempnenda’, i.e. the pseudo-Platonic dialogue Axiochus, preceded by two prefatory pieces; of the first the greater part is wanting through the loss of a leaf, the second is a dedicatory epistle to Jordanus de Ursinis, cardinal (1412–39), both dated from Bologna; the translation beg. ‘Cum ex Athenis decederem’: b (fol. 87v) ‘Plutarchi sermo de virtute et vicio’ with a dedication to the bishop of Cava and cardinal-priest of St. Mark, i.e. Angelottus Fuscus, 1431–44; preface beg.
'Ab hac tantula mea', text beg. 'Indumenta quidem hominum', and ends with the colophon Ferarie scriptus anno Domini Millesimo cccemo quinquagesimo octavo. mense marci'.

3 (fol. 91). 'Epistola Bernardi Siluestris super gubernacione rei familiaris feliciter.' The first leaf is wanting and the text now beg. 'tate viuere recte viuit'.

4 (fol. 94). 'Tractatus consiliandi', an anonymous Latin essay on counsel; the prologue beg. 'Consiliandi discrecio et ars', text beg. 'Consilium est inquisicio'.

5 (fol. 109). 'Breuiloquium de virtutibus antiquorum principum & philosophorum', imperfect through the loss of the first leaf and beg. 'possidendo. Item dicitur esse in eis', ends 'Ego veritas. ubi vis permanere. ego vita. Amen': a compilation from Valerius Maximus, Cicero, Vegetius, st. Augustine, and other classical and medieval writers, arranged under the heads of the four cardinal virtues: followed at fol. 152v by a fragment of a sermon on the observation of Sunday and some later Latin theological notes. The original fly-leaves ( foll. iv, v) are from a 15th-cent. Latin medical treatise.

B (in Welsh, written in England about A.D. 1600) 6 (foll. 77, 104v). Welsh metrical versions of Psalms i, vi, xv, lii, composed by John Tudor and dedicated to Nicholas [Robinson], bp. of Bangor (1566–85), entered on blank leaves of the volume, probably by Edward Hughes, archdeacon of Bangor, a later owner.

At fol. ii is a Latin summary of the contents of the volume and of its history. It belonged in 1597 to David Lloyd of Llwydiarth, co. Anglesey; who gave it in that year to Edward Hughes, S.T.P., then fellow of Jesus college, Cambridge, and afterwards archdeacon of Bangor; and it was given by dr. Hughes, March 15, 1625, to his pupil, sir Christopher Hatton, afterwards 1st lord Hatton.

See above.
Now MS. Hatton 105.

4055. (30). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 3rd quarter of the 14th cent., probably in South Wales: $6\frac{1}{4} \times 4\frac{1}{4}$ in., ii+250 leaves: with illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, red leather on boards, with two clasps, English 15th-cent. work.

A Psalter, written for use in the diocese of Llandaff (see calendar and litany), with added offices. The various pieces are: a (fol. 2) Calendar, with the usual distich for each month (beg. 'Primo dies mensis'); in the calendar 'S. Theliay' (Teilo) is honoured, st. Anne has been inserted by the original scribe, and stt. Thomas Aquinas, Peter Martyr, and Dominic have been added by a 15th-cent. Dominican owner: b (fol. 8) the Psalter, commencing at Ps. ii. 6, owing to the loss of the first leaf, followed by the canticles and creed (fol. 163), and litanies (fol. 178v);
stt. Teilo, Dubricius, and Odocceus are given at the end of the confessors in the litany, the first-named occurring twice: c (fol. 187) Psalter of the Virgin Mary, a Latin hymn (Chevalier 2269) to the Virgin in 150 verses (beg. ‘Aue uirgo uirginum per quam uir beatus’: d (fol. 202) Office for the Dead, followed, in a second hand, by the ‘Commemoratio Animarum’ (fol. 219), both with music; foll. 221, 222 are transposed, as also are foll. 223, 224, and foll. 223, 225, 226 are blank: e (fol. 227) weekly and daily service of the Virgin Mary, according to the use of Hereford, in a third hand.

Fol. i is part of a leaf from a 12th-cent. Antiphoner, apparently not Hereford, having English neums on a four-line stave.

See above. ‘Nunc liber est ... Benedictus ... ’, ‘Iste lyber con ... churche ... ’, early 16th-cent. inscriptions on fol. 251. About 1600 ‘sum Johannis Georgii codex’.

Now MS. Hatton 106.

4056. (31). In Latin, on parchment: made up of eight pieces written in the 11th–14th cent., some in England: 75 x 4\frac{3}{4} in., iii + 245 leaves: generally with capitals marked in colour: binding, brown leather stamped with the arms of Hatton of Holdenby, viz.: quarterly of six, (1) a chevron between three garbs for Hatton, (2) a cross patonce between four martlets for Golborne, (3) an eagle displayed for Bruin, (4) a cross engrailed ermine for Hatton, (5) a saltire for Helsby, (6) five cinquefoils in cross for Holdenby; crest, a hind statant on an esquire’s helm; English work of the 1st quarter of the 17th cent.

A (early 13th cent.: with coloured capitals) i (fol. 1). ‘Tractatus magistri Willelmi de Conchis et vocatur philosophia’, an added 15th-cent. title, i.e. the Dragmaticon (cf. nos. 3565, 3623), in seven books, with a prologue (beg. ‘Queris venerande dux Normannorum’) and diagrams; followed at fol. 36 by a short Latin piece on prayer, of which the first five lines have been erased.

B (late 13th cent.) 2 (fol. 37). ‘Tractatus de sp[h]era’ by Johannes de Sacro Bosco, as usual without author’s name; some later marginal notes.

C (2nd half of the 12th cent.: with coloured capitals) 3 (fol. 46). ‘Didascalicon Hugonis [de Sancto Victore] de studio legendi’, in six books, preceded by a table of chapters. The prologue is followed (fol. 48v) by an epitaph on the author in Leonines, beg. ‘Fons diuinarius magnus defecit aquarum’, and, in another hand, the note ‘Anno ab incarnatione dominica MCVXL. iiij. Idibus Februarii. obiit magister Hugo Sancti Victoris huius operis auctor’. Capp. 2–3 of book v are repeated at the end of the tract (fol. 111).

D (11th cent.) 4 (fol. 113). Epistolae Apollinaris Sidonii, with glosses. The MS. is imperfect through the early loss of a gathering after fol. 120 which contained ep. i. 9 communes Gennadius—ep. ii. 2 lemborum superlabentium; the right half of fol. 131 is missing, as is the following leaf, containing epp. iii. 6–12; the final gatherings are wanting, and the MS. now ends with ep. v. 3, the opening lines of ep. v. 4 having been erased.

E (written at the end of the 13th cent. in South Wales) 5 (fol. 151). Formulae epistolarum, apparently extracted from the episcopal register of Thomas Becke, bp. of st. David’s, 1280–93. Amongst other letters are one from king Edward i requesting prayers for the soul of king Alexander iii of Scotland, a sentence of excommunication on Rhys ap Madoc, and letters from archbp. John Peckham, Peter, bp. of Exeter, and Ralph, prior of St. Nicholas, Pembroke. At fol. 156 follow some Civil Law notes on distraint.

6 (fol. 157). Commentaries on: a the pseudo-Aristotelian treatise De differentia spiritus et animae (beg. ‘Spiritus autem est quoddam corpus subtile.’ . . . Dubitatio prima est); b (fol. 168) Aristotle De Anima, bks. i–ii (beg. ‘Quaestio est de unitate anime’). The former treatise has been stated to be a translation into Latin by Johannes Hispanensis from the Arabic of Costa ben Lucca.

F (about A.D. 1200) 7 (fol. 173). The Liber de S. Anselmi Similitudinibus of Eadmer, without title or author’s name: ends imperfect at cap. 134. At fol. 198v is a 15th-cent. note on the structure of the universe; foll. 200–1 are blank. There is an effaced inscription of ownership on fol. 173 at top.

9 (fol. 213). ‘Incipit liber prefigurationum Christi et ecclesie’, in the same hand as the preceding; an anonymous Latin hexameter poem on Old Testament types of Christ and of His Church, not in Migne’s Patrologia: beg. ‘Mille modis Christus precognitus exoriturus’, ends imperfect in the account of Melchisedech, ‘per eum fiant benedicte’. Foll. 210–12, 218–20 are blank.

H (written early in the 14th cent. in England: in double columns) 10 (fol. 221). ‘Exempla de Animalibus compilata a magistro O’done de Cheriton’, 86 in number, with prologue, beg. ‘Aperiam in parabolis meum’: at the end is a 15th-cent. rubric, ‘Explicit Esopus in fabulis’: unnoticed in Hervieux’s Fabulistes Latins. The piece is followed in a different hand by a (fol. 238v) an apocalyptic vision, b (fol. 239) a Latin ‘narratio optima’ with English quotation, beg. ‘Quondam erat miles qui multum gloriaratur’.

The end fly-leaf (fol. 242) contains a 15th-cent. Latin note ‘de musica’.

Now MS. Auct. F. 5. 25.
4057. (32). In French, on parchment: made up of two MSS. written early in the 14th cent. in England: 75 x 5 in., iv+180 leaves.

A (in a book hand, with illuminated capitals, &c.) I (fol. 1). 'Le manuel de pechez' of William of Waddington, here called 'William de Wildingdun', with the prologue (beg. La uertu du saint espirit) and epilogue.

B (in a charter hand: coloured capitals) 2 (fol. 154). 'Tractatus domini Roberti Groseteste in lingua romana de Princípio Creacionis Mundi . . . in quo continentur omnes articuli tam diuinitatis quam humanitatis', as expressed in the Latin prologue. This is the French poem entitled 'Chasteau d'Amour' (beg. 'Qui ben pense pue dire'), here ending imperfect with the lines 'Apres cel tens signes uerront, Par ki tote genz morront' (v. 1540 in dr. J. Murray's edition, Paris, 1918).

Other copies in Bodley are nos. 1053, 2230, 2306, 21706.

The fly-leaves are a (foll. iii-iv) from an early 15th-cent. Latin grammatical treatise, b (foll. 178-9) part of a Latin roll written about 1319 (cp. Wilkins's Concilia, ii. 486) containing a schedule of miracles wrought by Robert Winchelsey, archbp. of Canterbury.

'Thys boke gyffys dame Margaret Cokfeld to Marget Byngham. In the 3ere of oure Lorde j m1. cccc0.liij.' (fol. 138v).

Now MS. Hatton 99.

4058. (33). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 14th cent. in England: 8½ x 5½ in., 302 leaves, in double columns: with illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, red leather on bevelled boards, clasps wanting, English 15th-cent. work.

'Distinctiones fratri Nicholai de Gorham ordinis fratrum predicatortum', a series of theological discourses arranged in alphabetical order of subjects, beg. 'Abeuncium per hunc mundum': preceded by a list of incipits of chapters (fol. 1) and a prologue (fol. 22v) stating the incorporation of certain distinctiones of Nicholas de Biard 'cum aliis moralitatibus aliunde exceptis': these insertions are marked 'additum' in the margin. A 'tabula generalis' of headings, wanting all but the first and last leaves, follows at fol. 302. The first gathering and two or three blank leaves at the end have been cut out, but the text is complete except for the loss of a single leaf after fol. 60.

Now MS. Hatton 71.

4059. (34). In Latin, on parchment: made up of two MSS. written chiefly in the 1st half of the 14th cent. in England: 13½ x 7½ in., 147 leaves in double columns.

A (with illuminated capitals) I (fol. 2). 'Liber de regimine principum editus a fratre Egidio Romano ordinis fratrum heremitarum sancti Augustini', in three books, each preceded by a list of chapters: imperfect through the loss of the first leaf (lib. i. i, cap. 1), several leaves after fol.
100 (lib. III. ii, cap. 12 peruersio & corruptio populi—cap. 24 ratio autem quare iuri), and single leaves after foll. 101, 105, 107, 116.

The piece is followed at fol. 117 by an index 'edita a fratre Thoma Abendon' added in an early 15th-cent. hand and with illuminations as above.

B (about 1300, with coloured capitals) 2 (fol. 125). 'Flauii Vegeti Renati viri illustris Epytoma' rei militaris, in four books, each preceded by a list of chapters: a leaf is missing after fol. 128, and the MS. ends imperfect in lib. iv, cap. 42 'retardat aduersa' through the loss of the final leaf.

Now MS. Auct. F. 3. 2.

4060. (35). In French, on parchment: written in the 2nd quarter of the 15th cent. in England: 11 \( \times \) 8 in., 45 leaves: with illuminated capitals, &c.: in contemporary binding of white sheepskin on boards, clasp lost.

Statutes of Henry iv, v, and vi, ending in 4 Hen. vi, cap. vi, 'ne nulle manere ressue' (one or more gatherings being lost), including 'ordinaciones scaccarii' of 9 Hen. iv (fol. 25) and an 'ordinacio facta . . . de resumptione prioratum alienigenarum' of 2 Hen. v (fol. 38v, cf. fol. 32v). The fly-leaves (foll. 1-2, 44-5) contain Latin motets or cantica in two-part harmony, with musical notes, written late in the 14th cent.

The name 'John Savile' (early 17th cent.) is on fol. 45.

Now MS. Hatton 81.

4061. (36). In Latin, on parchment: made up of five MSS. written in the 1st half of the 13th and 2nd half of the 14th centt. in England: 10 \( \times \) 6 \( \frac{1}{2} \) in., 243 leaves.

'Hic introducuntur persone duorum deflentis Hominis & ammonicionis Rationis. O homo anima mea in angustiis'), followed by thirty-five sermons, including extract 'de omeliis beati Gregorii' (fol. 67), two sermons here ascribed to st. Augustine, of which one, 'de die iudicii'
(no. 252 in Migne's Patrologia, Appendix), beg. 'Fratres karissimi quam timendus est dies ille' (foll. 74, 87), 'omelia s. Ysodoti' [sic], beg. 'Satis multum oportet nos' (fol. 83v), 'dicta a sancto Gregorii vij dierum ante diem iudicii', beg. 'Prima die iudicii' (fol. 88): at the end (fol. 89) is a legend of Hieronymus bp. of Pavia and a commentary on the Lord's Prayer (beg. 'Oraturos ergo monet orare').

C (middle of the 14th cent.: with coloured capitals) 3 (fol. 90). 'Liber Scintillarum Cassiodori senatoris de diuersis voluminibus', a compilation by Defensor the monk: here preceded by a list of chapters but without the preface: beg. 'Maiorem caritatem nemo habet'. At fol. 146 the hand changes to one of a peculiar cursive character which continues to the end of C.

4 (fol. 151). 'De scientia utilissima homini mortali que est scire mori', a dialogue, otherwise known as the Ars Moriendi, having for its interlocutors Discipulus, Sapientia, and Imago Mortis: beg. 'Cum omnes homines naturaliter scire desiderent', ends 'ad locum immortalitatis ac felicitatis eternae Amen'.

5 (fol. 159v). 'Speculum peccatoris', wrongly attributed to st. Augustine, st. Bernard (no. 4070), and Richard Rolle, here anonymous: beg. 'Quoniam karissime in huius uite uia'. Fol. 166 is blank.

6 (fol. 167). Richard Rolle of Hampole 'De conversione peccatoris ad Dominum', usually called De emendatione peccatoris, here without author's name: beg. 'Ne tardes converti'.

7 (fol. 183v). The Speculum Ecclesiae of st. Edmund Rich, without title or author's name: beg. 'Videte vocacionem vestram'.

Arts. 6 and 7 are unnoticed in the Old Catalogue.

D (A.D. 1234: part in double columns) 8 (fol. 205). Theological pieces and notes: a (fol. 205) 'Decimum preceptum', the latter part of a treatise on the Vices—the first remaining chapter, De susurrature, beg. 'Susuratio inter fratres discordie seminacio est': b (fol. 211) verses on the Seven Deadly Sins, &c.; theological notes and excerpts: at fol. 211 a Middle English theological note (beg. 'Leue men pis beop pe pen heste') has been added in an only slightly later hand, and at fol. 212v, in the same hand as the rest of D, is a Latin chronological note written in A.D. 1234.

9 (fol. 214). Moral sentences from the Fathers arranged under subjects; the first few headings are Temptacio, Patiencia, Humilitas.

E (13th cent.: with coloured capitals) 10 (fol. 232). The latter portion of a satire on contemporary vices: the first remaining chapter is De accepcione munerum, the last is De fornicatione et adulterio. The last three leaves are torn. Some Latin verses occur on foll. 241v, 242.

A parchment bookmarker is in the volume.
Art. C once formed a separate volume, and a 15th-cent. inscription on fol. 204v states 'Iste liber constat de domo sancti Thome martiris iuxta Staffordiam' (a house of Austin canons). A note of payments by Dobbe de Birkedale and others has been entered with a stylus in a 15th-cent. hand at the foot of foll. 102, 115-17.

B (in French: 1st half of the 14th cent.) 5 (fol. 83). Pleadings in the courts of Common Pleas and King’s Bench, temp. Edward i and ii, including some of 30 Edw. i, with other law notes.

C (in Latin: late 13th cent.: with coloured capitals) 6 (fol. 90). Fragment of a manual for preachers, without beginning or end, consisting of ‘Auctoritates’ or passages suitable for sermons on such subjects as Avaritia, Accidia, Superbia. A French theological note occurs at the foot of fol. 95v.

The entire volume is described in the Old Catalogue as ‘Magna Charta, &c. Imperf.’!

An entry of a ‘curia prioris de Thornholm tenta apud Appilby’ occurs at fol. 42v, i.e. the prior of the house of Austin canons at Thorneholm in Lincolnshire to which monastery this MS. may have belonged.

Now MS. Hatton 28.

4067. (42). In French, on parchment: written early in the 13th cent., perhaps in France: 8¼ x 5½ in., iii+176 leaves: with illuminated capitals, &c.

Three fragments, in different hands, of the romance of Renaut de Montaibon or Quatre fils Aymon, in French verse: a (fol. 1), imperfect through the loss of the first gathering, beg. ‘Vus ne deuez pas creire conseil de ioesne hoem’, b (fol. 11) beg. ‘Si sunt les baruns en la roche enserrez’, c (fol. 72) beg. ‘Seignurs cco dist Renaut oez e escutez’, and has the title ‘Ici comence le romau nz de quatre fiz Eadmund’ which is applicable to the whole volume. The MS. has been described by C. Hippeau in Archives des Missions Scientifiques (1856), 1st ser., v. 134, 162–5, by E. Stengel in Romanische Studien (1873), i. 382, and by J. C. Matthes in Jahrb. f. rom. u.engl. litteratur, xv. 1. The fly-leaves (foll. ii–iii, 174–5) are from a late 14th-cent. MS. of distinctiones theologicae, and show the offset of the original red leather binding.

Now MS. Hatton 59.

4068. (43). In English and Latin, on parchment and paper: made up of three MSS. written in the late 15th cent.: 9½ x 5½ in., i+97 leaves.

A (on parchment: with coloured capitals) 1 (fol. 1). ‘Macer of vertues of herbis’, a free translation into English prose of the Latin Carmen de virtutibus herbarum of Floridus Macer, in three parts, followed by a (fol. 51) a fourth part containing 'a few herbes of the wiche Macer ne treted not', b (fol. 56) extracts from Macer's Carmen, ending imperfect in the chapter de acidula. The numbering of the quires h–m shows that A originally followed other tracts.

B (on paper) 2 (fol. 60). Treatises on uroscopy: a (fol. 60) an English treatise on the judgement of urines, commencing imperfect, ends 'that seknes in sothnes is uncurable for to bene yhulpen': b (fol. 68v) a description in English of sixteen kinds of urine and the appropriate medical treatment, with coloured drawings of urinals: c (fol. 69v) an English treatise on inspection of urines, beg. 'It ys for to wytt that in iiiij partes of the body': d (fol. 75v) a similar treatise in Latin, beg. 'Urina rufa significat salutem'. There are English medical prescriptions on foll. 80v, 81v.

C (on paper) 3 (fol. 82). A collection of medical recipes, in English, arranged according to subject. The first five chapters of the first tract is wanting, owing to the loss of a single leaf, but a list of them is given on fol. 80. Then follow medicines 'for woundes & for to mak gode salues & entretes' (fol. 84v), 'liber magistri R., medicyne for the hede & the eyen' (fol. 87), 'medicynes for all maner sekenesse proved be Ypocras. Galiene & many other mastrs' (fol. 89v), 'for tothwark & all yuelles in the teth' (fol. 90v), 'for all maner of iuelles in a mans throte' (fol. 92), 'for the stomak & the herte' (fol. 93), 'for diuerse yuels in a mans lyuer' (fol. 93v), 'for all swellyng, akyng, bolnyng, gnawyng, in a mans body' (fol. 93v), 'for swellyng of knees. leggis. or fete' (fol. 94v), 'medicynes withoutene a manns body' (fol. 95), the last ending imperfect.

B was 'Fransus Dalymons boke' in the early 16th cent., also 'John Thormor'.
Now MS. Hatton 29.

4069. (44). In Latin, on parchment: made up of two MSS. written in the 2nd half of the 13th cent. in England: 8½ × 6 in., 114 leaves in double columns.

A (with illuminated capitals). Epistles and minor works of L. Annaeus Seneca, &c.:

1 (fol. 5). Epistolae ad Lucilium i–lxxviii, here numbered i–lxxxix, in the following order: '59' (58), '67' (65), '68' (66), i, 3–5, 9–'50' (49), 2, '51'–'58' (50–7), '61'–'66' (59–64), '69'–'76' (67–74), '60' (75), '77'–'89' (76–88), 6–8. At the end (fol. 78v) is the 'epitaphium Senece'.

2 (fol. 75v). Cicero de senectute, capp. 19–23, here without author's name, beg. 'Mors aut plane negligenda'.

4 (fol. 81). De Beneficiis, in abridged form.
5 (fol. 98). Formula honestae vitae sive De quatuor virtutibus, a spurious work, sometimes attributed to s. Martinus Dumiensis, but without his preface: ends 'nec timidum esse hominem nec audacem'.

6 (fol. 99v). An anonymous epistle on friendship, beg. 'Preter equum qui inter dispares', followed (fol. 101v) by extracts from the epistles of Apollinaris Sidonius, here also anonymous.

Artt. 4–6 are by a second scribe, who has added on fol. 80 select moral passages from Latin authors, cp. fol. 101.

8 (fol. 110). 'Seneca de paupertate', a work not by Seneca, beg. 'Honesta id quod epicurea res est': by the same scribe as artt. 4–6.

'Iste liber est de prioratu Sancti Thome [erased] Stafford. accommodatus fratri Philippo de Merston.' Late 13th cent.

Now MS. Auct. F. 5. 17.

4070. (45). In Latin, &c., on paper and parchment mixed: written early in the 15th cent. in England: 9 X 5½ in., vi+127 leaves.

Religious treatises:

1 (fol. 1). 'Speculum Christiani', usually ascribed to Thomas Watton, here anonymous, a Latin religious treatise in eight Tabulae, interspersed with English verse and prose, as in nos. 1177, 1886, 12255, 32216, &c. A list of the Tabulae precedes, but the preface is wanting, and the text begins 'De fide catholica dicitur in simbolo'.

2 (fol. 34v). Narrative of the death and burial of st. Jerome, with his dying exhortations to his monks. This piece appears to begin imperfect 'Ex aspectu mulieris causatur concupiscencia', and continues 'De uita et morte huius Ieronomi. Demum ad fratres.'

3 (fol. 42v). 'Liber de uisitacione infirmorum secundum Augustinum', not a genuine work of st. Augustine: see no. 4051.

4 (fol. 52). 'Liber Augustini de milicia spirituali', the exhortation generally known as Admonitio ad filium spiritualem: beg. 'Audi fili mi ammonicionem... Cupio te instruire.' The piece is more commonly ascribed to st. Basil of Caesarea, but its authorship is quite uncertain.

5 (fol. 62v). 'Tractatus beati Barnardi qui dicitur speculum peccatoris', a treatise equally attributed to st. Augustine and to Richard Rolle but of unknown authorship: beg. 'Quoniam fratres karissimi in huius uite uia'.

6 (foll. 68, 88). Religious meditations in Latin, a cento from the writings of the Fathers, st. Bonaventura, and Richard Rolle: beg. 'Incipit Bonauentura de uita Christi... Dominus Ihesus Christus ipsemet deus.'
MINOR DONATIONS

7 (fol. 82v). 'Contra temptaciones & tribulaciones cordis', a treatise in five chapters, doubtfully ascribed to Richard Rolle but here anonymous: beg. 'Quia ut ait apostolus. Sive fide impossible est.'

8 (fol. 91). Select chapters from the Stimulus Amoris attributed to st. Bonaventura: beg. 'Transfige dilectissime Jhesu medullas anime mee'. At the end (fol. 109) is a list of the chapters in the order in which they are here given.

9 (fol. 109v). 'Manuale Sacerdotis', an abbreviated form of this manual, here anonymous but known to be by John Mirk, prior of Lilleshall: beg. 'Evangelium est regula sacerdotum. Summus sacerdos & uerus pontifex.'

10 (fol. 120). A treatise on prayer and on the canonical hours: beg. 'Duplex oratio, quedam publica'.

The fly-leaves (fol. iii–vi) are composed of a lease of a tenement in st. Paul's churchyard from John Stephenson to James Jackson, both London citizens, Feb. 7, 1573; fragments of two other deeds; and a list of pensions paid out Oct. 20, 1567.

Now MS. Hatton 97.

4071. (46). In Latin, on parchment: made up of two MSS. written in the 14th–15th cent. in England: 8¾ × 5½ in., i + 73 leaves.

A (14th cent.: illuminated capitals and borders) 1 (fol. 3). 'Secreta Secretorum', the pseudo-Aristotelian treatise, in five books, preceded by a (fol. 3, cp. fol. 42) the letter to bp. Guido de Valencia of Philippus Tripolitanus who translated the work from Arabic into Latin (beg. 'Domino suo excellentissimo': b (fol. 4v) a list of chapters: c (fol. 5v) 'prohemium cuiusdam doctoris in commendacione Aristotilis' (beg. 'Deus omnipotens custodiat'), wherein is quoted (fol. 7) the preface of Johannes filius Patricii (ibn Batrig) who translated the work out of Greek into Arabic. Then follows an 'epistola Aristotilis missa ad peticionem Alexandri', forming the first chapter of the text (beg. 'O fili gloriosissime').

B (early 15th cent.: coloured capitals) 2 (fol. 64). The story of the philosopher Secundus and (cp. fol. 60) his replies to the questions put to him by the emperor Hadrian, as translated out of Greek into Latin by Guillaume de Gap: beg. 'Secundus philosophus fuit'.

3 (fol. 67v). 'Summa de quatuor temporibus anni Alexandro regi instructis', or, as in the colophon, 'Naturales medicine Aristoteles'. This is a section of the Secreta Secretorum of Aristotle, translated into Latin by Johannes Hispalensis (ibn Daud) and preceded by the translator's letter to T[ephana?] queen of Spain.

Some musical notes are written in a 15th-cent. hand on fol. 63.

'Johanni Dawbney pertinet liber iste', 16th cent. (fol. 59v).

Now MS. Hatton 62.
MISCELLANEOUS MSS. AND

4072. (47). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 14th cent. in England, by John of Whytefeld: $8\frac{1}{2} \times 6\frac{1}{2}$ in., i + 254 leaves: with coloured capitals.

Historical works of William of Malmesbury, transcribed by John of Whytefeld, monk of Rochester, as stated in the colophons:

1 (fol. 1). De gestis pontificum Anglorum, in four books, a copy of the second recension: ends, like many other MSS., near the close of book iv, 'exercere ibi uitam'. Foll. 12-13, 20-1 have been transposed in binding. The work is followed by a (fol. 83v) a list of chapters: b (fol. 84v) short monastic annals, A.D. 186-1246, giving the dates of foundation of English abbeys and churches: beg. 'Anno ab incarnatione Domini. c\textsuperscript{0}LXXXVj0. subuersum est templum Apollinis': at the end is a note of the introduction of monks to Rochester, A.D. 1083.

2 (fol. 87). De gestis regum Anglorum, in five books, followed (fol. 250) by a list of chapters. This article, unlike the preceding, has been copied from Harl. MS. 261, formerly a Rochester book, and gives the text of the first recension as revised by a later editor. See Stubbs, W. Malmesbiriensis, Rolls Series, vol. i, pp. xlix, lxxv.

See above.

Now MS. Hatton 54.

4073. (48). In Latin, on parchment: made up of two MSS. written in the 13th and 15th centt. in England: $8 \times 5\frac{1}{2}$ in., 164 leaves.

A (early 15th cent.: illuminated capitals and borders) i (fol. 4). Mauricius prior de Kyrkham contra Salomitas, a polemic against those who held that Salome, the companion of the two Maries, was a man. The work consists of a prologue (beg. 'Sequentis epistole seu libelli') and five chapters (the first beg. 'Reuerendissimo patri & domino purissimo G . . . quia pater sanctissime'), and is dedicated to Gilbert prior of Sempringham. Then comes (fol. 30v) an 'epistola ad Rogerum Eboracensem archiepiscopum' from the same writer on the same subject (beg. 'Quod imperitus sermone'), and finally (fol. 37v) a complimentary interchange of verses between the two; the prior writes in anacreontics, the archbishop replies in hexameters. The Contra Salomitas occurs in a shorter version in MS. Linc. coll. lat. 27, but the author and his works appear to be otherwise unknown. The first piece may be dated from internal evidence to the years 1169-76 (quotation from the Historia Scholastica on fol. 15, allusion to William archbp. of Sens on fol. 27); the second was written later, after the writer had reached his 65th year (fol. 37).

2 (fol. 40). A prose analysis of the fifteen books of the Metamorphoses of Ovid, without title: beg. 'Prima fabula primi libri incipit sic . . . Cum Saturnus reget.'

3 (fol. 70v). 'Integumenta Ouidii Methamorphoseos, id est Ouidii in transformatis', usually, as in no. 2581, ascribed to Johannes Anglicus and so taken to be by Johannes Wallensis, but here attributed to Johannes de Garlandia. The prologue beg. 'Parus maiori paret' and gives the author's name as Johannes: 'Morphosis Ouidii parua cum clae Johannis | Panditur & presens cartula seruit ei.' The text consists of a summary of each of the fifteen books in elegiac verse followed by an allegorical interpretation in prose.

5 (fol. 132). Auctoritates patrum on moral subjects, as accidia, oratio, silencium, written in a set book hand differing from the foregoing: beg. 'Exordium sume a Deo'. At the end (fol. 141v) are a few Latin prayers and theological notes.

6 (fol. 146). A series of Latin metrical proverbs, in rhythmical verse and also in hexameters: the first is 'Muneribus dandis occurrant quatuor ista | quis dans, queve petens, que res, que causa petendi'. Cp. fol. 125v.

7 (foll. 38v, 100, 128, 142v). Aesopic and other fables and moralized tales, chiefly taken from the Parabolaes of Odo of Cheriton, here called Odo of Narbonne, also from Valerius Maximus. At fol. 100 is a tale from Barlaam and Josaphat here attributed to Johannes Damascenus, and on fol. 100v allusion is made to Thomas Weyland, the chief justice. These tales are entered on such leaves of the MS. as had originally been left blank.

B (2nd quarter of the 13th cent.: with coloured capitals) 8 (fol. 154). Statuta synodalia of an unnamed bishop of Winchester (perhaps Peter des Roches), without title, not in Wilkins's Concilia: beg. 'Licet omnes canonicas sanctiones teneantur firmiter observare'. The first clause confirms the statutes of the Council of Oxford (A.D. 1222).

Now MS. Hatton 92.
(fol. 55), with Litany (fol. 60v), and 'Vigilie Mortuorum' (fol. 65) with the 'octo uersus s. Bernardi' (fol. 82) and eight memoriae, with a miniature of each in the initial capital (fol. 83). The office resembles that of no. 19342 which is probably Flemish. The occurrence of Aldegundis (Jan. 30), Servatius (May 13), and Hubertus (Sept. 6) in the Calendar suit this ascription, as do Nicasius in red (Dec. 14) and Firminus (Jan. 9 and Sept. 25) and the prominence given to st. Adrian in the Litany. The volume has been mutilated by cutting off the ornamental border of the first page of each of the Hours of the Virgin and of each other office, and by cutting out in each case the preceding leaf, presumably because it contained a full-page miniature.

Now MS. Hatton 69.

4075. (50). In French, &c., on parchment: made up of five MSS. written in the 13th cent. in England: 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 in., i+84 leaves.

French romances, sermons, &c.:

A 1 (fol. 1: double columns). French prose translation of the fabulous Latin chronicle of Charlemagne's Spanish campaigns ascribed to archbp. Turpin of Rheims, made by an unknown writer by order of count Reynald of Boulogne in 1206, as is expressed in the preface: prologue beg. 'Oeurs est que li plusour ont oi uolenters': text beg. 'Oeirs est qe li glorios aspostles mis sira sein Iames'. At the end of the chronicle is a list of French kings to Philip Augustus (fol. 17v): beg. 'Li primers rois qui unkes fu en France'.

2 (fol. 18: part in double columns). The Prophecies of Merlin, translated from the Historia of Geoffrey of Monmouth into rhymed French verse. The historical introduction (beg. 'Li estorie de Bretane maiour | Dunt li bretun primes furent Seignur') is peculiar to this MS., but it lacks the epilogue ascribing the authorship to a certain Heliás. The poem has been in part printed from a Durham MS. (C IV. 27) by Francisque Michel in Documents Inédits, 1839, 'Rapports au Ministre', pp. 225–30: see also Bulletin de la Soc. des Anciens Textes français, 1882, p. 53.

C (in double columns) 4 (fol. 47). Seven French sermons by Maurice de Sully, bp. of Paris, for the Sundays in Advent and Christmas day, on the Creed, and on the Lord's Prayer, without author's name: imperfect at end: see art. 5 below.

D (with coloured capitals) 5 (fol. 51). Sermons for Sundays throughout the year, by Maurice de Sully (de Soliaco), bp. of Paris, in French, here without author's name: beg. (as in no. 21844) 'Cum natus esset Jhesus in Belleem. . . . Nus lisuns en leuuangeli’: ending abruptly in the sermon for the third Sunday in Advent ‘ke eles ne uestent mie plus beles uest . . .’, the remainder of the page being filled with a 14th-cent. draft grant of a corrody, in Latin.

E (in Latin: some coloured capitals) 6 (fol. 76). A Latin manual for a parish priest: beg. ‘De irregularitatibus que indigent dispensacione apostolica. Inprimis igitur in uirtute spiritus sancti.’ Theological notes have been added on foll. 82v, 83.

Now MS. Hatton 67.

4076. (51). In Latin, on parchment: written about A.D. 940–57 at Glastonbury: $9\frac{1}{2} \times 6\frac{1}{2}$ in., 73 leaves: binding, white sheepskin on reused boards over older sewing, central boss wanting, English 15th-cent. (?) work, re-backed and repaired.

‘Expositio Augustini in Apocalypsin’, a set of homilies of uncertain authorship. There are short lacunae in the text on foll. 44 and 59v (last line), and foll. 44v, 45 have been left blank. At the end (fol. 73v) is the contemporary inscription in large capitals ‘Dunstan. abbas hunc libellum scribere iussit’ and a long, erased inscription of the 15th cent. The fly-leaf (fol. 1) is from a 15th-cent. MS. of sacred songs for two voices with music. The wooden boards show the offprint of leaves from a Sacramentary written in England in the 11th cent.: see also no. 4081, fol. 42.

See above. The volume was apparently no longer at Glastonbury in 1248 since it is not included in the catalogue of the library drawn up in that year (printed in Hearne’s Johannes Glastoniensis, 1776, ii. 423-44), and a half-erased 15th-cent inscription ‘... cath (?) beate Marie Wygorii’ (fol. 73v) shows that the volume was taken to Worcester, possibly by st. Dunstan upon his appointment to that see. ‘M’ Herle’ owned it in the 16th cent.

Now MS. Hatton 30.

4077. (52). In Latin, on parchment: written early in the 15th cent. in England: $10\frac{1}{2} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$ in., 72 leaves: stained at each end by damp.

The Liber Synonymorum of Johannes de Garlandia (beg. ‘Ad mare ne videar’) with the commentary of Galfridus Grammaticus, here called ‘Galfridus de saluo vino’ [Vinsauf] (beg. ‘[C]um omnis libri diuisio’). The commencement of the poem to v. 87 is repeated with glosses on foll. 69v–70, later leaves having been cut out.

Now MS. Hatton 85.

4078. (53). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 2nd half of the 14th cent. in England: $10\frac{1}{2} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$ in., 64 leaves: with coloured capitals.

This MS. appears to be by the same scribe as no. 4061, art. C, and so may have belonged to the Austin priory of st. Thomas near Stafford. Now MS. Hatton 86.
4079. (54). In Latin, on parchment: written about A.D. 1450 in England: \(11\frac{1}{4}\times 7\frac{3}{4}\) in., iii + 27 leaves.

'Hec sunt statuta diffinitoria edita in capitolo generali [ordinis s. Benedicti in Anglia] tento Northampton Anno Domini 1444', preceded by clause of ratification, preamble, and list of tituli. The statutes beg. (fol. 3) 'In Dei nomine. . . . Postquam nos qui subditorum.' They have been published (from Cott. MS. Nero A iii) in Reyner's Apostolatus Benedictinorum in Anglia, pp. 113-39. There are heraldic pen drawings on foll. iii\(^{v}\), 4, 5, 25.

The name 'Nicholaus de Barnwell, seneschall hospicii domini regis' (15th cent.) is on fol. 25. Now MS. Hatton 87.

4080. (55). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 14th cent. in England (?): \(10\frac{4}{6}\times 6\frac{2}{6}\) in., 241 leaves: with illuminated capitals, borders, &c.

'Legendae sanctorum quas compilauit frater Iacobus natione Iau­nuensis de ordine fratrum predictorum', the Aurea Legenda or Lombardica historia of Jacobus de Voragine, with prologue and list of contents. The chapter 'De uirgine Antiochie' occurs out of place at fol. 4, and two leaves are wanting after fol. 143. At fol. 2 are fourteen 'miracula de corpore Christi': beg. 'Primum miraculum quare sollennitas noui festi'. There are Latin verses on fol. 5 and a liturgical note on Sarum usage on fol. 240.

The name 'Jhon Farley' (16th cent.) is on fol. 240\(^{v}\). Now MS. Hatton 88.

4081. (56). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 9th cent. in England: \(9\times 6\frac{1}{2}\) in., ii + 44 leaves: capitals marked in colour, illuminated initial on fol. 2.

An exposition of the mass ( = Migne, Patr. Lat., tom. cxxxviii, cols. 1173-86): beg. 'Primum in ordine misse antifona ad introitum canitur', ends 'antistes uelud aduocatus susceptos suos per manus inpositiones': written in a fine Mercian hand. Leaves are signed by the original scribe a-z, et, '7 p|m|', i–viii, a–e. Fol. 42 is part of a leaf of a Latin sacramentary containing votive masses written in the 11th cent. in England. For the reflex of other leaves from the same MS. see the covers of no. 4076, a Worcester priory MS. The volume also contains the following entries in early 12th-cent. hands: a (fol. 1) an extract 'Ex concilio [Romano] Bonefacii pape. qui quartus a beato Gregorio fuit, quod liceat monachis cum officio sacerdotali ubiubi ministrame' (Migne, lxxx. 104), A.D. 610: b (fol. 41) letter from pope Innocent ii to king Henry i of England, June 8, 1133; beg. 'Cognoscentes sententiam tuam'; no. 8313 in Jaffe-Wattenbach's Regesta Pontificum Romanorum, with a wrong date; printed from this MS. in Neues Archiv, xiv. 616: c (fol. 41\(^{v}\)) letter from the monks of st. Mary, Worcester, to Reinaldus, abbot of Evesham, about A.D.
MINOR DONATIONS

1143-9, beg. ‘Discordiæ seminarium fugere’: d (fol. 42) a Latin medical prescription: e (fol. 42v) two sets of verses on the calendar, beg. ‘Prima dies mensis et septima truncat ut ensis’, ‘Principium Iani sancti tropicus Capricornus’. The MS. has been described by Mr. F. E. Warren in the Academy, Oct. 13, 1888.

Probably a Worcester priory book: see above.

Now MS. Hatton 93.

4082. (57). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 2nd quarter of the 15th cent. in France: 10½ x 7½ in., iii + 139 leaves: with illuminated capitals.

Opuscula Nicolai de Clamengiis: a (fol. 2) Epistolae ix nomine Universitatis Parisiensis scriptae, the first being to king Charles vi of France; the first leaf is wanting and the text begins on the original second folio ‘O nos vere tali rege fortunatos’: b (fol. 41) De filio prodigio: c (fol. 51v) De fructu heremi: d (fol. 60v) De prosperitate adversitatis: e (fol. 70) De novis festivitatisibus: f (fol. 86v) De studio theologico: g (fol. 100v) Contra prelatos symoniacos: h (fol. 106) Descriptio rei cujusdam miraculis quae in Gallia accidisse ferebatur, beg. ‘Rem recenti uti accipio eventu gestam’: i (fol. 110) Sermo de sanctis innocentibus, beg. ‘Nota est tiranni Herodis’: j (fol. 113) Orationes x ante horas canonicas dicendae: k (fol. 120) De lapsu et reparacione justitiae. A former owner, Henry Holford, has written Latin verses on foll. iii, 40, 135v.

‘Cest liure est a moy Homfrey duc de Gloucestre du don Maistre Guillem Errard docteur en theologie chanoyne Nostre Dame de Rouen’ written in the duke’s autograph on fol. 119v with the motto ‘Loyale & belle’. A similar inscription occurs on fol. 134v, and on fol. 120 is ‘Loyale & belle A Gloucestre’, both in autograph. Guillaume Errard or Erard is the person to whom Clamengiis addressed the letter numbered 136 in Joh. Lydius’s edition (1613). The duke gave the MS. to the old Library of the University, Feb. 25, 1441. It is probably the volume seen there by John Leland about 1534-40 and described by him as ‘Epistolae Nicolai de Clamenge, cantoris Baiocensis, ad Carolum 6 Franc. regem’, Collectanea (1715), iii. 58, but must have disappeared in the spoliation of 1550-5. Afterwards ‘liber Henrici Holford de Longa Stanton in comitatu Cantabrigiae armiger, ex dono Domini Hugonis Wynnyngton in sacra theologia professoris’. Holford owned it in 1599 and 1606. Later it passed into the collection of Sir Christopher Hatton and so returned to the Library in 1671, but the history of the MS. remained unnoticed until 1902: see Pietas Oxoniensis, p. 11.

Now MS. Hatton 36.

4083. (58). In Latin, on parchment: written late in the 12th cent. in England: 9 x 5½ in., 133 leaves: with numerous coloured capitals: binding as no. 4026.

‘Concordia quattuor Euangelistarum. Euangelicæ Historiæ ordo. & Euangeliorum manuale breuiarium’, the Harmony of the Gospels of Clement prior of Llanthony, in twelve parts, with prologue (beg. ‘Huius operis fili karissime’), list of chapters, ‘rationes ordinis’ (fol. 124) or digests of each part (beg. ‘In principio erat uerbum &c. Ordo necessitatis est"), and many marginal notes. Other copies in Oxford are MSS. Trinity coll. 2, University coll. 19, Merton coll. 240.

Probably belonged to Thomas Windsor, 6th lord Windsor of Stanwell (d. 1641); see binding above.

Now MS. Hatton 61.

4084. (59). In French, on parchment: written in the 15th cent. in France: 10½ x 7½ in., i + 35 leaves: with fine illuminated borders, capitals, &c.: binding, stamped reddish-brown leather on boards, with monogram HE, contemporary French work.

'Chest le rapport que fait messire Guillebert de Lannoy chevalier sur les visitations de plusieurs villes pors et riuieres par lui faittes tant en Egipte comme en Surie. lan de grace nostre signeur mil. cccc. ving et deux Au commandement de . . . le Roy Henry dangelletterre heritier et Regent de Franche': a military report on Egypt and Syria undertaken in view of Henry v's projected crusade. The piece has been published with a translation and commentary by the rev. John Webb in Archaeologia, xxii (1827), p. 281. There are 15th-cent. scribblings in Latin on fol. iv. The rubrics are throughout in blue ink.

A drawing of a talbot, and the names 'Wyllym Hastynge', 'Anne Shrouesbury', 'George Shrouesbury' (erased), 'Frauncys Talbot', and 'Ricardus Talbot' on fol. 35 make it probable that the MS. belonged in the early 16th cent. to a member or dependent of the Talbot family. Now MS. Hatton 90.

4085. (60). In Latin, on parchment: written early in the 14th cent. in England: 7¾ x 6¼ in., 222 leaves: with illuminated capitals, borders, &c.: binding, limp vellum with gilt tooling, English early 17th-cent. work.

1 (fol. 2). Quaestiones fratris Hymberti super Sententias, i.e. the Commentary of Humbertus, abbot of st. Preuilly, upon the four books of Sentences of Petrus Lombardus (beg. 'Quoniam in paucioribus via'), with long table or list of questions discussed at fol. 177.

2 (fol. 194v). Decretum Gratiani abbreviatum, a table of contents to that work: beg. 'In nomine Domini nostri . . . In principio igitur libri decretorum.'

3 (fol. 265v). 'Notabilia de penitentia', an anonymous Latin treatise on penance: beg. 'Secundum beatum Ieronimum'.

'Liber de adquisicione magistri Johannis Preston de librario sancti Augustini Cantuariae' and 'Dist[inctio] viii' G[radius] iiuet', both late 15th-cent. inscriptions. Preston's benefaction is shown by dr. M. R. James to have been made in 1491: Ancient Libraries of Canterbury and Dover, 1903, p. lviii.

The Bible in Latin, Vulgate edition, with prefaces and (at fol. 679) the 'Interpretaciones Hebraicorum nominum' (Aaron–Zorobabel). The Psalter is preceded by Bede’s prologue (beg. ‘In primo libro Paralipomenon’, fol. 313) which has been left unfinished. The New Testament begins on fol. 549. A lacuna in the text of Esdras iv has been supplied at fol. 699. A 15th-cent. hand has added a (fol. 5) a list of the books of the Bible, b (fol. 5v) a list of canticles for special occasions and of Epistles, Gospels, and other offices for Sundays and holy days, c (fol. 701) ‘tabula super Evangelia ad uidendum ubi plures euangeliste idem dicunt & ubi quilibet singula’, a Latin skeleton harmony of the Gospels, with an added list of the Eusebian canons. Henry Fowler, a 17th-cent. owner, has written English theological notes on foll. 12, 549. The fly-leaf (fol. 714) is a leaf from a 14th-cent. Latin treatise on Civil Law in double columns.
MINOR DONATIONS

The 15th-cent. press-mark ‘E:xljiij: magistri Ricardi de Felingham’ is that of Norwich Cathedral Library, Felingham being the donor. ‘Qui stat vide ne cadat quoth Kervyle’ occurs on fol. 12v in a 16th-cent. hand. Owned in 1610 and 1626 by Henry Fowler, rector of Minchinhampton; afterwards by ‘Thomas Windsor’, i.e. the 6th lord Windsor of Stanwell (d. 1641), whose name and motto ‘Virtus vera nobilitas’ occurs on fol. 2.

4087. (62). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 14th cent. in England: 10½ x 6½ in., ii + 240 leaves.

A copy of the Taxatio Ecclesiastica of pope Nicholas iv, being a return of the value of ecclesiastical benefices made in England and Wales in 1291: imperfect at both ends. The dioceses and the individual returns are in a different order from the printed edition of 1802. The returns for Canterbury and Rochester and part of London dioceses are wanting: those for the province of York are also wanting and may have formed a separate volume. On the other hand this MS. contains at fol. 236 the return for the diocese of Llandaff which is not included in the printed edition: one leaf has been lost at the end. A 15th-cent. list of contents made after the loss of the opening leaves is on the inside of the original parchment cover (fol. iiv).

Now MS. Hatton 89.

4088. (63). In Latin, on parchment: written in several hands in the 12th cent. in France (?): 11⅝ x 7¼ in., 122 leaves, in double columns: with illuminated capitals, &c.: imperfect at both ends.

Vitae Patrum (cp. no. 2211):

2 (fol. 24). ‘Liber sancti Athanasii episcopi de exhortacione monachorum’ as in the appendix to the rule of St. Benedict: beg. ‘Etsi quid gloriar in Christo licet’.

3 (fol. 27). ‘Adhortationes sanctorum Patrum ad monachos. quas de Greco transtulit beatus Ieronimus presbiter in Latinum’ as in no. 2211, being the collections referenced in Bibliotheca Hagiographica Latina as nos. 6527, 6529, 6530.

4 (fol. 113). ‘Epistola sancti Macharii ad filios’, beg. ‘In primis quidem si ceperit’, followed by Lives of Sts. Marina (beg. ‘Frater quidam erat secularis’: fol. 114v) and Simeon Stylites (beg. ‘Sanctus igitur Symeon ex utero matris sue electus’: fol. 115v), both from book 1 of the Vitae Patrum, the latter by Antonius.

5 (fol. 120). Opening passage from the Paradisus of Heraclides Eremita (Bibl. Hag. Lat., no. 6532), here without title: viz. the first prologue (beg. ‘In hoc libro quem de vita sanctorum patrum’) and a portion of the second prologue (beg. ‘Multi quidem multos variasque libros’, ends ‘posita lex non est. Melius est . . .’).

The leaves of the MS. are signed at the bottom ‘Cn’–’Hn’, whence it appears that sixty leaves are missing at the beginning, and that one or more pieces preceded art. 1.

Now MS. Hatton 84.

4089. (64). In Latin, on parchment: written at the end of the 13th cent. in France: 10¼ × 7 in., 360 leaves in double columns: with illuminated capitals: binding, stamped brown leather on boards, reproduced in S. Gibson’s Some Notable Bodleian Bindings, pl. 6, Oxford work of about 1480.

A Latin Vulgate Bible, with prologues and numerous marginal glosses (from Papias, Brito, &c.) and corrections (as on fol. 234v, 256v). The Psalter is in the Roman version. Esther has the apocryphal additions. There is no Prayer of Manasseh. The Song of Solomon occurs at the end of Ecclus. Modern chapters are used throughout. Sections of Gregory’s Moralia are marked in the margin of the Book of Job. French glosses occur at foll. 76v, 83v, 176v. The Interpretationes nominum Hebraicorum (Aaz-Zuzim), here without title, have been added in a second hand at fol. 323. There are theological notes on foll. 1v–2, 359–61, a list of books of the Bible on fol. 4v, and much writing with a metal stylus on foll. 2v-4, all in a nearly contemporary hand.

The name ‘Thomas Lynley’ (15th cent.) is on fol. 209. ‘Cautio magistri T. Reve magistri Benet monachi exposita in cista de Cycheley A.D. MOCCCCLXXXI o & habet supplementum sanctum Thomam 2e 2r, folio ad 3m, & iacet pro xls’, followed by the official mark ‘TH xls’ in the hand of Thomas Hunt, stationer of the University of Oxford: cp. no. 2347. Then ‘Liber ecclesiae beatae Mariae Wigorn., teste Guil. Thornhill eiusdem prebendario’, A.D. 1584–1626: see no. 2728.

Now MS. Auct. D. Inf. 2. 4.
4090. (65). In Old English, on parchment: written late in the 12th cent. in England: 9½ x 6½ in., iii + 171 leaves: with fine illuminated capitals, &c. (see fol. 78, 128).

The four Gospels in Old English, with Latin rubrics (st. Mark, fol. 1: st. Luke, fol. 29: st. Matthew, fol. 78: st. John, fol. 128). This volume, which was copied from Brit. Mus. MS. Royal I. A. 14 (see no. 2382, above), preserves the West Saxon version of the Gospels in its latest (Kentish) form, and has been printed in full in Kemble, Hardwick, and Skeat’s edition (Camb., 1858–78). It was owned by the rev. John Parker, son of archbp. Parker, who has numbered the chapters in red chalk and supplied fol. 62 in imitation of a lost leaf. See Wanley’s Catalogue (1705), p. 76; J. O. Westwood’s Palaeographia Sacra Pictoria (1843–5, pl. 45, with facsimile of commencement of st. Matthew’s Gospel); Skeat’s Introduction to st. Mark’s Gospel as above, p. xv; Max Reimann, Die Sprache der mittelkentischen Evangelien (Berlin, 1883).

Now MS. Hatton 38.

4091. (66). In Latin, on parchment, in double columns: written in the 13th cent. in England: 10½ x 7½ in., ii + 338 pages: with illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, white leather on boards, rebacked, clasps wanting, English 14th-cent. work.

Theological pieces:
1 (p. 7). Commentary on the Psalms, with preface (prologue beg. ‘Flebat Iohannes eo quod non esset’, text beg. ‘Beatus uir. . . . Psalmus iste bipertitus est’). Several psalms are not commented upon, and there are lacunae in the text, as after p. 54. The comment on ps. c-cix occurs out of order at pp. 104–14 between the comment on ps. lxxviii and that on ps. lxxix: the commentary is not continued beyond ps. cxxiii.

3 (p. 267). ‘Sermones magistri Rogeri de Salesburia’ (an added title) on the Sunday Gospels, with prologue (beg. ‘Dicit Ecclesiasticus uerbum dulce’): the first sermon beg. ‘Cum appropinquasset Ihesus. . . . Sicut ex evangelio Mathei’.

There are Latin theological notes and an Anglo-Norman French poem of 22 lines on confession (beg. ‘Pecheur ki a confessiun uendrat’) on p. 336. An old bookmark is in the volume.

Now MS. Hatton 37.
4092. (67). In French, on parchment: written about the middle of the 13th cent. in England, in double columns: $10 \times 7\frac{1}{2}$ in., 94 leaves.

Perlesvaus, a French prose version of the legend of the quest of the Grail, with the title ‘Le seint Graal; le liuer sire Brian fiz Alayn’ added in a slightly later hand. The MS. has been described by Dr. W. A. Nitze (The Old French Grail Romance Perlesvaus, Baltimore, 1902) who has printed from it a passage (at fol. 57) wanting from the Brussels MS. edited by Ch. Potvin (Mons, 1866). The superscription shows the MS. to have belonged about 1300 to a member of the house of Arundel, and on fol. 92v, among other 15th-cent. scribbling in Latin, is the note ‘Thomas Arundell est bonus puer’.

See above.
Now MS. Hatton 82.

4093. (68). In French, on parchment: written about the middle of the 13th cent. in England by a Norman scribe: 11\frac{1}{4} \times 6\frac{1}{4}$ in., iv + 396 pages: with one coloured drawing and illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, stamped red leather on boards, clasp wanting, English work of the last quarter of the 15th cent.: outer leaves rubbed.

Poem on the First Crusade up to the battle of Ascalon, founded on the Historia Hierosolymitana of Baldricus Andegavensis, archbp. of Dol, to whom the work is attributed in the preface, but without reason: see p. 2 (‘Uns clers prouencer lad premiers latinee, En fist un grant liure ov Baudris la trouee, Larseuuesque de Dol qui mult mielz la ditee, Et solunc le language en Romanz trestorne’). This chanson de geste is complete only in the present MS. and in Brit. Mus. Add. MS. 34114, but two detached leaves, measuring $6\frac{1}{4} \times 4\frac{1}{4}$ in., also written about the middle of the 13th cent., have been inserted between pp. 14 and 15 of this MS. These were formerly in the binding of a printed book purchased in 1877 by Mr. W. H. Turner, and were presented by him in that year to the Bodleian Library. They have been printed, with a facsimile, by Mr. Paul Meyer in Romania, vi (1877), p. 489, by whom also a full description of the whole MS. has been given in vol. v (1876), p. 1. The preface begins ‘Seignurs bien est seu et nest pas lungement’: text beg. ‘Ore uos commencer le estoire qui mult est bien rimee. . . . Dantioche la grant comme ele fud recouree, Et de Iherusalem . . .’. On p. 1 is a coloured drawing of a besieged town. A single leaf is wanting after p. 140.

An independent poem of about 800 verses containing an episode from the Chanson de Jerusalem (beg. ‘Ore sen fuit Corberans tuz les plains de Surie’; ends ‘De la prison as Turcs et de grant chaitiuet’. Amen. amen. amen. par sainte charite’) has been added by a second but contemporary scribe at p. 373. Attached to p. 393 is a membrane of a 13th-cent. Latin roll of accounts containing names (Alexander Peni, Galfridus Wrang, Willelmos de Wendethe, &c.) and payments, on the verso (now recto) of which has been written a chronological note in French on the fourteen captures of Jerusalem to A.D. 1244. On p. 394 is a 14th-cent. letter of instructions in French, in which occur the names of Hugh de Wasteram, Roger de Depham, Johan de la Chambre, Johan de Aschefford.
MINOR DONATIONS

4094. (69). In Latin, on parchment: written about the middle of the 13th cent. in England: $12 \times 8{\frac{1}{2}}$ in., 146 leaves, in double columns: with illuminated capitals, &c.: binding as no. 4026.

'[In]cipit Ysago[gi]cum magis[tri] Alexandri' Neckam, the work generally known as Corrogationes Promethei: in two parts: see no. 2300. The first leaf of each part (foll. 3, 28) has suffered loss of its initial capital.

The heraldic book-stamp is that of Thomas Windsor, 6th lord Windsor of Stanwell (d. 1641).

Now MS. Hatton 44.

4095. (70). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 1st quarter of the 15th cent. in England: $12{\frac{1}{2}} \times 8{\frac{1}{2}}$ in., ix+131 leaves: with one miniature, illuminated capitals, borders, &c.: binding, stamped reddish-brown leather on boards, clasps wanting, contemporary London (?) work.

A Psalter with the usual Canticles (fol. 104) and Quicunque vult, Litany (fol. 115), 'Vigilie mortuorum' (fol. 120), and private prayers (fol. 125), including one to st. George; preceded by a calendar (fol. iv). St. Erkenwald is twice honoured in the calendar (April 30, Nov. 14), and occurs in the litany, as does st. Fremund; the prominence given to the former suggests that the book was intended for use in London or adjoining counties. Stt. David, Chad, and Winifred occur in the calendar in the original hand, but st. John of Beverley is wanting. On fol. 1 is a miniature of king David praying. In the 1697 Catalogue this MS. is wrongly described as 'Breviarium Romanum vetus'!

Now MS. Hatton 45.

4096. (71). In Latin, on parchment: written early in the 12th cent.: $11{\frac{1}{2}} \times 7{\frac{1}{2}}$ in., 87 leaves: with four illuminated capitals, one containing figures (see fol. 42): see below.

The four Gospels in Latin. The Gospels of stt. Mark and Luke have the preface of st. Jerome, and that of st. Mark is also preceded by a list of tituli: there is a stichometrical note at the end of st. Luke's Gospel. The texts of the Gospels begin on foll. 2, 26, 42, 67. Gilded capitals employed for the headings of the Gospels are remarkable as an early attempt at burnishing on a flat surface: cp. foll. 2v, 3, 25v. There is a fine initial Q on fol. 42, into which are introduced figures of the evangelist and of a priest censing.

'Liber Guillelmi Laud Archiep. Cant. et Cancellarii Vniuersitatis Oxon. 1631' effaced: cp. no. 4041.

Now MS. Auct. D. 2. 15.
4097. (72). In French, on parchment: written about 1470 in France: 12½ × 9 in., iii + 51 leaves: with an illuminated capital on fol. 1.

'Ce sont les ordonnances de l'hostel de monsieur [Charles] le duc de Bourgoin.' First comes a preface (beg. 'Comme il ait pleu a mon tresredouble seigneur'): then (fol. 2) follow the ordinances of the ducal household, with a transcript (fol. 47) of their promulgation by duke Charles, Jan. 1, 1468.

'Thomas Pynnar', 16th cent.
Now MS. Hatton 13.

4098. (73). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 13th cent.: 11 ½ × 7 ½ in., 100 leaves, in double columns: with coloured capitals, &c.: binding, as no. 4026.

The Expositio in Hierarchiam caelestem s. Dionysii Areopagitaee of Hugo de Sancto Victore, here without original title or author's name.

'Expositio beati Dionisii Areopagite domini W. prioris', late 13th cent., the last three words added. Dr. M. R. James suggests that this belonged to the library of st. Augustine's, Canterbury (Ancient Libraries of Canterbury, 1903, p. 533). The book-stamp is that of Thomas Windsor, 6th lord Windsor of Stanwell.
Now MS. Hatton 47.

4099. (74). In English, on parchment: written about 1500: 12 × 9 in., iv + 205 (really 202) leaves, in double columns: with coloured capitals: binding, stamped brown leather on boards, with two clasps, in poor condition, contemporary English work.

'Confessio Amantis ... by Johan Gower squyer', in eight books, preceded by a table of contents (fol. i) and prologue (fol. 2v), the whole transcribed from Caxton's printed edition of 1483. The text begins on fol. 9v and is imperfect through the loss of foll. 60, 82, 121, 131, and of five or six leaves at the end, ending 'There ben full many yeres stole' (viii. 2408). There are some 17th-cent. notes about Virginia, &c., on the margins of foll. 5v, 6.

Now MS. Hatton 51.

4100. (75). In Latin, on parchment: written about the middle of the 13th cent., perhaps in England: 11 ½ × 7 ½ in., 271 leaves in double columns: with illuminated capitals, some containing small miniatures, &c.: binding, brown leather stamped with the arms of Hatton of Holdenby as in no. 4056, with green strings, English early 17th-cent. work.

A Latin Vulgate Bible, with the prefaces of st. Jerome, &c., but without the Interpretationes nominum Hebraicorum. The Psalms (fol. 111) are given both in the Hebrew and in the Gallican versions in parallel columns. At the end of Ecclesiasticus, filling up a column (fol. 157), occurs a short uncanonical prayer of Solomon: beg. 'Et inclinuit Salomon genua sua'. The New Testament begins on fol. 219 and includes the Epistle to the Laodiceans (fol. 260). Single leaves are wanting after foll. 72 and 87. Some of the instructions as to historiated capitals given to the illuminator remain unobliterated, as at foll. 28, 44, 148. There is a change of hand at fol. 138. Fragments of a 16th-cent. answer to a bill in Chancery, in English, are in the binding.

Now MS. Auct. D. 3. 5.

4101. (76). In English, on parchment: written in the 2nd quarter of the 15th cent.: 10½ x 7½ in., 115 leaves: with illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, white parchment with gold ornament, English early 17th-cent. work: foll. 2, 28, 40, 57, 85, 99 have been mutilated.

'The Mirroure of the blessid lif of our Lord Ihesu Criste', the English translation of the Meditationes Vitae Christi of st. Bonaventura made by Nicholas Love, prior of Mount Grace, whose name does not here occur. At the end (fol. 113v) is the Latin passage as to the presentation of the work to archbp. Arundel in A.D. 1410, as in no. 2021, to which have been added one English and three Latin prayers for use at the elevation of the host.

'Pertinet ad me Robertum Oxenbregg': 'Marye Scotte' (fol. 114): both late 16th cent.
Now MS. Hatton 31.

4102. (77). In Latin, on parchment: written early in the 15th cent. in England: 13½ x 8½ in., 82 leaves: with illuminated capitals, borders, &c., and a half-page miniature on fol. 28v.

A Manual according to the use of Sarum, in Latin, with musical notes: comprising the Holy Water Service (fol. 3), Baptism services beginning with the 'Ordo ad Cathecuminum faciendum' (fol. 5), 'Ordo ad purificandum mulierem' (fol. 15v), 'Ordo ad faciendum sponsalia' (fol. 15v), 'Ordo ad serviciunm peregrinorum' and other benedictions (fol. 21v), the Ordinary and Canon of the Mass wanting the first leaf (fol. 26), 'Ordo ad uisitandum infirmum' and funeral offices (fol. 34). An exhortation at a marriage in English, showing Roman Catholic doctrine, has been entered on fol. 2 in a hand of the 1st quarter of the 17th cent. The fly-leaves (foll. ii–iii, 1) are fragments of a 15th-cent. Latin breviary. In the 1697 Catalogue the entire volume is described as 'Breviarium Romanum'.
Now MS. Hatton 16.

4103 (book printed on vellum: Auct. Q. I. 1. 8).

4104. (79). In Latin, on parchment: written late in the 12th cent. in England: 11½ x 7½ in., 165 leaves, in double columns: with coloured capitals: binding, white leather on boards, much worn and repaired, English late 14th-cent. work: the title is written on back and side of the cover in a 15th-cent. hand: lower part of opening leaves injured by damp.

'Expositio abbatis Smaragdi de regula sancti Benedicti.' The work consists of: a (fol. 6) the metrical preface of Smaragdus, here with some additional verses beginning 'Vt stabilis fias. utique potens peragendi': b (fol. 7) prose preface and commentary on the prologue to the Rule of st. Benedict: c (fol. 28) list of chapters in the Rule: d (fol. 28v) commentary on the Rule, here divided into three books (foll. 28v, 44v, 99). Foll. 142–7 are in a second hand.

The fly-leaves are: a (foll. 1–4) portions of a contemporary record, in roll form, of the election of Thomas de Chesterton as abbot of Tewkesbury, Nov. 24, 1361: b (foll. 5, 161–5) monastic accounts of st. Mary’s priory, Worcester, some dated 1346–8.

4105. (80). In Latin, on parchment: written about the last quarter of the 14th cent. in England: 12 1/2 × 8 1/2 in., 194 leaves, in double columns: with illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, red leather on boards, in a white sheep-skin cover of which the flaps have been cut off, 15th-cent. title ‘Polycronicon’ on cover, with two clasps (one lost) and leather book-marker, contemporary English work.

The Polychronicon of Ranulphus Higden, here without original title, preceded by an alphabetical table Abraham–Zorobabel and (fol. 7v) a note of the five ages of the world, &c. The chronicle is composed of seven books, and extends from the Creation of the world to A.D. 1342, at which point the scribe breaks off with the words: ‘Sub pena carceris & capitis interdixit. Huc usque Randulphus.’ Then follows (fol. 186), without further heading and in an only slightly later hand, a continuation to A.D. 1377 (beg. ‘Hoc anno nonas Iunii natus est’), closely corresponding to the continuation of Adam Murimuth published by the English Historical Society (Lond., 1846). Short historical notes of A.D. 1442–4, one pointing to ownership by a Carthusian house, are written on the inside of the back cover.

‘Istum librum qui intitulatur latine Policronica. grece vero Policronicon Johannes Yorke generous accommodavit primo domno Willermo Mede huius domus monacho pro tempore vite sue. Postmodum vero Willermus eiusdem filius dedit eidem domui in eternum’, 15th cent. The Carthusian house (see above) in which William Mede was a monk, may be identified with that of Jesus of Bethlehem at Sheen in Surrey: see no. 1979. There is also a short erased inscription of ownership on fol. 8v.

Now MS. Hatton 14.

4106. (81). In Latin, on parchment: written early in the 11th cent. in England: 11 1/2 × 8 1/2 in., i+182 leaves: with coloured capitals.

‘Liber primus Ecclesiastice Historie Gentis Anglorum’ venerabilis Bedae, followed by the four remaining books each headed by a list of chapters: with numerous contemporary corrections and early 14th-cent. marginal notes. This is Plummer’s O 1. Sir Thos. Duffus Hardy points out (Materials for British History, i. 435) that the orthography was originally Northumbrian but has been altered to the West Saxon dialect by erasure and superscription. Caedmon’s Old English hymn (beg. ‘Nu þe sculon herian heofon rices þeard’), which has been added by a slightly later scribe on fol. 129 is likewise in a West Saxon form (see Modern Language Notes, iv (1889), p. 277). The hand changes after fol. 8: the preface originally ended with the words 'mandare studuimus', and the concluding words have been added in the 12th cent. (fol. 2r). A leaf is wanting after fol. 66. The MS. seems to have belonged to Glastonbury (Hardy, loc. cit.; C. Plummer, Bedae Opera, Oxf. 1896, i. cxiii).

The fly-leaves are from: a (fol. 179, 179*) the Codex Justiniani, bk. viii, with the quaestiones of [Rogerius?] and marginal and interlinear glosses, single leaf of a 13th-cent. MS. in double columns: b (fol. 180) a Latin treatise on canon law procedure, damaged leaf of a MS. in double columns written in the 14th cent. in Italy: c (fol. 181) conclusion of a collection of dicta philosophorum (ends 'Proprium est stulticie aliorum uicia cernere. suorum obliuisci'), followed by 'Translacio abrueiata a fratre Petro [Gallego] episcopo Cartagensi de speculacione Antecer in regitia domus', a treatise on domestic economy, beg. 'Opulencia est res que nos commoditates multas affert', an abridged form of text not known to mons. A. Pelzer (Un Traducteur Inconnu: Pierre Gallego, Misc. Fr. Ehrle, i. 422 seq.); single leaf of a MS. in double columns written in Spain late in the 13th cent., stated to have been found in this MS. and inserted in 1889.

Probably a Glastonbury book, see above.
Now MS. Hatton 43.

Returns of knights’ fees, ecclesiastical benefices, &c., in the county of Kent, of which a full list is given on fol. iv and in the Old Catalogue of 1697. The principal returns are: a (fol. 1) ‘Transcriptum particularis computi collectorum auxilii ... regi E[dwardo] tercio concessi ad primogenitum filium suum militem faciendum, in comitatu Kanciae, anno regni sui xxmo, ... examinati per Johannem de Helweldeying de comitatu Kanciae et Johannem Castre de comitatu Lincoln’: cp. foll. 38, 53: b (fol. 40) ‘Beneficia ecclesiastica prelatis vel religiosis non appropriata in dioecesi Cantuariensi ... vna cum taxa decime et medietatis decime singulorum’: c (fol. 55) ‘Kanciae integra quindecima & decima’, a fiscal return without date, but belonging, as a note by William Lambarde points out, to the reign of Henry vi. Additional lists have been entered on the blank leaves in the 16th cent. by Thomas Argull, registrar of First Fruits (fol. 54); William Lambarde, author of the Perambulation of Kent (foll. 74v, 86v) and others: the latest return (fol. 92) is dated 1582.

Now MS. Hatton 41.
4108. (83). In Latin, on parchment: written late in the 12th cent.: \(12\frac{1}{4} \times 8\frac{1}{2}\) in., xii + 124 leaves, in double columns: with slightly illuminated capitals.

Works by st. Ambrose:

1 (fol. 1). 'Liber beati Ambrosii Mediolanensis archiepiscopi de Fide ad Gratianum imperatorem', in five books, with preface.

2 (fol. 56v). 'S. Ambrosius de Spiritu Sancto', in three books, here reckoned as books 7–9 of the preceding treatise, preceded (fol. 56) by the 'Epistola Gratiani imperatoris' to st. Ambrose and by a list of chapters.

3 (fol. 94). 'Sermo eiusdem de Incarnatione Domini.'

4 (fol. 102). 'Sermo eiusdem de Helya & de ieiunio.'

An account of the Lord's Brethren, as in no. 1858, fol. VV (beg. 'Anna & Emeria sorores fuerunt'), has been added in a slightly later hand on fol. 112. Fol. ii–xii, 113–23 are paper leaves inserted by a 17th-cent. binder, all blank except fol. ii.

Now MS. Hatton 17.

4109. (84). In English, on paper: written late in the 15th cent.: \(12\frac{1}{2} \times 8\frac{1}{2}\) in., 211 leaves: with rude coloured drawings in margin.

Speculum Vitae, William of Nassington's poem on the Lord's Prayer, &c., here without title or name of author. The text is incomplete through the loss of the first leaf and begins 'That 3e han most of usage | That can euery man undyrstande'.

'Hic fuit frater Johannes (sic) Fakun': 'Iste liber est venerabilis domine dompne Elesabeth Throgkmorten abbatisse de Denney, Teste Thoma Gylberd in eodem monasterio olim manenti': 'Iste liber pertenet ... ad me Bartholomew Swalow': all early 16th cent.

Now MS. Hatton 18.

4110. (85). In English, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 15th cent. by Thos. Doule: \(12\frac{1}{2} \times 8\frac{1}{2}\) in., 96 leaves, in double columns: with two illuminated initials and a border: binding, white leather on boards, with two clasps, one lost, contemporary English work but re-backed.

Speculum Vitae by William of Nassington, without title, the same poem as in no. 4109, but Nassington and John of Waldeby are both named in the epilogue (fol. 94v) as the English translator and the author of the Latin original, respectively. The epilogue recurs only in Brit. Mus. Royal MS. 17 C viii, and the ascription to Waldeby at least is questionable. At the end is 'Nomen scriptoris Thomas Doule plenus amoris'.

'... deryngton' on back cover.

Now MS. Hatton 19.

4111. (86). In Latin, on parchment: written about the middle of the 13th cent. in England (?): \(11\frac{1}{2} \times 7\frac{1}{2}\) in., 116 leaves, in double columns: with some illuminated capitals, &c.: binding as no. 4026.

'Flores Bernardi' or, more fully, 'Exceptiones collecte de diuersis opusulis beati Bernardi ... abbatis Clareuallensis', i.e. the Bernardinum of Gulielmus de st. Martino, whose name does not here appear: preceded by Leonine verses and a prose prologue (beg. 'Cum non essem alicui exercicio'). The work is divided into ten books, each with a list of chapters: at the end are appended additional excerpts from st. Bernard.

'Morganus canonicus de Kermerd(en)' (a member of the house of Austin canons at Carmarthen), 15th cent. Bound for Thomas Windsor, 6th lord Windsor of Stanwell. Now MS. Hatton 49.

4112. (87). In English, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 15th cent.: 11 1/4 x 8 1/4 in., 132 leaves: with illuminated capitals, border, &c.: binding, white parchment with gilt ornament, English early 17th-cent. work.

'A book callyd Brute of the Croniculys of Englonde', a translation into English of the French Chroniques d'Engleterre ending at 1333 with a brief continuation to 1377. At this point, as is implied in the prologue, the work originally ended, but here it is carried on by a second continuation to the year 1417 (beg. at fol. 108 'And aftir this goode Edwarde the threde', ends 'set in rewle and governaunce'). There are two short prologues (begg. 'This book tretith & tellith', 'The prologg of this book declarith'): the text beg. 'Som tyme in the nobillonde of Surr'. The entire MS. is the work of three apparently contemporary scribes, of whom one wrote foll. 2-17, 84v-107, 119-30; the second wrote foll. 18-25, 80-4v; the third wrote foll. 26-79, 108-19. A former owner, William Amondesham (d. 1564), has added strongly Protestant comments in the margins and the births of his children (1543-60) and some verses on fol. 130v-1v. Headings and notices of foundations of religious houses have been supplied in a neater late 16th-cent. hand.

'Wylliam Awnsham, God helpe', early 16th cent. (fol. 6v): see also above. Now MS. Hatton 50.

4113. (88). In Old English, on parchment: written about A.D. 890-7: 11 1/4 x 8 1/4 in., ii + 99 leaves: with small ornamental capitals.

The Liber Pastoralis of st. Gregory the Great (whose name appears at foll. 2v, 98v), translated from the Latin into Old English by Alfred king of England, with list of chapters (fol. 3): the translation begins (fol. 6) 'Pu leofusta broður', and two leaves (foll. 1-2) prefixed to the work contain king Alfred's preface (beg. 'Ælfred kyning hateð greтан Wærfēð biscep') written in a contemporary unpractised hand: this gives the title of the work ('ôn Læden Pastoralis & ôn Englisc HierdebOc') and states the king's intention of sending a copy to every bishopric in his kingdom. The present MS. is undoubtedly the copy sent to Werferth bp. of Worcester, as is expressed in the first line of the preface and in the inscription at the head of the same, 'ÆDEOS BOC SCEAL TO PIOGORA CEASTRE'. Other copies, known to have been sent to Hehstan bp. of London and to Wulfsig bp. of Sherborne, are now only represented by later transcripts, the former by Cotton MS. Otho B ii, the latter by Trin. Coll. Camb. MS. R. 5. 22 and Camb. Univ. Libr. MS. Ii. II. 4. The dispatch of copies to archbp. Plegmund of Canterbury (890–914), bp. Swithulf of Rochester (d. 897), and bp. Werferth was recorded in a contemporary note on the first leaf of the burnt Cotton MS. Tib. B xi, an original draft of this work: from this it is inferred that the present MS. was written after 890 and before 897. No. 10843 is a transcript of this MS.

At foll. 2v and 98 are passages in Old English alliterative verse written in distinct hands, and on fol. 98v a 10th-cent. hand has added the inscription over the Cross in Hebrew, Greek, and Latin, the names of 'Kaenpald monachus' and 'Ælfric clericus', &c. Up to fol. 43, l. 1 the MS. has interlinear Latin glosses in the 'tremulous' 13th-cent. hand which recurs in MS. C.C.C. Cambridge 12 (an 11th-cent. copy of this MS.) and in other MSS. belonging to Worcester priory: see Wolfgang Keller, Die litterarischen Bestrebungen von Worcester, Quellen u. Forschungen 84, 1900, p. 20; dr. M. R. James, Catalogue of MSS. in C.C.C., Cambridge, i, 1912, p. 33. Similar glosses written late in the 16th cent. on foll. 1–2 are stated to be in the hand of John Joscelyn, secretary to archbp. Parker. Fol. 42 is a paper leaf on which Francis Junius has supplied from Cotton MS. Tib. B. xi a lacuna in the text caused by the loss of a single leaf from this copy. The lower margin of foll. 51–3, 70, 71, 73, 82, 84 have been cut off, without injuring the text. Foll. ii and 5 show traces of earlier writing. Mr. Henry Sweet edited the text of this MS. and that of no. 5165 for the Early English Text Society in 1871–2. Foll. 1, 2v (bottom), 61, and 98v have been reproduced in facsimile as plates nos. 6–8 of the New Palaeographical Society, 1st series (1903), with a description; fol. 14 in W. Keller’s Angelsächsische Paläographie (Berlin, 1906), taf. iii. See also Wanley in Hickes’s Thesaurus (1706), ii. 70.

See above.
Now MS. Hatton 20.

4114. (89). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 2nd half of the 12th cent. in England: 11 1/2 x 8 in., 132 leaves, in two or three columns: with one miniature, slightly illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, white leather on boards, title and press-mark on back, strap and pin wanting, contemporary English work.

The text of Job with the prologues of Walafridus Strabo (fol. 2: beg. 'Quedam hystorice hic dicuntur) and of st. Jerome (fol. 3: beg. 'Cogor per singulos'), the interlinear gloss of Anselmus Laudunensis, and a commentary arranged under the heads of allegoria (*beg. 'Iob dolens id est Christus’ as in the printed editions of Nicolaüs de Lyra) and morali-tas, the latter being the glossa ordinaria of Walafridus Strabo amplified by extracts from the Moralia of Gregory the Great. There are marginal notes and writing on fol. 1 with a lead stylus. On fol. 4 is a small miniature of Job seated expounding. One reed and one leather book-marker are in the volume.

The form of entry on the inner front cover 'Iob glosatus. W. Rufi (12th cent., then added) ijdo fo. textus omnium | C xxix' (14th cent.) shows that the volume came from the Chichester Cathedral library, not from Bury St. Edmund's as suggested in Macray's Annals (1890), p. 442 n.: 'W. Rufus' may indicate Walafridus Strabo or the compiler. 'Jo: F: (?) (erased) ex dono Henricj fratris, anno 1605', apparently in the handwriting of Henry Fowler, who owned nos. 4934 and 4086.

4115. (92). In Latin, on parchment: written about 1100 at Canterbury (?): 11 3/4 x 7 1/2 in., 146 leaves: with fine illuminated capitals (foll. 1v, 3v, 18v): binding, white leather on boards, title on back, clasp wanting, contemporary English work, repaired: kept in a cloth cover: a 13th-cent. parchment label of contents on the outer end cover was removed to the inside of the same board in 1884: lower edges of leaves injured, and in places stained, by damp.

1 (fol. 1v). 'Incipit prefatio. Iohannis [Cassiani] Heremite in decem Collationibus', followed by the first ten Collationes, some preceded by lists of chapters. The hand changes at fol. 81.

The style of the illuminations suggests that the MS. was written at Canterbury. On the other hand, the substitution, in a 13th- or 14th-cent. hand, of 'Maluernensis' for 'Wigornensis' on fol. 1 may perhaps be taken to indicate that the MS. had then passed to the priory of stt. Mary and Michael at Great Malvern. No. 139 in a chained library (number on label of contents: marks of chain at top of front cover).

Now MS. Hatton 23.

4116. (91). In Latin, on parchment: written late in the 13th cent.: 12 3/8 x 8 1/2 in., 158 leaves, in treble columns; with illuminated capitals.

The text of the twelve minor prophets, with prefaces; surrounded with the Glossa ordinaria of Walafridus Strabo, the Glossa interlinearis of Anselm of Lauunensis, and numerous contemporary notes in a smaller hand. There are theological notes on fol. 2v.

4117. (92). In Latin, on parchment: made up of three MSS. written in the 9th and 10th centt. in France: 12½ x 8½ in., iii + 207 leaves: binding, white leather on boards, English 12th-cent. (?) work, re-backed, the old back is laid down on the inside of the end cover.

Collections of Canons, &c.

A (written in the 2nd half of the 9th cent. in Brittany: with capitals marked in colour). i (fol. i). The collection of canons known as the Hibernensis in the longer form or B-text found only in this MS., in the Vallicelliana MS. A. 18 at Rome, and, as supplement to an A-text, in the Brit. Mus. Cotton MS. Otho E xiii. The work is preceded by a prologue (beg. 'In nomine Patris ... Sinodorum explarium' sic), extracts from Isidore's Etymologiae, &c. (beg. 'De nominibus Senodi. Senodus ex greca autem interpretatione'), and (fol. 1v) a list of 69 tituli: this last has been printed, with a list of the tituli of the A-text in a parallel column, in H. Bradshaw's Early Collection of Canons known as the Hibernensis (Camb., 1893), p. 62. Foll. 1-7 have been supplied in a 10th-cent. hand to replace a lost quaternion, and the hand changes again at foll. 24v.

There are 9th-10th-centt. Latin and Breton glosses: the latter, six in number, have been published by Dr. Whitley Stokes in Old Breton Glosses (Calcutta, 1879), pp. 2, 16, and Revue Celtique, iv (1879), pp. 328, 341. A Breton name 'Matguoret' occurs at fol. 22, and Breton neums on foll. 101v.

3 (fol. 132v). 'Incipiunt canones Adomani' [Adamnani], a set of penitential canons printed by H. Wasserschleben, Irische Canonensammlung, 2nd ed. (1885), p. 120: beg. 'Marina animalia ad litora delata': ends 'uarios habebimus': cp. fol. 142.

4 (fol. 134v). 'Incipit Gaius Institutionum liber 1', the first book of the Epitome. There are tables of affinity on foll. 138-9, and at foll. 133v, 139v are miscellaneous notes on such subjects as weights and measures, parts of speech, &c. At the end is the colophon 'Finit hoc opusculum in Dei nomine'.

Mr. Henry Bradshaw has noted (Collected Papers, Camb. 1889, pp. 471, 487) that additions, including some 'Hisperic' words (e.g. on foll. 94v, 138v) have been made to A in a 10th-cent. hand resembling that of a Cornish or Breton glossator of Camb. Univ. Libr. MS. Ff. 4. 42.
B (written in the 10th cent., in France: with some coloured capitals) 4 (fol. 142v). The collection of church canons compiled by Dionysius Exiguus, without the preface giving the author’s name. Only canons of Greek councils are here given, those of Sardica and of the African councils being absent, and the collection consequently comprises the apocryphal ‘Ecclesiasticæ regulæ sanctorum apostolorum’ (fol. 144), and the canons of Nicea with creed and preface (fol. 150), Ancyræ (fol. 155v), Neocaesarea (fol. 160v), Gangra with St. Isidore’s preface (fol. 162), Antioch (fol. 167v), Laodicea (fol. 173v), Constantinople (fol. 179), and Chalcedon (fol. 180v). Each set of canons is preceded by a list of tituli, but those at foll. 163v and 166 are misplaced. At fol. 186 come the canons of the first Council of Rome, A.D. 721, with the subscriptions but without any rubric. The numbering of the quires begins afresh at foll. 144, and the list of ‘tituli canonum apostolorum’ has been entered on the last two leaves of A after B had been joined to it.

C (written in the 10th cent. in France) 5 (fol. 189). The first book of Ansegisus’ collection of Capitularies, here anonymous and without the preface. The rubric ‘Incipiant excerpta quæ congregavit Karolus rex de senodis Gallicis’ properly applies only to caps. 1–59.

An 11th-cent. (?) Saxon name Wulfric on fol. 79, and a 12th-cent. inscription on the old back of the cover ‘Liber Sc. Dunstani’, make it probable that this MS., like no. 2176 and perhaps parts of no. 2026, was brought from Brittany to Glastonbury abbey in the course of the 10th cent. An Old English word occurs on fol. 49. Cues to the Commune Sanctorum of a gradual with some neums have been entered in a late 11th-cent. Canterbury (?) hand on the margins of foll. 133v, 134v. Archbp. Matthew Parker has marked passages and appended notes (foll. 22v, 23, 38, 73v, 106v) in red ochre, and may have owned the volume in the 2nd half of the 16th cent. Other late 16th-cent. marginalia (foll. 9, &c.) are perhaps by his secretary, John Joscelyn. The chief authorities on this volume, in addition to those mentioned above, are H. Wasserschleben, op. cit., pp. xxxiii, lxvii–lxxi (quoting Bradshaw): W. Stubbs, Memorials of St. Dunstan, Rolls Series, 63 (1874), pp. lxxxvi–lxxvii, cxii.

See above.
Now MS. Hatton 42.

4118. (92). In Latin, on parchment: written in uncial early in the 8th cent. in England, perhaps at Canterbury: 12½ × 8½ in., i + 77 leaves, in double columns: with ornamental capitals: binding, white leather on boards, English 12th-cent. work, rebacked and repaired, a fragment of the old back bearing traces of the title is laid down on the inside of the front cover: in places stained by damp.

The Rule of St. Benedict (of which this is the oldest MS. extant) in the interpolated recension: preceded by the prologue and list of chapters, but without original title: with corrections, for the most part contemporary and in the same hand as the rubrics. This is MS. O of Edm. Schmidt (Ratisbon, 1880) and later editors. The final leaf is wanting, and the text ends in the last chapter ‘quarum obserua’. Part of fol. 48 and the upper margin of fol. 49 have been cut off. There is an Old English sentence on fol. 42v and the 11th-cent. (?) name Aegelmaer occurs on fol. 44v. There are also a few 11th-cent. (?) musical neums on foll. 20v, 23v, 29v, 44v, 62. Fol. 77 is a leaf of a late 11th-cent. MS. of the Encheiridion of st. Augustine, in an English (Canterbury?) hand on the margins of which are two nearly contemporary sets of neums.

The chief authorities on this MS. are Thos. Astle, Origin and Progress of Writing (1784), pl. viii (forms of capitals); J. O. Westwood, Facsimiles of Miniatures of Anglo-Saxon Manuscripts (1868), p. 8; L. Traube, Textgeschichte der Regula S. Benedicti, 2nd ed. (1910), p. 57 (with facsimile of fol. 40v); E. W. B. Nicholson, Early Bodleian Music (1913), pp. xix-xx (with facsimile of fol. 44v); New Palaeographical Society, Facsimiles of Ancient MSS., 2nd ser., pl. 82 (facsimile of fol. 30); and E. A. Lowe, Specimina Codicis Regulae S. Benedicti.

‘Thomas Bryne’ (early 16th cent.) on fol. 9.
Now MS. Hatton 48.

Poems by John Lydgate of Bury:

1 (fol. 4). Poem on the Virtues of the Mass, without title: beg. ‘Ye folkys alle that haue deuocion’, ends imperfect at v. 376 ‘Y may rescyeve this breed sent doun from heuen’: the author names himself on fol. 5: a metrical prayer of eight lines precedes.

2 (fol. 10). The Life of Our Lady, in four books: without title, but Lydgate’s name is given in the colophon on fol. 117 where there is also a table of chapters. Minor religious poems by the same author have been entered on fol. 116, 119v (beg. ‘All the trespas of my tendre youth’; ‘Quene of heuen and of helle emperesse’). At fol. 121 is a Latin prayer with an English metrical translation (beg. ‘O Lord Allmyghty blissid thou be’), not certainly by him. Two ballades by Geoffrey Chaucer (beg. ‘Fle fro the prees and dwelle with sothfastnesse’ and ‘Sumtyme this world was so stedefast and stable’) have been written in a slightly later hand on foll. 118v, 119: cp. fol. 122v.

‘Thys is my lady More boke, and sumtym it was Quene Margarete book’: ‘Gartrude Powlet’: ‘Domina Margareta More’: ‘Thys ys my lady Dame Elizabeth Wyndesore boke, the xiiiijth day of December’, 1512: ‘Thys boke was late my lady Dame Elizabeth Windesore, who dessessed ... the xviijth day of January ... MD...xxxj ... quod Clarke’: all early 16th cent. Doubtless acquired by lord Hatton from Thomas Windsor, 6th lord Windsor of Stanwell, who was fourth in descent from Dame Elizabeth Windsor: see no. 4026.

Now MS. Hatton 73.

4120. (95). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 2nd quarter of the 14th cent. at Canterbury: 12\frac{3}{4} \times 8\frac{1}{4} in., 191 leaves: with fine miniatures, and illuminated borders, capitals, &c.: binding, stamped brown leather on boards, clasps lost, London work of about A.D. 1600: imperfect at end.

A Gallican Psalter, in Latin, with the usual canticles (fol. 172), originally followed by a litany (fol. 189v), but the final leaves have been cut out: preceded by a calendar, apparently in the same hand, of the Cathedral priory of Christ Church, Canterbury. This last has been printed, with other Christ Church calendars, by mr. Edmund Bishop in The Bosworth Psalter (London, 1908). It exhibits elaborate grading, and the higher feasts are entered in blue, purple, or red. St. Thomas of Hereford (Oct. 2) is in the original hand: st. Anne (Aug. 25) has been added: stt. David and Chad (May 1 and 2) have been added and subsequently erased. A coat of arms, lozenge, or and gules, occurs prominently on fol. 8 and again at fol. 113v. Other armorial shields are Bury St. Edmund’s (fol. 8), Warenne (fol. 75), Butler or Cletherow (fol. 75), Bardolph (fol. 94v, 116), and Fitzwalter? (gules, a fess between two chevrons or, fol. 94v). There are early 17th-cent. theological notes on foll. 1, 8, 99, &c.

‘Ecclesie Christi Cantuariensis’: ‘Psalterium: Petri (?): de: ... : dis. xx (?) g ... :’, erased: both 14th cent. ‘William Inggram’: ‘Liber Georgii Nedham’: both 16th cent. [William Ingram was warden of the Martyrdom in Canterbury cathedral in 1508]. ‘Liber Edmonde Catcher, 1607.’

Now MS. Auct. D. 2. 2.

4121. (96). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 2nd half of the 14th cent. in England: 14\frac{1}{4} \times 9\frac{3}{4} in., 226 leaves, in double columns: with illuminated capitals, borders, &c.

1 (fol. 5). ‘Liber de regimine principum editus a fratre Egidio Romano’, in three books (foll. 5, 32v, 56), each preceded by a list of chapters: with preface and some later marginal notes.

2 (fol. 84). ‘Sentencia super libros Ethicorum fratris Thome de Alkyno’: Aquinas’s commentary upon the Nicomachean Ethics of Aristotle.

‘Conuentus (?) Wygornie’], erased 15th-cent. inscription. The book was thrice deposited in Oxford University chests in 1461–5: ‘Caucio magistri ... exposita in cista de Checheley xj die mensis Marcii Anno Domini m\textsuperscript{6} CCC\textsuperscript{0} LXI\textsuperscript{0} ... et iacet pro xviijs’; ‘Caucio domini Ricardi ... et domini Alexandri Beletur exposita in cista Warwici anno Domini Personal names have been erased, as has a note of early ownership on the same leaf (fol. 3°). There is nothing to support the view which has been put forward that the volume was once in the old Library of the University.

Now MS. Hatton 15.

4122. (97). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 14th cent. in England: 13½ × 8½ in., ii+248 leaves, in double columns: with eleven small miniatures, illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, red leather on boards, clasps wanting, English 15th-cent. work.

‘Liber qui Flores Hystoriarum intitulatur’: a chronicle of England from the creation to 1307, long attributed to Matthew of Westminster: in two books (foll. 9, 135v): preceded (fol. 1) by a full table of contents. At fol. 243 follows, in the same hand as the chronicle, a ‘Commendacio lamentabilis in transitu magni Regis Edwardi quarti [I] secundum Iohannem’ de London, and dedicated by him to queen Margaret: beg. ‘Prohibemurgenerosa maternda domina’. There is some 16th-cent. scribbling on foll. 247–8.

‘To . . . (name erased) this booke to delyver up & he to kepe it in hys owne hande’, abt. 1500: early in the 16th cent. it was owned by John Pake­man, who has entered on the inner end cover a list of ‘bokes in the parler wendowe’.

Now MS. Hatton 53.

4123. (98). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 2nd quarter of the 15th cent. in the eastern counties: 13½ × 9 in., 119 leaves: with illuminated capitals, borders, &c.

A Choir Psalter according to the use of Sarum, written for the diocese of Norwich (see calendar: Dedicacio ecclesie cathedrals Norwicensis, Sept. 24). The separate pieces are: a (fol. 3) Calendar of the usual Sarum-Norwich type as in no 15845, to which stt. Apollonia (Feb. 9) and Osyth (May 3) and the two feasts of st. Osmund (July 16, Dec. 4) have been added in nearly contemporary hands: b (fol. 9) Psalter followed by Canticles (fol. 100v) and Litanies (fol. 104v), with music for the antiphons and hymns: c (fol. 108v) Office of the Dead, with music. The book was transferred, shortly after it was written, to West Wycombe; and various obits, &c., dated 1472–80, were entered in the calendar, probably by the priest of that church, as ‘Obitus domini Thome Stheuenyssone vicarii iiiijti de West Wycomb A.D. 1472’ (Jan. 11); cp. March 15: ‘Dedicacio ecclesie de West Wycomb’ (July 27): ‘Obitus domini Iohannis Wynton vicarii de Rykmynswurth A.D. 1480’ (Nov. 14). The MS. is wrongly described in the 1697 Catalogue as ‘Missale et Calendarium vetus’.

See above, owned by ‘Hew Darrell’ (fol. 107), perhaps also by ‘Wyllyam Clarke’ (fol. 101v), both 16th cent.

Now MS. Hatton 9.
MINOR DONATIONS

4124. (99). In English, &c., on paper: written late in the 15th cent.: $8\frac{1}{2} \times 5\frac{1}{2}$ in., 307 leaves.

Three English Festivals and other sermons:
1 (foll. 3, 92v). Forty-four sermons from the Festial of John Mirk (of which other MSS. are nos. 17680, 21634, 21682), here without preface or title and in confused order: the first sermon is that for Christmas day, beg. 'As this day holy church syngeth & redyth & makyth melody'. At fol. 144v occurs the hymn to the Virgin beginning 'Be glad & blythe quene of blys'. Intermingled with the sermons from the Festial are about thirty short Latin sermons (see foll. 6v, 107, 113, 174, 218): four other English homilies without title occur at foll. 156, 193. At fol. 132v is a note of indulgences granted by successive popes to observers of Corpus Christi feast: a bidding prayer, similar to that printed in Caxton's 1483 edition of the Festial (beg. '3e schall knele down onoure knees and lyfte up your hertes'), is given at fol. 135: on fol. 256v is an entry of the death of Robert Whytt, B.A., curate of a church dedicated to stt. Peter and Paul.

2 (fol. 10). A Festial or short lives of saints in the order of the calendar: beg. 'Such a day 3e schall haue the fest of the burth of oure lord Crist Jhesus'. The inclusion of lives of stt. Wulstan (fol. 16) and Oswald (fol. 27v) suggests that the collection was composed in Worcester diocese. At the end (fol. 91) is a sermon 'in die sancti Augustini' Hipponensis. Fol. 28* is a note of banns of Richard Wynyard and Joan Blymyll.

3 (fol. 262). Sermones de tempore from Advent Sunday to Whitsunday, from the Festial of John Mirk, without title or author's name. This and the preceding article have separate foliations.

Now MS. Hatton 96.

4125. (100). In Old English, &c., on parchment: made up of four MSS. written in the 11th-12th centt., A-C probably at Worcester: $12\frac{1}{2} \times 8\frac{1}{2}$ in., 1+140 leaves: with coloured capitals.

A (1st half of the 11th cent.) 1 (fol. 1). The Dialogi of st. Gregory the Great (whose name occurs on fol. 1), a revised text of the Old English translation made by Werferth bp. of Worcester, with a short preface by Alfred king of England (beg. 'Ic Ælfred 3ifendum Criste'), and lists of chapters at foll. 3, 30. The MS. is imperfect through the loss of leaves after foll. 4, 14, 29, 31, 35, 38, 49, 53, 54: foll. 37 and 38 have been transposed by the binder, and foll. 51–2 should follow fol. 54: the text breaks off (fol. 52v) in bk. ii, chap. 35, 'ponne of minre laetynsyse', and the remainder of the work is wanting through the loss of the subsequent leaves. It has been edited, with the text of a Cambridge MS. of the same work in parallel columns, by dr. Hans Hecht for the Bibliothek der angelsächsischen Prosa (Bd. 5, Leipzig, 1900).
B (late 11th cent.: capitals marked in colour) 2 (fol. 55). An Old English version of the Admonitio ad filium spiritualem of st. Basil the Great, attributed to Ælfric: with a preface in metrical prose, beg. ‘Basilii se eadiga. be ðam þe ær æþriton.’: ends in chapter 9 ‘7 hafa þe gemet’, some leaves being lost at the end as well as after fol. 63. The work was published by the rev. Henry W. Norman, London, 1848.

C (1st half of the 11th cent.: in double columns) 3 (fol. 68). The Old English ‘Liber medicinalis’, as printed in T. O. Cockayne’s Leechdoms of Early England, vol. i, Rolls Series, 1864: see p. lxxiv. It comprises a (fol. 74) a herbarium, mainly derived from that of the pseudo-Apuleius (beg. ‘Déos þyrt þe man bettonican nemneð’), preceded by a full table of contents: b (fol. 124) an account of medicines compounded from quadrupeds, translated from the Latin Medicina animalium ascribed to Sextus Placitius: beg. ‘Sagais ðet Ægypta cyninc’, ends ‘sona hyt byþ hal’, the final leaf having been cut out: a leaf is also missing after fol. 119. Spaces have been left throughout for the insertion of drawings of plants and serpents (for which see no. 29614): there is a stylus drawing of a dragon on fol. 126v. The names of worts forming the headings of the chapters are in a 12th-cent. hand.

A, B, and (see fol. 74v) C were at Worcester at the end of the 12th cent., when Latin glosses were written in them by a Worcester monk: see Wolfgang Keller, Die litterarischen Bestrebungen von Worcester, Quellen u. Forschungen 84, 1900, p. 20.

D (early 12th cent.: written in France: in double columns) 4 (fol. 131). Damigeron [‘Dapniceron’, fol. 139, col. 1] de lapidibus, a Latin translation of a Greek treatise (partially preserved in bk. ii of the medical collections of Aëtius) on the magical properties of stones, preceded by two apocryphal letters of Evax king of Arabia to the emperor Tiberius (beg. ‘Desideranti tibi scribere’, ‘Magnifica dona tua accepi’). The treatise, which is the prose original of the Carmen de lapidibus of Marbo daeus, has been edited by Eugenius Abel (Berlin, 1881) from a 14th-cent. Paris MS. (Bibl. Nat. 7418) supposed by him to be unique, and from this MS. by miss Joan Evans, Magical Jewels of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance (Oxford, 1922), pp. 195–213.

A full description of this MS. (A–C) is given in Wanley’s Thesaurus Linguarum Septentrionalium (1706), ii. 72–6. See also H. Krebs in Anglia, ii (1879), pp. 65–70: Henry Johnson, Gab es zwei Übersetzungen der Dialoge Gregors? MINOR DONATIONS 4126. (101). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 13th cent. in England: 12½ × 8½ in., 135 leaves, in double columns: with illuminated (red and blue) capitals: imperfect at end.

‘Historia Veteris et Novi Testamenti a magistro Petro Manducatore [vel Comestore] ad literam edita’, the well-known Historia Scholastica, with numerous marginal notes: the New Testament part begins at fol. 128v, but wants all after ‘uolebat sequi dominum ut disceret signa facere’ in cap. 54 of Migne’s edition: a leaf has been cut out after fol. 40.

Now MS. Hatton 72.

4127. (102). In English, on parchment: written late in the 14th cent. in North England: 14½ × 9½ in., 213 leaves, in double columns: with illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, white leather on boards, in white sheepskin cover, one clasp wanting and the other renewed, contemporary English work.

The English commentary of Richard Rolle of Hampole on the Psalms, and (fol. 197) the Old Testament Canticles and Magnificat with the Latin text as lemmata: followed by a (fol. 209v) Rolle’s commentary on the Ten Commandments in an expanded form (beg. ‘Here er the ten comaundmentis’): b (fol. 211v) the Apostles’ Creed in English (beg. ‘After the resayuyng of the holy gost’): c (fol. 211v) English religious verses on the seven virtues (beg. ‘Trouthe, hope & charite’), the Ten Commandments, the seven deadly sins, &c. (Carleton Brown, Register of M.E. Religious Verse, nos. 2449, 2379, 511, 2135, 2240, 404): d (fol. 212) ‘Augustinus in laudibus psalmorum’, beg. ‘Canticum psalmorum animas decorat’, as in MSS. 3650 and 27662. The Catalogue of 1697 attributes the whole to ‘a certain Abbot’, and the MS. is consequently not noticed in the rev. H. R. Bramley’s edition of the Psalter (Oxford, 1884); but the name of ‘Ricardus de Hamppole heremita’ occurs in a 15th-cent. hand on the inside of the end cover on which is also a pen-and-ink drawing of a crucifix. A single leaf is missing after fol. 34. There are several changes of hand. On fol. 1 is a contemporary chronological note in Latin dated A.D. 1386.

4128. (103). In Latin, on parchment: written a about the middle of the 13th cent., b about 1300, in France (?): 17 × 11 in., 139 leaves, in double columns: with fine illuminated capitals (some bearing lacertine figures), &c.: imperfect at both ends.

A portion of the second part of the Decretum of Gratian, with the Glossa ordinaria of Bartholomaeus Brixiensis added in the margins in a hand of about A.D. 1300. Owing to the loss of the first seven quaternions, the existing text begins (in the rubric of Causa XI) ‘-lem iudicem sit producendus’. Sig. xix is also missing, causing a lacuna (after fol. 78) at Causa XXIII, quaest. ii, ‘non oportet hereticos’. Two leaves are wanting after fol. 4: single leaves after foll. 19, 44, 91, 120, 132, 138, and the text ends in Causa XXXV, quaest. x, ‘Si cuius patruus auunculusue ..’: foll. 23 and 46 have been mutilated for the sake of their illuminated initials: fol. 136v is blank, but the text runs on. In the 1697 Catalogue the work is wrongly described as by Panormitanus, i.e. the 15th-cent. writer Nicolaüs de Tudeschis.

Now MS. Hatton 5.

Canon Law:
1 (fol. 1). The pseudo-Isidorian collection of Decretals, wanting the Councils which generally form the second part of that work. After the prologue of ‘Isidorus Peccator’, i.e. I. Mercator, and other prefatory matter, follow on fol. 3 the ‘Canones apostolorum’ (which are given in an English 14th-cent. hand on fol. 1 as title to the whole volume), and then the Decretals of Roman pontiffs from st. Clement to Gregory ii. A summary of contents of foll. 3–55 is given at fol. 3, and at fol. 72 is a fuller list of tituli of the subsequent decretals (Damasus–Gregory ii). At fol. 184 ‘incipiunt capitula ... Englitranno Mediomatrice urbis episcopo ... tradita’ or capitula Angibranni, followed by two letters of Isidorus Hispalensis (foll. 186v, 187: begg. ‘Perlectis sanctitatis tue litteris’, ‘Veniente ad nos famulo uestro’). At fol. 187v is a Latin note on the Council of Clermont, A.D. 1096. This MS., which is not noticed in Paul Hinschius’s edition of the Decretals, resembles MSS. Vatican 1344 and Bibl. Nat. lat. 15391 in the order of its contents, but contains at fol. 57v the ‘canones Siluestri’ (beg. ‘Domino Constantino Augusto, eodem tempore cum multi’) wanting in other MSS. The text is imperfect through the loss of 26 leaves after fol. 102.

2 (fol. 189). Collections of acts of Greek Councils, viz.: a (fol. 189) Canons of the Council of Nicaea, preceded by the three usual prefaces (beg. ‘Canones generalium conciliorum’) and (fol. 190) creed, and followed (fol. 192) by the Nicene creed repeated, subscriptions, and creed of st. Gregory bp. of Neocaesarea: b (fol. 192v) ‘Canones concili Constantinopolitani’ primi: c (fol. 193v) ‘Translatio primi Ephesini concilii’, the collection of acts known as that of the manuscript of Tours: this is complete except for a considerable lacuna (Baluze, col. 394, l. 12–col. 402, l. 20) at fol. 195v (col. 1, last line) due to the loss of some leaves of the exemplar, but the order differs from that of other known Artt. 2–3 are derived from Paris Bibl. Nat. MS. latin 16897 or from a common source.

Now MS. Hatton 6.

4130. (105). In English, on parchment: written in the 2nd half of the 15th cent.: 19½ x 14 in., 172 leaves, in double columns: with illuminated capitals, &c.

The treatise of Boccaccio, De casibus virorum et feminarum illustrium, in nine books, rendered into English verse by John Lydgate: usually called the Fall of Princes but here without title: the prologue begins ‘He that whilom did his diligence’: text beg. ‘Than John Bochas considered had and thouzt’. The poem is here given in a shorter form than in the printed editions: a long passage has been omitted after the death of Caesar, and the account of Cicero occurs out of place at fol. 142v: Lydgate’s name is given in the envoy addressed to Humphrey duke of Gloucester (fol. 166v): beg. ‘Right reuerent Prince with support of your grace’.

The fly-leafs of the volume are four leaves from a Sarum legendary in Latin, written in England in the 15th cent. There is much 16th-cent. scribbling in English and Latin on foll. 168v–170v.

‘Alexander Mather aldermannus Norwici possessor est huius libri’: the names of Edmund Mather, Augustine Mather, and ‘Johannes Mather et Johannes Pottes de London’ also occur: ‘Willelmus Mingelius eius et aldermannus civitatis Norwici hunc possidet librum’, testified by Thomas Peade: ‘Robartus Mynglews’: ‘Quondam Matheri liber cui, nunc autem Chethami et amicorum eius sum’: ‘Robert Palmer owe this boke’: ‘Ricardus Hildersham hunc possidet librum’: all 16th cent. Other names also occur, as ‘Thomas Kinge of Norwich alderman’.

Now MS. Hatton 2.
4131. (106). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 1st quarter of the 15th cent. in England: 17² × 12 in., ii+227 leaves, in double columns: with fine illuminated borders, capitals (some containing miniatures), &c.: binding, white leather on boards, with metal bosses, clasps wanting, English contemporary work, worn and repaired.

A Missal, according to the use of Sarum, as used in the diocese of Norwich, with some musical notes: consisting of a calendar (fol. 1), 'Benedictio salis & aque' (fol. 7), the Proprium de tempore to Easter Eve (fol. 8v), the Ordinary and Canon of the Mass (fol. 91, 97: the first leaf of the Canon is wanting), the Proprium de tempore from Easter Day (fol. 100v), the Proprium sanctorum (fol. 148), Commune sanctorum (fol. 185v), and votive masses (fol. 200) including a 'Missa pro defunctis' (fol. 209), 'Ordo ad faciendum sponsalia (fol. 213), and 'Ordo ad seruicium peregrinorum' (fol. 215), followed by some later additions (fol. 218: Visitation, Transfiguration, Nomen Jesu, Five Wounds): an 'Ordo ad cathecuminum faciendum' occurs at fol. 88v. The calendar is of the usual Sarum-Norwich type (Sept. 24, 'Dedicacio ecclesie Sancte Trinitatis Norwici'): stt. Winifred and Erkenwald are added. In the Proprium Sanctorum the feasts of st. Felix (fol. 111), Translation of st. Edmund (fol. 134), stt. Thomas of Hereford and Francis (fol. 178) are given as 'non Sarum set synodalia Norwici', and that of st. Augustine of Canterbury (fol. 155v) as 'duplex festum per Urbanum papam vjm'.

On fol. 217v is a note of the illuminator's charges: 'De litteris azoreis floreatis .xviiic. & xxxv. precium x.s. xd. De paruis litteris .xxic. & xx. precium iijs. vjd. Item .xx. champ' precium . . Item je cuetis (?) & .xxiij.' The illuminated borders belong to the East Anglian school of painting. The different sections of the volume are marked by parchment tags, lettered to facilitate reference: there is a set of bookmarks in the volume. In the 1697 Catalogue this MS. is catalogued as 'Missale Romanum pervetustum'!

'A masse boke cost x li. to sell for xl s.' (16th cent.).
Now MS. Hatton 1.

4132. (107). In Latin, on parchment: written in 1404 (see fol. 34) in England by Johannes de Clyva (?): 15² × 10¼ in., 185 leaves, in double columns: with illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, red leather on boards, clasps wanting, traces of large parchment label on back cover, English contemporary work.

Manuals for parish priests:

1 (fol. 4). 'Liber qui vocatur Animarum Regimen, compilatus in anno Domini millesimo CCC⁹XLII⁹⁰: beg. 'O vos omnes sacerdotes'. The name in the first initial letter, 'Iohannes de Clyua monachus', is probably that of the scribe. The sources from which the treatise is compiled are stated in the preface. The work is in three parts, each preceded by a list of chapters: these are 'De moribus et scientia presbiterorum' (fol. 4),
MINOR DONATIONS

'De exhortacionibus . . . faciendis' (fol. 56), 'De septem sacramentis ecclesie' (fol. 80v). Some long passages taken verbatim from the Oculus sacerdotis are here omitted: see fol. 80v.

2 (fol. 106). 'Summa que vocatur prima pars Oculi sacerdotis': beg. 'Cum ecclesie quibus preficiuntur': followed by the second and third parts of the same treatise, sometimes known as Dextera et Sinistra partes Oculi (fol. 127v, 151v: begg. 'Multi sunt sacerdotes', 'Ignorancia sacerdotum populum decipit'). The treatise, here anonymous, is supposed to be by Gulielmus de Pagula.

There are Latin theological notes at fol. 2v.

Now MS. Hatton 11.

A Latin psalter wanting a leaf after fol. 36: preceded by the Hours of the Virgin Mary, intertwined with those of the Cross, according to the use of Sarum (fol. 2), and by a Sarum calendar (fol. 20); and followed by the canticles (fol. 95), Sarum litanies for each day of the week (fol. 101v) Vigilae mortuorum (fol. 106v), and (fol. 118v) Commendacio animarum: the text of the Psalter begins on fol. 26. In the calendar the two feasts of St. Erkenwald (April 30, Nov. 14) have been added in a 15th-cent. hand, likewise the obits of various persons, perhaps parishioners of a church in or near London (15th cent.), and the births of the children of Edward Windsor, 3rd lord Windsor of Stanwell, A.D. 1559–72.

See above. Acquired by lord Hatton from Thomas Windsor, 6th lord Windsor of Stanwell, whose birth is recorded at fol. 22.

Now MS. Hatton 4.

A Gradual (not Missal as in the 1697 Catalogue) according to the use of Sarum, in Latin, with musical notes: comprising the Proprium de tempore (fol. 2), Commune sanctorum (fol. 91) with votive masses (fol. 112v), Ordinary of the Mass (fol. 122v: Kyries, Gloria in excelsis, Trisagion, Agnus Dei, &c.), Proprium sanctorum (fol. 133). There is a loss of one or more gatherings after fol. 71 and of one after fol. 85, and several leaves are wanting after fol. 151: one of these last is misplaced as fol. 64. The MS. has been badly mutilated for the sake of the illuminations: the first leaves of Proprium de tempore, Commune sanctorum, and Proprium sanctorum are all wanting, and the text begins 'est dominus ad Achaz': for other defects see W. H. Frere, Bibliotheca Musico-Liturgica (1901), p. 71.

I Edw. iii (fol. 99): ‘Statutum apud Westmonasterium editum de stapula facta anno vij’ Edw. iii (fol. 105): two additional statutes made at Westminster, 10 Edw. iii (foll. 108v, 109v): a statute made at York, 12 Edw. iii (fol. 110): ‘Statutum apud Westmonasterium editum anno terciodecimo’ Edw. iii, in Latin (fol. 110v): a statute made at Westminster, 5 Henry v (fol. 221): ‘Statutum apud Westmonasterium editum anno octavo’ Henry v, in Latin (fol. 222): a second statute made at Westminster, 2 Henry vi, in Latin (fol. 230v): there are also additional chapters to the statutes of 11 Henry vi and 1 Henry v. The statute of Northampton, 2 Edw. iii, occurs twice (foll. 87, 100). The statutes of 4 Henry vii and subsequent years are given in English, the last being that of 11 Henry vii which here ends abruptly in cap. xxvii ‘and also they reyse up the’.

At fol. 7 is a full alphabetical table of subjects in art. 2, as in Wm. de Machlinia’s printed edition of Nova Statuta (1481?), in French: the first article is ‘Accusacions’ (beg. ‘Null soit attache par son corps’), the last is ‘Worstede’. The borders of foll. 328v and 336v are the work of a Flemish artist, and contain the arms of Thomas Pigot of Whaddon and Doddershall (d. 1519), serjeant-at-law, for whom the volume was executed (Quarterly, 1. PIGOT, 2. IWARDBY, 3. ELMES, 4. BRUDENELL).

‘Mr. Pagitt. 2.’, 16th cent. See above.
Now MS. Hatton 10.

4137. (112). In Latin, on parchment: written about the middle of the 12th cent. in England: 15 × 10 in., ii + 184 leaves, in double columns: with coloured capitals, &c.

Calendarial, arithmetical, and astronomical pieces:
1 (fol. 1). ‘Rithmimachia’, a short piece on the game of numbers, with preface stating the author to be a clerk of Würzburg (‘quidam ex clero Guirtiburgensi’): beg. ‘Quinque nam [altered to ge(nera)] inequalitatis regulam [regulariter] ex equalitate procedere manifestum est’: ends ‘ccclxi. ad .cx. superno impartiens’.

2 (fol. 2v). The Excerpta de chronicis Mariani Scoti, made by Robert de Losinga, bishop of Hereford, here without title of any kind, preceded by a list of chapters: beg. ‘Quia chroniç nouç dominicorum annorum’: see no. 2148, art. 1, and no. 2372, art. 6: this MS. contains a final chapter (on the paschal cycle) not found in the other two MSS., apparently composed, like the rest of the treatise, in 1086.

3 (fol. 12v). ‘Compotus Garlandi Bedam imitantis’, with prologue (beg. ‘Sepe uolumina domni Bede’) and tables: the text begins ‘Superioris igitur pagenç’ and is preceded by a list of chapters in the first book: the division into books is not otherwise marked: the second book begins at fol. 20, and is given in a shorter version than in no. 1657: at fol. 18 the hand changes.

4 (fol. 27). An anonymous treatise on fractions and division, in Latin, without title: text begins, after a table, 'Cognitis unciarum minutarumque nominibus'.

5 (fol. 41v). A similar treatise on the abacus, in two books, with coloured diagrams: beg. 'Rationes numerationis abaci et subtiliter interna mentis acie sunt examinande': the first book deals with multiplication, the second (fol. 55) with division: Gerbertus, i.e. pope Sylvester ii, is quoted on foll. 44v, 53.

6 (fol. 66). 'Incipit prefatio libri Abaci quem Iunior Bernhelmus [Bernelinus] edidit Parisiis', addressed to a monk named Amylius: beg. 'Domino suo Amylio Bernhelmus suus. . . . Mirari pater sancte exactisonis tuæ instantiam': then come certain rules of division and multiplication (beg. 'Singularis cuiusque diuisor denominationem secundabit', cp. fol. 73v), followed by the treatise itself in three books (foll. 66v, 68, 70v): beg. 'Abaci tabula undique prius polita': the fourth book is here wanting.

7 (fol. 75). Gerberti liber de astrolabio, here without title or author's name: beg. 'Quicunque astronomice peritiam'. At fol. 79 'incipit de horologio secundum Alchoram id est speram rotundam', or rules for the use of the astrolabe and (fol. 80) for its construction, not by Gerbert: beg. 'Quando uis scire de horis diei'. Gerbert's account of the seven climata mundi comes in at fol. 81. Then comes (fol. 81v) what is perhaps a distinct treatise on the astrolabe: beg. 'Quicunque desiderat scire certas horas noctium & dierum'.

8 (fol. 86). A set of lunar tables for the years 1036–1111, calculated from an eclipse observed by the writer on Oct. 18, 1092 (see fol. 90), with explanations in Latin: beg. 'Qui facultatem computandi eligunt'. The author was an Englishman (fol. 90), and the treatise, though anonymous, is perhaps to be attributed, like art 9, to Walcher prior of Great Malvern: it appears to have been composed between 1107 and 1112: see C. H. Haskins in English Historical Review, xxx (Jan. 1915), p. 57.

9 (fol. 96). 'Sententia Petri Ebrei cognomento Anphus [sc. Alphonsi] de Dracone quam dominus Walerus prior Malvernensis ecclesie in latinam transtulit linguam' in 1120 (fol. 96): beg. 'Inter. viiem. planetas per zodiacum circumventes'.

10 (fol. 99v). 'Ezich Elkaurezmi per Athelardum Bathoniensem ex Arabico sumptus', the astronomical tables of Muhammed Ibn Musa al-Khwarizmi as revised by Maslama Ibn Ahmed al-Madjriti, in the Latin translation of Adelard made in 1126 (see fol. 159): the introduction begins 'Liber iste septem planetarum atque Draconis statum continet'.
This is MS. O in A. Björnbo and R. Besthorn's edition in Mémoires de l'Académie Royale des Sciences... de Danemark, 7th ser., section des lettres, iii, no. 1 (1914). Fol. 150 has been misplaced and should follow fol. 99. There are Arabic sentences in the original hand at foll. 103v, 104v, 127v, 132v: see op. cit., p. xxi.

11 (fol. 160). Concluding fragment of the eighth book of Martianus Capella de nuptiis Philologiae et Mercurii, entitled De astronomia, in the amplified form found in no. 14771 and, like that MS., ascribed to Hipparchus (at end 'Finit liber Yparci... de cursu siderum'); incorporated in it are passages from Pliny's Historia naturalis, bk. vi (fol. 161v), Bede (fol. 161), and other computistic writers: begins '... causa existente perspicua. quod saltus ille de quo loquimur' in the account of the moon.

12 (fol. 163). 'Somnium Scipionis' with the commentary of Macrobius: imperfect: the first book of the commentary begins at fol. 164 and is nearly complete, ending in xxi. 33 'ita diuinorum et caducorum luna confinium est' (fol. 179v): of bk. ii only four leaves remain, viz. foll. 180–1 and 176–7, corresponding to v. 22–xv. 18 in the Teubner edition, 1893: a single leaf which came between foll. 181 and 176 is lost, and foll. 176–7 have been misplaced.

On fol. 182 is a late 13th-cent. Latin astronomical note. An early 15th-cent. parchment label of contents is now on fol. ii: the hand resembles that of similar labels on the covers of nos. 1966, 2747, 2749, all Worcester priory books.

MSS. HATTON 'DONATI'.

(Nos. 4138–40)

These three MSS. were the gift, perhaps about 1675, of capt. Charles Hatton, the uncle of that viscount Hatton (d. 1706) who gave the Hatton Homilies (see before no. 4026). Some of Charles Hatton's letters are in MS. Ballard 33, and many others have been published in the Hatton Correspondence (Camden Soc., 1878).

4138. In Middle English, on parchment: written in the 15th cent. in England: 10½ × 7½ in., ii + 259 leaves, of which the first and the last two are modern paper: with illuminated borders and capitals: binding, 17th-cent. brown leather.

The Canterbury Tales of Geoffrey Chaucer, described in W. W. Skeat's edition, vol. iv, p. xi, as 'in great disorder, the Man of Law being thrust between the Reeve and the Cook, as in no other MS.' The Tales, of which there is a collation in sir William McCormick's The Manuscripts of Chaucer's Canterbury Tales (Oxford, 1933), pp. 223-31, are in the following order: Prologue (fol. 1), Knight (fol. 10), Miller (fol. 36), Reeve (fol. 45), Man of Law (fol. 50v), Cook (fol. 64), Squire (fol. 75v), Merchant (fol. 85), Franklin (fol. 99), Wife of Bath (fol. 109v), Friar (fol. 123v), Summoner (fol. 128), Nun (fol. 133v), Canon's Yeoman (fol. 142), Master of Physic (fol. 153), Pardoner (fol. 157), Clerk of Oxford (fol. 164v), Shipman (fol. 128v), Prioress (fol. 183v), Sir Thopas (fol. 186v), Chaucer's Tale (fol. 189v), Monk (fol. 206), Nun's Priest (fol. 216), Manciple (fol. 224), Parson (fol. 228v). See also J. Koch, The Pardoner's Prologue and Tale (Heidelberg, 1901), pp. xxxiv-xxxv.

Now MS. Hatton donat. 1.

4139. In Latin, on parchment: written in the 15th cent. in Italy: 9 x 5½ in., 102 leaves, with illuminated capitals: binding, brown leather gold tooled.

The Satires of Juvenal (fol. 3) and Persius (fol. 86).

‘Hoc opus est a me Petro Carmeliano emptum die xiiij Decembr. MCCCCXXX in ciuitate London pretio duorum nobilium aurorum.’ Fol. 2 has ‘Ex libris Caroli Hatton’ and some erased inscriptions.

Now MS. Auct. F. 54.

Franciscan collections, comprising the forms for entering the order, followed by its rule and privileges: a (fol. ivv) ‘Sequitur modus induendi nouicios’: beg. ‘Primo dicitur litania sequens’: b (fol. vii) ‘Modus recipiendi ad professionem’ followed by forms for letters of confraternity (fol. x): c (fol. 1) the rule of the order as confirmed by Honorius iii in the bull ‘Solet annuere’, and the testament of st. Francis (fol. 8): d (fol. 12) the bull ‘Exiit qui seminat’ of Nicholas iii, and (fol. 34) ‘Exivi de paradiso’ of Clement v: e (fol. 41) the ‘Statuta generalia’: prol. beg. ‘Quoniam vt dicit dominus per prophetam bonum’, text beg. ‘Statuimus in primis quod qui venientem ad ordinem’ (fol. 42v): f (fol. 88) the bull ‘Ut sacra ordinis’ promulgated in January 1463 by Eugenius iii, and (fol. 96) other Franciscan forms.

Owned by ‘Nicholas Korville’ in 1563 (fol. 108v) and by Henry Wright in the 17th cent. (fol. iv, 108v).

Now MS. Hatton donat. 3.

MINOR DONATIONS

Purchased by the University in 1670 for £126 3s. 4d.: dr. Macray in his Annals of the Bodleian, 2nd ed. (1890), at p. 133 mentions a statement (for which see MS. Tanner 89, fol. 6) that the earl of Clarendon purchased and presented these two volumes.

Now MSS. Auct. F. infra 1. 4–5.

4142 b. In Latin, on parchment: written in A.D. 1667 at Laxenburg: 2 ft. 01\(\frac{1}{2}\) in. \(	imes\) 2 ft. 3\(\frac{1}{2}\) in., with seal, in a cloth box 11 \(\times\) 10\(\frac{1}{2}\) \(\times\) 3\(\frac{1}{2}\) in.: with no ornamental writing.

A Latin diploma by which Leopold i, emperor of the Romans, appoints Jacobus Albanus Gibbesius a poeta laureatus, dated at Laxenburg in Austria, May 2, 1667, signed by 'Leopoldus', 'Christophorus Abele', and 'Joan: Paul: Hocher', and enrolled by 'Hermannus de Berlinghof'. The seal, attached by silver wire, is a fine and elaborate one in red wax, 5\(\frac{1}{2}\) inches in diameter, enclosed in a circular wooden box with one rim partly broken.

Presented by James Alban Gibbes, or Ghibbes, Apr. 5, 1670, together with a gold chain (now kept in the Ashmolean Museum) and medal given to him on the occasion of his appointment. His accompanying letter of gift is printed in Wood's Fasti Oxonienses, ed. Bliss, p. 340.

Now MS. Add. E. 1.

MSS. DODSWORTH

(Nos. 4143–5101)

Roger Dodsworth was born in 1585 and died in 1654. At an early age he began collecting Yorkshire church notes and pedigrees, and by 1618 he had begun what eventually became the most monumental collection of antiquarian material bequeathed to us by the 17th century. Dodsworth spent twenty laborious years on Yorkshire antiquities, but the work naturally led him into many other counties, and after 1638 his interests, though still mainly genealogical and topographical, embraced most of England.

In 1635 he had met Dugdale, and the two had decided to collaborate in a Monasticon Anglicanum, for which Dodsworth had already made extensive collections. These were supplemented by Dugdale chiefly from the Cottonian library and some of the public records. The work was ready for the press in 1650, but the first volume was not actually published until 1655, after Dodsworth's death, and the second in 1661. For the relative shares of Dodsworth and 'that grand plagiarist' in this undertaking, see 'Roger Dodsworth and his Circle' by N. Denholm-Young and H. H. E. Craster in the Yorkshire Archaeological Journal, vol. xxxii (1934), pp. 5–32. In his later years, apart from the Monasticon, Dodsworth was also gathering material for a history of Yorkshire and for a Baronage. The latter project, too, materialized in the hands of Dugdale, but the plans for a history of Yorkshire have never come to fruition, though they were revived by dr. William Burton in the middle

When Dodsworth died his MSS. passed into the hands of his patron, the third lord Fairfax, who left them to the Bodleian with his own MSS. in 1673. Some, however, were not received until 1683-4. Of those received in 1673 many had so suffered from damp in transit that it took Anthony à Wood a month to dry them on the leads of the Muniment room in the School Tower. In 1704 the collection was in one of the galleries in Duke Humphrey.

There have been a number of attempts to make accessible this great storehouse of antiquarian learning. ‘Two clergymen—Jennings and Tilleyson—attempted a digest (now Harl. MSS. 793–804 in the British Museum) of the Yorkshire materials. Dodsworth’s own combined indexes are in his volumes 20–2, and many of the volumes were indexed separately by him. Others were indexed by his friend lord Brudenell, perhaps during his imprisonment in the Tower. In 1879 Mr. W. H. Turner printed an index to the persons and places in volumes 1–7, which was continued on cards (accessible in the Library) by Mr. W. F. Thurland to volume 35. Joseph Hunter’s catalogue, published with a prefatory memoir of Dodsworth in his Three Catalogues (1827), is still invaluable. For matter relating to religious houses the copious folio references in Tanner’s later editions of his Notitia are admirably exact. Volume 76, a collection of original documents, has been included in Turner and Coxe’s Calendar of Charters and Rolls in the Bodleian Library (Oxford, 1878). Small portions of the total have been printed. The Yorkshire Archaeological Society in 1884 and 1887–93 published Dodsworth’s notes scattered through many volumes for the wapentakes of Osgoldcross and Agbrigg as gathered together into Harl. MSS. 800, 803 by Mr. Tilleyson, and the Chetham Society in the 95th and 99th volumes (1875–6) has printed the copies of the Lancashire inquisitions post mortem made by Christopher Towneley. The Yorkshire Church Notes in vol. 160 were published for the Yorkshire Archaeological Society’s Record Series (vol. xxxiv) in 1904 by J. W. Clay’ (Y.A.J., loc. cit.).

The Bodleian shelf-marks of the Dodsworth MSS., running numerically from 1 to 161, obscure Dodsworth’s own arrangement. This originally comprised six series of volumes, lettered A–Z, AA–ZZ, AAA–ZZZ, Δ–Ω, Δ–Ω, and Γ–Ω, but of these series Π, Σ, Τ, and Ω are missing. The last of these is now the first of two volumes in the library of the Yorkshire Archaeological Society at Leeds, where they are MSS. 282, 283. One volume of church notes made in 1612 was in 1877 with dr. Nathaniel Johnston’s collections at Camsall (Hist. MSS. Comm.,...
Sixth Rep., App. p. 448), and one volume is at the Queen's college, Oxford. The present volume 161 was presented to the Library in 1736 by Francis Drake. It is said that George Baker, the historian of Northamptonshire, had one, and the last earl of Cardigan 'several others' (D.N.B.). Hearne (Coll. x. 12) had heard that 'a great number' were in the hands of the Yorkshire Neviles, and relates that a section of nine leaves from 'Dodsworth xiv' was sold with Peter le Neve's collections in 1731 and bought by Cuthbert Constable (Coll. x. 404, 406).

Some account of the sources of this collection will be found in the Y.A.J., loc. cit. 4143. ('L' in square.) In Latin, on paper: written about 1650: 12½ × 8½ in., ix + 534 leaves.

Abridged transcripts of feet of fines for Yorkshire, 7–51 Edw. iii (namely 7–8, fol. 398; 9–14, fol. 287; 15–20, fol. 1; 21–38, fol. 127; 39–45, fol. 446; 46–7, fol. 104; 48–51, fol. 57), preceded at fol. ii by an index nominum. The originals have been calendared for the Yorkshire Archaeological Society, Record Series, vols. xlii, lii, but those for 9–11 Edw. iii have been much injured by damp and subjected to rearrangement since this MS. was written. The pencil notes in the margin are by Roger Dodsworth.

Now MS. Dodsworth 1.

4144–6. In Latin, on paper: written in 1635–41, by Roger Dodsworth: 13½ × 8½ in., iv+‘104’ (110) and iii+‘184’ (181) and viii+104 leaves.

Pedigrees of English baronial families, as well as of other land-owning families of the north of England (esp. Yorkshire), compiled by Roger Dodsworth and substantiated by references to and excerpts from the other volumes of his collection. The pedigrees are not limited to the male line, but give the ancestry and posterity of married heiresses, e.g. the elaborate pedigree of the Stapletons (4144, foll. 19v–29) is interwoven with pedigrees of the various families whose lands they inherited and whose arms they quartered: comparatively few are brought down to a later date than the 15th cent. Each volume is preceded by an alphabetical index of family names. All the main descents are noted (but with numerous errors) in the Old Catalogue of 1697 and its index: a more accurate and systematic list is given in Hunter's Three Catalogues, pp. 83–90. Dodsworth himself refers to these volumes as 'Pedegraduum tomus 1', '2', and '3', respectively; also as 'my old book of petegrees' (no. 4144) and 'my new book of petegrees' (no. 4145). Many of the pedigrees contain minor additions in the hand of Thomas Talbot the younger (cf. no. 5040, fol. 35v).

4144. 'Liber Genealogiarum . . . collectarum . . . per Rogerum Dodsworth', dated '20 Octo. 1635': cf. foll. 50, 77v. At fol. 78 Dodsworth has added, Sept. 1637, his own pedigree and that of his wife, Holcroft Hesketh, and has entered, on fol. 58v, two Latin pedigrees of the Clavering family 'ex magno libro nigro Ricardi St. George militis'. There are a few sketches of seals. Four leaves containing 'nomina separalium cartulariorum hoc opere [sc. Monastico Anglicano] citatorum' have been bound in after fol. 66.

4145. 'Genealogiae . . . extractae et compositae studio et industria Rogeri Dodsworth Eboracensis, 1636.' Some of the North-Country pedigrees in this volume have been brought down by Dodsworth to his own time and dated, viz: Roos of Ingmanthorpe, 1635 (fol. 111); Harrington—an ample pedigree—, 1637 (fol. 29, cf. fol. 64); Wortley, 1638 (fol. 72); Calverley, 1638 (fol. 81); Dodsworth (the compiler's own pedigree) and related families, 1638 (fol. 101); Sutton, lord Dudley, 1639 (fol. 94); Fenwick of Wallington, 1640 (fol. 91); Breregh of Menston, 1640 (fol. 145); Middleton of Stockeld, 1641 (fol. 36). On fol. 76 the pedigrees of two Northamptonshire families, viz. Lane of Horton and Tresham of Rushton, have been added by another hand in 1647. A pedigree of Frevill at fol. 63 is copied from one drawn up by sir William Dugdale in 1638. In addition to his own collections Dodsworth has utilized, on a few occasions, those of St. Loo Kniveton (foll. 15, 61, 62v) and of John Archer (foll. 85v, 90v). A spurious charter of king William i to Robert de Umfranvill occurs at fol. 151v. A cross at the top of many of the leaves indicates, as appears from a note on fol. iii, that the succeeding pedigree has been transcribed by Nathaniel Johnston of Pontefract into his collections. Johnston has entered at fol. 122 an alphabetical index of some collection of north-country pedigrees, not Dodsworth's. Foll. 171–8 of the original foliation are wanting, and fol. 170 is misplaced after fol. 183.

4146 is undated. In addition to the usual alphabetical index, there is a list (fol. viii v) of the pedigrees contained in foll. 1–63. At fol. 21 c is a note of one charter of king Henry i and two of king Henry ii, from 'sir Dudley North's book'.

Now MSS. Dodsw. 2–4.

4147. ('¢¢'.) In Latin and English, on paper: written about 1634 by Roger Dodsworth: 13 ½ in., v+'46' (114) leaves.

Pedigrees transcribed by Roger Dodsworth from various sources:

2 (fol. 9). Pedigrees of Yorkshire gentry, chiefly from Richard Gascoigne's collections: fol. 21 is bound up after fol. 17.

3 (fol. 27). Pedigrees 'taken out of mr [John] Archer's booke of petegrees, which he bought of the executors of [Ralph] Brooke, Yorke Herald' (fol. 12): this, since known as the Norcliffe MS., and published by the Harleian Society, vol. xvi, as The Visitation of Yorkshire ... 1563 and 1564 (Lond., 1881), is a collection of 16th-cent. heraldic visitations of Yorkshire and of non-visitation pedigrees made by William Flower, Norroy king of arms, and supplemented by Robert Glover: Dodsworth invariably cites it as 'Archer'. Foll. 58–81 of the original foliation are wanting.

4 (fol. '82'). Pedigrees of Gerard, Radcliffe, Stanley, and other Lancashire families, perhaps from 'mr. [Henry] Lillye's booke of Lancashire', see fol. 83: most of the descents are traced to about A.D. 1600.

5 (fol. '96'). Narrative pedigrees, chiefly in Latin, of Ingleby, Hildyard, and kindred families, with marginal notes of quarterings in English: also narrative pedigrees in English of Neville, earl of Westmoreland and of Percy, earl of Northumberland, these last two dated 1597, which may also be the date of the remainder of the section: interspersed are a few heraldic notes: the leaves of this article, which is not in Dodsworth's hand, have been bound up in disturbed order.

6 (fol. '112'). Miscellaneous pedigrees, for the most part of Yorkshire families, some compiled by Roger Dodsworth, some copied by him from various sources of which the principal are Archer's collection of pedigrees (see art. 3 above), Robert Glover's heraldic visitation of Yorkshire made in 1584 (cf. foll. 36⁰, 39), and sir Richard St. George's black book: pedigrees of Dodsworth of Settrington at fol. 125⁰ and Kirkby at fol. 123⁰ are dated 1623 and 1634, respectively: other pedigrees deserving special mention are those of Lumley (to 1595: not in Dodsworth's hand: fol. 131) and Vere (fol. 132⁰), this last evidently an unfinished copy of an older pedigree-roll in English. There are also several sketches of arms, a note on Haslingfield chapel near Cambridge (fol. 125), and some English verses (foll. 137⁰, 144⁰).

There is an alphabetical 'catalogus genealogiarum' in this MS. at fol. iii. Most of the pedigrees are enumerated in the Old Catalogue of 1697: a full list of those in artt. 1, 2, 5, and 6 is given in Hunter's Three Catalogues, pp. 91–3: and all are indexed in the printed Index to the Dodsworth MSS. I–VII.

Now MS. Dodsw. 5.

Trial descents of English baronial and north-country families, with some finished pedigrees similar in character to nos. 4144–6, by Roger Dodsworth. The descents of the families of Butler of Rawcliffe (fol. 6), Dodsworth (fol. 9), Clifton of Clifton (fol. 10), and Tempest of Bracewell and Broughton (a full pedigree, fol. 53) are traced down to the year 1647. Most of the genealogies are enumerated in the Old Catalogue of 1697 and in Joseph Hunter’s Three Catalogues, p. 93. At fol. ii is an alphabetical list, by Dodsworth, of ‘descents composed and entred in sundry bookes’ of his collections.

Now MS. Dodsw. 6.

4149–50. In Latin and Anglo-Norman, on paper: written by Roger Dodsworth and others, 1644–5: 12½ × 8 in. and 12½ × 8 in., xvi+t362‘(really 366) and xviii+t325’ (really 318) leaves.

‘Monasticon Boreale, tomus primus’, containing copies by Dodsworth, with sketches of seals, of deeds relating chiefly to the North and East (vol. 7) and West (vol. 8) Ridings of Yorkshire, begun October 1, 1644, in the house of Francis Nevill of Chevet, esq., from the originals at that time in St. Mary’s Tower, York. This tower, where the records of the dissolved monasteries were kept, was blown up in the siege of York, when Dodsworth had just finished his work. Some of the documents were saved and taken to the archiepiscopal archives at York, where Dodsworth again saw them. For these events and the subsequent history of the surviving deeds see Drake’s Eboracum (1736), p. 575, Burton’s Monasticon Eboracense (1758), p. vi, and N. Denholm-Young on ‘Yorkshire Monastic Archives’ in B.Q.R., vol. viii, no. 87. These volumes were much used by Tanner in compiling his Notitia, by Burton in his Monasticon Eboracense, and by Farrer (for deeds before A.D. 1200) in his Yorkshire Charters. There are alphabetical indexes of grantors on foll. vi–viii and viii–xi, respectively; the transcripts themselves, without logical arrangement, fall sometimes under fees (e.g. vol. 7, foll. 227–68v, Holderness fee, fol. 269, Bigod fee), but usually the grouping is by religious houses, of which the following occur:

This volume contains charters of monasteries in Yorkshire, &c., transcribed, in part by Dodsworth, in part by a secretary, from nos. 4168 (Drax, fol. 308); 5057 (Fountains, fol. 196v; Pontefract, fol. 255v; Healaugh, fol. 322); 5059 (Selby, fol. 296, &c.); 5062 (Rievaulx, fol. 159, &c.); 5066 (York cathedral church, fol. 11); 5079 (Nostell, fol. 276); 5093 (Roche, fol. 165; Blythe, co. Notts., fol. 178); 5097 (St. Mary's, York, fol. 55; Fountains, fol. 196); 5100 (Bridlington, fol. 139; Whalley, co. Lancashire, fol. 215; Pontefract, fol. 243); and from a few other quarto volumes of Dodsworth's collections, to which references are in each case given. The deeds, unlike those in the two preceding volumes, are ultimately derived from monastic chartularies. There are also extracts from Ordericus Vitalis, Eccles. Hist., iv, cc. 4–5 (fol. 12) and from Symeon of Durham, Hist. Eccles. Dunelm. ii, cc. 6–7 (fol. 15). A fuller list of contents is given in the Old Catalogue.

Now MS. Dodsw. 9.

'Monasticon Anglicanum per Rogerum Dodsworthe inchoatum, 1638': a collection of foundation charters of English monastic houses, chronologically arranged, transcribed, for the most part in a secretary's hand, out of nos. 5008, 5010 (chartae antiquae), 5019 (Cottonian library: see fol. 6v), 5051 (Dugdale's collections, for which see also fol. 1), 5059, 5061 (charter rolls), and numerous other volumes of Dodsworth's collections, to which references are given throughout. The volume may be reckoned a first draft for Dugdale and Dodsworth's Monasticon, wherein practically the whole of its contents are incorporated: see the references to vol. i added in the hand of Dr. Nathaniel Johnston. Lists of the monasteries included in it are given at fol. 3 and in the Old Catalogue.

Now MS. Dodsw. 10.

Abstracts of inquisitions post mortem, 1 Hen. iv–15 Edw. iv, a fair copy, by a secretary, of no. 4179, without index and with the inquisitions arranged in a single chronological series.

Now MS. Dodsw. 11.

4154–9. In Latin, on paper: written in 1640–3 and (4154) 1648 by Roger Dodsworth: 12½ × 8 (4154) and 13½ × 8½ in., ix+203 and viii+127 (4155) and xiii+246 and xxii+420 ('435') and xii+191 and xii+206 leaves.

'Collectiones ex magnis rotulis pipe in Scaccario Domini Regis remanensibus, per Rogerum Dodsworth, Eboracensem', viz.

4154 (12). 'Tomus primus.' a (fol. 1). Pipe roll of 31 Henry i, here called 5 Stephen: Joseph Hunter gives a collation of Dodsworth's transcript with the printed text, Three Catalogues, p. 103. b (fol. 33). Pipe rolls for Henry ii, years 2 (fol. 33), 4–30 (fol. 47), and 32 (here called 31–34 (fol. 182): the roll extracted for 19 Henry ii is now classed as a Chancellor's roll.

4155 (13). 'Tomus secundus.' Pipe rolls, 1–10 Richard i.

4157 (15). Pipe rolls, 1–52 and 56 Henry iii. The lacuna is due to the loss (before 1700 as noted at fol. 376v) of foll. 414–30 of the old foliation.

4158 (16). Pipe rolls, 1–18 and 20–30 Edward i, also (fol. 143v) 19 Edward ii.

4159 (17). a (fol. 1). Chancellor's (?) rolls, 13–18 Edward ii: b (fol. 129). 'Rotulus de Escaetria de annis xvii, xviii, xix et xx Regis Edwardi secundi, inter Rotulos Pipe ejusdem Regis apud Westmonasterium penes Clericum Pipe reservatus', a partial transcript of Escheator's enrolled accounts no. 1: c (fol. 169). Pipe or Chancellor's rolls, 13 and 14 Edward iii, ending imperfect.

A list of the rolls here extracted is given in the Old Catalogue. Each volume has prefixed to it an index of counties (extending only to 20 Henry iii) by Dodsworth, and an index of surnames. The indexes of names to nos. 4155–7 are by Dodsworth: those to the rest of the series are in the hand of Nathaniel Johnston. No. 4154 also contains at fol. v, in another hand, a list of names of barons occurring in the Pipe rolls of Henry i and ii.

Now MSS. Dodsw. 12–17.

4160. In Latin, on paper: written in 1641 by Roger Dodsworth, &c.: 13 X 8½ in., i+‘63’ (really 69) leaves.

‘Arbor Ogleana, sive Baronum Ogleorum Northanhumbrensis familiæ perantiquæ descensus’, by Roger Dodsworth; with a dedication by him to William Cavendish, earl of Newcastle (fol. 1), and (fol. 12) an appendix of evidences contained in the muniment-room at Welbeck (see no. 4191) and among the public records, transcribed into this out of other volumes of Dodsworth's collections. At fol. 62 is a pedigree of the families of Halton and Carnaby, of Halton in Northumberland.

Now MS. Dodsw. 18.

4161. In English, on paper: written about 1600 by 'J.W.': 13 X 8½ in., i+144 leaves.

'The Names of most of the Nobilitie with there Creations, from William the Conqueror's tyme untill the yeare Anno Domini 1586': beg. 'Clinton alias Clintone, Earl of Winchester'. This appears to be a copy, without tricks of arms, of the English Baronage of Robert Cooke, Clarencieux King at Arms, with annotations by Roger Dodsworth. Other versions of the same works occur in MS. Perrot 8 (9773) and in MSS. Ashmole 763 and 797.

Now MS. Dodsw. 19.

4162. In Latin, &c., on paper: made up of two MSS. written at the end of the 16th cent.: 12½ X 8½ in., v+172 leaves.

A (written about A.D. 1600, by William Camden and others). 1 (foll. 1, 62). Descents of English families (of whom many are enumerated in the Old Catalogue), written by William Camden and his amanuenses. Foll. 14v, 16v–29, 112v–18 are pedigrees from plea-rolls, &c.; foll. 37–43 are extracted from a volume of Robert Glover's miscellanies, now no. 6527; and foll. 34v–36, 43v–8 are also probably derived from Glover's collections. The chief longer pedigrees are: Arden of Warwickshire (foll. 67, 73v); Charlton of Apley, co. Salop (foll. 32); Danvers of Dauntsey, co. Wilts., and of Colthrope, co. Oxon. (fol. 7v); Englefeld of Warwickshire (fol. 32v); Heveningham of Suffolk, 'scripta 1509' (fol. 15); Jerningham of Suffolk (fol. 16).
MISCELLANEOUS MSS. AND

2 (fol. 49). Genealogical collections transcribed by Robert Glover, viz. a narrative pedigree of the Bromley family (fol. 49v); 'Cronica Roberti Montensis', excerpts from the chronicle of Robert of Torigni (fol. 53, cp. fol. 50); extract from the Mohun family chartulary (fol. 55); and a history of the foundation of the Cistercian abbey of Ford in Devon, and of the lords of Okehampton, its founders, copied 'e registro Fordensis coenobii', and printed from this MS. in Dugdale's Monasticon, v. 377-82 (fol. 56v-60).

Interspersed throughout this portion of the volume and at foll. 133-8 are a number of inserted papers in various hands, the chief of which are: a (foll. 12-13, 72, 75, 78-9, &c.) genealogical scraps in the hand of Thomas Talbot, amongst them (fol. 83) a pedigree of the Pipards of Latchford; b (foll. 38, 40) pedigrees of Sidney and of Vernon of Haddon, the former by Camden; c (foll. 76-7) 'Historia de dominis de Goher [i.e. Gower] in South Wallia', extracted by John Stradling from the lost register of Neath abbey: d (foll. 80-1) 'De morte Reginaldi de Moun, fundatoris abbathie de Nyweham', a narrative from a Newenham chartulary; e (foll. 90-2) draft of Camden's discourse on armorials (published in his Remaines), partly in his autograph and partly corrected by him: beg. 'When I first sett penne to write of armes'.

B (written in 1583 by Robert Glover). 3 (foll. 125, 147v). Pedigrees of the allied families of Lumley, Thwenge, Daudre, Morwick, Brus, Oketon, and Thornton, with evidences, derived from Brit. Mus. Harl. MS. 1985, foll. 269-93; also pedigrees of the barons of Kendal (fol. 136) and of the families of Knightley (fol. 137) and Greswold (dated April 19, 1580; fol. 147v) and some rough genealogical tables (foll. 150, 169v), the whole by Robert Glover, Somerset herald: defective through the loss of the first four leaves which are in the British Museum (Harl. MS. 1985, foll. 92-5).

5 (fol. 152). 'The armes of sundry gentlemen in North Wales', a roll of 201 coats of arms of founders of Welsh families, c. 1570: beg. 'Peke. Of hym do descend Richard Peke of Conway Towne'. The coats occur in varying order in the different MSS. of this armorial, of which the principal are Harleian MS. 1143 and Peniarth MS. 395.

A was 'Julius B 10' in sir Robert Cotton's library.

Now MS. Dodsw. 20.

Feudal returns for Yorkshire, viz.:

1 (fol. 1). ‘Rotulus feodorum que tenentur de Rege et de aliis diuersis in comitatu Ebor., secundum inquisitionem inde factam coram domino Johanne de Kirkby’, 1285. The returns for Richmondshire, dated 15 Edw. i, occur, under a separate heading, at fol. 78; a copy of the original return for Skyrack wapentake (known only from this MS. and from no. 11799) is at fol. 46v; and at fol. 58 is a list of rents of assize of the wapentake of Claro and liberties of Knaresborough and Ripon. This copy of Kirkby’s Quest is cited as D in R. H. Scaife’s edition (Surtees Soc. publ. 49), and is independent of other known MSS.

2 (fol. 105). a ‘Feoda militiae infra West Riding in comitatu Ebor., ut habentur in quodam antiquo rotulo manuscripto penes me, Rogerum Dodsworde, 1637’; the inquisitions taken in 31 Edw. i (1302-3), preparatory to levying an aid, edited in Skaife, pp. 224-33, 203-23: there is no return here for Staincliffe wapentake: b (fol. 117) an account (fuller than that given by Skaife, op. cit., p. 277 seq.) of the foregoing aid for West Riding, found 'in rotulo continente 17 membranas in custodia... Roberti, comitis de Kingston super Hull, 10 Maii, 1632'.

3 (fol. 133). 'Evidentiae extractae de libris feodorum et aliis memorandis scaccarii de feodis militum in com. Ebor., liberandae collectoribus scutagii de exercitu Scotiae, anno primo Regis Edwardi tercii... pro informacione habenda.' Foll. 133–50 are all derived from the Testa de Nevil.

4 (fol. 154). 'Nomina... villarum... de comitatu Ebor., Anno Regni Regis Edwardi filii Regis Edwardi 9' (A.D. 1316), followed, in the same hand, by a valor, in English, of the honour and lordship of Skipton in Craven, 2–3 Henry vii (A.D. 1486–7).

Artt. 2–3 are in Dodsworth's hand, and the whole volume bears his marginalia and corrections. There is an index of names of persons at fol. iv, but no index of places.

Now MS. Dodsw. 27.

4170. ('B' in circle.) In Latin, on paper: written in 1636–8 by R. Dodsworth: \(12\frac{1}{2} \times 8\frac{1}{2}\) in., viii + 291 leaves. 'Registra Archiepiscoporum Eboracensium, abbreviata per Rogerum Dodsworth.' The extracts are carried down to A.D. 1576, Newark and 'Sede vacante' being omitted from the series of registers, of which lists are given in the Old Catalogue and in Hunter's Three Catalogues. There is a 'Tabula alphabetica nominum virorum ut et abbathiarum' at fol. i: Yorkshire place-names are indexed in no. 4163. The abstracts of wills contained in this volume are collected and transcribed in no. 5040, art. I. Foll. 26 and 29 have been accidentally transposed.

Now MS. Dodsw. 28.

4171. ('Z' in circle, then 'B' in triangle.) In Latin, on paper: written about 1640 by R. Dodsworth, &c.: \(12\frac{1}{2} \times 8\frac{1}{2}\) in., xi + 144 leaves. 'Abstracta quaedam siue spicelegea annotata ex recordis nuncupatis Communia Memorandorum domini regis ex parte siue penes Rememoratorem domini thesaurarii ibidem tempore Henrici 3, pro Simonde D'Ewes equite aurato et baronetto selecta ex ipsis autographis, anno 1633.' These are extracts from the Memoranda rolls (Exch. L.T.R.), transcribed by Roger Dodsworth and his secretaries from a MS. written in 1632–6 by sir Simonds D'Ewes (see his Autobiography, 1845, vol. ii, pp. 73, 77, 143) preceded at fol. iv by an index nomimum. The rolls abstracted are those for the following regnal years: 2, 4–6, 8–11, 14, 19–23, 25, 27–44, 46–56 (including duplicate rolls for the years 11, 19, 30, 33, and 35): of these the rolls for years 19–21, 23, and 34 are now wanting from the series.

4172. ('B' in square.) In Latin, on paper: written in 1648-52, by R. Dods­worth, &c.: 12½ x 8½ in., ii+141 (really 134) leaves.

Transcripts of deeds, by Roger Dodsworth:

1 (foll. i, 128). Transcripts of about 260 deeds 'ex chartis originalibus penes dominum Symonds D'Ewes, 9 Maii, 1648', with sketches of seals, The originals are, with some exceptions, now in the British Museum among the Harleian charters. They relate, for the greater part, to Lincolnshire monastic houses, viz. Bullington priory (foll. 9-16, 77v-83, &c.), Elsham priory (foll. 3v-7, &c.), Greenfeld priory, Kirkstead abbey, Newhouse abbey (foll. 56-60, 84-9, &c.);1 are of the 12th-13th centt., and include grants from the Lincolnshire families of Amundeville, Crevequer, Kyme, Neville of Hale, Neville of Redbourne, Tattershall, Welles. The collection also includes transcripts of a few late 12th-cent. deeds concerning Theddlethorpe in Lincolnshire (foll. 8), of some 13th-cent. deeds of the Clifford family, and abstracts of deeds, not in the Harleian collection, of the Hoo manor of Luton in Bedfordshire, 1287-1473 (foll. 43v-5). Some of the foregoing deeds have been printed, from this MS., in Dugdale's Monasticon; others, from the originals, in Stenton's Documents illustrative of the Social and Economic History of the Danelaw; about seventy are particularized in the Old Catalogue. References to places of publication, as well as the press-marks of the deeds now in the British Museum, have been entered in pencil in the margin of the MS.; unpublished deeds of the 12th-13th centt. of which the originals are untraced have been included in a MS. slip calendar in the Library; and an index of monasteries has been inserted on fol. 140v.

For other extracts from sir S. D'Ewes charters see no. 4180: a modern table of reference to the Harleian charters included in nos. 4172 and 4180 is given on fol. 139. Some Yorkshire deeds (1225-1394) are entered from another source and in another hand at foll. 33-5, a pedigree of the Sheldon family at fol. 95 and a sketch of the arms of Brudenell at fol. 95v.

2 (foll. 108v, 110v, 125). Extracts from the chartulary of Castle Acre priory, now in the British Museum (Harl. MS. 2110). For further extracts from this chartulary see nos. 5009, fol. 208; 5038, fol. 72; 5043, fol. 122; 5051, foll. 29-42; 5071, foll. 155-7; and, for an abstract of its contents, Dugdale's Monasticon, v. 46-8.

3 (foll. 109). Transcripts of five 12th-cent. deeds of the Foliot family 'in cartulario prioratus sancti Johannis de Pontefracto'.

1 A note in MS. 4197, fol. x, refers to these same monasteries as 'in the erl of Lyndesey evidence'.

in Dodsworth's hand. These appear to be in part derived from deeds in the Augmentation office and in the Cottonian collection. The more important are noted in Hunter's Three Catalogues and in the Old Catalogue. At fol. 117 is a series of 14th–15th-cent. deeds of the Hollands of Weare in Devon.

5 (fol. 131). Transcripts of deeds 'in registro cartarum abbatiae de Kirkstede penes Christoferum, Baronem Hatton de Kirkbye, 1652', now Cott. MS. Vesp. E. xviii. Other extracts from this chartulary are in nos. 4197, fol. 124; 5046, foll. 23–8.

Now MS. Dodsw. 30.

4173. ('C' in circle.) In Latin, on paper: written about 1635: 12⅔ × 8 in., xii + 199 leaves.

Deeds and documents relating to Cheshire, transcribed from collections made by a Cheshire antiquary (? John Woodnoth: cf. B.M. Add. MS. 6032) in 1587–1613:

1 (fol. 1). Copies of documents relating to St. Werburgh's abbey, Chester, viz. transcripts, a (fol. 1) of the great charter of earl Ranulf ii (Eaton hall ch. 1), and b (fol. 6) of the so-called foundation charter 'Sanctorum prisca'; also extracts, c (foll. 9, 19v) from the chartulary ('liber evidentiarum penes Ricardum Birkenhed', now B.M. Harl. MS. 1965), and d (fol. 12) from the lost Liber Ruber of the abbey.

3 (fol. 34v). Excerpts from the leger-book of the abbey of Vale Royal (B.M. Harl. MS. 2064).

4 (fol. 36). Copies of 12th–16th-cent. charters 'inter evidentias Johannis Davenport de Davenport armigeri', relating to various properties in Macclesfield hundred, with sketches of seals.

6 (fol. 58v). A family chronicle of the lords of the honour of Halton, to Thomas, earl of Lancaster, 'ex rotulo antiquo igne et fer[umin]e consumpto, penes R. C[aterall?] remanente', shorter than the version printed in Dugdale's Monasticon, vi. 315: 'In maiori bus Angliae idem est notabile et memorandum quod.'

7 (fol. 60v). Copies of feet of fines, 9 Edw. ii–7 Eliz., and other records of the Palatinate of Chester: cf. fol. 14v and see art. 10 below.

9 (fol. 92v). Abstracts of evidences of the descent of various Cheshire families, with sketches of seals, copied in whole or in part from Robert Glover's visitation of Cheshire made in 1580. These consist of: a (fol. 92v) charters of the earls of Chester and of the families of Lascy (fol. 96), Montalt (fol. 96v), and Audley (fol. 100); b (fol. 100v) deeds of the families of Egerton of Wrin hill in Staffordshire, Fitton of Gawsworth, Leigh of High Leigh, Stanley of Hooton, in confused order: many of them are printed in the Harleian Society's edition of Glover's Visitation (Harl. Soc. Publ.) and calendared in the Cheshire Sheaf, 3rd ser., vol. xix. Among the earlier deeds are charters of king Henry ii to Hugh son of Bigod (Gawsworth, fol. 115); of earl Ranulf ii to Maurice and his brethren (Combe in Gloucestershire, fol. 93), to Alan Silvester (Storeton, fol. 101v), and to Hugh son of Bigod (Gawsworth, fol. 102); of earl Hugh ii to Trentham priory (Belchford church, Lincolnshire, fol. 92v; Dee fishery, fol. 93v), and to Nicholas son of Liulf (Coventry, fol. 94); and of Adam de Audley to William de Stanley (Stanleigh in Staffordshire, fol. 100). Some deeds of the Woodnoths of Shavinton are transcribed at foll. 101, 107v; and at foll. 104v–7v is an abstract of the evidences of the Millingtons of Millington.

10 (fol. 125v). Abstracts of deeds and public records, principally relating to properties in the hundred of Nantwich, with sketches of seals, transcribed from collections made in 1587–1613, probably by John Woodnoth of Shavinton. The deeds include charters of Ranulf ii, earl of Chester, to Alured of Cumbre (Nether Whitley, fol. 141v) and to Henry de Touchet (Markeaton in Derbyshire, fol. 142), and of William Malbanc ii to Wenlock priory (Nantwich, fol. 144). Among the other items are an account of the descent of Stanthorne near Middlewich, 'per magistrum Rogerum Wilcockson' (fol. 127v); Latin pedigrees of the families of Audlem (fol. 128v), Morton (fol. 142v), and Wetenhale (fol. 143); and Crewe family inqs. p. m. (fol. 156v).

11 (fol. 169). Abstracts of late 12th–early 16th-cent. deeds 'penes Ricardum Grosvenor de Eaton militem et baronettum', and still at Eaton hall, relating to properties in Broxton hundred (fol. 169, 191); also similar abstracts of deeds of the families of Leigh of Oughtrington (fol. 185v) and Newton of Pownall (fol. 197).

All 12th-cent. and unpublished 13th-cent. charters in artt. 4, 9–11, have been included in a MS. slip calendar in the Library. An index nominum to the whole volume is at fol. iii.

Now MS. Dodsw. 31.

Copies of deeds and family chartularies, &c.:

1 (fol. 1). Miscellaneous papers in various hands, as enumerated in the Old Catalogue and in Hunter's Three Catalogues, p. 113, artt. 1–26. The more considerable pieces are: a (fol. 9) 'Feodarium domini de Halton infra com. Cestriæ', c. 1323 (Ormerod's Cheshire, ed. Helsby, i. 707), with feodaries of the lordship of Widnes in Lancashire (fol. 10v) and extracts from the Widnes court roll of 1349 (fol. 12v), by Dodsworth; b (fol. 31) five charters of the Scales family 'ex cartulario monasterii monialium de Blakburgh in com. Norff. in bibliotheca Hen. Spelman mil.' (subsequently among the Gurney MSS. at Keswick Hall).

2 (fol. 43). 'Cartae de Luversall' (Loversall near Doncaster), a 13th-cent. chartulary of the Rivers family, 'in quodam vetusto rotulo ... mutuo dato mihi Rogero Dodsworthe, 6 Dec., 1632, per Robertum Rocklay de Rocklay'; calendared in slips.

3 (fol. 47). 'A copy of 3 court rolls belonging to the manor of Barnisley in com. Ebor. [1340, 1341, 1349], sometyme the possession of the prior of Pontefract, lent me by Sir Gervase Cutler of Stayner, kt., 1632': see also no. 4195, fol. 38.

4 (fol. 55). Excerpts 'ex rotulo antiquo, in quo transcribuntur cartae pertinentes olim dominis honoris de Cokermouth in comitatu Cumbriæ, ... penes me Rogerum Dodsworthe, 2 July 1634', and now in lord Leconfield's possession: this is a late 14th-cent. chartulary of the Lucys of Cokermouth, and relates to the honour of Cokermouth and barony of Wigton in Cumberland, and to the barony of Langley in Northumberland: the 12th–13th-cent. Cumberland deeds have been included in a MS. slip calendar.

5 (fol. 106). 'Copyes of sundry deedes given unto me, Roger Dods­worth, by my cosen Thomas Stockdale of Bilton parke, nere Knare­burgh, 1633', relating to Eaglesfield in Cumberland (early 14th cent.; nos. 1–7), Ellingham and Preston in Northumberland (Harbottle family, 15th cent.; nos. 8–37), and Newcastle-upon-Tyne (families of Emeldon, Monboucher, &c., late 13th–14th cent.; nos. 38–66): a number of the originals are now in the British Museum.

1 (fol. 1). Richard Bernard's feodary of the liberty of Pickering (fol. 1), soke of Knaresborough (fol. 2\(^v\)), manors of Bradford (fol. 5) and Wakefield (fol. 6\(^v\)), and honours of Pontefract (fol. 10), Tickhill (fol. 37), and Craven (fol. 41), with lists of fines for respite of homage in the honour of Pontefract (fol. 45), and of suitors of its court (fol. 48), 19 Eliz. (1577): the original is now P.R.O., Duchy of Lancaster records, returns of knights' fees 2 (28).

2 (fol. 56). Return of knights' fees in the honour of Pontefract, 4 Edw. ii: the original is wanting.

3 (fol. 64). Rental and (fol. 72) feodary of the honour of Pontefract, 3 Hen. vi (1425), the former with additions to 1594 (Duchy of Lancaster misc. book 106).

The returns for the honour of Pontefract are made by wapentakes, viz. Agbrigg (foll. 10, 59\(^v\), 68, 82), Morley (foll. 13\(^v\), 57\(^v\), 68, 78), Osgoldcross (foll. 18, 56, 64, 72), Staincross (foll. 26, 59, 66, 76), Skyrack (foll. 30, 49, 58, 80), and Barkston (foll. 34, 60\(^v\), 83\(^v\)). Dodsworth has added marginal headings and, at fol. 87, miscellaneous Yorkshire notes from placita de quo warranto, &c. For subsidiary pieces see artt. 6, 8, 9 in Hunter's account of this MS. (Three Catalogues, p. 116).

There is an index of surnames at fol. i, and of places in no. 4163.

Now MS. Dodsw. 34.

4177. ('C' in triangle.) In Latin and (art. 4) French: written in 1642 by R. Dodsworth and others: \(13 \times 8\frac{1}{2}\) in., 149 leaves.

Extracts from Exchequer and other records:

1 (fol. 1). 'Collectanea ex Rubro Libro Scaccarii, 1642', partially enumerated in the Old Catalogue: other extracts from it are in nos. 4189, 5030, and 5082.
2 (fol. 33). A few notes of Exchequer fines for the counties of Bedford, Buckingham, and Hereford, Edw. i-Hen. vi.

4 (fol. 77). ‘Ces sunt les nons e les armes et banerez de Engletere’: the ‘parliamentary’ roll of arms, temp. Edw. ii; first printed from this MS. by Edw. Rowe Mores as Nomina et Insignia Gentilicia (Oxf., 1749). This is the same version as B.M., Lansdowne MS. 855 (see Genealogist 1st ser., v, 1881, p. 17), and appears to have been transcribed from ‘a book in the Heralds’ office’: see no. 5086, fol. 84. Foll. 85–92 and 93–100 have been transposed by the binder.

5 (fol. 105). Extracts from the book of accounts of Roger de Waltham, keeper of the King’s Wardrobe, from 1 May 15 Edw. ii (1322) to 19 Oct. 17 Edw. ii (1323), here described as ‘in Scaccario penes rememoratorem Regis’ but now B.M., Stowe MS. 553, viz.: particulars of wages of soldiers employed in the Scottish war and in garrisons on the Marches to May 15, 1323 (fol. 106); and accounts of the sale of victuals (a) at Newcastle-upon-Tyne by Robert de Notyngham and William de Kirkeby, 16 Edw. ii (fol. 128) and 17 Edw. ii (fol. 135), and (b) at Carlisle and Skynburnesse by John de Louthre and others (fol. 144).

Art. 1 is partially, and artt. 2–3 are wholly, in Roger Dodsworth’s hand.

Now MS. Dodsw. 35.

4178. (‘C’ in square.) In Latin, &c., on paper: written about 1650, in part (foll. 1–34, 57–65) by R. Dodsworth: 11½ x 7 in., xi + 127 leaves.

Abstracts of private deeds enrolled on the backs of the Close rolls, Edw. iii, 9–15 Ric. ii, Hen. iv–vi, Edw. iv, preceded (fol. ii) by an ‘index nominum virorum’ by Roger Dodsworth. For an independent set of abstracts see no. 5026, fol. 98: both series appear to be taken from an office calendar and not from the actual rolls.

Now MS. Dodsw. 36.

4179. (‘D’ in circle.) In Latin, on paper: written about 1620: 12½ x 8 in., viii + 270 leaves.

‘Nomina eorum qui de Rege tenent ... hic sequitur’: select abstracts of inquisitions post mortem, 1 Hen. iv–15 Edw. iv, transcribed from a register of 850 pages (probably that now numbered MS. 62 in Trinity college library, Oxford), in three concurrent series (foll. i, 51, 239): preceded (fol. iii) by a ‘tabula alphabetica [nominum virorum] pro libro ... excerpto ex libro domini ...’ [these last three words have been erased, and ‘bundellis inquisitionum in turri Londinensi’ substituted].
MINOR DONATIONS

FRANCIS JUNIUS was born in 1589 at Heidelberg. He was educated partly by his father and partly under G. J. Vossius who had married his sister. A number of letters from Junius to Vossius were published for Colomesius in G. J. Vossii epistolae, 1690, apparently from nos. 14962–7, in which, however, they are not all now to be found (see also no. 17347, p. 330, and, for two letters to sir John Cotton, no. 15632, p. 37). In 1620 Junius was in France, and came to England next year as librarian to Thomas Howard, earl of Arundel. While he was a member of this household, he frequently visited the Bodleian Library, and published a number of works on antiquarian and philological subjects.

After two visits to the Netherlands (1642, 1644–6), as tutor to the earl of Oxford, Junius was again in England. In 1651 he went to live with his sister in Amsterdam and at The Hague, whence he visited Frisia and mastered the language. The results of this study, and of his interest in the northern languages generally, appeared during the next twenty years in a number of works. The chief of these, produced before 1665, was his Gothic glossary. The MS. of this is not in Oxford, but the contents are incorporated in two of the unpublished works of Junius—the Dictionarium Saxonicum (nos. 5114–15) and the Dictionarium Septentrionale (a transcript is in nos. 8696–706). The laborious Junius came back to England in 1674 and two years later came to Oxford to live near his old pupil dr. Marshall (see before no. 5251), now rector of Lincoln, with whom he had corresponded from time to time (nine letters from Junius to Marshall, 1663–71, are in no. 8683).

Before his death on Nov. 19, 1678 (Wood's Life and Times, ed. Clark, ii. 393), Junius gave his Anglo-Saxon MSS.—including the Ormulum and the Caedmon poems—and his philological collections to the University by a deed of gift dated in the same month (op. cit. ii. 358). The MSS. seem to have reached the Library in 1677, for the following two items appear in the Vice-Chancellor's accounts: 'To mr. Obadiah Walker, for his expenses to South Leigh to bring mr. Junius's bookes and manuscripts, £5 5s 10d. Item presented to mr. Fran: Junius by consent of the delegates, £40.' 1679. 'Paid dr. Vossius at the delivery of the letters of mr. Junius, the picture of mr. Junius, and a mathematical instrument, £100 [see no. 3945]. Item to dr. Allestree for carriage of
20½ × 8½ in., 90 leaves in double columns.

The Ormulum, in 20,000 lines of septenary Middle English verse, being a fragment (about one-eighth of the whole) of the homilies on the gospels written by Orm, an Augustinian canon, probably of Danish origin, about 1200 A.D. in or near Lincolnshire, and dedicated to his brother Walter. The orthographical peculiarities (the doubling of the consonant after a short vowel, and the use of three kinds of 'g' first shown by A. S. Napier, Notes on the Orthography of the Ormulum, Oxford, 1893), have made this manuscript of great importance, and the place of origin has been much disputed (cf. Athenaeum, May 19 and July 14, 1906). Since the editions by dr. R. M. White (Oxford, 1852) and by the rev. Robert Holt (Oxford, 1878) the tendency has been to bring the work farther south for philological reasons. For a collation and study of the corrections see Corrections and Additions in the Ormulum MS. (Upsala, 1922) by Sigurd Holm, who distinguishes four hands, and for another view Die Einheitlichkeit des Ormulum by H. C. Matthes (Heidelberg, 1933). The MS. itself is plainly holograph and contains a number of small inserted leaves which have been foliated separately but are not included in the numeration of columns, which is by Junius. These are fol. 11, 13-16, 19, 26-9, 37, 39, 47, 49-50, 56-62, 64, 67, 71, 78, 82, 108. Since the columns were numbered, nos. 13-28, 45-52, 69-76, 97-104, 137-44, 157-60, 181-204, 221-4, 237-44, 257-60, 277-80, 297-300, 399-406 have been lost. The bulk of the work is preceded by a dedication, beg. 'Nu, broþerr Walleþr, broþerr min aftþerr þæþ flæþhþesc kinde' (fol. 3), texts, beg. 'Secundum Lucam I [i. 5]. Fuit in diebus illis' (fol. 5), preface, beg. 'piss boc iss nemnedd ðrormulum forripi þatt ðrorm itt wrohtë', introduction, beg. 'All mannkin, fra þatt Adam wass þurr ðrihtin wrohht off eorþe' (fol. 10). The text beg. 'An preost wass onn Herodess da33, Amang Judisskenn þeode' (fol. 10, col. 2). An Alphabetum Anglicum with runic equivalents (13th cent.) is on fol. 2.

Facsimiles will be found in Holt's edition, in the Pal. Soc, ser. ii, pl. 133, Skeat's Twelve Facsimiles (1892), and Westwood's Pal. Sacr.

A note on fol. 2 states that this book was bought in 1659 by Janus Ulitian (or Van Vliet, a friend of Junius), whose library was sold in 1666 when this MS. appeared in the sale catalogue (Mus. Bibl. III. 4°. 1) as '107 [cf. fol. 1]. Een oudt Sweeds of Gottisch in Parquement geschreiben Boeck ober de Evangelium'. It was thus probably bought by Francis Junius at The Hague in 1666 and bequeathed by him with his other MSS. to the Bodleian.

Now MS. Junius 1.

5114, 5115. In Old English and Latin, &c., on paper: written in the third quarter of the 17th cent. by Francis Junius: 13½ x 8½ in. (5114) and 17½ x 12½ in. (5115), xxv + 590 (5114) and 498 leaves (5115) in double columns.

The Old English–Latin dictionary of Francis Junius, in two volumes arranged alphabetically (5114 contains B–T), preceded (fol. vii) by additional alphabetical notes. Foll. xxiii–xxv are three photographs of Brit. Mus. Add. MS. 4720 (an 18th-cent. transcript of this MS.) containing the beginning of the missing 'A' section. The 'F' and 'S' sections mentioned in Macray's Annals (1890), p. 146 note, as lost and restored to the Library, belong to these MSS. not nos. 5116–17. Nos. 8696–706 are a combined transcript of nos. 5114–15, and other Junius MSS.

Now MSS. Junius 2, 3.

5116, 5117. In English and Latin, on paper: written at various dates and partly after 1659 by Francis Junius: 13½ x 8½ in. (5116) and 13½ x 8½ in. (5117), 246 (5116) and 219 pages.

'Etymologicon Linguae Anglicaæ' in two volumes, by Francis Junius, hence printed with additions by Edward Lye (Oxford, 1743), beg. 'A nomen est primæ literæ apud Hebraeos ...' (p. 5). See further The Academy, Sept. 27, 1890, p. 274. The Etymologicum of Vossius, to which frequent reference is made, was published in 1659.

5123. In Old English, on parchment: written about A.D. 1000 in England: 12 3/4 x 8 in., ii + 230 pages with numerous fine illuminated capitals and drawings (see below).

The metrical paraphrase of biblical narratives by the pseudo-Caedmon, containing the Old English poems of Genesis (pp. 1–142), Exodus (pp. 143–71), Daniel (pp. 173–212), and Christ and Satan (pp. 213–29), in four hands: A (pp. 1–212), B (pp. 213–15), C (pp. 216–28), D (p. 229), with normally twenty-six (pp. 1–212) and twenty-seven (pp. 213–29) lines to the page. There are zoomorphic capitals (see H. P. Mitchell in the Burlington Magazine, 1923, pp. 162–3) on pp. I, 5, 8, 14, 18, 21, 23, 26, 32, 38, 42, 48, 52, 58, 63, 67, 71, 73, 79, 143, 226. On p. 225 is a unique design to direct the binder. The text was published by Junius (Amsterdam, 1655) and again by B. Thorpe (London, 1832), the drawings in Archaeologia, vol. 24 (1832), as plates 52–101. The whole has now been reproduced in facsimile for the British Academy as The Caedmon MS. of Anglo-Saxon Biblical Poetry (Oxford, 1927) with an introduction by Sir Israel Gollancz, and there are also facsimiles in E. Millar, English Illuminated MSS. x–xiiiith centt., pl. 23, Westwood’s Pal. Sacr., the Palaeographical Society, ii. 14–15, and Skeat’s Twelve Facsimiles (1892). Other important references are: Henry Bradley, ‘The Caedonian Genesis’ (in Essays and Studies by Members of the English Association, vol. vi, 1920); C. W. Kennedy, The Caedmon Poems (1916), with good bibliography; Morel Dare Chubb, Christ and Satan (Yale, 1927).

The back board contains the offset of a fragment of a liturgical MS. written in the second half of the 10th cent. On p. i is ‘Ego sum bonus puer quem deus amat’ (15th cent.).

Though often ascribed to Winchester the volume may have belonged to Christ Church, Canterbury (M. R. James, The Ancient Libraries of Canterbury and Dover, p. xxv). Mr. Kenneth Sisam writes that the script is not from Winchester, but that the illumination shows kinship with Canterbury work. Before it came to Junius this MS. was owned by Archbishop Ussher (Somner, praef. in Sax. Diet., § 10) until about 1651. Now MS. Junius 11.

A transcript by Francis Junius of Alfred’s Old English version of Boethius De consolatione philosophiae in no. 2079 (q.v.), side by side with the printed Latin text of Boethius cut up and pasted in, with valuable notes from the Cottonian MS. Otho A. vi, now half burnt, collated by W. J. Sedgefield for his edition (Oxford, 1899, p. xvii).

Now MS. Junius 12.
5125. In Latin, Old High German, Old English, and Gothic, on paper: written by Francis Junius and others, in England and on the Continent, in the 17th cent.: 13¼ × 8¾ in., v+256 leaves, some in double columns.

Tatian’s harmony of the gospels, in the Latin version of Victor, bishop of Capua, in parallel columns with an Old German version, in a foreign hand, interlaced with full annotations, prefatory biographical notes (fol. 2), and Old English and Gothic versions written by Francis Junius. There is also a copy of a note, sent by Nicholas Heinsius, concerning the account of Victor in Sigebert’s chronicle (fol. 3).

5134, 5210. In Old English, on parchment: written in the 11th cent. at Worcester: 11 × 6½ (5134) and 10¼ × 6¼ (5210) in., i + 250 (5134) and xi + 147 (5210) leaves: binding, brown leather on boards, 18th-cent.
(5134), and white leather on boards, 14th-cent. work (5210).

St. Wulfstan’s Homiliary, in two parts (of which 5210 is the first), consisting originally of sixty sermons in Old English with Latin rubrics. The three additional sermons noted in the complete list in no. 5210, fol. 11v (and found at fol. 230), are perhaps contemporary with the rest. This volume, which is apparently in the hand of the Worcester scribe Wulfgeatus (see no. 5232), includes some sermons written by Wulfstan, bishop of Worcester (d. 1023), and seems to have been compiled for the use of his successor of the same name (1062–95).
The interlinear and marginal Latin glosses are in the Worcester ‘tremulous’ hand (see nos. 4113, 4125, 5135–6, 5232). There are indexes by Dugdale, dated Aug. 12, 1644 and Aug. 5, 1644, at the end of each volume.
See further Early Worcester MSS. by Cuthbert Hamilton Turner (Oxford, 1916), pp. liv, lx–lxi, to which this description is indebted.

5210. (MS. Hatton 113.) At fol. 1 is a letter (printed by Wanley, p. 26) from the cardinal priests of St. Peter’s to bishop Wulfstan of Worcester summoning him to the Council of Winchester in 1070, followed by two prayers, for the peace of the church and for the king, in a slightly later hand. Foll. 1v–11 contain a liturgical calendar, formerly thought by mr. Edmund Bishop (Bosworth Psalter, p. 161) to have emanated from Evesham, but shown by the rev. H.M. Bannister in Early Worcester MSS., pp. lx–lxi, to be from Worcester, and described by sir Ivor Atkins (in Archaeologia, vol. 78 (1928), pp. 219–54, with transcript and facsimile) as a copy of one made at Peterborough by the monk Ervenius or Arnwi (c. 1020–5) with additions made at Worcester (c. 1064–70).
With a number of Saxon obits it includes under Nov. 23 ‘Obiit Edricus monachus et sacerdos qui scripsit hunc compotum’. Of the sermons, nos. 2–46 follow the church’s year from Christmas to Whit’sunday, and nos. 47–60 are for saints’ days from st. Gregory to All Saints.

Foll. 1–94v (Wanley, p. 26, artt. i–xxvi) are printed in Napier’s Wulfstan, foll. 94v–102v (Wanley, art. xxvii) in Thorpe’s Homilies, i. 258, foll. 102v–15v (Wanley, art. xxviii), which occur also in MSS.
C.C.C.C. 178, fol. 54; 188, fol. 215; 303, fol. 203; 421, fol. 99, and Trin.
Coll. Camb. B. 15. 34, fol. 249, are unprinted. Foll. 115v–44v (Wanley, artt. xxix–xxxiii) are printed in Thorpe’s Homilies.
5134. (MS. Hatton 114.) The first eight leaves are in a later hand and did not occur in the original MS. at this point. Of the 42 articles given by Wanley, p. 31, nos. i–vi (foll. 9–49), x (foll. 63v–8), xii–xv (foll. 75v–97v), xx–xxxii (foll. 123v–200), xxxv–xxxvii (foll. 212–30) are printed by Thorpe in his Homilies, but the homily for the first Sunday after Easter contains (foll. 96) an unprinted addition, in 78 lines of rhythmic prose, found also in MS. Trin. Coll. Camb. B. 15. 34, fol. 46, C.C.C.C. 178, fol. 242, and Cott. MS. Faust. A. ix, fol. 147v. Artt. vii (foll. 49–54), xvi (in part, foll. 97v–102v), xix (foll. 115–23v), xli (foll. 1–4v) are printed in Napier's Wulfstan. Others which are in print are artt. xi (foll. 68v–75v) in Skeat, Aelfric's Lives of the Saints, i. 282; xxxiii (foll. 200v–1 and in Junius 121, foll. 83v–4v) in Thorpe, Laws, ii. 202; xxxiv (foll. 201–12), xxxviii (foll. 230–5v) in Assmann, Bibliothek der angelsächsischen Prosa, iii. 117, 49; xxxix (foll. 236–42v) in R. Brotanek, Texte und Untersuchungen. Nos. viii, ix, xv (part), xvi (part), xvii, xvi, xxxiv, xl, and the rhythmic prose on fol. 5 (Wanley, art. xlii) which is intended to precede Aelfric's homily on fol. 153, are perhaps unprinted. One or more leaves are missing after fol. 235.

No. 5210 (cf. 5135) has an erased 16th-cent. inscription on fol. ii: 'Liber ecclesiae Wygorn.' These two volumes, with nos. 5135–6, were given to Bodley by Sir Christopher Hatton in 1675, but are said to have been lent shortly afterwards by the Library to Thomas Marshall and by him to Francis Junius, on whose death they passed again to the Bodleian. (See Wanley's Catalogue, p. 43.)

Now MSS. Hatton 113, 114.

5135. In Old English and Latin, on parchment: written in the 11th cent. at Worcester: 6 7/8 x 9 3/4 in., v+157 leaves, of which the first three and last two are 17th-cent. paper: binding, blind-tooled brown leather on boards, late 17th-cent. English work.

Old English sermons and tracts, in the same hand as Cott. MS. Faust. A. x, with contemporary Latin glosses, and further glosses by the Worcester 'tremulous' hand (for which see nos. 4113, 4125, 5134). This MS., which is App. iv, no. 4, in C. H. Turner's Early Worcester MSS. (Oxford, 1916) is described in Wanley's Catalogue, pp. 36–40, under 39 articles, of which nos. ii–iii (foll. 10–23), vii–x (foll. 40–58), xiii (foll. 59v), xix–xxiv (foll. 68–94v, except 12 lines on fol. 85) are printed in Thorpe's Homilies; nos. v (foll. 30v–3v), xi (foll. 58–9), xvii (foll. 66–7), xxii (foll. 131v–9v) in Skeat, Aelfric's Lives, i. 364, ii. 120, i. 424, and i. 384; nos. xv (foll. 61–3), xvii (foll. 65v) in Napier's Wulfstan, as nos. vii (part), viii, and xli (last par.). Others which have been printed are: no. i (foll. 1–10) in Crawford, Bibliothek der angelsächsischen Prosa; nos. xii–xiii (foll. 59–60) by Napier in Anglia, x. 154; no. xiv (foll. 60–1) by Kluge in Englische Studien, viii. 60; no. xxv (foll. 95–9v) by Assmann, Bibliothek, iii. 1; no. xxviii (foll. 108v–16) in Crawford,

The ‘Murbach hymnal’, a composite MS. important for its old German hymns and for the glossaries known to Junius as A, B, and C, comprising A (fol. 1) a Latin hymn with neums (11th cent.); B (fol. 2) the Cosmography of Aethicus, in two late 8th-cent. hands, edited by Wuttke (Leipzig, 1853) from a Leipzig manuscript, and of which a 12th-cent. copy is in no. 2089. Incipit liber Ethici ... Veniente ad nos (fol. 76), Alcuin’s Dialectic (Patr. Lat., tom. ci, col. 951), Quia mentionem philosophiae in priore disputationis (fol. 77), and the letter de generibus musicorum sometimes attributed to Jerome (Patr. Lat., tom. xxx, col. 213), Cogor ate, ut tibi, Dardane (fol. 86). Fol. 60 has some rather later Greek and Latin glosses. This section is on thinner vellum than B and is of the 9th cent. D (fol. 87) A 10th-cent. Latin hymn, O rex auguste clarissime dignus honore, followed by (fol. 87') the glossary known as ‘Junius B’, in double columns, by two 8th–9th-cent. hands, arranged alphabetically under Latin words with old German equivalents, and hence printed in E. Nyerup’s Symbolae (Hafniae, 1787), col. 194 ff., as B. E (fol. 108) An exposition of the Athanasian creed, Quicunque vult ... Fides dicitur credulitas, followed by (fol. 112) the ‘fides catholica Hieronimi’ in another hand, and an exposition of the Lord’s prayer, ‘Expositio super oratione domini’, Pater noster ... Patrem invocamus (fol. 114') and a second one, Pater noster ... Patrem dicendo filios confitemur (fol. 115). This and the remaining sections are of the 9th cent. F (fol. 116) Latin hymns with interlinear Old German gloss, Aeterni Christi munera, copied by Junius into no. 5185 and printed by Sievers (see below) as nos. 22–6, and (fol. 122) nos. 1–21. Between these sections are the ‘Junius glossary C’, a Latin vocabulary with old German gloss, lacking 2 (?) leaves which contained the letters e–l (fol. 118), and a gloss on the Rule of st. Donatus dicit partes orationis sunt octo*. On fol. 157’ are 20 hexameter verses ‘Incipiunt versus de Christo’ and some half-legible lines ‘de podagrico’. J (fol. 158) The glossary known to Junius as ‘A’ (see no. 5228), on Genesis, in Latin and Old High German, in double columns, Perizomata, femoralia. Umbisueift, printed in Nyerup, op. cit., col. 173. This is followed by short Latin pieces ‘De nominibus qui quodam presagio nomina acceperunt' (fol. 183v), 'De patriarchis', 'De prophetis', 'De apostolis' (fol. 184), 'De martyribus' (fol. 184v), 'De clericis' (fol. 185), 'De monachis' (fol. 187v); three expositions of the Lord's prayer, headed 'De oratione dominica' and beg. 'Dominus et salvator noster discipulis suis potestatem quomodocumque orare deberent' (fol. 189), 'Pater noster . . . Ut filius esse merearis ecclesiae' (fol. 190), 'Pater noster . . . Patrem invocamus deum in coelis' (fol. 191); 'Expositio de fide catholica', beg. 'Auscultate expositionem de fide catholica' (fol. 192).

This manuscript is thought by W. M. Lindsay to have been all written at Murbach (except foll. 60v–86v) about the same time. This conclusion, based upon a study of the abbreviations, is more probable than the suggestion of a Reichenau origin (cf. E. Sievers, Die Murbacher Hymnen, Halle, 1874, pp. 1-10, containing an analysis of the manuscript to which this description is indebted), and is accepted by Lowe (Codices Latini Antiquiores, pt. ii, no. 242). For a list of identified Murbach MSS. see Paul Lehmann, Johannes Sichardus und die von ihm benutzten Bibliotheken und Hss. (München, 1911), pp. 164–75, and for a discussion of the place of origin the same author's Mittelalterliche Bibliothekskataloge Deutschlands und der Schweiz, i. 224 note, cf. p. 232. The inscription on fol. 103v is proof that it was at Murbach in the mid-15th cent.: 'Legentes in hoc libro orant pro reverendo domino Bartholomeo de Andolo cuius industria penes dilaps renovat' est anno MCCCCLXI.' From Murbach it passed into the possession of Marcus Zuerius Boxhorn (signature on fol. 2), who published in his Historia Universalis (1652), pp. 451 ff., the glossary Junius A and part of B. It was afterwards owned by Isaac Vossius, at which time Junius made the excerpts cited in his Glossarium Gothicum (1665) and in his observations on Willeram (1655).

Now MS. Junius 25.

5138. In Old English and English, on paper: written in the mid-17th cent. by Francis Junius: 8 5/6 × 6 1/6 in., iv+108 leaves.

5139. In Latin and Old English: written in the 10th cent. at Winchester: 9 5/8 × 5 1/2 in., 150 leaves, with illuminated grotesque initials: binding, 17th-cent. white parchment.

The Latin Psalter, with interlinear translation in Old English, known as Codex Vossianus, lacking fol. 1 and ending abruptly in Ps. cxlii. The psalms were originally divided into groups at Pss. (i), xxxviii, li, lli, (lxviii), lxxx, xcvi, ci, cix, cxix, marked by the use of capitals for the whole of the first line. Pss. xxvi, cxviii also have fine initials. It is preceded by a mutilated Winchester calendar (fol. 2) which contains the obits of king Alfred (d. 901) and his wife Ealswith (d. 905) and some metrical entries, for which see Edmund Bishop, Liturgica Historica, p. 256, and New Pal. Soc., 2nd ser., pl. 62. Text and gloss are printed in full by Eduard Brenner in Der altenglische Junius-Psalter (Heidelberg,
The gloss reproduces the version which is found earlier in Cott. MS. Vesp. A. i in the British Museum. See also K. Wildhagen, Studien zum Psalterium Romanum in England (1913), pp. 28–30. Other facsimiles are in Westwood’s Pal. Sacr., and Facsim. of Miniatures and Documents, pl. 34, and (fol. 135v) O. E. Saunders, English Illumination, pl. 22d–e. On fol. 7v are some liturgical formulae (11–12th cent.) and on foll. 8, 9 some mathematical tables. Leaves are wanting before foll. 10, 68, and many are mutilated (Pss. xxv, xxxix, xlv, l, lxxvii, lxxx, cxxl lack initials).

Formerly owned by Isaac Vossius, who gave it to his uncle Junius. Now MS. Junius 27 [kept as Arch. F. d. 19].

There is an imperfect index rerum by Junius on pp. iii–iv.

Pp. 216, 218–26 are blank paper.

This MS. was owned in the 16th cent. by Sybout or Sibold Aysma (b. 1534, d. 1604), whose signature is on pp. 34, 74, 217. Jan van Vliet wrote 'Beneficio nobilissimi et clarissimi viri Francisci lunii libro hoc utor 1660 lanus Vlitius' (p. iii). There are cancelled inscriptions of ownership on pp. 1, 322.

Now MS. Junius 78.

5191. [Printed book. 'Otfridi evangeliorum liber' (Basle, 1571). Now MS. Junius 80.]

5194. In Latin, Middle High German, and Middle Low German, on parchment: made up of two MSS. written (A) after 1270 in the diocese of Liège, and (B) late in the 12th cent. in Germany: 9 × 6 in., iv + 74 leaves, with illuminated initials: binding, blind-tooled brown leather, 17th-cent. work, rebacked.

A (after 1270). Kalendarial notes: 'Incipit explicatio tabule que pancronics appellatur, id est omnium temporum. Primo considerandus est aureus numerus presentis anni quotus sit . . . ' (fol. 1v); followed by (fol. 4) a Calendar probably of the diocese of Liége and perhaps of the Dominican convent of Ruremonde (translation of st. Servatius, June 7: Robert [Gruthuysen], abbot of Clairvaux, Dominic, anniversary of king Louis also occur) with 14th-cent. additions in Low German, hence printed by R. Priebsch, Deutsche Hss. in England, pp. 314–15. At fol. 10 are Latin proverbs relating to the weather, from Bede, beg. 'Si fuerint kalende Januarii die dominica hyemps bona erit', and at fol. 10v tables for finding movable feasts including (fol. 11v) Easter, 1252–1783.

B (late 12th cent.). 'Incipit libellus diversarum glosarum in vetus et novum testamentum. Omnes divine auctoritatis libri' (fol. 20), and (fol. 49v) a glossary, headed 'Nomenclator' by Junius, beg. 'Homo. Vir. Mulier. Femina'. The old pagination is by Francis Junius, who copied these glosses in no. 5228 as 'glossarium D' and cited them frequently in his Observationes in Willerami paraphrasin and his Glossarium Gothicum. For further references see Steinmeyer, Die althochdeutschen Glossen, iv. 591, by whom the German glosses are printed (ib. i and iii. 362 ff.).

This volume, together with no. 5137, belonged to Henry Boxhorn, the Dutch theologian (d. at Leyden, 1631). On fol. 1 is 'invoco patrem et filium et spiritum sanctum' (14th cent.), and 'Sum Boxhornii' (17th cent.). The book apparently belonged, about 1600, to the wife of the sexton of s. Servetius [?] at Maestricht. 'Den Joffrau van Niewroden costerin van sinte Servaes' (fol. 7iv).

Now MS. Junius 84.

Old English homilies, wrongly inscribed 'pars psalterii greci', now in two volumes but originally in one, beginning abruptly with the conclusion of a homily being the last eight lines of no. xlix in Napier’s Wulfstan. The charms at fol. 17 are printed in Cockayne’s Leechdoms, i. 392–4; foll. 18–24 are in Thorpe’s Homilies, ii. 98–108. On foll. 40, 57, 62 are versions of the homilies nos. 4, 16, 18 in Morris’s Blickling Homilies, and on fol. 3 one corresponding in part to no. xiv in Assmann’s Bibl. der angels. Prosa, vol. iii, but the rest appears to be unprinted. Napier prints in Zeitschrift für deutsch. Alterthum, n.F., xix (1887), pp. 52-4, a fragment of an O.E. version of Boethius which in 1886 formed the last leaf of this manuscript, but which has since been lost.

These two volumes were given (as nos. 5137, 5139) to Junius by Isaac Vossius, for proof of which see no. 5157, fol. 9. Fol. 43v has a (?) contemporary note ‘Teobaldus Ade de Richeborg’, no doubt meaning Richborough in Kent, which is made likely by the linguistic characteristics of the text.

Old English canons and constitutions, perhaps written by ‘Wulfgeatus scriptor Wigornensis’ (fol. 101), as nos. 5134, 5210. The latest document is the Council of Winchester, A.D. 1076, but this is on a sheet which may have been added (fol. 4). The contents are: a (fol. 1) canons, including (fol. 2v) the Council of Winchester and penitential canons printed—the latter from this MS.—in Wilkins, Concilia, i. 366–7: b (fol. 5) Rubrics to the Polity (fol. 9), Penitential (fol. 69), and Confessional (fol. 87). Of these foll. 5v–7v, 69v–87 have been collated by Josef Raith in Bibl. der angelsächsischen Prosa, xiii (1933), which see (pp. xiii–xv) for a fuller list of contents; foll. 9–34 are printed by Thorpe 422–36, 395–402, 436–8; foll. 56v–9v are printed ib. 438–40; foll. 65v–7v ib. 402–3, 410–11; foll. 42–55v by Feiler in Anglistische Forschungen, iv. 54–81; foll. 59v–61, 64–5v by Napier, Wulfstan, nos. xxviii (55) and xxvi (51); and foll. 67v–9v by R. Spindler, Confessionale. Foll.
55v–6 are a translation of the Regula canonicorum (lib. i, cap. 145) of Amalarius of Metz, for which see Karl Jost in Anglia, lvi. 267: c (fol. 101v) the canons of Aelfric, with a gap of some leaves after fol. 110v, edited by Fehr, Bibliothek der angelsächsischen Prosa, ix. 1–32, followed by other pieces by Aelfric, ed. Fehr, 146–221 (fol. 111), and Assmann, Angelsächsische Homilien u. Heiligenleben, pp. 4–12 (fol. 124): d (fol. 130v) homilies, of which foll. 136v–7v are printed by Napier, Wulfstan, xii (16), and foll. 138–48v, 157–60 by Thorpe, Homilies, i. 600, ii. 438.

On fol. 1 is a trope to Benedicamus, with notation in neum-accents (late 11th cent.). Fol. vi contains the Nicene creed in the Worcester ‘tremulous hand’, as described by C. H. Turner, Early Worcester MSS. (1910), pp. lvi–lvii, which has inserted Old English glosses (13th cent.) throughout this volume. These are printed by S. J. Crawford in Anglia, vol. 52, with a facsimile. There is also a contemporary list of Latin hymns and their authors, beg. ‘Robertus rex Francorum Victime Pascali’, and a table of contents by Dugdale (fol. iii). MS. Harl. 441 in the British Museum is a transcript of this MS. by Edmund Gibson.

This MS. was perhaps not originally part of the Junius collection (Wood’s Life and Times, ed. A. Clark, vol. iii, p. 239 and note). According to Wood it was bought from Scott the bookseller by Fell, who probably gave it to the Bodleian between the date of Junius’s bequest (1675) and his own death (1686). Now MS. Junius 121.

LANGBAINE MSS.

(Nos. 5232a–5232u)

Gerard Langbaine the elder was born in 1609 in Westmorland, and in 1625 came to the Queen’s college, Oxford, where he was successively bateller, servitor, tabarder, fellow (1633), and provost (1646). In 1644 he was elected Keeper of the Archives. Though a staunch Royalist he managed to retain his provostship till his death on Feb. 10, 1652, which was caused by ‘an extreme cold taken sitting in the University Library’. He must be distinguished from his younger son of the same name, the dramatic biographer and critic who lived from 1656 to 1692.

Langbaine wrote many valuable catalogues, lists, and volumes of excerpts relating to Bodleian MSS., chiefly in 1654–5, and much of his work was printed in the Old Catalogue of 1697. The part of his collections here dealt with were bought for £11 and arrived in 1658. Besides these, Antony Wood gave nine volumes of Langbaine's Adversaria, see nos. 8614–22; and nos. 3629, 3631, 3633, and possibly also nos. 3676, 3706, 3710 were bequeathed by Langbaine himself.

1 The letters or symbols within round brackets are those by which Langbaine himself distinguished the volumes.
THOMAS MARSHALL, the philologist, was born at Barkby in Leicestershire early in January 1621. He was educated at Lincoln college, where he was successively batteler (1640) and scholar (1641–8). In 1645 he graduated, and two years later went abroad to escape the impending parliamentary visitation. From 1650 to 1672 he was chaplain to the Merchant Adventurers, first at Rotterdam then at Dort. His Observationes in Evangeliorum Versiones perantiquas duas, Gothicas scil. et Anglo-Saxonicas (Dort, 1665) brought him a fellowship at Lincoln in 1668. In 1672 he became rector of his college, and in 1681 dean of Gloucester. Marshall died on April 18, 1685—his will is in Wood’s Life and Times, ed. Clarke, ii. 316—but the MSS. which he had bequeathed to the University were apparently not received until 1689–90, when 5s. was paid to ‘Dr Marshall’s servant for his pains about his master’s bookes given to the University Library’. Of the 139 MSS. and printed books only 63 are Western MSS.

The collection is described in the Old Catalogue in two lists (pp. 272–3, nos. 5233–327, and pp. 373–4, nos. 8623–86). In the second list some items are identical, as noted below, with MSS. in the first: the rest will be found in their proper sequence.

Some of Marshall’s letters to Sheldon and Sancroft are in nos. 9857, 9865 and many to Samuel Clarke are in Add. MSS. 4276, 22905 in the British Museum. His correspondence with Dr. Fell, who had commissioned him to buy in Holland punches, matrices, and types for the University, is printed from nos. 15316, 15327 in Notes on a Century of Typography at the University Press, by Horace Hart (Oxford, 1900), pp. 161–72.

5265. (33). In Latin, on parchment: written in the late 9th cent. in France: 11⅔ x 8 in., 42 leaves: bound in rough sheepskin, 12th cent. work, with marks of three studs.

St. Jerome's Latin translation of the treatise by Philo Judaeus 'Interpretatio nominum Hebraicorum': pref. beg. 'Philo vir disertissimus Iudaeorum', beg. 'Adad precipuus, Aethiopim tenebras'; ends: 'Regina malitia queppiam': followed by an erased inscription. This MS. was not used in Migne, Patr. Lat., tom. xxiii, col. 771, nor by Paul de Lagarde in Onomastica Sacra (Gottingen, 1887).

The left margin of fol. iv bears a nearly contemporary note showing that the MS. was owned by the Benedictine abbey of St. Medard at Soissons: 'Hunc librum Teutbertus leuita dominis suis sancto Medardo et Sebastiano obtulit' (repeated in a half-effaced 12th-cent. hand on fol. 1). Hence, 'Teudbertus de ethimologiis quarundam parciurn' appears on fol. 1 about A.D. 1200 and is repeated with the variant Theudbertus on the outer front cover somewhat later. The MS. later passed to the abbey of St. Aldhelm at Malmesbury, as suggested by the inscription 'Hunc quicunque librum Aldelmo depresseris [for depresseris] almo | Damnpnus semper maneas cum sorte malorum' (fol. i, late 10th cent.). In the 13th cent. the book was at St. Augustine's, Canterbury, where it was marked 'Dil[sectio] xi. Gra[dus] i. retro, liber sancti Augustini Cantuariensis' (fol. 1). The autograph 'Tho. Mareschallus' appears twice on fol. 1.

Edward Pococke was born at Oxford in 1604, and educated at Thame school. He went to Magdalen hall in 1619, but migrated to C.C.C. in 1620 as a scholar. Graduating B.A. in 1622, he became a Fellow in 1628, and devoted himself to Arabic studies. Encouraged by G. J. Vossius, he wrote his Versio et notae ad quatuor epistolas Syriace (Leyden, 1630) before proceeding to Aleppo, where he was chaplain to the English 'Turkey Merchants' (1630–5). Here he studied Oriental languages, collected MSS., and made many friends. In 1626 Laud, who already knew him as a collector, made him his first professor of Arabic, but from 1637 to 1640 he lived in Constantinople, while Thomas Greaves (see before no. 3773) deputized for him in Oxford. After a further brief period in Oxford, he became rector of Childrey in Berkshire, where as a royalist and one patronized by Laud he was not popular. In 1648 he was appointed to the Regius Professorship of Hebrew, but was deprived of his canonry in 1649. His academic position he lost in 1650, but was restored in view of his great learning and peaceable demeanour.

Taking little note of such troubles, Pococke in 1649 published his Specimen historiae Arabum, a work which marks an epoch in Oriental studies. With the Restoration he left Childrey and was formally installed at Christ Church. Here he took a full share in the official life of his society and at the same time continued to produce learned commentaries on the minor prophets. When he died in 1691 'his only distemper was great old age'. For further details see the excellent account of Pococke in the D.N.B., to which this note is indebted.

Pococke's Oriental MSS. (chiefly Armenian, Hebrew, and Arabic) were purchased by the Library for £800 in 1692. The date and amount are given by the vice-chancellor's accounts, which also contain the entry 'For carriage of the said books to the Library, and to the person that brought the Jewish whipp, 12s'.

The 1697 Catalogue lists 420 volumes in this collection. In the present collection, consisting of 433 volumes, 66 have not been identified in the Old Catalogue, 23 are certainly later, perhaps nineteenth-century additions, and are listed in volume v under nos. 30904–27. Some of Pococke's printed books were bequeathed in 1822 by the rev. C. Francis of B.N.C.

The Old Catalogue contains 646 items, of which more than 20 are printed. The present Huntington collection contains 631 volumes of which some (e.g. nos. 625 and 626 which were given by Richard Lawrence) are presumably not Huntington MSS. Of the 646 volumes, all but 35 have been identified, but of the present collection 45 volumes cannot be traced in the Old Catalogue. For an account of Robert Huntington, the collector, see before no. 3738.

THOMAS HYDE, born on June 29, 1636, at Billingsley in Shropshire, inherited a taste for oriental studies from his father. At King's college, Cambridge, he specialized in Persian, on his knowledge of which his later fame chiefly rested, but in 1658 he came to Oxford as reader in Hebrew. Next year he became sub-librarian, and in 1665 librarian, of the Bodleian. It was during his term of office that most of the MSS. catalogued in this volume (II, part ii) were acquired, and he was responsible for the production, in 1674, of the third published catalogue of printed books. In 1691 he became regius professor of Hebrew, and in 1697 canon of Christ Church. Of his numerous works only a few were published in his lifetime. The most important was Historia religionis veterum Persarum (Oxford, 1700). Gregory Sharpe published Hyde's literary remains in 1767 as Syntagma Dissertationum et Opuscula. Four letters to Hyde from dr. Thomas Smith are in no. 15669, p. 119, and seven from Hyde to Smith in no. 15657, p. 219. Others are cited in Hist. MSS. Comm., 7th Rep., and ib., Var. Coll. i. 384.

Hyde resigned in 1701 to complete his work 'upon hard places of Scripture', but died in 1703 with this still unpublished. Thirty-nine of his Persian and Arabic manuscripts had already been acquired by the University in 1692 for £50 (vice-chancellor's accounts). Eleven others, which probably came in soon after his death, are now nos. 27798–808.

THOMAS BARLOW, a Westmorland man, was born in 1607. He was educated at the Queen’s college, whence he took his B.A. degree in 1630, becoming M.A. and fellow in 1633. In 1653 he was elected Bodley’s librarian, and four years later became provost of his college. He resigned the librarianship in 1660 to become Lady Margaret professor, and finally became bishop of Lincoln in 1675. When he died in 1691 he bequeathed the fifty-four manuscripts catalogued below and many printed books to the Library. Some of the more important printed items are noted in Macray’s Annals, p. 158. Devoted to learning, Barlow was vociferously Protestant, but casuistical, and politically a trimmer. A considerable number of letters and papers by or relating to him are scattered amongst the Western Manuscripts, chiefly in the Rawlinson and Tanner collections, and some are at the Queen’s College. For his paper against lending out Bodleian books see Macray, op. cit., pp. 113-18.

Missal according to the use of Salisbury, probably from some church of st. Helen (mentioned as ‘festum principale’, p. xviii), in a parish where the Fitton family were prominent, of which George Baguley was rector at his death in 1497 (p. xiv), and therefore likely to be in Cheshire. The contents are: a (p. viii) late additions for the Transfiguration and st. Osmund: b (p. xi) Calendar containing the late obits of Robert Fitton senior, esq., 1501 (p. xi), Thomas Fyton, kt., 1494 (p. xiv), Robert Fyton son of Edward Fyton, esq., 1495 (p. xv), and Nicholas Fyton son of Thomas Fyton, kt., 1545: c (p. i) Holy Water service with music: d (p. 3) the Temporale: e (p. 171) the Ordinary and Canon of the Mass: f (p. 195) services for Eastertide followed by (p. 209) the Sanctorale and (p. 355) Commune sanctorum and Manual Offices: g (p. 433) later additions for stt. Anthony, David, Chad, Osmund, and the Five Wounds.

An original document, being letters patent of confraternity of the master of the hospital of Burton St. Lazar, in favour of the parishioners of Tredington in Worcestershire, has been inserted as pp. v-vi. ‘Tho: Barlow 1659, ex dono reuerendi viri domini Guil: Durham rectoris ecclesiae de Tredenton in com. Wigorniae.’

Now MS. Barlow 1.

6414. (2). In Latin, on parchment: made up of three MSS. written (A) in the 15th cent., (B) about 1300, and (C) about 1500, in England: 14 3/4 × 10 1/2 in., 168 leaves, of which fol. 4-56 are in double columns: binding, brown leather, gold-tooled, on boards, with the arms of sir Robert Cotton on the outer front cover.

A. 15th cent. (fol. 1). The constitutions attributed to Robert Grossetête, bishop of Lincoln, as in the Epistolae, ed. Luard (Rolls Series), pp. 164-6, followed by Grossetête’s letters, here 129 in number, with marginal references added about 1700 to Edward Brown’s selection published in 1690.

B. About 1300 (fol. 58). A register of documents relating to the manor of Faringdon in Berkshire, a grange of the Cistercian abbey of Beaulieu in Hampshire, comprising a (fol. 58) notes of the assessment of the temporalities and spiritualities at Faringdon: b (fol. 59) rules made about 1275 at Beaulieu for drawing up monastic accounts, followed by accounts and customals of Faringdon (manor and borough) and its members, as specified in the Old Catalogue, with records, in a slightly later hand, of litigation concerning Faringdon. Much of this material (but not the regule compoti) occurs also in the 13th cent. register in the British Museum (Cott. MS. Nero. A. xii).

C. About 1500 (fol. 115). A cartulary of the college of Holy Trinity, Pontefract.

Wood (Life and Times, ed. Clark, ii. 174, n. 10) says of section A, ’The said epistles were once in Cotton’s library [his signature is on fol. 4], but dr. John Prideaux borrowing them from sir Thomas Cotton, never restored them. So that after his death they came into the hands of dr. [Thomas] Barlow of Queen’s College ... who bought them at Worcester.’ It is perhaps no. 110 in dr. John Dee’s catalogue.

6417. (5). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 15th cent. in England by Alexander de Puledon: 15⅓ × 9⅓ in., ii+‘274’ (really 275) leaves in double columns: illuminated capitals, borders, &c.: binding, brown leather, 17th-cent. English work.

Missal according to the use of Salisbury, probably from the diocese of Worcester, comprising a Calendar with Oswald and Wulfstan in red (fol. i); Holy Water service, followed by bidding prayer in English, hence printed in the York Missal (Surtees Soc., vol. 63), p. 220 (fol. 1); the Temporale (fol. 4); Ordinary and Canon of the Mass (fol. 158v); services for Eastertide (fol. 126v); the Sanctorale (fol. 177v); the Commune sanctorum and Votive Masses with marriage service (fol. 229), followed by later additions for stt. David, Chad, Winifred, the Holy Name, and the Five Wounds (fol. 271). At fol. 270v is the colophon ‘explicit hic totum per Alexandrum de Puledone. Amen’.

The end papers come from a commentary on the Institutes, i. 25–6, in Latin. On fol. i is ‘Liber Thomae Barlow è Coll. Reg. Oxon., ex dono viri optimi et doctissimi. D.D. [Johannis] Hall Coll. Pembrochian magistri’, with a further note by Barlow to show that the MS. was written after 1172 (!).

6418. (6). In Latin, on parchment: written after 1187 and before 1205 at Malmesbury by the monk Salomon: 14⅓ × 9⅓ in., ii+210 leaves in double columns, illuminated: binding, stamped brown leather, late 17th-cent. English work, rebacked.

The Policraticus of John of Salisbury, bishop of Chartres, written by Salomon, a monk of Malmesbury abbey, with biographical notes of the author and a table of contents by Thomas Barlow (fol. iiv). Rubr. beg. ‘Incipit Ioannis Saresberiensis ethematicus in Policraticum’, beg. ‘Si michi credideris’ (fol. 1); prol. beg. ‘Iocundissimus cum in multis’ (fol. 2); text beg. ‘Inter omnia que viris’ (fol. 4), with contemporary marginalia. Colophon: ‘Explicit Policraticus per Salomonem sub abbatte Roberto ii[°] [de Meldon, 1187–1205]’ (fol. 209), followed by the 14th-cent. note: ‘In hoc volumine continetur liber qui dicitur poliracoton quem composuit Johannes Sar. qui olim fuit cum [sancto erased] Thoma Cantuariensi’ (with later additions). This MS., of which no. 6428 is a transcript, was collated throughout as ‘M’ for the Oxford edition of the Policraticus by C. C. J. Webb in 1909 (q.v., vol. i, pp. xiv–xv).

Fol. 209 has ‘Richardus Ramsaeus possidet’ (16th cent.) and fol. (rev.) ‘Wyllyam Fittz’ (16th cent.). On fol. 1 is Thomas Barlow’s motto 6424. (12). In English and Latin, on parchment: written Nov. 20, 1504: about 11½ x 9½ in., iii + 18 leaves: with one complete illuminated border: binding, purple velvet, rebacked, with brass Tudor portcullises as bosses at each corner (one wanting) and portions of two clasps, contemporary English work.

Quadripartite indenture between (i) king Henry vii, (ii) John Islip, abbot of Westminster, and the prior and convent, (iii) the dean and chapter of St. Paul’s, and (iv) the mayor and commonalty of the city of London, for an anniversary and obit to be celebrated yearly in St. Paul’s for the souls of the king, queen, and others of the royal family, with the prescribed forms of prayer, in return for an annuity of £6 13s. 4½d. from Westminster abbey. For similar documents see MS. Rawl. C. 370. The illumination on fol. 1 contains the royal arms with supporters, within the initial, and a border of Tudor roses and portcullises, much in the style of no. 6478. The top edges are waved as in a chirograph, in which form the work was originally written.

6425. (13). In Latin, on parchment: written in or about 1518 in England: 11½ x 8½ in., iv + 34 leaves: binding, wooden boards backed with vellum, indented along top edge: two seals (one missing) attached by plaited cords of green, red, and yellow silk: remains of two brass clasps, contemporary English work.

Indented agreement between Edmund Audley, bishop of Salisbury, and Thomas Drax, rector, and the fellows of the college of the Blessed Mary and All Saints [i.e. Lincoln college], Oxford, witnessing that the college, within six years from date, will pay annually £18 from the money (£400) which they have received (June 8, 1518) of the gift of the said bishop to buy lands ‘ad emendum pannum competentem pro togis’ (fol. 1v), by the hand of Mr. Henry Rawlyns, in return for celebrating the bishop's obit. Foll. 9–end are blank parchment.

A note on fol. 1 by Anthony à Wood that 'this book did without doubt belong once to Lyncolne college in Oxford', has been amplified by Barlow: 'or to the bishop of Sarum or the university chest . . .'.

The Policraticus of John of Salisbury, apparently copied at Cirencester from no. 6418 (q.v.), soon after 1200. This MS., which was used for the Oxford edition of the Poliaticus by C. C. J. Webb in 1909 (vol. i, p. xv), once contained the Opusculum Probæ printed in Migne, Patr. Lat. tom. xix. coll. 801 et seq., according to an inscription of about 1300 on fol. i: ‘Liber ecclesie sancte Marie de Cyrencestria. Hec continentur in isto volumine. Poliaticus Johannis Sar. diuisus in viii libros. Item explanacio quorundam verborum extraneorum. Item opusculum Probe vxoris Adelphi ad testimonium et noui testamenti versifice compositum.’ For the ‘explanacio’ (fol. 137) see John of Salisbury’s Letters, ed. Giles, i. 207. Illuminations have been cut out at foll. 1, 2, 3.

Though at Cirencester about 1300 (see above) this MS. was at Llanthony in Monmouthshire in the 17th cent.: ‘Robert ap Powell ap Rychard ap Llewellyn of Ploythe Lantowny in comitatu Herford’ (inner back cover).

6461. (49). In Latin, on parchment: written in the early 14th cent. in England: \textit{9$\frac{1}{2}$} in., \textit{203} leaves: with nineteen fine miniatures, illuminated capitals, &c.: binding, brown leather, much worn, over bevelled boards, 15th-cent. English work.

A Benedictine psalter from Peterborough abbey, where it belonged to brother Walter de Rouceby whose obit in the calendar is dated May 4, 1341 (fol. 7). The psalter is followed by canticles, litany (fol. 168), and office for the dead (fol. 189), and preceded by a Respond in three parts and a leaf from a 13th-cent. breviary (inner front cover, fol. 1), lessons, &c., for martyrs, stt. Benet, Peter, Mary, added in a 14th-cent. hand (fol. 2), a calendar with marginal obits of the abbots, &c., of the house (fol. 5), and a series of nineteen miniatures illustrating the life of Christ and the Virgin Mary (foll. 12$\sup{v}-14$). The painted fore edge and the Beatus page, which is executed in the best style of east Anglian illumination, both bear the royal banner (fleur-de-lys and leopards), for Peterborough was a royal foundation (of king Penda). For a fuller treatment of the miniatures see Eric Miller, \textit{English Illuminated MSS. of the XIVth and XVth Centuries}, pp. 10, 50, and plates 22, 23, and cf. S. G. Cockerell, \textit{The Gorleston Psalter}, p. 2. One leaf has been cut out between foll. 1–2, eight leaves between foll. 4–5. Foll. 11, 12, 167 are blank.

1. (fol. 1) The \textit{Historia Ecclesiastica} of Bede, described as O$_{10}$ in Plummer's edition (Oxford, 1896), p. cxvi. The 15th-cent. foliation shows that the first 12 leaves are missing, the present text beginning, as stated in Barlow's marginal note (fol. '1–12'), in the middle of chap. 29. It contains the final paragraph 'Propterea omnes . . .', book iv, chap. 4, and individual peculiarities in the division of chapters and in rubrics.

At the end of the text is 'A[hythony] à W[ood]'.

Secundo folio: Bede de gestis Anglorum, libro primo capitulo 29°’ (15th-cent. inscription on inner front cover). Beg. ‘Super statu Eboracensis ecclesie’ (fol. 1). This chronicle, ascribed by Twysden (Decem Scriptores, coll. 1685-1734) to Thomas Stubbs, originally ended at fol. 47v, where Barlow has inserted a note, but is continued by another hand to the time of cardinal Wolsey, for which period it is the only text used by Raine in Historians of the Church of York (Rolls Series), ii. 422-45. Two later hands carry the list of archbishops down to Matthew Hutton (fol. 62v).

A (10th cent.). Calendarial rules, \textit{beg.} 'Habuisti primitus' (fol. 2), with much repetition of 'Si vis scire', followed by the 'Prognostica temporum' of Bede (Migne, \textit{Patr. Lat.}, tom. xc, col. 951), here headed 'Incipit subputatio quam subputauit Hesdras propheta' (fol. 5).

B (10th cent.). 'Questiones Albini [i.e. Alcuin] super Geneseos'
(fol. 6), \textit{beg.} 'Quomodo conuenit' (Migne, \textit{Patr. Lat.}, tom. c, col. 517).
Two leaves have been cut out between foll. 43-4.

C (early 11th cent.). 'Incipiunt scolia Graecorum glosarum' (fol. 44), \textit{beg.} 'Apodixen ostentio', in double columns, for which see Nettleship, \textit{Contributions}, p. xvi, followed by a more elaborate glossary, \textit{beg.} 'Aprocr­ fus igitur Latine dicitur secretatus' (fol. 44\(^{v}\)), and miscellaneous glosses (fol. 53\(^{v}\)). At fol. 54\(^{v}\) is an astronomical note \textit{beg.} 'Vesper est stella occidentalis'.

A, B, C are in Caroline minuscule showing insular traits.

D (fol. 56: 10th cent.). 'Veturio suo Cicero salutem. Collegi ea quae', the synonyms of Cicero, in six columns, to which has been added an extract from Aelfric's Latin–Anglo-Saxon glossary printed at pp. 310-13 in Zupitza's edition (fol. 57). See further \textit{Archiv für ... neueren Sprachen}

The 'Practica cirurgie' of mr. John de Arderne of Newark, composed in 1376, of which a more orderly version is in MS. Ashmole 1434. The treatise \textit{beg.} 'Practica magistri Johannis Arderne de Newark cirurgici.
Ego Johannes ...' at fol. 46 and is continued at fol. 1, ending at fol. 24\(^{v}\)
'Explicit practica sirurgie magistri Johannis Arderne'. The 15th-cent.
table of contents (foll. iv–xi\(^{v}\)) refers neither to the contemporary rubrics nor the present foliation. A 17th-cent. index on paper is now foll. ii– ii\(^{v}\), and 53.

Sermons on the gospels, arranged for the whole Christian year, beg. ‘Cum appropinquasset Jhesus Jerusalem etc . . . Karissimi tempus presens’ (fol. 1). There is an alphabetical index of subjects (fol. 132v') followed by a table of subjects referring to the second half of the book, which consists of sermons for saints’ days, and an explanatory note ‘In primis quotantur sermones par [sic] numerum algorismalem, deinde quotantur partes ipsorum par quatuor littere [sic] nominis compilatoris, nam S significat quidquid precedit sermonis processum, E significat primum principale, L secundum principale et K tercium principale’ referring probably to Robert Silk, for whom see no. 2305 (fol. 135). The fly-leaves are taken from a 15th-cent. book of hours.

On fol. 2 is ‘Dominus Thomas Noly est huius libri verus possessor’ in a 15th-cent. hand.

Now MS. Barlow 24.

A paraphrase of and commentary upon sequences, arranged according to the seasons of the Christian year: beg. (imperfect) ‘ista inferiorea per naturam’ (fol. 1) and, under each heading, ‘ista sequencia cantatur . . .’: followed by a list of sins and biblical references with the aid of which they may be avoided.

Patristic, classical, and humanistic pieces, written throughout by the same hand, with contemporary marginalia by a foreign scribe. The separate pieces are: a (fol. 1) Jerome’s letter to pope Damasus, beg. 'Credimus in deum patrem'; b (fol. 4) the ‘Expositio simboli’ of Rufinus Aquilegiensis, beg. ‘Michi quidem’; c (fol. 41) the prologue of the same to Pronianus concerning the translation of Gregory Nazianzenus, beg. ‘Proficiscenti nihil’: d (fol. 42v) a Latin translation of the Apologia of Gregory Nazianzenus, beg. ‘Victus sum’: e (fol. 90) Ambrose ‘de cura pastorali’, beg. ‘Si quis fratres’: f (fol. 101) Seneca ‘de moribus’, beg. ‘Omne peccatum’, followed (fol. 105) by Seneca’s epitaph, beg. ‘Cura labor meritum’: g (fol. 105v) an undated letter from Domitius Veronensis [Calderini] to Giacopo Amanati, cardinal of Pavia, and another from the bishop of Verona to Celsus of Verona, canon regular of the Lateran congregation, dated at Venice, prid. Kal. Feb. 1471, followed by a treatise headed ‘Celsi Veronensis... dissuasoria ne Christiani principes ecclesiasticos vsurpent census, ad inclitum Venetorum senatum’, beg. ‘Solent complures’ (fol. 106): h (fol. 128v) ‘Questio disputata per dominum Celsum Veronensem... videlicet An aliqua respublica possit conducere Judeos ad fenerandum sine peccato, et eciam an papa valeat concedere quod potest sine peccato fieri’: i (fol. 139) a letter dated at Bologna, xii Kal. Feb., from Celsus to the cardinal of Pavia [Giacopo Amanati] concerning the death of the cardinal of S. Sixtus [? 1474]. The illumination seems to be by the artists who worked on no. 4135. On fol. 1 is a shield of arms: argent, on a bend sable three lozenges or, charged with three saltires gules.

Though the scribe was trained in Italy, and the illuminator apparently in Flanders, the MS. had reached England by the reign of Edward vi (fol. 141v). Fol. 142v has ‘Thomas Droke me possidet’, and in pencil the names ‘Seton, Watson, Sanderson’ (all 16th cent.). There is a calendarial note of the 16th cent. in a foreign hand on fol. iii. Now MS. Barlow 14.

contemporary, red leather upon bevelled boards, two brass and leather clasps, one broken.

A Benedictine manual, from St. Augustine's, Canterbury, with music, containing baptism (p. 1) and holy water services (p. 39), private prayers in another hand (p. 47), the ordinary and canon of the mass (p. 71), visitation of the sick (p. 93), and services for the dead (p. 196). Prayers for use after confession have been added in a 16th-cent. hand at p. 272. A table of contents by Dr. Barlow is on p. vii.

There is an erased inscription on p. ii. 'Liber Rand[olph] de Londoniis' and 'Liber sepulture Randulphi de Londoniis D. xiii G. iii Et est liber sancti Augustini Cantuariensis', for which see M. R. James, Ancient Libraries of Canterbury and Dover, p. 533 (first half of the 14th cent.), are on p. iii, and 'Liber Thomae Barlow è coll. Reg. Oxon' anno MDCCCX' on p. iv.

CLASSIS XV

MSS. DUGDALE
(Nos. 6491–6536)

William Dugdale, a Warwickshire man born in 1605, began his literary work about 1625 as a local antiquary, though his History of Warwickshire was not published until 1656. His career in the dignified and leisured Office of Arms (Blanch Lyon 1638, Rouge Croix 1639, Norroy 1660) allowed him to undertake a series of literary projects, the scale of which would have staggered a less rapid and indefatigable worker. These he carried out successfully, often completing what others had begun, perhaps even reaping where he had not sown.

The relations between Dodsworth and Dugdale have already been described (see before no. 4143 and the article there cited, to which may now be added 'The Grand Plagiary' by professor D. C. Douglas in History, December 1935). The most important source for Dugdale's long life—he died in 1685—remains the autobiography and correspondence edited by Hamper.

The dates attached to many of Dugdale's transcripts run between 1630 and 1678, but this does not represent the dates when the present volumes were made. It is clear that most of them are fair copies, and the dates can be deduced from the title-pages when he describes himself as Rouge Croix (which he became in March 1639) or as Norroy (after May 1660). Though very neat and easy to use, Dugdale's transcripts do not compare in accuracy with those of his friend Roger Dodsworth.

Other Dugdale MSS. (from the Gurney collection) are now MSS. Dugdale 51–2 (bought at Sotheby's, March 30–1, 1936). Some scattered fragments and letters are in the Ashmole collection (see the index to Black's catalogue) and in MSS. Wood letters. See also Hist. MSS. Comm., 6th Rep., App., pp. 448 ff., especially p. 453. For nos. 26b and 49, (olim Add. D. 5, then Add. C. 47), which are insitious, see before nos. 25275 and 30455 respectively. No. 50 was acquired in 1889. The original forty-eight were bequeathed by Dugdale to the Ashmolean, where they arrived on June 29, 1686 (Wood's Life and Times, ed. Clark, iii. 190). A catalogue of them was published in 1692 by E[dmund] G[ibson], who also made the list in the Old Catalogue.

Nos. 6537-42

These MSS. were presented to the Ashmolean by mr. William Kingsley in 1688.

6537. (49). = Qu. Catal. x (Ashm.), no. 1791 (Seneca).
6542. (54). 'Liber astronomicus 4°.' Not identified. Perhaps MS. Ash. 1796.

Nos. 6543-6

These four MSS. were presented in 1688 by John Aubrey to the Ashmolean. For the Aubrey collection see before no. 25278.

6543. (55). In Latin, on paper: written in the 15th cent. in England: 3⅛ x 2½ in., 221 leaves with 13 full-page illuminations, miniatures, &c.: binding, brown leather on boards, 16th-cent. English work.

The Hours of the Virgin Mary (fol. 39) with those of the Cross interwoven, preceded by a calendar (fol. 5), the fifteen Oes (fol. 18), and a prayer 'Libera me domine' (fol. 27 v): followed by 'Salve regina' (fol. 91 v), the Joys of our Lady (fol. 93 v), prayers 'Obsecro te' and 'O interemerata' (fol. 100 v), the sequences 'Ave mundi spes Maria', 'Virgo templum Trinitatis', 'Omnibus consideratis' (fol. 105), Bede on the Seven words (fol. 113), followed by the prayer 'Precor te piissime' (fol. 120), prayers and songs at the elevation of the host (fol. 122 v), the penitential psalms (fol. 125), gradual psalms (fol. 134 v), litany (fol. 137), office of the dead (fol. 146), psalms of the passion (fol. 193), and psalter of st. Jerome (fol. 202). A leaf has been cut out between foll. 27-8.

The volume belonged to, and may have been written for, William Appulby, principal of Durham college 1404-9 (fol. 2). It probably remained at Durham college and passed thence into the possession of Margaret (d. 1538), the second wife of sir Thomas Pope, the founder of Trinity college, Oxford (ib.). Obits of the Pope family are in the calendar. Other names that occur are Walter Bettis of Wetterden (16th cent.), Robert Dichingley, Aug. 1, 1567 (ib.), Thomas Heyford, Matthew Porter (early 17th cent., fol. 217v), Edmund Knyvet (fol. 219v), Margaret Southwell (mid-17th cent., fol. 220v), and James Bletso, Trinity college, Cambridge, in 1660 (fol. 218). After 1660 it was acquired by John Aubrey, and given by him to the Ashmolean in 1688 (inner front cover). Fol. 1 has '1660 Pretium 3r'.

Now MS. Aubrey 31.

6544. (56). In Latin and English, on paper: written by John Aubrey in 1674: 9\(\frac{1}{2}\) × 6\(\frac{1}{2}\) in., 105 leaves.

Copy by John Aubrey of an astrological treatise entitled 'Zecorbeni sive Claviculae Salamonis libri iv', transcribed by him from a manuscript 'writt by an Italian, and in a very good hand' (fol. iv). There are additional recipes and incantations at fol. 85.

'Sum J. Aubrey, 1674 May 9.'

Now MS. Aubrey 24.

6545. (57). In English, on paper: written in 1672–3 by John Aubrey: 3\(\frac{1}{2}\) × 6\(\frac{1}{2}\) in., ii + 47 leaves.

Two short treatises on the mathematical theory of music by Nicolaus Mercator, copied by Aubrey from MSS. apparently printed in 1672 (fol. 32) and 1673 (fol. 1). Of the first treatise Aubrey notes 'The original copie was lost at Paris'. Begg. (after an explanation of hard words) 'Reasons and Concordes are understood best by one another' (fol. 2), and 'Any string of a lute, violl, or other instrument' (fol. 33).

Now MS. Aubrey 25.

6546. (58). In English, on paper: written in about 1670–90 by John Aubrey: 13 × 8\(\frac{1}{2}\) in., i + 129 leaves.

'An Interpretation of Villare Anglicanum' (an old list of places in England) by John Aubrey, an incomplete work consisting of a preface and a list of place-names with occasional notes of their meaning. Meredith Lloyd, a chemist, supplied a list of Welsh words in 1675 (fol. 4) and Edward Lhuyd a Welsh glossary in 1689 (fol. 6). At foll. 96, 107 are printed lists forming a 'Villare Scoticum' and 'Villare Hibernicum'. There are also a letter from Aubrey to E. Lhuyd, Apr. 21, 1691 (fol. 2), Aubrey's epitaph written by himself (fol. 122), and an autograph list of his works, Nov. 18, 1692 (fol. 123v).

Now MS. Aubrey 5.

Sir Henry Savile (1549–1622), though remembered most frequently as a mathematician, was also historian, antiquarian, and classical scholar, who as a man of learning won the admiration of Scaliger. Born at Bradley in Yorkshire, he came up to B.N.C. about 1561, but migrated to Merton as a Fellow in 1565. He rapidly distinguished himself in mathematics and Greek, but after 1578 he spent some years abroad and at court before returning to Oxford to become warden of Merton in 1585. A persistent courtier, he also sought for and at length in 1596 obtained the provostship of Eton. His eight-volume folio edition of St. Chrysostom (1610–13)—to which the Old Catalogue alludes in describing Savile as ‘sapientia excultissimus, eloquens, pius, et Chrysostomi sui omnino persimilis’—was his greatest literary undertaking, but it had little success, as a French edition, thought to be pirated, was produced almost simultaneously. His foundation in Oxford of the professorships of geometry and astronomy was completed by the gift of a mathematical chest, endowed with £100, and a mathematical library, of which the manuscript portion is catalogued below. In this Savile was no doubt encouraged by his friendship with Bodley, of whose will he was one of the ‘overseers’. The MSS. were given by him in 1620 (Macray, Annals of the Bodleian, p. 23) for the use of his professors, in continuation of his previous benefactions of printed books. Of the latter, as well as of sixteen astronomical instruments given to the Savilian museum by John and Thomas Graves, there are lists, not here reproduced, in the Old Catalogue at p. 302.

Of the present sixty-eight MSS. in the Savile collection nos. 53–end are modern additions, and have been catalogued as nos. 26121–73. No. 36671 contains fragments taken from the bindings of books in this section.

6548. (1). In Greek, on paper: written by James Dalrymple of Ayr in the late 16th or early 17th cent. (cf. nos. 2783g and 2777): 14\frac{3}{4} \times 9\frac{3}{4} in., iii+‘321’ (really 327) leaves.

Greek scientific treatises:

3 (fol. 200). Εὐκλείδου δεδομένα (no. 35 in the list of Menge, Euclidis opera, VI, p. xv).

4 (fol. 228). Αὐτολύκου περὶ κυνουμένης σφαίρας (not used by Hultsch).

5 (fol. 234). Εὐκλείδου θαυμώμενα (no. 35 in the list of Menge, Euclidis opera, VIII, p. xxvi).

6 (fol. 240). Θεοδωσίου περὶ νυκτῶν καὶ ἡμερῶν

8 (fol. 264). Αὐτολύκου περὶ ἐπιστολῶν καὶ δύσεων (see no. 4 above).

9 (fol. 276). Logistica Barlaam.

At the end (fol. 318) are a few calendarial notes partly in Greek, partly in Latin, and the scribe’s colophon, which contains an incorrect date: ‘Ελαβε τέρμα ἀπὸ κτίσεως κόσμου εὐφή’ (5589) ἐλαφηβολίως πέμπτη ἐπὶ δέκα. At fol. 327b occurs the beginning of a Latin translation of Euclid’s Phaenomena, perhaps by David Gregory.

Foll. i, 321 are leaves from a 13th-cent. Latin MS. on vellum containing Jeremiah xlvi. 1–lii. 3.

Now MS. Savile 1.

6549. (2). In Greek, on paper: written late in the 16th cent. by the same scribe as no. 2948: 13⅓×9⅛ in., x+602 pages: with coloured capitals, &c.

Greek astronomical treatises, &c.

Mathematica Graeca et Latina.

1 (fol. 1). 'Ptolemaeus de analemmate' and 'De angulis et peripheris subtensis ex doctrina Ptolemaei': these are only Latin notes, including some on sun-dials, cf. fol. 245v.
2 (fol. 10). 'Additiones ad sphaerica Theodosii, quae in Maurolycia traditione reperiuntur', in Latin.
3 (fol. 12). 'Sphaerica Menelai quam plurimis tum nouis [?] tum argutis à Maurolyco adacta (vt ipse ait) propositionibus': including (fol. 16) 'Supplementum Thebitij Bencorat in sphaericum sectorem Ptolemaei' and (fol. 19v) 'Demonstrationes in quaedam theoremata Menelai': in Latin.
5 (fol. 31). 'Euclidis Data, Δεδομένα', in Greek, with Latin notes and some 'Investigationes'.

Now MS. Savile 9.

6557. (10). In Greek, &c., on paper: written in five hands (see below) in the 16th or early 17th cent.: 13 3/8 x 9 in., iii+179 leaves.

A collection of astronomical treatises.

A (in sir H. Savile's hand with marginal notes in Latin) 1 (fol. 1v).

Θεοδοσίου περὶ νυκτῶν καὶ ἡμερῶν.
2 (fol. 12v). Θεοδοσίου περὶ οἰκήσεων.
3 (fol. 15v). Αὐτολύκου περὶ κυνομένης σφαίρας (not in the list of MSS. used by Hultsch).
4 (fol. 18v). Ἐυκλείδου φαινόμενα (no. 36 in Menge's list of MSS., Euclidis opera, VIII, p. xxvi).
5 (fol. 25v). Αὐτολύκου περὶ ἐπιτολῶν καὶ δύσεων (see no. 3 above).
MSS. SAVILE

B (in the hand of George Carew, see below) 7 (fol. 43). The same, ‘ex antiquo manuscripto bibliothecae Caesareae’. 8 (fol. 51). Γερμίνου [εἰσαγωγή] εἰς τὰ φαινόμενα. (This MS. is no. 4 in Manitius’s list, Teubner ed., p. xvi.)

C (alternate pages in the hands of sir H. Savile and George Carew, and one of these and a third scribe) 9 (fol. 80). The same. Fol. 117v, ‘Explicit opus feliciter 1581 18 Julii George Karew’. The unnamed scribe’s hand is also found in no. 6553.

D (in the same hand as no. 6558, art. E) 10 (fol. 118). The same, chh. xiii-xv as far as κατευθυνμέναι λέγονται, followed after three blank pages by the Calendar (χρόνοι τῶν ἡμερῶν).

E II (fol. 132). Ἀριστάρχου περὶ μεγεθῶν καὶ ἀποστημάτων ἡλίου καὶ σελήνης.

12 (fol. 141v). Υψικλέως ἀναφορικός. (This MS. is not mentioned by Manitius, Des Hypsikles Schrift Amphorikos, p. vii.)

13 (fol. 145). Δημητρίου τοῦ Τρικλίνου περὶ τοῦ ἐντὸς τῆς σελήνης ὀρωμένου μέλανος.

14 (fol. 146). Description of a MS. containing geographical and astronomical pieces, giving one or two short extracts, with Italian marginalia, followed by longer extracts (one from Barlaam on the procession of the Holy Ghost).

16 (fol. 160). Ἀπολλωνίου Περγαίου κωνικῶν πρῶτον (δεύτερον, τρίτον, τέταρτον), ex libro Montaurei, only the prefaces, definitions, and problems, omitting the proofs. (This MS. is not in Heiberg’s list, Apollonii Pergaei quae graece extant, II, p. xi, but see ib., p. lxxxiv.)

Now MS. Savile 10.

6558. (11). In Greek, on paper: written in various hands in the 16th and 17th centt.: 11½×8 in., ii+448 leaves.

A volume made up of various MSS. containing astronomical and other treatises.

A (fol. 1). Σεξτοῦ Ἐμπειρικοῦ Πυρρωνείων ὑποτυπώσεων ἅ, ᾽, 7 (cod. S in Mutschmann’s list, Rhein. Mus. 64 (1909), 248).

B (fol. 199). περὶ στρατηγικῶν δυνάμεων τε καὶ τάξεων ἀδέσποτων, really Aelian, τακτικὴ θεωρία, defective, followed (fol. 230v) by a diagram with a paragraph of explanation from some Byzantine writer.

C (in the hand of John Nathanael) (fol. 233). Νικηφόρου... τοῦ Γρηγορᾶ ἦχήγησι εἰς τῶν τοῦ περὶ ἐνυπηρεσίων Συνεσίου λόγον, omitting the preface and incomplete at the end.
F (fol. 333). Ιωάννου τοῦ Φιλοσόφου ἕξηγησις εἰς τὴν ἑἰσαγωγὴν Νικο-μάχου ἀριθμητικῆς . . . (This MS. was not used by Hoche.)
G (in the hand of Sir H. Savile) (fol. 430v). Κλαυδίου Πτολεμαίου σαφήνεια καὶ διάταξις τῶν προχείρων κανόνων as far as the words σελήνης ψηφοφορία γραμματικῶς (Heiberg, Teubner ed., ii. 165. See E above).

Foll. 433v-48 are blank.

Part G was bequeathed to the Bodleian by Dr. Peter Turner, who died in Jan. 1655, and was claimed in 1655 for the Savilian library.

Now MS. Savile 11.

6559. (12). In Greek, on paper: written in two hands in the late 13th or 14th cent. A.D.: 9½ × 5½ in., 275 leaves.

C. Ptolemaei Quadripartitum, books i, ii, and iii, as far as peri γονεῶν (fol. 29v in the ed. of Camerarius), followed (fol. 63) by the anonymous commentary, defective at the beginning and end and in at least two other places. (It begins at p. 3, col. 1, of the 1559 Bâle edition and ends at p. 170, col. 1. There are gaps at foll. 77-80 corresponding to p. 15, col. 1-p. 17, col. 1, and at foll. 99v-100 corresponding to p. 32, col. 1.)

Now MS. Savile 12.

6560. (13). In Greek, on paper: written in the 14th cent. (?): 10½ × 7 in., 315 leaves, in parts damaged: binding, brown stamped leather on boards, worn, with bosses (except one) and clasps lost, 15th-cent. work.

'Εὐκλείδου στοιχείων πρῶτον', the 1st book of Euclid's Elements of Geometry, followed by the 2nd to the 15th books: the last two leaves injured: there are diagrams and scholia. Foll. 2-3 are occupied with Φιλοσόφου σχόλια εἰς τὰ πρότερα τῶν δευτέρων ἀναλυτικῶν 'Αριστοτέλους (cf. fol. 314), in parts damaged, ending with a circle of the winds. Fol. 1v bears a Greek note which appears to be dated A.D. 1335. Latin 15th-cent. notes written in Italy are on fol. 315.

Bequeathed by Dr. Peter Turner, who died in Jan. 1655: about 1680 it was 'challenged by D* Wallis' and carried off to the Savilian library.

Now MS. Savile 13.

6561. (14). In Greek, on paper: written in three hands in the 15th or 16th cent. A.D.: 8½ × 6½ in., ii + 180 leaves.

A (fol. 1). 'Ιππάρχου τοῦ Ἡθικόν τῶν 'Αράτου καὶ Εὐδόξου φαινομένων ἐξήγησις, books i, ii, and iii as far as c. 4, § 5 middle. This is cod. 16 in C. Manitius's list, Teubner ed., p. xi.

B. 1 (fol. 84). The same, from Bk. III, c. 4, § 7 to the end. 2 (fol. 89).
1102 MSS. SAVILE

(1) τοῦ κατὰ τὸ βόρειον ἡμισφαίριον ἀστερειμοῦ, i.e. C. Ptolemaeus, μαθηματικὴ σύνταξις, Bk. VII, § 5–Bk. VIII, § 1, end.

C (fol. 134). τοῦ αὐτοῦ (i.e. Γεωργίου τοῦ Γεμιστοῦ) πρὸς τὰς Σχολα­­ρίου ὑπὲρ Ἀριστοτέλους ἀντιλήψεις.

D. i (fol. 171). Αἰσχύνος Ῥήτορος βιός. 2 (fol. 172) Ἀπολλωνίου εἰς Αἰσχύνην ἐξήγησις. 3 (fol. 174) ὑπόθεσις εἰς τὸν κατὰ Τιμάρχου λόγον, (fol. 175) ἑτέρα ὑπόθεσις εἰς τὸν κατὰ Τιμάρχου λόγον, (fol. 175v) ὑπόθεσις τοῦ τῆς παραπρεσβείας, (fol. 176v) ὑπόθεσις τοῦ κατὰ Κτησιφῶντος.

Now MS. Savile 14.

Astronomical treatises, of which nos. 3–6 are translations by Hugo Sanctalliensis, for whom see C. H. Haskins, Studies in Mediaeval Science (1924), pp. 67–81.

1 (fol. 1). The astronomy of Hali translated from the Spanish version of Jehuda ben Moses Cohen (made at the command of Alfonso x of Castille) into Latin in 1253 by Egidius de Thebaldis of Parma, in eight parts. Rubric 'Hec est figura incisi translationis huius libri die Iovis mensis Marcii 21 die ... era ... Christi 1253 ... '. Prol. beg. 'In nomine domini hic est liber ... quem Haly Abenragel ... composuit de judeiciis astrologie. Quem Yhuda filius Muste [sic] ... ', second prol. beg. 'Dixit Haly filius Abenragel vni deo victorioso'. Cap. i beg. 'Duodecim signa sunt in celo'. For another copy see no. 2492, and cf. Royal MS. 12D vi (&c.) in the British Museum.

2 (fol. 109). The 'Liber novem judicum', a mid-13th-cent. astro­­logical compilation, printed at Venice in 1509, of which another copy is in no. 1750, here preceded by a table of chapters divided into 12 'domus' (fol. 109) but without prologue. Text beg. 'Celestis circuli forma sperica' (fol. 111).

3 (fol. 175v). The translation by Hugo Sanctalliensis of Abu Ma­­‘ashar Ja’afar’s 'liber ymbrium', beg. 'Superioris discipline inconcussam veritatem prout Judeorum movet auctoritas'.

5 (fol. 185). A translation by the same of the pseudo-Aristotelian treatise on astrology, beg. 'Ex multiplici questionum'.

astronomical tables compiled by Al-Khwarizmi, headed 'Hamis Benhamie Machumeti frater de geometria mobilis quantitatis et azig, hoc est canonis stellarum rationibus'. Another copy is in no. 3348, foll. 11–62v. Text beg. 'Quia nonnullos nec inmerito'.

7 (fol. 229). The Liber Introductorius of Guido Bonatti (fl. 1245), for which see L. Thorndike, History of Magic, pp. 825–40, here in eight treatises each subdivided into parts and chapters. Prol. beg. 'In nomine domini nostri Jhesu Christi misericordie'. Text beg. 'Animus est nobilius quod reperitur in homine' (fol. 229). A note on fol. 334v states that this was written by Jacobus Ganton, as was apparently most of the volume. There is a table of contents (c. 1500) on fol. i. The fly-leaves are from two noted 15th-cent. breviaries.

Probably belonged to the Franciscans of Doncaster, as nos. 6564–6 (on the inner front cover is 'Nota de durabilitate etc. ordinis fratrum Minorum f6o 398v'). Fol. i has 'Joannes Dee 1564' partly obliterated, and 'P. Saunders' (17th cent.). This volume was no. 108 in dr. John Dee's library and contains an autograph note by him (fol. 105).

Now MS. Savile 15.

6562. (16). In Latin, on parchment: made up of two MSS. written (A) in the late 14th cent., (B) in the 13th cent., probably in France: $12\frac{3}{8} \times 8\frac{7}{8}$ in., 67 leaves: binding, white leather on boards with traces of two clasps, 15th-cent. English work.

A. Late 14th-cent.: a (fol. 1) Nicholas Oresme, bishop of Lisieux (1377–82), De motibus spherarum, with pen-and-ink diagrams, beg. 'Ad paucam respicientes': b (fol. 4) an illustrated treatise on trigonometry, beg. 'Quantitatem aliquam invenire. Est invenire quociens in ea aliqua famosa ...' and with colophon 'Explicitu practice concinate ordinate per magistrum Dominicum de Mascinario complete anno ab incarnatione domini 1346 prima die Maij': c (fol. 14) the Perspectiva of Roger Bacon, beg. 'Propositus radicibus sapiencie', not included in MSS. cited by A. G. Little in the 'List of Roger Bacon's Works' reprinted from the Proceedings of the British Society of Franciscan Studies (1911): d (fol. 35) an anonymous arithmetical treatise, beg. 'Unitatis tanta est respectu numero'.

B. Written in the 13th cent., probably in France: a (fol. 40) 'Incipit liber de aggregacionibus sciencie stellarum et principiis celestium motuum Admeti filii Admeti qui dictus est Alfraganus', or the Rudiments of Astronomy of Al-Fargani (Ahmed b. Muh. b. Ketir-el-Fargâni), in thirty chapters, of which the last leaf (for the important colophon of which see Lynn Thorndike, History of Magic, ii. 74) is now no. 1791, fol. 87: b (fol. 49) Messahala (Mā Sha' Allāh al Misrî) on the astrolabe, in the Latin version of John of Spain. Fol. 55v contains late 12th-cent. allusions to works not now in the volume, and foll. 56–end are blank. Fol. iv has 'in isto libro sunt 8° quaterni quorum duo mobiles sunt' (15th cent.), an erased inscription, and a 17th-cent. table of contents.

Now MS. Savile 16.

6563. (17). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 1st half of the 15th cent. in England: 98 × 68½ in., 111 + 201 leaves, with numerous diagrams: binding, red leather on boards, 15th-cent. English work.

Astronomical treatises and tables.

a (fol. 1) The 'Kalendarium nouum magistri Petri de Dacia', who was rector of the university of Paris in 1326, apparently composed about 1300, as printed by Léopold Delisle in Bibliothèque de l'École des Chartes, xlviii. 532: beg. 'Quere in superiori parte istius tabule numerum annorum'. This is preceded by paschal tables (fol. 1r): b (fol. 11v) a 'practica astrolabii' in 50 chapters, with a table thereof (fol. 11), beg. 'Nomina instrumentorum sunt hæc': c (fol. 22r) 'De spera celi', beg. 'Spera celi ut dicit Ysidorus est species quædam': d (fol. 46) Robert Grossetête's tract 'de impressionibus aeris seu de prognosticatione' (cod. H. in dr. Ludwig Baur's edition of Die philosophischen Werke des Robert Grosseteste, Münster, 1912): e (fol. 50) the 'Theorica planetarum' commonly ascribed to Gerard of Cremona, of which other copies are in nos. 2458, 2474, 2477, 2492, beg. 'Circulus egressæ cuspidis'. For other MSS. see Mathematica, vi. 112: f (fol. 60v) 'Alkabitius in libro introductorio judiciorum astronomorum facto ad Seydulæ regem, interpretatus a Johanne Hispanico', being John of Seville's translation of the 10th-cent. treatise by 'Abd al-'Azîz ibn 'Uthmân al Kabišî, printed at Venice in 1482: beg. 'Postulata a domino prolixitate': g (fol. 94r) 'Argorismus Johannis de Sacro bosco' (alias Holywood), printed in Halliwell's Rara Mathematica (1841), p. 1, from another MS., beg. 'Omnia que a primitiva origine rerum': h (fol. 104) Alexander of Ville-dieu's metrical arithmetic in 286 lines, here without title, printed op. cit., pp. 73–83, beg. 'Hec algormus ars presens dicitur, in qua': i (fol. 109) an anonymous prose work on arithmetic, beg. 'Numerorum alius digitus alius articulus': j (fol. 115) a short geometrical piece, beg. 'Scire debes quod circulus duas habet medietates': k (fol. 122) Johannes de Sacro bosco on the sphere, as in no. 1616, beg. 'Tractatum de sphera in 4 capitulis distinguimus': l (fol. 141) 'Incipit noua compilatio magistri Johannis de sacro bosco', beg. 'Comptus est scientia considerans temporà', written apparently in 1235 (fol. 162), but with the date 'm. Christi bis cc quarto [sic] deno quater anno' in the metrical colophon (fol. 174): m (fol. 175) the Massa compoti of Alexander de Villa Dei, with prose prologue beg. imperfectly, for another copy of which see no. 3907, fol. 32: beg. 'Aureus in Jano numerus': n (fol. 192) a fragment of Johannes de Sacro bosco on arithmetic, followed by the same author's 'cautele super algorismum', beg. 'In principio videndum est quid est algorismus', in a hand different from that of the preceding items and somewhat later. Fol. i has a late 15th-cent. table of contents and some erased inscriptions. Foll. 187-91 are blank parchment.

Now MS. Savile 17.

6564. (18). In Latin, on parchment and paper: written in the 15th cent. in England: $8\frac{4}{8} \times 5\frac{2}{8} \text{ in.}$, 171 leaves: binding, white leather on boards with clasp (cf. 6565, &c.), 15th-cent. English work.

Philosophical treatises.

a (fol. 5) The quaestiones of Duns Scotus 'super Porphirium', as in no. 2236, fol. 70, beg. 'Queritur utrum logica sit scientia': b (fol. 32r) the 'Liber formalitatum' of Peter Thomas, a Franciscan, printed at Venice in 1517 (cf. MS. Magd. Coll. 80), here beg. 'Ad euidenciam distinctionum predicamentorum intendo sic procedere': c (fol. 37) a short piece 'de ente', beg. 'Utrum vniuersitas concluiditur quiditatiue': d (fol. 41) the treatise of Antonius Andreae 'super sex principia', printed in (?) 1475, &c., beg. 'Sumens reliquias dedit eis...': e (foll. 89, 164v) Roger Bacon's 'de multiplicacione specierum', here in six parts, of which the sixth begins separately at fol. 164v, beg. 'Primum capitulum circa influenciam agentis habet tres veritates': f (fol. 105) 'De arte memorandi' by fr. Matthew of Verona, beg. 'Consipcienis vna ex parte scolaris quamplures': g (fol. 113) Bacon's Perspectiva, in three parts, beg. 'Propositis radicibus sapiencie tam diuine quam humane'. On fol. 170v are some 17th-cent. notes on mirrors, and on fol. 1 some incomplete 15th-cent. astronomical tables.

The binding suggests that this belonged in the 15th cent. to the Franciscans of Doncaster, as nos. 6561, 6565-6. In the 16th cent. it belonged to George Eden (inner back cover) who owned no. 2001, which probably came from the same source. In the 17th cent. it passed to Richard Eden, and from him to 'Knyveton' (foll. 37v, 171, 171*). It eventually became no. 5 in dr. John Dee's library and contains autograph notes by him.

Now MS. Savile 18.

6565. (19). In Latin, on parchment: written in the 3rd quarter of the 13th cent. in England: $7 \times 5\frac{2}{8} \text{ in.}$, 158 leaves with numerous diagrams: binding, white leather on bevelled boards, with remains of loose outer cover and clasp, as no. 6564, 14th-15th-cent. English work.

The 15 books of the Elements of Euclid, in the Latin version usually ascribed to Adelard of Bath, but not identical with that described in H. Weissenborn's 'Die Übersetzung des Euklid aus dem arabischen in das lateinische...'(Abh. zur Geschichte der Mathematik, iii (1877), 143). Beg. 'Punctus est cuius pars non est'. There is a 15th-cent. table of contents, half erased, on fol. 1.

The binding suggests that this (as 6564, 6566) belonged to the Franciscans of Doncaster.

Now MS. Savile 19.
In Latin, on parchment: written in the 12th cent. in England: 9 3/4 × 6 1/4 in., 64 leaves: binding, white leather on bevelled boards with two brass clasps.

The Arithmetic of Boethius, as in Migne, Patr. Lat., tom. lxiii, col. 1079, beg. 'In dandis accipiendisque muneribus'. On the inner covers are pasted two leaves from a 13th-cent. Latin bible (Zach. v. 8—Agg. ii. 8). A hand of the later 13th cent. has added a table of chapters to the first book (fol. 2).

This volume belonged, as nos. 6561, 6564, 6565, to the Franciscans of Doncaster: 'Iste liber pertinet fratribus minoribus Doncastrie' (inner front cover, late 14th cent.). In the late 16th cent. it was in the possession of Anthony Morton (ib., and foll. 18v, 29). A partially erased inscription on fol. 1 reads '... [Joannis Dee de dono] Christophori Saxton [Chronographi Angliae] Ao 1597. Martij 13 0 ••• Manecestriae: in Com. Lancastriae'. Somewhat later it was owned by Roger Burton (fol. 1).

Now MS. Savile 20.

In Latin, on parchment: written in the 13th cent. in England in part by Robert Grossetête: 9 3/4 × 7 in., iii + 204 leaves, of which foll. 27–41 are in double columns.

Astronomical treatises in many hands, with numerous diagrams, bound up together in the 17th cent.

a (fol. 1) Alfraganus De differenciis, beg. 'Differencia prima in annis arabum et latinorum'. This is the treatise of Al-Fargani as in no. 6571: b (fol. 27) canon of the tables of Arzachel, beg. 'In nomine domini scito quod annus lunaris': c (fol. 42) explanations of the use of astronomical tables by Roger of Hereford, here attributed in a court hand of about 1300 to mr. Robert of Northampton, for which see C. H. Haskins, Studies in Mediaeval Science, p. 125. Beg. 'Diversi astrologi secundum diuersos annos': d (fol. 63) 'Canones in motibus celestium corporum', being the canons of Arzachel on the tables of Toledo, translated by Robert of Chester in two parts for use at London, followed by astronomical tables. Other copies are in nos. 1487, 20032, 1669. Part 2 only is in no. 6716 (xiv e): e (fol. 104) the treatise of Messahala on the astrolobe in the Latin version of John of Spain, here 'secundum Macelama', beg. 'Scito quod astrolabium est nomen grecum', as in no. 6562, fol. 49: g (fol. 119) the 'Theorica planetarum' of Gerardo da Sabbionetta (or Cremonensis, the younger) in 12 chapters, without ascription, and ending differently from the version in Royal MS. 12 C ix, f. 53: h (fol. 123) 'Tractatus Thebith de motu octava spere', beg. '[I]maginabor speram equacionis diei', of which another copy is in no. 10018, f. 103: i (fol. 127) the Compotus of Robert Grossetête in 12 chapters, edited by Robert Steele in Opera Hactenus Inedita R. Baconi (Oxford, 1926), fasc. vi, pp. 212–67, beg. '[C]ompotus est scienza numeracionis et divisionis': j (fol. 143) 'Algorismus Jordani tam in integris quam in fractionibus demonstratus', being the Arithmetic of Jordanus Nemorarius, on two separate quires and in the hand of Robert Grossetête: k (fol. 150v) Thebith 'de proporcionibus', the work of Thebit ben Korah (A.D. 836–901) in the Latin version, beg. 'Proporcio est rei ad rem determinatio': l (fol. 151r) Thebith 'de figura Catha': m (fol. 153v) another copy of 'de motu octave spere' (cf. h above), here followed by astronomical tables for correlating English and Arabic calendars: n (fol. 156v) a treatise on eclipses, beg. 'Ars inveniendi eclipsim lune', followed by tables for use at Toledo, and (fol. 160v) two diagrams, on which see the note on fol. i, for use in 1215–16: o (fol. 161) the Massa compoti of Alexander of Villa Dei, beg. 'Incipit modo in fine temporum': p (fol. 170) a metrical compotus beginning imperfectly, but including (fol. 173) a reference to A.D. 1200, with solar and paschal tables: q (fol. 177) liturgical calendar of English provenance, for which a date between 1220 and 1247 has been suggested (see Mélanges Chatelain, p. 147): r (fol. 182) a treatise on fortune-telling, beg. 'Qui celum et terram creavit': s (fol. 200v) an astrological fragment in Grossetete's hand.

Now MS. Savile 21.

6568. (22). In Latin, on parchment: written about 1250–2 (?) in France: 9½ × 6½ in., ii+83 leaves, binding, brown leather on boards, blind-tooled, 17th-cent. English work.

The astronomical tables of Arzachel (fol. 13), preceded by lectiones, beg. 'In nomine domini scito quod annus lunaris sit ex cccliiij diebus ...' (fol. 1). The book seems to come from the same scriptorium, and to have been written about the same time as no. 6569. There are contemporary marginalia throughout in a French court hand.

Now MS. Savile 22.

6569. (23). In Latin, on parchment: written in the mid-13th cent. in France(?): 6¾ × 4½ in., ii+110 leaves: binding, brown leather on boards, blind-tooled, 17th-cent. English work.

The astronomical tables of Arzachel (Abū Ishāk Ibrāhīm ben Yahya, al Nakḵāsh, al Zarkali), preceded by an English liturgical calendar to which st. Frideswide has been added later (fol. 1), and followed by further tables drawn up at Paris (fol. 49). The marginalia (of about 1300) in the calendar have been copied in a 17th-cent. hand on fol. iv.

Now MS. Savile 23.

6570. (24). In Latin and Greek, on paper: made up of two MSS. written in the 17th cent.: 8½ × 6½ in., i+187 pages: binding, vellum, 17th-cent. English work (see below).

MSS. SAVILE

[6571-4]

'Cum considerarem Optica Tholomaei . . .' (p. 1). Text beg. 'Omnia quidem, quibus aliquis possit coaptare ea' (p. 3). This MS. is no. 4 in L'ottica di Claudio Tolomeo, edited by G. Govi (Turin, 1885): b (p. 139) 'Jacobi Alkit de causis diversitatis aspectuum liber', beg. 'Oportet postquam optamus complere artem'. B (p. 171) The Geometry of Pediasimus, beg. 'Tou eowvnto xoiefylaxov'. The binding was formerly part of Matt. xii. 48-50 of a 15th-cent. Latin bible.

A was given to Savile by John Praetorius (p. 170).

Now MS. Savile 24.

6571. (25). In Latin, on parchment and paper: made up of three MSS. written in (A) the late 14th, (B) the 13th cent., and (C) about 1340, in English: 9¼ X 6¼ in., 1-204 leaves.

A (fol. 1). The second book of the Summa judicialis of John Eastwood of Ashindon, alias John Eshenden, fellow of Merton college, composed in 1348 in Oxford, of which no. 2479 is another copy, with colophon on fol. 163 as in no. 2621. Beg. 'Incipit secundus liber Ayshedene . . . Sicut dicit Aristoteles 2° Ethicorum et capitulo 8°' (fol. 1 olim 162).

B (fol. 164). 'Alfraganus de motuum celestium radicibus', being the work of Al-farganus as in no. 6562, fol. 40, but here with contemporary marginalia. Beg. 'Differencia prima in annis Arabum'.

C (fol. 176). a The canons and astronomical tables, made at Montpellier in 1300, of Profacius Judaeus of Marseilles, for whom see Hist. Litt. de la France, tom. 27, p. 599. Beg. 'In nomine domini nostri Jhesu scito quod annus Latinorum siue Christianorum'.

A 15th-cent. table of contents on fol. 204 concludes with 'liber de arte notoria secundum Apolonium', noted as missing by a 17th-cent. hand, and not now known to exist. Fol. i is part of a grant of confraternity to Galfridus Randolf and Alice [? his wife] made in a Franciscan provincial chapter in 1375.

Now MS. Savile 25.

6572-4. (26-8). In Latin, on paper: written in 1568 by Henry Savile: 7 6/10 X 6 1/10 in. (6572), 8 X 5 3/10 in. (6573-4), 91 (6572), 90 (6573), and 56 (6574) leaves.

Henry Savile's Latin version of the Almagest of Ptolemy, with the commentary of Theon of Alexandria and Nicholas Cabasilas, read by him on taking his M.A. degree on May 30, 1570, here dated Oct. 27—
Nov. 11, 1568. Beg. 'Praeclearē mihi videntur' (fol. 3). No. 6573 has on the outer front cover 'For the mathemical study belonging to Sr H. Savile's Professor in Oxford'. At fol. 29 of the third volume there follows a rough list of mathematical authors, alphabetically arranged.

Now MSS. Savile 26-8.

6575–8. (29–32). In Latin, on paper: written in and after 1570 by Henry Savile at Oxford: $\frac{8}{10} \times \frac{5}{6}$ (6575), $\frac{8}{10} \times 6$ (6576), $\frac{9}{10} \times \frac{6}{5}$ (6577), $\frac{7}{8} \times \frac{5}{6}$ (6578) in., iii + 181 (6575), 79 (6576), iv + 91 (6577), and iii + 137 (6578) leaves.

Savile's rough notes and draughts for his mathematical lectures at Oxford beginning on Oct. 10, 1570. 6575 is the 'Proremium mathematicum' on the mathematical sciences (fol. 2), the history of mathematics (fol. 29), and 'lectiones' numbered 1–33 on geometrical subjects, with a new series for the ninth term at fol. 109. Foll. 141–72v are blank paper. 6576–8 are notes on the Almagest of Ptolemy.

6576 has 'John Chamber' on fol. 1 (17th cent.). The original binding of 6577, now fol. iii, is part of a 14th-cent. Latin commentary on Exodus xxii.

Now MSS. Savile 29–32.

6579. (33). In Latin, &c., on paper: written after 1659: 8$\frac{1}{2}$ x 5$\frac{3}{8}$ in., ii + 238 pages.

'Reposed in the Mathematick study, Oxford, by Dr John Wallis, Geometry Professor, 1685.'

Now MS. Savile 33.

6580. (34). In Latin, on paper: written in the 17th cent. in England: 8$\frac{1}{2}$ x $6\frac{1}{8}$ in., iii + 37 leaves.

A treatise, not by Savile, against astrology, beg. 'Egregie olim Tacitus historiarum'.

Now MS. Savile 34.

6581. (35). In Latin, on parchment: written in 1521 at Oxford: 7$\frac{1}{2}$ x 4$\frac{7}{8}$ in., 30 leaves: binding, white parchment.

An astronomical calendar made for use in 1521 at Oxford, apparently based on that made in 1263 by Roger Bacon (fol. 4), preceded by a table for the conversion of degrees into minutes and hours (fol. 1v), and an explanation (fol. 2); and followed by multiplication tables (fol. 17v) and tables of the equation of days and nights verified for 1456 (fol. 27v).

Now MS. Savile 35.
6582. (36). In Latin, on parchment: written in the mid-15th cent. in England: 11 3/4 x 8 in., ii + 146 leaves: binding, brown leather on boards (re-backed), blind-tooled and stamped, 16th-cent. English work.

The first five books of the Polychronicon of Ralph Higden, ending imperfectly in the 5th book (fol. 13), preceded by a full contemporary index of persons and things (fol. 1). Wrongly described in the Old Catalogue as 'Wigorniensis Flores Historiarum'.

Now MS. Savile 36.

'Prælectiones tresdecim in principium elementorum Euclidis Oxonij habitæ, 1620' by Henry Savile, printed, probably from this MS., at Oxford in 1621. Attached to the inner front cover is a table of observations made at Oxford of the lunar eclipse on May 6, 1696.

Now MS. Savile 37.

Astronomical tables compiled by Mr. J. Kylingworth and corrected by Ludovicus Caerleon (fol. 4). On fol. 1v is a perpetual table of dominical letters and golden numbers.

On fol. 1v is 'Pertinet magistro Davys' (16th cent.), and on fol. 2 scribbles by Thomas Porter (1527).

Now MS. Savile 38.

6585. (39). In Latin, on parchment: written in England, probably in 1436: 12 3/8 x 8 1/2 in., i + 11 leaves, with coloured diagrams.

Astronomical tables, including a (fol. 1) a lunar calendar for four cycles: b (fol. 4) leap years from 1367 to 1507, and (fol. 4v) eclipses from 1387 to 1462 (in which April 1436 is marked with a red cross), followed by canons for the table, for urine (fol. 5), phlebotomy (fol. 5v, cf. fol. 10), and nativities (fol. 6): c (fol. 7) table with movable circles of parchment to show the longitude and phases of the moon at a given age, and diagrams of the influence of the signs of the zodiac and (fol. 7v) of urinary states: d (fol. 8) canon and tables of lunar eclipses from 1392 to 1462.

On fol. 6v is 'Liber Willelmi Snawdun' (16th cent.).

Now MS. Savile 39.

6586. (40). In Latin, on paper: written in the 17th cent. in England: 13 3/4 x 8 3/4 in., 61 leaves, binding, white vellum (see below).

Trigonometrical tables (fol. 13), preceded by an explanation thereof (fol. 8v) and a few miscellaneous theorems. The binding is two leaves of a 15th-cent. MS. of the Catholicon of Balbus of Genoa (beg. 'Empticus').

Now MS. Savile 40.
6587. (41). In Latin, on paper: written at various dates in the 17th cent. by John Greaves and others: 13⅓ × 8⅝ in., 166 leaves.

Miscellaneous papers by John Greaves (sections h, i, and j) and others, comprising: a (fol. 1) Ptolemy De hypothesibus in Latin: b (fol. 9) notes from geometrical printed books: c (fol. 23) copy of a letter and geometrical notes sent by Scaliger to Savile, Apr. 7, 1595: d (fol. 30) a Latin translation by Joseph Mede of 'Interpretatio Numeri 666', published in English at Oxford in 1642 by Francis Potter, S.T.B.: e (fol. 71) an English translation of the Latin letter printed in Holland, addressed by Francis Broccard, formerly secretary to pope Clement viii, to all Protestant princes: f (fol. 91) copy of Roger Bacon's treatise De multiplicacione specierum: g (fol. 109) an explanation, dated Rome 1616, by 'Jacobum Sirmondum', S.J., of an inscription relating to Lucius Scipio: h (fol. 119) 'Of the Tartars, or Moguls, out of Texeira in Spanish', dated 1645: i (fol. 141) 'Of the Mountains of the earth, according to the Arabians, and first of the mountains of the moon': j (fol. 166) a printed scheme of the phases of the sun observed at Oxford Sept. 13, 1699.

Now MS. Savile 41.

6588. (42). In English, on paper: written in 1604 by John Chamber: 12¼ × 8 in., vi+234 leaves: binding, brown leather, richly gold-tooled, on boards, with the badge of the Boleyn family on each cover, English work of about 1600.

'A confutation of astrologicall daemonologie', by John Chamber, canon of Windsor and fellow of Eton (d. 1604), in defence of his 'Treatise against Judiciarie Astrologie' attacked by sir Christopher Heydon, bart., with preface dedicated to James i and dated from Windsor, Feb. 2, 1605. This is a fair copy, but the work was never printed.

Now MS. Savile 42.

6589-90. (43-4). In English, on paper, written in the 2nd half of the 17th cent. by Thomas Strode: 9⅝ × 6⅜ in. (6589) and 12⅝ × 6½ in. (6590), iii+97 and iii+86 leaves.

'Apollonius Analyticus' or Conic Sections by Thomas Strode, who matriculated from University college in 1642, in two volumes, apparently never printed. The original bindings, now fol. iii in each volume, were (i) a grant of land from Dyer Symcock to John Welles of land in Clapton in Somerset, in 1592, and (ii) a lease from Thomas Strode, gentleman, to Richard Luffman of Maperton, yeoman, for £23, of a cottage and land at Maperton for 99 years: rent 18d.; dated Apr. 20, 1648.

'Given by the author, Mr Thomas Strode of Maperton in Dorsetshire [sic] to be reposited in the Mathematick study Oxon., 1687.'

Now MSS. Savile 43-4.
In Italian, on paper: written in the 16th cent. in Italy (?): 8\(\frac{1}{2}\) x 6\(\frac{1}{2}\) in., ii+26 leaves.

A transcript of Galileo Galilei’s treatise ‘Dell’vtilita che si traggon della mechanica & de’ suoi instrumenti’, beg. ‘Degno di grandissima considerazione’.

Elias Ashmole was born (1617) and educated at Lichfield. He began his career as a solicitor, but in 1644 entered the service of the Crown as a commissioner of excise. It was his marriage with lady Mainwaring in 1647 which enabled him to indulge his tastes in alchemy and astronomy. These and other interests led him to form a wide circle of friends, some of whom bequeathed to him valuable manuscript collections. Among these are: the papers of dr. Simon Forman (d. 1611), the medical and astrological papers of dr. Richard Napier (d. 1634) and Theodoricus Gravius, as well as the collections—chiefly astrological—of John Booker (d. 1667) and William Lily (d. 1681). Ashmole's collection is also strong in heraldry and local history, and, to a lesser extent, in Middle English and seventeenth-century poetry. There is also much material by Ashmole himself (no. 7499 is his diary) including many original documents collected in preparation for his Institutions, Laws and Ceremonies of the Order of the Garter (1672), a work which is still regarded as a fine piece of research. Ashmole had entered the Office of Arms as Windsor herald after the Restoration, but about 1672 he retired on a pension, which he enjoyed until his death in 1692. The foundation of his Museum at Oxford was made possible by his acquisition by bequest from his friend John Tradescant of a large collection of 'curiosities'. They arrived when the building was ready in 1683, and it was here that his bequest of MSS. was housed, as also the Wood and Dugdale collections, until their transference to the Bodleian in 1860.

The Ashmole collection includes 896 printed books, which never received Old Catalogue numbers and are omitted in Black's Catalogue (Qu. Catal. x), but the whole forms one consecutive series of MSS. and books. The numbers 8465-8465 have been added to fit MSS. not identified in the official copy (kept in the Wood-Ashmole room) of Black's Catalogue, and nos. 8070, 8073, 8312-13 are Aubrey MSS. not included therein. For MSS. Ashmole 1800-32 see nos. 25168, &c., where a supplementary account of this collection will be found. MS. Ashmole 1835 was acquired in 1919.

7542. ('1690.') In English, on paper: written in 1656-91 chiefly by John Aubrey: 13½ × 8½ in., ii+182 and ii+184 leaves.

'The Naturall Historie of Wiltshire, 1685', the rough draft by John Aubrey, in two volumes, with a table of chapters prefixed to each. A fuller copy in one volume, by Aubrey, was formerly in the library of the Royal Society and in 1847 was in the possession of George Poulett Scrope, esq., M.P., of Castle Combe, from which the work was in parts edited for the Wiltshire Topographical Society by John Britton, F.S.A. (1847). Begun in 1656, it was submitted to the Royal Society in 1675 but not published. This copy lacks the chapters on 'Architecture', 'Accidents', and 'Seates', but contains notes by John Ray, John Evelyn, and bishop Thomas Tanner and Thomas Gale, not copied into the Royal Society volume. On the title-page (fol. 3) is the note 'Mr David Loggan drew my picture anno 1686, which is in his hands, to be engraven for this book', and on fol. 3v a note concerning the annotations by Evelyn.

Bequeathed by Aubrey to the Ashmolean in 1691(?) see before nos. 25278-93.

Now MSS. Aubrey 1, 2.

8070. In Italian, on paper: written in Italy in the early 17th cent.: 8 × 6 1/2 in., iii + 154 leaves.

'Relazione del Serraglio del Turco con tutte le cose pertinenti ad essa fatta del'illustrissimo et eccellentissimo signore Ottavian Bon bailo in Costantinopoli per la serenissima Republica de Venetia’, preceded by a table of contents (fol. 2). Beg. ‘Il serraglio, dove habita il Gran Turco’ (fol. 7). The ‘A. 1662’ on the last leaf of the text (fol. 152v) appears to be the shelf-mark, and not (as the O.C.) the date. The author was Venetian ambassador in Constantinople in 1606.

Presented to the Bodleian by John Aubrey. A further note of ownership, beg. ‘This MS. mr. Rob. Peyton Vicar of...’, has been clipped by the binder.

Now MS. Ashmole 1662.

8073. (‘G. 7’.) In Latin, &c., on paper: written and drawn in 1669 by John Aubrey: 14 × 9\frac{3}{4} in., ii + 22 leaves.

‘Designatio de Easton-Piers in Com: Wilts. Per me (heu!) infortunatum Johannem Awbrey R.S. Socium... Anno Domini 1669’: a series of coloured views of Easton Piercy (in Kington-St.-Michael parish near Chippenham), including the house, grounds, neighbourhood, and prospects, with a few notes interspersed, bound together in 1682. Aubrey’s armorial book-plate is at fol. 2v.

Bequeathed by Aubrey to the Ashmolean in (?) 1691. See before nos. 25278–93.

ANTHONY A WOOD was born on Dec. 17, 1632. He was educated at New College school, Thame school, and Merton (Commoner 1647, B.A. 1652, M.A. 1655). He did not, however, distinguish himself in academic pursuits and published nothing until late in life. His MS. 'History and Antiquities of the University of Oxford' was bought by the University press, which published it in a Latin translation as Historia et Antiquitates Universitatis Oxoniensis (1674). Wood, dissatisfied with this, continued to work at the English copy, which was eventually published in a longer form by John Gutch in 1786-90. In 1691–2 he produced his Athenae Oxonienses. Next year he was exiled from the University for his libel on the earl of Clarendon’s father, but he recanted and was allowed to return. He died on Nov. 29, 1695.

Wood’s indebtedness to Twyne and others is obvious, and he would not have denied it, but this should not lead us to blacken the character of his extensive literary borrowings or to minimize his industry. No doubt much of the antagonism which he inspired was the result of his suspicious and quarrelsome habits, and his gift for bitter invective. But as an antiquarian he did a great work for his university and city, and in this he has remained unsurpassed until our own times.

Apart from diaries and letters there are three collections of Wood MSS. The first consists of 126 MSS. bequeathed in November 1695 with 970 printed books. They were housed in the Ashmolean until their transference to Bodley in 1860.

Some medieval MSS. bought from Wood are catalogued below as nos. 8589–613, and these are immediately followed by the third collection—a bequest of dr. Gerard Langbaine’s Adversaria. After no. 8589 the Old Catalogue contains some unnumbered notes on the Wood charters which formed part of his bequest, and which are catalogued in W. H. Turner’s Catalogue of Charters (1878).

The 126 MSS. are chiefly Wood’s own collections for the history of the university, colleges, city, and—to a lesser extent—county of Oxford. The Library accounts for 1697 include an item of £6 12s.: ‘To mr. Lloyd for taking a catalogue of mr. Wood’s booke given to the Musaeum.’ Another catalogue made in 1761 by William Huddesford, Keeper of the Museum, was reprinted at Middlehill in 1824.
For further information relating to Wood or his MSS. see the admirable Life and Times by A. Clark (Oxf. Hist. Soc.), i. 6–21, and iv. 88–312.

8463*. In English, on paper: written about 1674–85 by Anthony à Wood: \(11\frac{3}{4}\times 9\frac{3}{4}\) in., xx+‘1136’ pages, but with numerous schedules (8463*), and xii+‘632’ (really 640) pages (8464*): binding, tooled brown leather, done by Roger Bartlett in 1678 for 1s. 6d.

‘The History or Annals of the University of Oxford from the time of King Alfred till A.D. 1660’, by Anthony à Wood, being the English version of the Latin work published as Historia et Antiquitates, hence printed by John Gutch, 1786–90.

No. 8463* also contains four autograph letters to Wood from John Blount, and (p. 1124) the copy of a letter from Wood to sir William Dugdale. No. 8464* includes (p. 100) a letter dated June 20, 1694, from [William] Harman, and ad init. a fragment of an earlier draft of the History (of which pp. 99 et seq. perhaps form part), bought by Philip Bliss in 1843 from mrs. Rodd.

Now MSS. Wood F. 1, 2.

8465*. (‘B’.) In English, on paper: written 1660–84 by Ralph Sheldon: \(16\frac{3}{4}\times 11\) in., ‘259’ (really 276) pages.

A book of English pedigrees, not always exact, copied from various sources by Ralph Sheldon, whose motto ‘In posterum’ is on the title-page. There are numerous references to Sheldon’s book ‘A’, or pedigrees of the baronage. There is an index of pedigrees at p. 249, printed in Huddesford’s catalogue.

Now MS. Wood F. 3.

8466. In English, on paper: written at various times 1677–86 with additions to 1694 by Anthony à Wood: \(12\times 8\frac{1}{4}\) in., ‘196’ (really 194) pages.

An account by Wood, chronologically arranged, of the nobility and gentry buried in or near Oxford, 1643–86, with notes to 1694, often referred to by Wood as his ‘Liber obitalis’, including biographical material, coloured sketches of arms, and the place of burial. A table, not by Wood, of names in the order in which they occur, is on p. 3, and an alphabetical list is printed in Huddesford’s catalogue. The substance of this volume has been incorporated in Wood’s Life and Times, ed. Clark.

Pp. 19–58 are blank paper.

Now MS. Wood F. 4.

8467. In English, on paper: written about 1665 by John Vincent: \(12\frac{1}{4}\times 8\frac{1}{4}\) in., vi+‘922’ (really 767) pages.

‘Herwologia Anglica or a genealogical history of the succession and creation of all our princes, dukes, marquesses, earls and [p. 856] viscounts, since the Norman Conquest, to this day, by John Vincent’ (p. iii), being an account of a (p. 1) kings and princes to 1662 and b (p. 119) dukes, marquesses, and earls alphabetically arranged, followed by c (p. 856) an account of viscounts according to order of creation.
A list of the pedigrees in the order of their occurrence is printed in Huddesford. Wood’s note on p. 905 states that this complete peerage was begun by Augustine Vincent, who ‘dying before it was half finished, John his son carried it on’, but the whole volume appears to be in the hand of John Vincent. At p. 913 is a bibliography of Tower and Exchequer records, chronicles, chartularies, and printed books, to 1665, used in the compilation of this work.

This is one of the MSS. acquired by Wood from Ralph Sheldon’s library: see no. 8528, p. 133.

Now MS. Wood F. 5.

8468. In English, on paper: written in the 3rd quarter of the 17th cent.: 12½ x 6½ in., xiv+1074 pages: binding, brown leather stamped with armorial book-stamp of Ralph Sheldon.

An armorial of the English nobility and gentry, by John Vincent, with additions by Sheldon and occasionally by Wood.

Bequeathed by John Vincent to Ralph Sheldon, whose motto ‘In posterum’ is on p. iii.

Now MS. Wood F. 6.

8469. In English, on paper: written in 1676 by Anthony II Wood: 11½ x 7½ in., 208 pages.

Genealogies of bishops and authors collected by Wood from the library of Ralph Sheldon at Weston Park, co. Warw., preparatory to the Athenae. Many of the pedigrees, of which there is an index at p. 205 and a fuller list printed in Huddesford’s catalogue, are from heraldic visitations.

Book-plates of Wood and Ralph Sheldon on inner front cover.

Now MS. Wood F. 7.

8470. In English, on paper: written about 1673, in two hands: 12½ x 7½ in.,

(about A.D. 1300), as printed in Edda Snorro Sturlusonar, tom. 2, Hafniae, 1852, pp. 250–363, except that the short poetical pieces are often omitted, and that where the printed edition omits four leaves (see p. 301 note) this MS. gives part of them (foll. 23, 24v), being a list of the Northern bards and a genealogy of the Sturlungs. Beg. 'Almattigr Gud Skapadi Limín'. Fol. 37 seems to be a detached piece.

8681. ('120'.) In Latin, on paper: written about 1638 in England: 6 × 3½ in., i+70 leaves: binding, brown leather on paper boards, contemporary.

Latin sermons, &c., probably by dr. Thomas Marshall, who has inserted corrections. (fol. 1) Bidding prayer used in the university of Oxford while dr. Richard Baylie was vice-chancellor (1637), by a member of Lincoln college, probably dr. Thomas Marshall, the later rector; followed by sermons before the university on Heb. ii. 3, beg. 'Quae conciliare solent animos auditorum' (fol. 3), and on Heb. v. 4, beg. 'Habetis textum cui quominus me protinus accingam' (fol. 18).
There are also an unfinished exercise, ‘An Christus praecepta legis reddidit auctiora?’, beg. ‘Christum praecepta legis’ (fol. 17v), and a list of eight 16th–17th-cent. deeds, relating chiefly to Mr. William Chalfont, ‘delivered to John Hobbs, Mar. 30, 1638’ (fol. 65v).

On the inner front cover is ‘dropt from among dr. Marshalls books’ (17th cent.).

Now MS. Marshall 120.

8682. (‘122.’) In Latin and English, on paper: written about 1610–35 in England: 5 ½ x 3 ½ in., 63 leaves.

Now MS. Marshall 122.

8683. In English and Latin, &c., on paper: written about 1660–85 by Francis Junius and others: 10 ½ x 8 ½ in., ii+25 leaves.

1 (fol. 1). Rough facsimile of the interpolation after Matt. xx. 28 in the Codex Bezae, ‘... Ὑμεῖς δὲ ζητεῖτε ἡκ μικρὸν αὐξήσας ... τοῦτο χρήσιμον’, with Latin version, in the hand of Robert Sheringham: repeated with a few notes and an Old English version by Francis Junius on fol. 15. See art. 3.

3 (fol. 16). Letter from Robert Sheringham to Dr. Marshall, July 12, 1663, concerning the passage quoted in art. 1.

5 (fol. 20). A note in Latin of qualifications required from candidates for Holy orders, signed by William Fuller, bishop of Lincoln, 1667–75, followed by a few Arabic notes by Dr. Marshall (fol. 22).

Now MS. Marshall 134.

8684. (‘135.’) In Latin, on parchment, written in the mid-15th cent. in England: 16 ft. 10 in. x 12 ⅛ in., in roll form: in cloth-covered cardboard box, 12 ⅛ x 2⅜ x 2¾ in., with illuminated initials, &c.

A genealogical roll of the kings of England, tracing their descent back to Noah and extending to Henry vi, with later additions to Edward iv, with a narrative genealogy to left and right of the table, beg. (imperfect) 'Ab hiis tribus filiis'. Endorsed is an apparently autograph note (beg. '[T]amquam vetustati') stating that the compiler worked 'ad instanciam strenuissimi domini mei domini Henrici [Percy] comitis secundi Northumbrie', and that he has called his work 'Carbunculus'.

8684. In Latin, on paper: written about 1600: 6½ x 4½ in., v+78 leaves.

'T in M. Manii Astronomicon li bros quinque Animadversiones': a 17th-cent. hand has added 'Valentis Acidalion'. These Latin notes appear to have been written somewhat after the death (1595) of Acidalisus, and have been corrected by a German or Dutch hand, said in the old list of Marshall MSS. to be that of Johannes Fredericus Gronovius. At fol. 67 are 'Ludovici Carrionis emendationes Manilianae ex antiquis lectionibus'.

No number was attached to this MS. in the Old Catalogue.

Now MS. Marshall 140.

MSS. FELL

(Nos. 8687-8708.)

John Fell was born in 1625. After an education at Thame school he was made a student of Christ Church at the age of eleven. Thence he took his M.A. in 1643. In 1660 he became dean of Christ Church and in 1675 he was elected bishop of Oxford. He died on July 10, 1686, and left to the Bodleian the small but valuable collection of MSS. described below. Some of the letters of this great churchman and scholar are in Add. MS. 11046 in the British Museum, fifteen addressed to Isaac Vossius are in nos. 17346-9, and others are amongst the Rawlinson MSS.

8687-9. 2937-9. In Latin, on parchment: written in the 12th cent. in France (?): 13⅓ x 9⅝ and 14½ x 10⅝ and 14⅝ in. x 10⅜ in., iv+122 and iii+289 and iv+270 leaves.

Three volumes of Vitae sanctorum, together forming a kind of Legendarius per circulum anni.

8687. (3) (2nd half of 12th cent.: some coloured ornamental capitals: imperfect at beginning). Thirty-one lives of saints, &c., chiefly such as are commemorated between January and June. The first (st.
Boniface) is imperfect, beginning shortly before a chapter 'Qualiter ...
• diuidit parrochias. Igitur huuius uiri aliquantis'; among the rest are:

- a (fol. 7) 'Confessio sancti Patricii episcopi', in two books:
- b (fol. 31v) 'Revelatio aecclesiæ archangeli Michælæs in loco qui dicitur Tumba';
- c (fol. 34) 'Vita sancti Wilfrithi' by Stephanus presbytery:
- d (fol. 57) Bede's prose life of st. Cuthbert:
- e (fol. 98) 'Passio sancti Saluii episcopi':
- f (fol. 102) 'Passio sancte Fidis', followed by her Miracula, written by Bernardus scholasticus: this section is in double columns and slightly later than the rest.

8688. (1) (1st half of the 12th cent.: with some illuminated capitals:
imperfect at beginning). Fifty-four lives of saints, chiefly such as are commemorated between July and October. Of the first (st. Fides) only the last leaf remains. Among the rest is (fol. 184r) Vita s. Remigii, by Hincmar. This volume contains lives lxii–cxxxviii out of a Legendarius:
a list of the titles of nos. cxii–clxi occupies most of fol. 184r, preceding the life of Remigius.

8689. (4) (1st half of the 12th cent.: with some illuminated capitals, &c.). Sixty-five lives of saints, chiefly such as are commemorated between January and June. Among them are:
- a (fol. 60) 'Vita uel uisio sancti Fursei':
- b (fol. 158) 'Confessio sancti Patricii episcopi', in two books:
- c (fol. 175v) 'Vita sancte Marie Egiptiace', translated from the Greek by Paulus Diaconus:
- d (fol. 203) 'Passio Blasii', added slightly later:
- e (fol. 208) 'Inuentio sancte Crucis'. This volume contains lives i–lx of the same Legendarius as no. 8688. The two missing lives, as a 13th-cent. list shows, are of stt. Getulius and Basilides.

Each volume has a complete list of the lives in the hand of bishop Barlow, about 1655: there is a list also in an interleaved copy of the Old Catalogue of 1697 in the Library.

These three volumes were once undoubtedly in the Salisbury cathedral library, though they do not bear any mark of ownership. They were borrowed thence by dr. James Ussher, archbishop of Armagh, on Sept. 30, 1640, along with three similar volumes, of which two were subsequently 'plundred and lost with some other bookes of his owne att Chelsie'. They were received back on Nov. 14, 1650, by dr. Richard Baylie, dean of Salisbury, who delivered them, between 1652 and 1655, to Thomas Barlow, Bodley's Librarian, 'to the intent that they may be placed in the Publique Librarie and there reserved until the Deane of Sarum and the Chapter there shall call for them'. In response to an application from the dean and chapter in 1679 the curators of the Library, on Nov. 8 of that year, ordered them to be returned to Salisbury, 'only with this reserve, that [dr. John Fell] the bishop of Oxford may have the liberty of using them for some time' for purposes of collation: dr. Fell's order for their delivery to him is in no. 30248, fol. 2. The MSS. never reached Salisbury, but reappeared in the Bodleian, probably brought back there in 1686 with the MSS. bequeathed by dr. Fell.

See above.
Now MSS. Fell. 3, 1, 4.

8690. In Latin, on parchment: written late in the 12th cent. at St. Augustine's, Canterbury: 13½ x 9½ in., xii + 478 pages, in double columns: with one miniature, many illuminated capitals, &c.: imperfect and mutilated.

Forty-seven lives of saints of whom a complete list in the hand of bishop Barlow occurs at p. v: there is a list also in an interleaved copy of the Old Catalogue of 1697 in the Library. The Saints are chiefly those commemorated in November and December, and among them are: a (p. 1) 'Vita sancti Edmundi Cantuariensis archiepiscopi, cum miraculis eiusdem': this life, occupying pp. 1-44, is in a hand of the 2nd half of the 13th cent., an addition to the volume; cf. p. 120: b (p. 45, the real beginning of the volume, with a miniature of st. Augustine, &c., at the head) 'Relatio de ordinatione sancti Augustini Cantuariensis', imperfect at end, some leaves containing the end of the life (after 'post longa tempora in celestis') and the beginning of the life of st. Martin being missing after p. 56: c (p. 175) the latter part of a Vita sancti Columbani, some leaves being missing before the words 'per anni circulum tantus ignis': d (p. 263) 'Vita sancti Birini episcopi': e (p. 457) Lectiones de s. Pancratio: f (p. 459) 'Vita s. Petri abbatis [Cantuariensis]'. This volume is badly mutilated, wanting single leaves after pp. 124, 140, 174 (several), 198 (two), 248 (two), 318, 326 (two), 384 (?), 390, 408, 418 (two), 454 (two ?), 456 (two ?), and all after p. 464; and illuminated capitals have been cut out on pp. 155, 225, 269, 309, 325, 335, 351, 365, 369, and pp. 270-1, 383-4 have lost part of the leaf. Pp. vii-xii, 465-72 are seven leaves from a 13th-cent. Latin MS. of sermons, of which one (p. 469) is 'Sermo in secunda feria Pentecostes fratis Remundi Rigaldi ordinis fratrum Predicatorum'. A facsimile of p. 192 is given as plate xvii in the Transactions of the Royal Irish Academy, 1902-4, vol. xxxii, sect. c.

This volume was bought (together with printed books) with £10 given to the Library by Richard Doydge of Milton Abbot in Devonshire in 1652. The strange part of its history is that it was wrongly identified with a volume of saints' lives stated to have been deposited in the Library along with nos. 8687-9 by the dean and chapter of Salisbury, and as such was ordered by the curators in 1679 to be sent to Salisbury after having been lent to dr. John Fell, bishop of Oxford: but it never reached Salisbury and was restored to the Bodleian Library in 1686 as a donation from bishop Fell! The Salisbury volume for which the present MS. was mistaken appears to have been a collection of Acta Germani as in no. 2641, art. 1 a–d: it is not now in the Library.

See above. A 16th-cent. name 'Johannes Lucas' is on p. 465.

Now MS. Fell 2.

8691. = Qu. Catal. i (Greek), col. 907 (Damascius).

8692. = " " vi (Syriac), no. 120 (Bar-Salibaeus).

8696-8706. In Latin, &c., on paper, written in the mid-17th cent. in England: 17½ x 10 (8696) and 10 x 9½ (8697) and 14⅞ x 9⅞ (8698) and 15 x 9½ (8699) and 16⅞ x 9½ (8700) and 16 x 10 (8701) and 17 x 9½ (8702–3) and 17½ x 10 (8704) and 17 x 10 in. (8705–6), 236 (8696) and 376 (8697) and 238 (8698) and 347 (8699) and 154 (8700) and 154 (8701) and 348 (8702) and 256 (8703) and 353 (8704) and 199 (8705) and 372 (8706) leaves.

'Dictionarium Septentrionale sive Promptuarium vocum Goth. Anglo-Sax. Franc. Run. et Island., Latinè et Anglicè redditarum.' Beg. 'A. Augmentum initiale, nonnunquam otiosum'. This is a combined transcript of MSS. Junius 2, 3, and other Junius manuscripts, for which see nos. 5114–15, perhaps made to lead to a printed edition (see MS. Marshall 134, fol. 18 [1681–4], which shows that this was contemplated if not actually begun).

Now MSS. Fell 8–18.

8707 = Qu. Catal. i (Greek), col. 908 (Euthymius Zigabenus).

8708. In Latin, on paper: written before 1682 by John Pearson: 13⅛ x 8⅛ in., ii+257 leaves.

'Annales Cyprianici' of dr. John Pearson, bishop of Chester (d. 1686), printed from this copy in bishop Fell's edition of the works of Cyprian (1682). Owing to faulty binding the sections read in the following order: Preface from § 10 (fol. 1), anno 247, last few lines (fol. 11), 247, beginning (fol. 13), 254–5 (fol. 15), 253 (fol. 29), 259–61 (fol. 45), 'Reliquae Epistolae' (fol. 60), 252 (fol. 151), 250 (fol. 165), 249 (fol. 185), title-page and preface to § 10 (fol. 193), 248 (fol. 205) 246 (fol. 207), 251 (fol. 209), 257 (fol. 221), 256 (fol. 231), 258 (fol. 244). At foll. 61–150 have been inserted the preface and years 246–58 of a preliminary draft.

Now MS. Fell. 20.

MISCELLANEOUS MSS.

(Nos. 8709–8716.)

8709. In Latin, on parchment: written in the late 17th cent. at Edinburgh: 20½ x 18½ in., kept in box 10½ x 5½ in.

A copy of the protest, dated Sept. 2, 1415, of the Bohemian nobles to the council of Constance against the burning of John Huss and Jerome of Prague, made from the original in the University library at Edinburgh (Hall-Case O. 1), for which see The Library (1913), pp. 146–56. Another copy, made before 1711 is in no. 15638, fol. 102.

Given by mr. [ ] Anderson, keeper of the University Library at Edinburgh, on Dec. 2, 1695.

Now MS. Bodl. 598.

8710. = Qu. Catal. xiv (Armenian) no. 41 (Theology).

8711. ‘Epistolae ad Naibobum Malabarice. Fol. min’. This was given, with no. 8710, by the rev. Robert (not Richard, as O.C.) Burscough, M.A., of the Queen’s college, afterwards archdeacon of Barnstaple, in or about 1697.

Now MS. Telugu c. 1.

8712. In English, on paper: written before 1692 by James Boevey: 20½ × 14½ in., 24 leaves: binding, brown leather on boards, 17th-cent. English work.

‘The secret Algebraick key to Treasure, parallel to the Philosopher’s Stone, invented by James Boevey esq. of Cheam in Surrey. This book the Author presented to the Library in the 70th year of his Age.’ A note (c. 1700) inserted at the end describes the volume, which consists of lists of numbers without text, perhaps relating to problems of currency, as ‘Mr Boevey’s mysterious Book given to the publick library as a great Treasure. He promised to send a Clavis to it, but is dead.’ On the inner back cover is a dedicatory autograph letter, undated, by the author, and a certificate in favour of the book by ‘Cowemberg Van Blois of Amsterdam, Algebraical Accountant’. There is a memoir of James Boevey, the economist, in The Perverse Widow by A. W. Crawley-Boevey (1898).

Presented to the Library by the author in 1692.

Now MS. Bodl. 947.

8713. In Greek and Latin: written in the 1st half of the 17th cent. by Edm. Chilmead: 16½ × 10½ in., iv+ix leaves+508 pages.

‘Χρονογραφία Ἰωάννου Ἀντιοχέως τοῦ καὶ Μαλάλα’, a transcript of MS. Barocci 182, with Latin translation in parallel columns and marginal notes, by Edmund Chilmead (not John Gregory as suggested in a note on fol. iii) prefixed to it (fol. i) are excerpts from the Barocci MS. (194) of the Chronicon of Georgios Hamartolos, whose name is not given, also with Latin translation. The MS. is ‘copy’ made ready for the press, and was printed at Oxford in 1691 with prolegomena by dr. Humphrey Hody.

‘Michael Cook his book’, 17th cent. Bought with other MSS. of Antiochenus (see below) for £50 in 1672.

Now MS. Auct. T. infr. 2. 5.

(27718. The volume now marked MS. Auct. T. infr. 2. 14 contains Chilmead’s autograph notes on Johannes Antiochenus or Malala as printed in the Oxford edition of 1691: the references are to the pages of no. 8713, and it was doubtless acquired along with that MS., not, as suggested in vol. v of this Catalogue, in 1707: but it escaped all lists until 1747.)

(13833. The volume now marked MS. Rawl. D. 1083, which contains John Gregory’s Animadversiones in Johannem Malalam is stated to have first come into the Library after Gregory’s death which occurred on Mar. 13, 1646, see Wood’s Ath. Oxon., ed. Bliss, iii. 206: but since Chilmead is said to have intended to prefix Gregory’s Observations to his own edition by way of preface, it seems likely that this MS. accompanied nos. 8713 and 27718 into the Library in 1672. It may have been lent out subsequently for use in the 1691 edition and was referenced at a later date among the Rawlinson MSS. which came in in 1756.)

8714. In French, on parchment: written about 1430 in England: $9\frac{3}{4} \times 6\frac{3}{4}$ in., i+89 leaves: binding, contemporary brown leather on bevelled boards, blind-tooled and stamped.

The so-called ‘Travels of sir John Mandeville’ compiled in French by Jean de Bourgoynge, dit à la Barbe, a Liège physician, who represents Mandeville as setting out for the East in 1322 and returning in 1356. The whole, which has been edited for the Roxburghe Club (1889) by sir G. F. Warner from MSS. in the British Museum, is here rubricated only up to chapter 22, the rest of the text (i.e. to the end of chap. 34) being continuous. No. 29572 is another 15th-cent. MS., and no. 3903 contains a Latin version. Beg. ‘Come il ensi soit qe la terre doutremer cest assavoir la terre seinte, qe home dit la terre de promission . . .’ (fol. 1). On the inner front cover and fol. i are scribbled a few verses in English and Latin (late 15th cent.).

Fol. 1 has the late 17th-cent. inscription ‘Bibliothecae Bodlejanae hunc Cod. MS. D.D. Carolus King A.M. ex Aede Xiii’. King also gave, after 1632, the eighth volume of Leland’s Itinerary (no. 3121). Now MS. Bodl. 841.

8715. ‘Liber Precum Mohammed. in Africa, Arab.’ Unidentified.

8716. ‘Liber alius cum linea Sphaerularum, Arab.’ Unidentified.
