Script Proto-Maghribī bookhand - blunt nib qalam - small size

Description

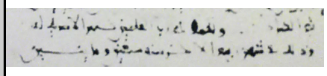

Fully dotted, scant vocalisation, absence of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
The script is regular and accurate, still partly angular. Sparse use of mashq.
Some letters, such as final nūn, have a broken, sharply bent tail; final jīm, ḥāʾ , and khāʾ are traced rather awkwardly. Final and isolated yāʾ always turned backwards.
Only western tashdīd is used. There is a tendency to stack or align diacritical dots.
Punctuation: circle with central dot at the end of the sentences.

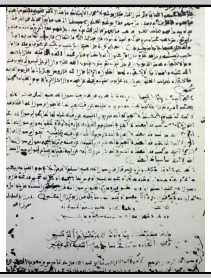

Notes

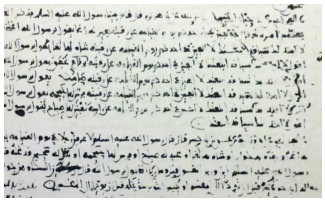

Folio 1a is inscribed with an ownership note of the faqīh ʿAbbās b. al-Aṣbagh b. ʿAbd al-ʿAzīz al-Hamdānī (306/918-386/996), who lived and taught in Cordova.
According to Miklós Murányi, this manuscript was copied within the Cordovan scholarly circle of Muḥammad b. Waḍḍāḥ al-Qurṭubī (199/815-286/899), whose name is also included in the title page as the final transmitter of the text.

Script Early Maghribī casual script - blunt nib qalam - small size with medium headings

Description

Partial vocalisation, scant notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
Running hand, cursive, at times very rounded. The first page (f. 1b) is more formally written, in a proper round bookhand, with occasional use of mashq.
The title (f. 1a) features a round-bodied initial kāf in the word "kitāb", then repeated throughout the text, often without terminal stroke. Final and isolated yāʾ is always turned backwards. Markedly wavy shafts and spurs of final alif.
Hāʾ is always written in the shape of a 6. Convex tail of final mīm.
Only western tashdīd is used. There is a tendency to stack or align diacritical dots.
Punctuation: round hāʾ with spur at the end of every paragraph.

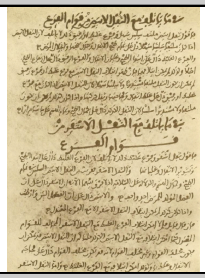

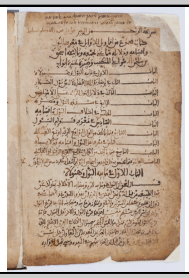

Notes

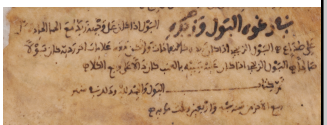

Marginal notes in Hebrew and in Maghribī round script.

The author (here called mutaṭabbib) was a Jewish physician from Egypt, who lived in Qayrawān, where he died in 932 AD.

Script Early Maghribī half-bookhand - blunt nib qalam - small size with medium headings

Description

Almost fully dotted, scant vocalisation and notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
Accurate hand, curvilinear. Section titles are written in a very round, cursive hand.
Kāf is often traced with a semi-circular body, occasionally topped by a diagonal stroke. Final and isolated yāʾ are mostly turned backwards, but yāʾ with fronted tail also occurs. Both types of final mīm (concave and convex tail). Only western tashdīd is used. Lām-alif is always traced as two separate strokes.
Punctuation: round hāʾ with spur at the end of every paragraph (sometimes double); circle with central dot at the end of every period.

Notes

Marginal notes in Maghribī round script (casual scripts).
The copyists is otherwise unknown, but his nisba is attested among the religious scholars of Toledo.

The fragment contains the end of part III, and parts IV-X.

Script Early Maghribī half-bookhand - blunt nib qalam - small size

Description Almost fully dotted, scant vocalisation, occasional notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
Accurate hand, very regular. Final bāʿ etc. often left open. Ample initial ʿayn.
Final and isolated yāʾ always turned backwards.
Both types of mīm are found, concave and convex, with a rather long tail.
Only western tashdīd is used. Lām-alif is mostly drawn in one stroke, although the double-stroke ligature also occurs.
Punctuation: circle with central dot at the end of every period. Three circles with central dot at the end of the final juzʾ.

Notes All pages were covered with an adhesive plastic layer, resulting in a very bad state of preservation.

Script Proto-Maghribī bookhand - blunt nib qalam - small size with medium headings

Description

Fully dotted, no other notation except for occasional western tashdīd.
Very neat, compact and diminutive script. It mostly lacks the roundness of Maghribī bookhands.
There is a marked tendency to stack or align diacritical dots.
The word ḥaddathanā is often abbreviated and rendered as a large, curled 6.
Punctuation: empty roundels at the end of each sentence.

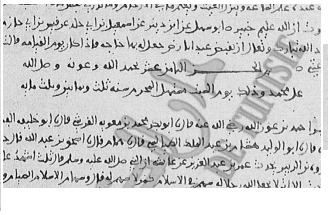

Notes

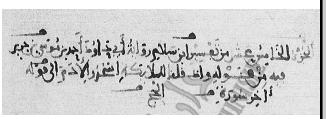

This fragment contains books 13-19 of the commentary, from sūra 17 to sūra 34.
The titles of each juzʾ are penned in bold, round Maghribī script, and were probably added in the following century. On f. 16, apparently in the same hand as the titles, is written: "lī-Muḥammad b. Aḥmad b. ʿAwn al-Maʿāfirī" (PUA, id. 8308, d. 512/1119 in Cordova).
Restored in Paris at the BNF in 1968, exhibited in Brussels in the same year.
Previously in the Aḥmadiyya library.

واما حديث مالك عن ابي النضر عن ابي سلمة

ان سعد بن ابي وقاص سأل عائشة هل يوجب الغسل فقالت هل تدري ما مثل
يا ابا سلمة مثل الفروج تسمع الديكة تصرخ فتصرخ معها
اذا جاوز الختان الختان فقد وجب الغسل ٥

فقيه دليل على ان ابا سلمة كان عنده ما يروي لا يقول برأيه وانه قد يجب ما علم لانه
معاند لنبيه لان ابا سلمة كانت اعلم الناس بالدين لمعاشرته رسول الله صلى الله عليه
وقد غفر ذلك لابي سلمة وانه عن عطاء بن يسار وعن ابي سعيد وانه كان يفعل ذلك
فلم ينكر عنه احد ذكر ذلك والله اعلم ٥

واما حديث مالك عن يحيى بن سعيد عن سعيد

بن المسيب ان ابا موسى الاشعري اتى عائشة زوج النبي عليه السلام
فقال انا لنفرش على عهد رسول الله صلى الله عليه وسلم فراشه فنرى فيه الحلم الذي
يرى فيه الماء فلا يزيد على ان يغتسل فقالت ما هو ما حدثت احدا عنه احب
ان اسئله فقبل يديه فقالت ما هو ما حدثت احدا عنه احب
سئلت عنه فقال الرجل يصيب اهله ثم يكسل وينزل فقالت اذا
جاوز الختان الختان فقد وجب الغسل فعلنا ابو موسى لا اسأل عن هذا
احدا بعد ابدا ٥ فالذي ارى والله اعلم ان ترك عائشة نفسها في ظاهر ما لم يدخل في
المشتبه والمعنى والنظر لانه محال ان تترك عائشة نفسها في ريبة حجة على غيرها
من الصحابة في حين نازعهم واحتلامهم في هذه المسئلة التي لا يدين بينهم ومحال ان يعلم
ابو موسى لعايشة قولا من رأيها في مثلة فرجالها فيه اولى الصحابة عنها برأيه
لا رجل واحد منهم ليس بحجة على صاحبه عند المنازع في الرأي فلم يسع الا ان يعلم
ابو موسى انها قالت علما سمعت به كما ذكر عن رسول الله صلى الله عليه وسلم
وهذا من هذا الاستدلال مقدور وقد روينا هذا عنها عن النبي صلى الله عليه مسندا

Script Early Maghribī full bookhand - blunt nib qalam - medium size with large headings

Description

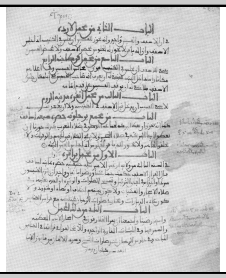

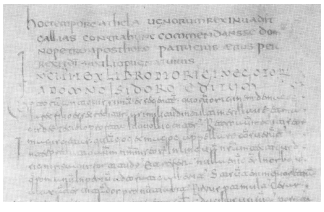

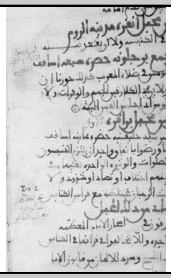

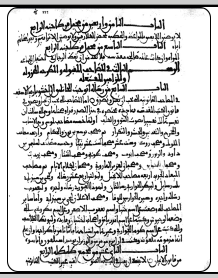

Fully dotted, scant vocalisation, no notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
Vincentius's hand (ff. 229a-280b, 378b-433b) is elegant, semi-calligraphic, bold, rather conservative (large lettering, angular emphatic letters, slow writing pace).
The semi-circular tails of certain letters are sometimes so long that they intersect those in the next word or even in the following line.
A second hand who copied the remainder of the ms. is noticeably more cursive and rounded.
The red pigment employed for the rubrics is particularly brilliant.
Punctuation: mostly blank spaces, occasional roundels.

Notes

The manuscript is acephalous. Copied for ʿAbd al-Malik the bishop.
Ff. 369b and 240a are in Latin Visigothic script with Arabic marginalia; Latin notes are on ff. 340v, 246v, 206v, 168v, 115v. Colophon is on f. 333r.
In the National Archives in Lisbon are two folios (ANTT, Sé de Coimbra, segunda incorporação, maço 45, No. 1806) of another Arabic ms. of the same work, perhaps from the Mozarab community of Tortosa (see Urvoy, Note de philologie mozarabe).

Script Early Maghribī half bookhand - blunt nib qalam - small size with medium headings

Description

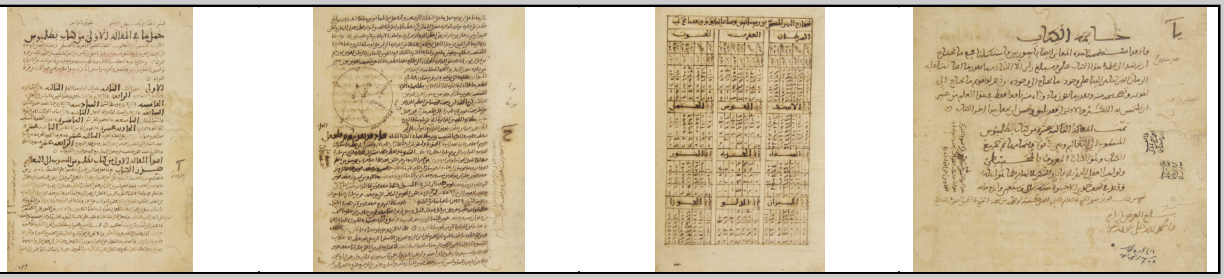

Frequently dotted, no vocalisation or notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
Regular, yet very cursive hand. The sloping baseline of each word and the fast-paced ductus resemble those of casual scripts. Final alif is often drawn with a head serif in the shape of a hook, oriented leftwards. Frequent use of semi-circular initial and medial kāf, without diagonal stroke at the top. Final ḥāʾ and tāʾ marbūṭa are left open. Eastern tashdīd.
Punctuation: roundels with central dot are used at the end of main portions of text.

Notes

The last line of the colophon (f. 237b), as well as a later note on the first folio, state that this copy belonged to Abū Muḥammad al-Arūshī (called al-wazīr al-jalīl) and that is was collated with the copy of the shaykh Abū al-Qāsim al-Munajjim, which in its turn was collated with a book owned by the shaykh Abū al-Ḥusayn al-Ṣūfī.

Script Early Maghribī half bookhand - blunt nib qalam - small size with medium headings

Description

Fully dotted, frequent vocalisation, occasional notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
Regular bookhand, not very harmonious, missing the typical roundness of Andalusī scripts. Rather flattened oval body of emphatic letters, compressed letter tails.
A possible example of eastern Andalusī script.
Punctuation: round hāʾ with downward spur at the end of each paragraph, blank spaces elsewhere.

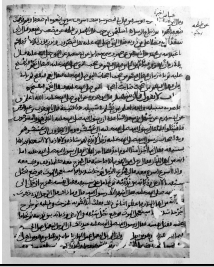

Notes

From the Kitāb al-Ḥajj to the end of the work.
Originally in 5 volumes, only the last 4 survive. Vol. 1 is lost; vol. 2 has 179 ff.; vol. 3 has 158 ff.; vol. 4 has 178 ff.; vol. 5 has 173 ff.
Ff. 177-179 of vol. 2 are later replacements (13th century?).
The name of the copyist is stated on f. 1a of vol. 2.

في النذر في معصية أو طاعة

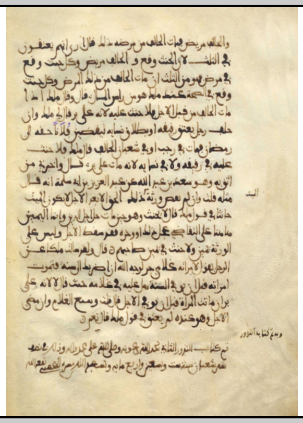

قال ابن القاسم في النذور رأيه من نذر أن يطيع الله في صيام أو عتق
أو صلاة أو حج أو عمرة أو رباط أو صرفة أو ما أشبه ذلك وكل عمل
يتقرب به إلى الله فقال علي نذر أن أحج أو أن علي كذا وكذا أو أعتق كذا وكذا
أو أتصرف شيء يسميه في ذلك كله فإن ذلك عليه ولا يجزيه إلا الوفاء به.
وقال في حلف فقال علي نذر أن لم أعتق رقبة أو أن لم أحج البيت الله أو ما أشبه ذلك
مما سميت لم حلف به فقال إن لم أفعل كذا وكذا فعلي نذر فهو مخير إن شاء أن يفعل
ما نذر من الطاعة فليفعل ولا كفارة عليه وإن أحب أن يترك ذلك ويكفر
عن يمينه وإن كان النذر فيه ذلك أجل مثل أن يقول علي نذر إن لم أحج العام أو علي
نذر إن لم أعتق العام وإن لم أصم رجبا في هذا العام أو إن لم أركع في هذا
اليوم عشر ركعات فإن فات ذلك الأجل في هذا كله قبل أن يفعله فعليه الحنث
ويكفر عن يمينه بكفارة اليمين إلا أن يكون جعل النذر مخرجا فعليه ذلك
المخرج إذا حنث وتفسير ذلك أن يقول علي نذر صرفة دينار أو عتق رقبة أو صيام
شهر إن لم أحج العام أو إن لم أعتق العام أو يتقرب بذلك أو ما أشبه ذلك فإذا فات
الأجل الذي وقت فيه ذلك الفعل فقد سقط عنه ذلك الفعل ووجب
عليه ما نذر له وما سمى وإن لم يجعل النذر مخرجا فهو على ما فرت له يكفر
كفارة يمين ومن نذر شيئا من المعاصي فقال علي نذر إن لم أشرب الخمر أو إن لم
أقتل فلانا أو إن لم أزن بفلانة أو ما كان من معاصي الله فإنه يكفر نذره في ذلك
إذا أقال إن لم أفعل فالكفارة كفارة اليمين إن كان لم يجعل نذره مخرجا

Description

Fully dotted, full vocalisation, partial notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
Mature, elegant, regular bookhand, traced with a very fine nib.
Initial kāf is almost always angular; emphatic letters always have an oval body.
Convex and concave mīm tail. Large initial ʿayn. Tāʾ marbūṭa traced as an inverted 6.
Dāl traced without spur (>). Both eastern and western tashdīd are employed.
Lam-alif ligature traced as two almost parallel stems. Final yāʾ is always rājiʿa.
Punctuation: mostly blank spaces, occasional use of roundels with central dot.

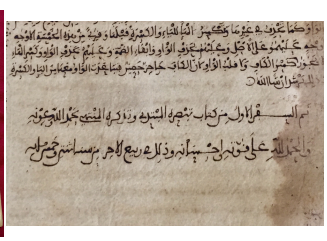

Paper: the distance between chain lines is 4-5 cm; 20 laid lines occupy 3.1 cm.
Presence of light zigzag marks (e.g. f. 54), also in the outer margins (f. 19).

Script Early Maghribī full bookhand - blunt nib qalam - small size with medium headings

Description

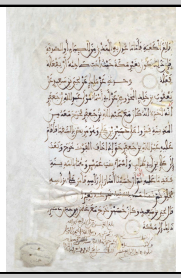

Fully dotted, fully vocalised, rare notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
Elegant, semi-calligraphic, bold, rather conservative bookhand (relatively large lettering, flattened and angular emphatic letters, rather slow writing pace, use of mashq). The swooping tails of certain letters have a broken aspect (i.e. sharply bent) and are very pronounced. Final mīm with long, concave tail.
The stem of medial lām is traced in two strokes with a narrow empty space in between. Maghribī tashdīd.
Punctuation: accurately traced, double circles with central dot.

Notes

It contains 8 ajzāʾ, from the 6th juzʾ (Kitāb al-Ṣalāt) to the 13th juzʾ (Kitāb al-Ḥajj).
Other 3 ajzāʾ are kept under the shelf mark 2005 (juzʾ 31-33), copied in 503 AH.
Made for the library of the Almoravid ruler, the Amīr al-Muslimīn ʿAlī b. Yūsuf b. Tāshifīn (r. 500-537 AH). The copyist was a prince, son of Muḥammad b. ʿAbbād II, the last king of Seville, reigning with the name of al-Muʿtamid.

Script Maghribī bookhand - blunt nib qalam - small size with medium headings

Description

Fully dotted, fully vocalised, occasional notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
The script is fluid and rounded: the body of emphatic letters is sometimes almost circular. Eastern and western tashdīd are both employed. Concave tail of final mīm. Final hāʾ is often rendered as an open curl. Initial and medial kāf has a semi-circular body, topped by a diagonal stroke. Alif-lām is always traced in one stroke.
Punctuation: round hāʾ with long downward spur, pyramids of three small roundels.

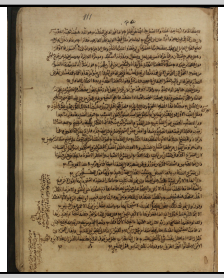

Paper: particularly fine texture, laid and chain lines almost invisible.

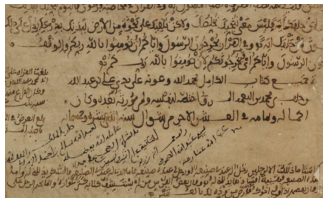

Notes

The first 12 folios are a later restoration (14th century?) on cream-coloured paper.
The scribe is a known scholar (PUA, id. 6579) from Almeria, who lived most of his life in Seville. Therefore, it is likely that this ms. was copied there.

Script Maghribī bookhand - blunt nib qalam - small size with medium headings

Description

Fully dotted, fully vocalised, occasional notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
The script is elegant and regular, although rather stiff, with some angular traits.
Initial kāf has a trapezoidal body; frequent use of mashq and angular variants of emphatic letters. Lām-alif has a triangular base ligature.
Punctuation: roundels with central dot.

Notes

Script Maghribī enhanced bookhand - blunt nib qalam - small size with medium headings

Description

Fully dotted, almost fully vocalised, no notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
Very fine, semi-calligraphic bookhand, small and rounded. Eastern tashdīd with fatḥa, western tashdīd with ḍamma and kasra. Concave and convex mīm tails.
Only angular kāf is used. The semi-circular tails of certain letters are sharply bent, very pronounced, sometimes overlapping each other. Tāʾ marbūṭa is drawn as a 6.
Lām-alif is mostly traced with parallel stems diverging at the top.
Punctuation: none. Illuminated clusters of three roundels at the end of each ḥadīth.
Double illuminated frontispiece on ff. 1b-2a. Chapter headings in gold round script, with foliated medallions in the margins.

Notes

I could not find any date in this ms. referring to its copying.
According to Casiri, it is dated 515; according to Derembourg it was copied in 514.
A Latin note at the end of the ms. reads 794 AH, but this date refers to a reading certificate on f.57b, written by Yaḥyā b. Aḥmād b. Muḥammad al-Nafzī.

Collated in Ramaḍān 781 AH (f. 57a).

Script Fine Maghribī bookhand - blunt nib qalam - small size with medium headings

Description

Fully dotted, frequent vocalisation, frequent notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
Mature, elegant, regular bookhand, perfectly rounded. Initial and medial kāf is always angular; emphatic letters always have an oval body. Concave mīm tail.
Open initial and medial hāʾ in the shape of a 6, with the lower part of the body bent rightwards. Dāl traced without spur (>). Final tāʾ marbūta often rendered as an open curved stroke. The serrated profile of most baseline ligatures is particularly evident.
Western tashdīd.
Lam-alif ligature often traced as two almost parallel stems. Final yāʾ is always rājiʿa.
Punctuation: roundels with central dot; round hāʾ with downward spur.

Notes

Letters ẓāʾ, ḍād, dhāl, ṣād, sīn. Copied from the original manuscript of al-Baṭalyawsī. The scribe is known (PUA, id. 1340 or 1341).

Script	Fine semi-Maghribī bookhand - blunt nib qalam - small size with medium headings

Description

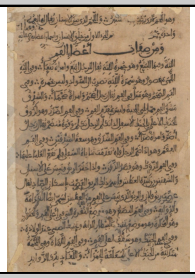

Fully dotted, entirely vocalised, frequent notation of ʿalāmāt al-ihmāl.
Highly idiosyncratic, accurate, and regular bookhand, completely rounded, but with some traits typical of eastern scripts: final mīm with a short, curved tail, close to the writing line; straight stems of ṭāʾ and ẓāʾ; final yāʾ with fronted curl; closed shape of initial and medial hāʾ; almost exclusive use of eastern tashdīd.
The body of emphatic letters is almost circular.
Punctuation: pyramid of three dots at the end of every period; round hāʾ with downward spur at the end of each major paragraph.

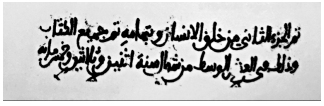

Notes

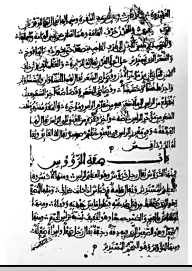

The ms. comprises the end of part 1 and the whole of part 2 of the work.

Script Fine Maghribī bookhand - blunt nib qalam - small size with medium headings

Description

Fully dotted, frequent vocalisation, no notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
Very elegant, round, fluid bookhand. Concave tail of final mīm, very pronounced. Round and closed initial hāʾ. Initial and medial kāf has a semi-circular form, not topped by a diagonal stroke. The body of emphatic letters is almost circular, and so are the tails of sīn, shīn, ṣad, ḍad, nūn, etc. Sloping final rāʾ and zāʾ, without denticle, especially after sīn, shīn, ṣad, ḍad, ʿayn and ghayn. Sīn and shīn in medial position occasionally have clustered denticles resembling a blur.
Mostly western tashdīd.
Punctuation: semicircles opened towards the left, with a dot in the middle.

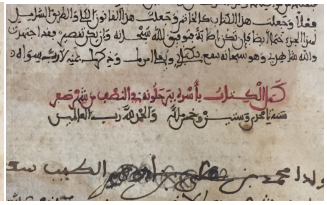

Notes

This work occupies the last 151 folios (ff. 50a-201a) of a composite manuscript, which includes other three medical works, all copied by the same scribe:
1) On foodstuff and hygiene, by ʻAbd al-Malik b. Zuhr (dated Ṣafar 562 AH), ff.1-37a.
2) Warnings on medicine by Abū al-ʿAlā Zuhr b. ʻAbd al-Malik to his son, ff. 37b-42a.
3) Collection of recipes (ff. 42b-49b).
Latin glosses (f. 162a, 178a, etc.).
A few titles and the final colophon are highlighted in red by a later hand.

Description

Fully dotted, fully vocalised, full notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
Fine calligraphic hand with abundant use of mashq. Impressively long, semi-circular tails of certain final letters, overlapping each other, and becoming gradually thinner thanks to the gradual lifting of the qalam from the page. The body of emphatic letters is elongated and semicircular, resting on a flat baseline. Eastern tashdīd.
Chapter headings in Maghribī round chrysography, enclosed in illuminated frames combined with marginal medallions.
Abundant marginal notes and glosses written in an enhanced bookhand.
Punctuation: illuminated roundels and medallions.

Notes

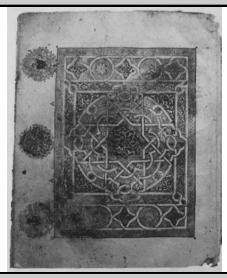

A marginal note mentions that the manuscript was read in its entirety in the Great Mosque of Cordoba, in 584/1188 by Abu Muhammad b. Aghlab, Ibn Abī al-Daqqāq.

Description

Fully dotted, frequently vocalised, some notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
Very fluid, winding, elegant, flamboyant hand, influenced by the cursiveness and flourishes of chancery and documentary scripts. Ample tails of final letters, overlapping each other. Open initial and medial hāʾ in the shape of a 6, with the lower part stretched rightwards below the baseline. Recurrent instances of sloping final rāʾ and zāʾ, without denticle. Sīn and shīn in medial position occasionally have clustered denticles resembling a blur. Western and eastern tashdīd.
Punctuation: trilobed hāʾ with downward spur resembling a clover; pyramid of three dots alternating with //.

Notes

The codex has 195 folios, but the first 111 were copied much later.
First instance of a colophon giving also the Christian year (although mistakenly written 1490 instead of 1180).

Source: examined personally (December 2016).

منتخب نوادر الفلاسفة الحكماء

وآداب المعلمين الفرماء الذين أصلوا الحكمة وفرعوا
وأذاعوها في العالم وشرعوها حتى عرفت بهم ونقلت
عنهم ومن أساطينها وذعائمها وقوائمها ونظامها وتمامها
وتعرفوا في الفلسفة واختلفوا في أحوال المفرقة فرقا
اشتق لكل فرقة منها اسم مفتوم ومعنى معلوم من اسم
القابل للفلسفة والمعتقد لها واشتقاق ذلك الاسم
إما من الاشياء الباطنة من أمره وإما من الاشياء الظاهرة
فاما الباطنة فمن رأي المعتقد أو من خلقه أو من أفعاله
والرأي إما أن يكون في علمها وإما أن يكون في الغرض
المقصود إليه في علمها أما في علم فرأي المتفيثين
ومن شيعة فورفوريوس وسمسطيس وإنما سموا بهذا الاسم
لانهم تمتعوا بالحكمة وعرفوها بشيء من الاشياء
وأما في الغرض المقصود إليه في العلم والحكمة فرأي
أصحاب الذرة ومن شيعة اقيفورس وإنما سموا بهذا
الاسم لانهم يزعمون أن الغرض المقصود إليه في علم

الفلسفة الذرة التابعة لما قاد وأما الاسم المشتق لما
من أخلاق والمعتقد لها فالذين يعرفون بالطلاب ومن شيعة
ديوجانيس وإنما سموا بهذا الاسم لاشتغالهم بالامور
الجميلة المتفق عليها ولانهم يجتنبون أفاعيلهم وأما اليمم
ويبغضون من كان غريبا منهم وإنما يوجز هذا الخلق في
الكلاب ٥ وأما الافعال المشتملة بها فالذين يسمون
المشائين ومن شيعة أفلاطن وإنما سموا بهذا الاسم لان
أفلاطن كان يعلم الفلسفة وهو يمشي كما يروض مع
التفسير الذي لا أتمم بعد قوله اقترفوا فبغضهم لحق
بكميا فوبرا طيبس وجرو سيفنس وسموا المشائين من
أهل الفوم نيا وهو الموضع الذي كان يعلمهم فيه غير أن
الفعل يكل عنهم أحيانا ويغني عليهم اسم الموضع ومع
السلاقوميون وبغضهم لحق بأرسطاطاليس وسموا
المشائين من أهل الوقيون وذلك أن أرسطاطاليس
كان يعلم بلوقيون وهو لاء يكل عنهم أحيانا اسم الموضع
ويبقى اسم الفعل فهو في الاسماء التي يسمين بها الفرق
الفلسفة من الاشياء الباطنة ومن الامور المعتقدة لها

Script Maghribī miniature calligraphy - red and yellow vocalisation

Description

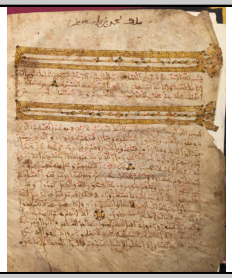

The script is minute, rather cursive, with abundant angular traits and mashq, but also a certain roundness typical of bookhands. Red ḥarakāt, dagger alif, sukūn, and eastern tashdīd. Yellow dots for hamza.
At the end of every verse is a pyramid of three dots in black ink; every five verses is a yellow Kufic hāʾ surrounded by three green dots. Every ten verses is a yellow roundel inscribed in two circles traced in black ink, with alternating red and green dots in between. Sūra headings in larger yellow neo-Kufic, with red and green dots. Round marginal medallions mark every ḥizb.
No illuminated frontispieces or finispieces.

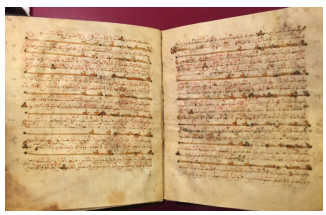

Notes

Once belonged to Benito Arias Montano (1527-1598).
Entered the University Library of Uppsala in 1718.

Script: Maghribī miniature calligraphy - red, blue, and yellow vocalisation

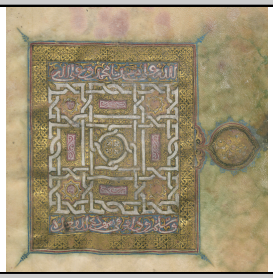

Description: The script is minute, angular and spiky, with abundant use of mashq.
Red ḥarakāt and dagger alif ; blue sukūn and eastern tashdīd. Yellow dots for hamzat al-qaṭʿ. At the end of every verse is a cluster of three gold roundels; every five verses is a golden Kufic hāʾ. Every ten verses is a golden roundel inscribed in two circles traced in black ink, with alternating red and blue circles in between. Sūra headings in gold neo-Kufic, with round marginal devices. In the margins are large medallions corresponding to aḥzāb and sajda (e.g. f. 10a, 68a). Sajda medallions contain a six-pointed star. The colophon is in Maghribī thuluth, written in the upper and lower band of the illuminated finispieces (ff. 143b-144a), on an azure background (azurite?). Additional finispieces are on ff. 144b-145a.

Notes: Quasi-square format.
The first two folios (1a-2b), containing the Fātiḥa and the beginning of Sūrat al-Baqara, are a 15th- or 16th-century replacement, on paper.
Illuminated triangles topped by a palmette mark each tajziyya Ramaḍān (ff. 6a, 11a, 16b...136b). Interesting ruling marks for each individual line (f. 23a).
Omission and addition of text in the margins (ff. 28a, 119a).

Rather simple, regular, accurate documentary hand. Absence of abusive ligatures.
Better described as a cursive bookhand with some winding elements and flourishes.

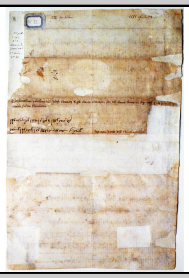

Paper: laid lines run vertical to the page.
Document 1: 41 x 27 cm; document 2: 75 x 27 cm.

Notes

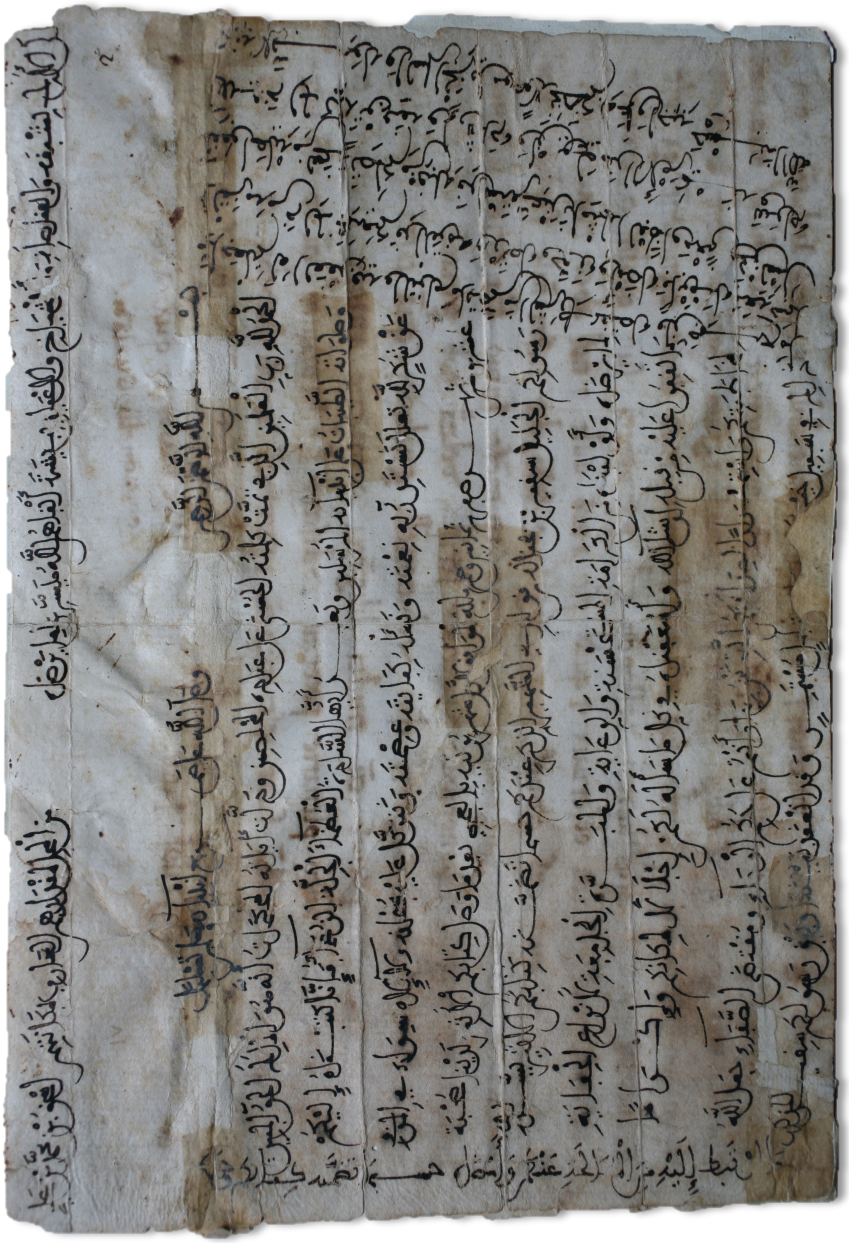

Complaint addressed to the Almohad caliph Abū Yaʿqūb by the Bishop of Pisa.
According to Amari it was written by a Pisan, since there are too many mistakes.
According to Burési: "Il est vraisemblable que le traducteur était un chrétien ou un juif maghrébin, ou élevé au Maghreb, en tout cas bon connaisseur du dialectal maghrébin et des normes diplomatiques arabes générales, entré au service des Pisans, après avoir été formé auprès des kuttāb almoravides ou almohades".

Script Maghribī chancery script - blunt nib qalam - small size

Description

Fully dotted, scarcely vocalised, no notation of ʿalamāt al-ihmāl.
Fluid, cursive documentary hand. Use of mashq.
Convex, long tail of final mīm. Sīn and shīn in medial position occasionally have clustered denticles resembling a blur. Initial and medial kāf are found in both angular and rounded form. Ṭāʾ is writtend with a straight stem. Final hāʾ and tāʾ marbūṭa are implified as a diagonal stroke, slightly curved.

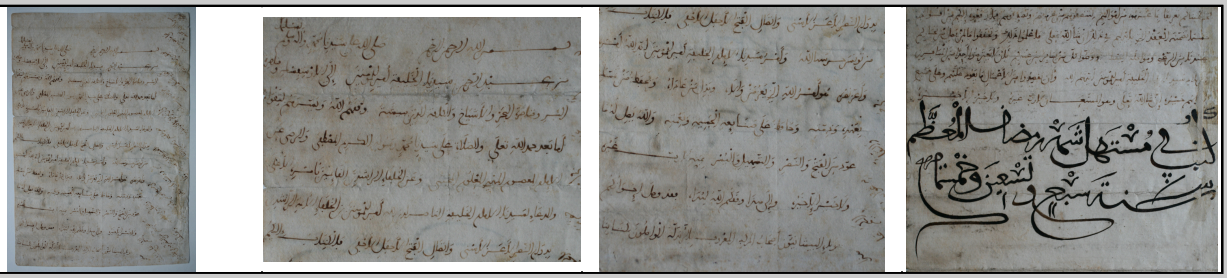

On its verso, the document is inscribed with a calligraphic final formula in bold thuluth script, which contains the date of the letter, and seems to function as an official ʿalāma and authentication.

Notes

Sent by the son of al-Manṣūr, ʿAbd al-Raḥmān, then commander of the Almohad army in Tunis.
